more minute and complex construction upon conveyances to uses than upon other assurances. Thus, says Blackstone (vol. 2, p. 334), it was adjudged that the use need not always be executed the instant the conveyance is made; but, if it cannot take effect at that time, the operation of the statute may wait till the use shall arise upon some future contingency, and in the meanwhile the ancient use shall remain in the original grantor. As where lands are conveyed to the use of A and B after a marriage shall be had between them (1 Roll. Abr. 797), which doctrine, when devises were again introduced, and considered equivalent in point of construction to a declaration of uses, was also adopted in favour of executory devises. But these springing uses differed from executory devises, because, in the former instance, there must be a person seised to such use at the time the contingency happened, otherwise the statute could not have executed them; and the destruction of the estate of the feoffee before the happening of the contingency, would, as we have already seen, have destroyed the use for ever; whereas, by an executory devise, the future freehold is transferred to the future devisee. And now, as I had shortly before occasion to remark, the recent statute of the 8 & 9 Vict. c. 106, has for the future abolished the distinction between springing uses and executory devises, so far as the destruction of the former is concerned by failure of the preceding particular estate, by enacting that a contingent remainder shall not, after the 31st of December, 1844, fail of effect on account of the premature determination of the preceding estate. (Sect. 8.)

What persons may be seised to a use.—Neither the king nor the queen (whether consort or regnant) could have been seised to a use on account of their royal dignity (Bac. Uses, 56, 57; 2 Blac. Com. 331); nor could a corporate body have been seised to any use but their own. (Bac. Uses, 337; Plow. 102.) But all other persons capable of taking lands by feoffment might have been feoffees to uses, and may be so still. Hence a feme covert, or an infant, may be a feoffee to uses (Bac. Uses, 58), as may also a tenant in tail (Seymour's case, Plow. 557; 10 Rep. 95), or for life (Crawley's case, Cro. Car. 567); but then the use to arise out of these limited estates will determine with them, because a cestui que use cannot have an estate of greater extent than that out of which it is raised. (Dy. 186; And. 130; Cro. Car. 231.)

What description of property may be limited to uses.—Nothing can be limited to a use whereof the use is inseparable from the possession; consequently, the statute does not extend the copyhold estates, the seisin of which is in the lord of the manor, and therefore the uses declared of a surrender of copyholds are mere equitable trusts. (1 Wat. Cop. 100; Gilb. Ten. 170; Rowden v. Master, Cro. Car. 44; Doe v. Rouleage, Cow. 709.) And as the statute only mentions such persons are seised to the use of others, it will not include terms of years or other chattel interests, whereof the termor is not seised, but only possessed. (Bac. Uses, 335; Jenk. 444; 2 Blac. Com. 336; Poph. 76; Dy. 396.) Therefore if a term of 1,000 years be limited to A, to the use of, or in trust for B, the statute executes the use in A, and not in B, the latter of whom takes only an equitable estate. But a term of years may, nevertheless, be created in the first instance by way of use out of an estate of freehold, as there is then a seisin to support it (Co. Litt. 271, b; 1 Pres. Abs. 140; Gilb. on Uses, 67, n. (2)); such, in fact, being the ordinary mode by which the possession is executed in the bargainee for the year to uses, as a foundation for a release under the usual conveyance by lease and release. It appears also that incorporeal hereditaments, such as advowsons and tithes, are within the operation of the statute (1 Sand. Uses, 107; 1 Cru. Dig. tit. ii. c. 3, s. 20); as also liberties and franchises visible or local, and commons and ways, when appendant, but not, it seems, when in gross. (Sand. Uses, 107; Beudley v. Brooke, Cro. Jac. 189.) It appears, also, that rents in esse, and, it seems, a rent-charge de novo, is within the statute (Bac. Uses, 43); but annuities, or other personal inheritances of which no seisin can be given (Cro. Eliz. 401), are not.

To whom the use may be limited.—All persons capable of taking by conveyance may take by way of use; and by the words of the statute, corporations, though incapable of being seised to, are yet capable of taking by way of use. According to Bacon, also, a use may be limited to the king; but in such case both the declarations of the use and the conveyance itself must be by matter of record, because the king's title is compounded of both. (Bac. Uses, 60.)

How the use is executed into possession.—The Statute of Uses transfers the estate to the use in the same manner as if the feoffees or trustees to uses after the conveyance to them had actually conveyed their estate to each respective cestui que use, then passing to them a legal instead of an equitable estate (1 Atk. 592; Bac. Uses, 45), such uses in fact taking effect out of the seisin of the feoffees or trustees immediately on the execution of the conveyance, they being considered a mere conduit-pipe to the uses. (1 Rep. 120.) Thus, under a limitation to A and his heirs, to the use of B and his heirs, the seisin is conveyed to A, the trustee, and out of his seisin the use is limited to B, and the instant the deed is executed, A's seisin is divested, and B takes the legal estate under the statute, without entry or any other act. (Green v. Wieman, 10 Vin. 213.) Nor is it actually necessary that the terms "to the use" should be employed; for a limitation to A "in trust," or "in confidence," for B, will have the same effect. (Bare v. Howard, Pre. Cha. 345; Broughton v. Langley, 2 Salik. 679; Fonbl. Eq. 143, n. (e); Sand. Uses, 124, 155; Doe dem. Terry v. Collier, 11 East. 371.) And a use may be limited by a will, as well as by a deed. (Sand. Uses, 195; Popham v. Bayfield, 1 Vern. 167; Hopkins v. Hopkins, 1 Atk. 569; Wright v. Pearson, 1 Ed. 119; Perry v. Phillips, 1 Ves. 255; Thompson v. Lawley, 2 Bos. & Pull. 311; Carr v. Erroll (Earl of), 6 East. 58.)

What persons may take under the statute, who could not have taken at common law.—At common law, a grantee to take an immediate estate must have been named in the granting part, for if named only in the habendum he could not have taken, so that it could not have been limited to a person unborn to take the first estate; but now, under limitations to uses, such persons may take the first estate, the uses to support it in the meantime resulting to the grantor. (13 Rep. 55; 2 Prest. Convey. 475.) Neither at common law could a man have conveyed to his wife, on account of the unity of person; but under the statute a limitation to another to the use of his wife is good. (Co. Litt. 3, a, 114, s; 2 Vern. 385; 2 Atk. 271, a; Co. Litt. 112, a; 1 Sand. Uses, 130; 1 Prest. Convey. 476.) Under conveyances to uses also, a fee may be limited to take effect after a fee (Carpenter v. Smith, Pollard 78; Marks v. Marks, 10 Mod. 423); because, though that was forbidden at the common law, in favour of the lord's escheat, yet when the legal estate was not extended beyond one fee-simple, such subsequent uses (after a use in fee), were before the statute permitted to be limited in equity; and then the use executed the legal estate in the same manner as the use before substituted. It was also held that a use, though executed, may change from one to another by circumstances ex post facto; as where A makes a conveyance to the use of his intended wife and her eldest son for their lives. Upon the marriage the wife takes the whole use in severalty, and upon the birth of a son the use is executed in them both jointly. (Show. P. C. 137; Bac. Uses, 131.) So also in the instance of a proviso frequently inserted in marriage settlements and wills, that in case the person who is to take under the limitations shall become entitled to the family estate, the estate settled on him shall cease and go over to some other person. (Nicholls v. Sheffield, 2 Bro. C. C. 215; Carr v. Erroll (Earl of), 6 East. 58; 14 Ves.; Stanley v. Stanley, 16 ib. 491; Doe v. Heneage, 4 T. R. 13.) Limitations of this kind are sometimes called secondary, sometimes shifting uses, and being to take effect upon the occurrence of events that may not happen, are properly classed under the head of conditional limitations. And when the use thus limited expires, or cannot vest, it returns back to him who raised it, and is then styled a resulting use. As for example, suppose a man executes a marriage settlement, limiting the lands to the use of his intended wife for life, with remainder to the use of his first-born son in tail. In this case, until he marries the use results back to himself; after the marriage it is executed in the wife for life, and if she dies without issue, the whole results back to him in fee. (1 Rep. 120.) So also where a person seised in fee-simple made a feoffment, levied a fine, or suffered a recovery without any consideration, or declaration of uses, the use would have resulted back, and he would have been seised in fee-simple in the same manner as before. If any particular uses are declared, so much of the old use as is not declared to be vested in some other person, results back to the original owner. (Clere's case, 6 Rep. 176; Woodliffe v. Drury, Cro. Eliz. 439; Beckwith's case, 2 Rep. 58; Godbold v. Freestone, 3 Lev. 406; Penhay v. Hurrell, 2 Vern. 370; Wills v. Palmer, 2 W. Black. 687; Armstrong v. Wolsey, 2 Wils. 19.) And where a tenant in tail suffers a recovery of his estate, by which it is converted into a fee-simple, without consideration or declaration of the use, it seems it will result to the tenant in tail in fee. (9 Rep. 8, 6; Gilb. Uses, 61; Dewentwater's (Lord) case, cited 1 Atk. 9; Nightingale v. Ferrers, 3 P. Wms. 206; Stapilton v. Stapilton, 1 Atk. 2, 9; Doe dem. Crow v. Balduere, 5 T. R. 110.) But where there is any consideration expressed, though purely nominal, and no use is declared, it will not result; for what draws the use out of the feoffor or grantor is either the consideration or the expressing it to be to the use of another. (Shortridge v. Lamplugh, 2 Lord Raym. 798; 7 Mod. 71; 2 Salk. 678; Lloyd v. Spillett, 2 Atk. 148; Barnardist, 384.) Yet where there is a consideration, and part only of the uses are declared, the residue will result to the feoffor or grantor. (2 Fonb. Eq. 134, n. (m).) In the case of a covenant to stand seised, the late Mr. Fonblanque, in a note to his valuable Treatise of Equity (vol. 2, p. 134, 135, note (n)), remarks, that "one difference between a feoffment to uses and a covenant to stand seised, is, that in a covenant to stand seised to uses not only so much as the covenantor does not dispose of remains in him, but also such uses as do not and cannot take effect; as if A covenant, in consideration of blood, to stand seised to the use of B, his son, for life, and in consideration of 1,000l. to stand seised to the use of C in fee, after the death of B, and B refuse the use, A shall retain, and C shall not take immediately; whereas, if A had made a feoffment to the use of B for life, and afterwards to the use of C for life, and B refused, in that case C should take his estate presently; the reason of which distinction is, that in the latter case the feoffor by his feoffment hath put his whole estate out of him, and all the uses are created out of it, as out of one and the same root; and therefore, so long as any of the uses can take effect, the feoffor shall not meddle with the land; but in the former case, a covenant raising an use, there the consideration, which is the cause which raises every several use, is several, and all the uses grow and arise out of the estate of the covenantor; and therefore, if one refuses, he who is next in remainder shall not take presently, but the covenantor shall keep it." (Rector of Chedington's case, 2 Mod. 207; Page's (Lord) case, 1 Leon. 200.) In order to raise a covenant to stand seised to uses, it is necessary that the covenantor should be seised at the time of making the covenant; that the covenant should be by deed, and not by parol, and that it should be on sufficient consideration (as natural love and affection, which is for advancement of blood, or marriage, which is for advancement of the blood and marriage together, for other considerations, as money, are insufficient (Carter, 138; Lill. Abr. 358), otherwise no use will arise. (Com. Dig. Cov. (A 4); Garratty (A); Bac. Abr. Cov. (B); Vin. Abr. Cov. (G).) But where there is a sufficient consideration, a defective conveyance, and incapable of operating as such, may yet be effectual as a covenant to stand seised; therefore a deed of bargain and sale from a father to his son, which (money forming no part of the consideration) could not operate by way of bargain and sale, has been allowed, in respect of the intent of the parties, to operate by way of covenant to stand seised. (Crossing v. Scudamore, 2 Lev. 9; Walker v. Hale, ib. 213; Osman v. Sheafe, 3 Lev. 370; Mudge v. Mudge, Com. 334; Thompson v. Atfield, 1 Vern. 40; Thorne v. Thorne, ib. 141.) So also a defective feoffment has been allowed to operate as a covenant to stand seised. (Habergham v. Vincent, 2 Ves. 226.)

THE METROPOLITAN SEWAGE MANURE COMPANY.

The first half-yearly general meeting of the Metropolitan Sewage Manure Company was held on Thursday, at the British Hotel, Cockspur-street, Charing-cross. This company was founded on the plan, so long before the public, proposed by Mr. John Martin, and was incorporated by Act of Parliament this session. Mr. J. C. Blair Warren, of Horkesley Hall, Essex, the chairman of the company, presided.

Mr. J. J. Moore submitted the Directors' Report, which, in the outset, congratulated the proprietary on the sanction which their enterprise had received from the legislature in the late session of Parliament. It had been deemed expedient to modify the original plan to meet the prejudices of the public against so novel a scheme, but this would not materially affect its efficiency. The grand object contemplated was to render the whole of the sewage of the metropolis available for fertilising the adjacent country. The directors deemed it expedient to commence with the King's School-pond, and Ranelagh sewer, and from this the first section of the great plan to carry a main pipe as far as Hounslow, from which the liquid will be distributed by "service pipes" over an extensive tract of country. It was highly encouraging to find that the owners and occupiers of land extending over a surface of 40,000 acres in that district had represented to Parliament that the measures proposed by the company would be of great service to them, both on account of the highly fertilising qualities of the manure, and of the cheapness with which it can be supplied. The project led to the appointment of a select committee of the House of Commons, who had reported highly in favour of the objects laid down by the company. The directors also thought it worthy of remark, that though the project was only brought out shortly before the railway panic of last year, it had received very warm support from the public. Mr. James Smith, of Deanston, had been appointed civil and agricultural engineer in chief, Mr. W. C. Mylne, engineer, and Professor Brande, consulting chemist. It was resolved that the question of salaries should be deferred till February next, but there was one claim to compensation which could not now be passed over so lightly, and that was some reward to Mr. Martin, the gentleman who had so long and zealously devoted himself to the subject. Mr. Martin only asked to share in the success of the undertaking, after they had realized a profit to the shareholders of at least four per cent. After that, he left the question of recompense entirely in the hands of the proprietors.

Mr. NISON, after expressing the extreme gratification he felt at the statement made by the directors, moved the adoption of the report.

Mr. PROBERT seconded the resolution, which was agreed to unanimously.

Mr. SMITH, of Deanston, and several other gentlemen, including one or two practical farmers, spoke warmly as to the beneficial effects to be anticipated for agriculture, after which the meeting adjourned till the month of December next, having first passed a cordial vote of thanks to the chairman and directors.

Extracts from the Report of the Select Committee of the House of Commons:—

"Your Committee cannot conclude their report without urging upon the House the importance of a project which has been proposed at all times to carry away the drainage at the low of tide, and to remove from the Thames the daily increasing refuse of London."

"If the confident expectations of your Committee are accomplished, it will not fail ultimately to render all the advantages which were originally contemplated. St. Dunston has proved the efficiency of liquid manure. The meadows of Edinburgh and of Mansfield have derived power of sewage water. Mr. Thompson, of Chichester, at Mr. Harvey, of Glasgow, have established the fact that liquid manure may be applied at a cheap rate, by means of the mechanical contrivance of service pipes and hose, a crop in every stage of their growth."

"There will be found individuals, no doubt, in the country, of enterprise, to give further development to some of these experiments; but it is only through the agency of a Company that they may be all combined, and applied to the important purposes of cleansing our towns, purifying our rivers, and enriching our soil."

Equity Courts.

LORD CHANCELLOR'S COURT.

July 30 and 31.

Re MANCHESTER AND POOLE RAILWAY.
Injunction—Railway amalgamations—Powers of directors.

Where directors of a railway company had misapplied funds in their hands in effecting an amalgamation under a mistake as to their powers, that circumstance will not operate to prevent them from being nominated to carry out an arrangement with respect to the funds come to under the sanction of the Court.

Rolt and Terrell applied to the Court in this matter for the payment out of court to the three gentlemen, Messrs. Cooper, Fisher, and Shaw—who were the present petitioners, and who were all three directors of the South and Midland Railway Company, and were now the proper parties in conformity with the Act of Parliament to receive the money—of the sum of 55,000*l.* which they, together with two of the directors of the Manchester and Poole Railway Company, with which the South and Midland Company had, by the proceedings of its directors, been amalgamated, had paid as a deposit to the account of the Accountant-General, to the credit of the Manchester and Poole Railway. The 55,000*l.* so paid in was a portion of a sum of 90,000*l.* received by the directors from deposits on shares in the original scheme of the South and Midland Railway Company. In Lewis v. Cooper there had been an appeal from an order of the Vice-Chancellor of England, who had granted, on the application of the plaintiff Lewis, an injunction to restrain the five directors of the South and Midland Railway, and the Manchester and Poole Railway, who had paid in the money, from receiving it out again; the plaintiff alleging against the directors of the South and Midland Railway Company a breach of trust on their part, in amalgamating that company with the Manchester and Poole Railway Company, and thereby misappropriating the funds of the shareholders of the South and Midland Company, by applying them towards an object which was never contemplated by the shareholders of the South and Midland Company. Both schemes have failed, and the directors of the amalgamated lines, the Manchester and Poole Railway Company, being anxious to wind up the affairs of that company, and to distribute the deposits rateably among the shareholders, applied for the payment of the 55,000*l.* out of court, when they were stopped by the injunction which the plaintiff Lewis had obtained. Upon appeal, the Lord Chancellor varied the order for an injunction, so far as it restrained all the five directors, who had paid the money in, from applying to have it paid out to them, but confirmed the injunction so far as it restrained three of the directors, who had applied by petition to have the money paid out to them, they not being the proper persons in conformity with the Act to apply for or receive it, two of them being directors of the Manchester and Poole Railway Company, and only one of them being a director of the South and Midland Railway Company, while the money so paid in was the money of the shareholders in the South and Midland Company. The Lord Chancellor having given to the three directors of the South and Midland Railway Company leave to present a petition to have it paid out to them, that petition had been presented and was now heard.

Bethell opposed the application, on the ground that an injunction was in existence and in force, confirmed on appeal by his lordship, as to three of the joint directors of this amalgamated line, the Manchester and Poole Railway Company, restraining them, on the grounds of breach of trust and misapplication of the funds of the shareholders of the South and Midland Company, from receiving the 55,000*l.* or of misapplying any of the funds of the company which had found its way into their hands. The Court would, therefore, not permit these three persons now petitioning the Court as directors of the South and Midland Company to receive this sum of 55,000*l.* which might be irreparably misapplied by them to the injury of the shareholders of the South and Midland Company.

The LORD CHANCELLOR.—The difficulty I had in the case was this, that the order of injunction granted by the Vice-Chancellor, and confirmed by me, in that part of it which restrained the three directors from receiving the money; and one of the parties so restrained is now one of the three petitioners in this new petition, asking to have the money paid out to them. That is the difficulty I feel upon this application. Has Mr. Rolt's client given notice to discharge the order of injunction as to that one director, or all the three of them?

Rolt.—They have not moved to discharge that order. He contended that this one director being restrained by the order of the Vice-Chancellor was not such an imputation upon him as to prevent him from coming before the Court with two other directors in conformity with the directions of the Act of Parliament, and ask to have the money paid out to them. He read to the Court a list of the directors of the South and Midland Company, all of whom were respectable and responsible men, resident in London, and he proposed that the money should be paid out to any three of them who might be selected from amongst them, and approved of by the Court, as the nominees of the three petitioners; the petitioners undertaking that those gentlemen, when appointed, should receive and pay the money only to the parties properly entitled to receive it.

Bethell consented, upon the results of an inquiry as to the responsibility of the directors, that they should receive the money out of court, they undertaking to apply it to its proper and legitimate objects.

The LORD CHANCELLOR.—Such an arrangement would obviate the objection and difficulty which arises in paying the money to three petitioners. There is not the slightest imputation on the honour or characters of the three persons who, as directors of this company, asked to have the money paid out to them on this petition; but the only allegation is, that perhaps they erroneously used their powers in making an amalgamation with another company.

July 31.—The matter having stood over was mentioned again this day, when

The LORD CHANCELLOR said: I have no hesitation in ordering the money to be paid to the three directors, or any they may appoint, on the petition of the five in whose names the money has been invested.

VICE-CHANCELLOR OF ENGLAND'S COURT.

Friday, July 31.

JACKSON v. STANHOPE AND ANOTHER.
Practice—Execution upon a judgment at law—Injunction.

The plaintiffs having placed goods and chattels constituting farming stock, upon the land of J. J. and a writ having issued under a judgment against the property of J. J. the sheriff seized not only the goods of J. J. but also of the plaintiffs, by virtue of the same writ. The Court nevertheless dissolved an injunction which had been obtained by the plaintiffs against the sheriff and a creditor from proceeding at law.

The plaintiffs in this case were farmers in the county of Lincoln, and not having convenient buildings for farming purposes upon their own land, they entered into an agreement with their father, J. Jackson, to have with him jointly the use of a certain barn and stackyard appurtenant to the farm, which had been till then occupied by the father alone; but the plaintiffs were to have the exclusive use of the stables, waggon-house and cart-house belonging to the farm. The pleadings stated that, by virtue of a writ issued upon a judgment obtained by the defendant, J. Harrison, against the father, J. Jackson, the sheriff of Lincolnshire, J. B. Stanhope, took in execution not merely the goods and chattels the property of J. Jackson upon his said farm, but also the goods and chattels of the plaintiffs, which had been so deposited there as aforesaid. The plaintiffs now filed their bill against the sheriff and John Harrison, praying that the sheriff might be directed to deliver up to the plaintiffs the possession of the goods and chattels which had been seized by him, the property of the plaintiffs, and might be restrained from putting them up for sale. The plaintiffs accordingly obtained an injunction, and the defendants having answered the bill, now moved to dissolve the injunction.

J. Parker, and Hishop Clarke, who appeared in support of the motion, contended that this was not the case of a trust, and, therefore, the Court would not interfere; that whatever remedy the plaintiffs had it was obtainable only in a court of law? In Garsten v. Asplin and Another, 1 Mad. 150, which was a case for an application for an injunction to restrain the sheriff of Essex from executing a f. f. a. against the furniture and effects of the defendant Asplin, which, with a house and land, had been let by him to the plaintiff Garstin (who was in possession), during the said Term, Sir T. Plumer, V. C. said—"In this case there has been a legal contract for a ready-furnished house and land, and the party has a possessive right. If his possession is intruded upon, he has a remedy at law. The sheriff has no right to seize; if he does seize, it may be very injurious to the plaintiff, and it is to be regretted; but this Court cannot interfere when there is a legal remedy. The right to take in execution is a question of law. Injunctions would be applied for every day when executions were improperly issued, if the Court were to assume a jurisdiction in such cases. There is no instance of this Court stopping a proceeding at law under such circumstances." His Honour, therefore, refused this injunction.

Bethell and Metcalfe in opposition.—This is a case of implied trusteeship; where the case is one purely between landlord and tenant this Court will not interfere; in other cases it will.

J. Parker, in reply.—The other side has not made out any case of implied trust. John Jackson was a mere bailer.

His HONOUR, at the time the motion was made, thought there was some sort of equity, but on consideration he held that no case of trusteeship had been made out, and that unless the matter brought before the Court were by way of trusteeship the Court would not interfere. The injunction would therefore be dissolved.

BLAKE v. LORD WALLSCOURT.

July.

Jurisdiction of the Court over children—Power of the father—Alleged misconduct and cruelty on the father's part.

The Court, out of respect to the privacy of families, will not interfere to deprive a parent of the custody of his children whenever, in the usual course of treatment and discipline, he does something that may to a third party appear an act of cruelty; therefore, notwithstanding there may have been certain improprieties, and occasionally violent outbreaks exhibited on the part of a father towards his children, the Court will not take from him the custody of their persons, which is given him by the common law and the law of nature, especially where the alleged grievance has been suffered to exist for a considerable time without any application for the judicial interference of the Court. This does not, however, prevent the Court, in cases of excessive cruelty, from interposing its authority on behalf of children, by removing them from the father's custody and control.

The Court of Chancery in England will not, under the stat. 2 & 3 Vict. c. 54, interfere on behalf of Irish parents residing generally in Ireland.

The arguments in this case having occupied several days are too long for insertion, even in an abbreviated form; but the main features of the case, so far as they are necessary to be known, will appear in his Honour's judgment. The two daughters of the defendant presented one petition for the purpose of being removed from the custody of their father. And Lady Wallscourt presented another petition, praying that she might be allowed to have the custody of her infant son. The bases of these several applications were, that the conduct of Lord Wallscourt towards his children was cruel and immoral, and that he was not a fit person to have the care and management of them. Affidavits were read on both sides.

The VICE-CHANCELLOR, in giving judgment, stated that he should doubtless have been very much influenced by the probability of the daughters of Lord Wallscourt suffering from cruelty and ill-treatment, provided there had been a case made out of cruelty and improper conduct which had recently taken place on the part of his lordship towards them; but a very important feature characterised the transaction, namely, that no application was made for the interference of the Court until some time in the month of September 1845. Grievances were alleged to have existed many years ago; and one circumstance, in particular, was said to have taken place with respect to indecent conduct towards the young ladies so far back as in the year 1839. He had been requested to communicate with the young ladies themselves upon that subject, but he did not consider it to be a proper course to question them upon a transaction that transpired when they were seven years younger, and when, in fact, they might have been sleeping at the time. He could not see the advantage of speaking of them upon a subject which involved the degree of pollution their minds had received. Moreover, it was now too late in the day to be inquiring into facts of this nature which had been suffered to lie dormant for so long a period, and upon which even Lady Wallscourt herself was silent. As to the circumstances of ill-treatment and cruelty, they might doubtless, in some respects, be so designated; but is the Court to interfere with every father who, in the course of education and in the treatment of his children, might do something that appeared to be cruelty in the eyes of third persons? His Honour was of opinion that unless the cruelty was proved to be excessive, he ought not to interfere; for it was clear that any such general interference would be the means of entirely breaking up the privacy of families. It is true there was one act which, even as explained by Lord Wallscourt, could hardly be said to be defensible, namely, that which related to his interfering with his daughter's ablutions, who had, during his Honour's interview with them, confirmed the fact as stated; but it was impossible to examine them minutely as to all the circumstances mentioned in the affidavits on his lordship's behalf; neither did the evidence go far enough to shew that there had been any improper exposure in that part of the affidavits which related to his lordship's dress. This circumstance transpired in 1845, but still there was no complaint made of it, nor was it until Lady Wallscourt had withdrawn herself from the house and society of her husband that the present application had been made to this court. In taking up the general demeanour of Lord Wallscourt, no person, it appears, had so far considered him insane as that it would be proper to take out a commission against him; at any rate, no such step had ever been suggested, notwithstanding there were certain general statements made that he was not in his senses. His lordship certainly appeared to be a very singular compound; but some consideration must be had for what he would call the want of balance of mind to be found occasionally in the Irish character. No one, his Honour remarked, could be more delighted than himself with the society of Irishmen; but it was impossible not to see that, from their breeding rather than their birth, there were modes of viewing things, and there were actions tolerated amongst them which were quite abhorrent to the minds, and, he might say, the more geometrical view which Englishmen took of such things. It had been said, that the conduct of Lord Wallscourt had assumed the character of barbarity towards his daughters, but for his own part he thought the young ladies, from their exceedingly healthy appearance, had suffered but little from such behaviour. Their education, moreover, had been, as it appeared, very properly attended to; for they were proficient in music and drawing, and they had also acquired considerable skill in the French, German, and Italian languages, and they had even been taught to read the Bible, and particularly the New Testament in Greek, which he conceived was one of the wisest and kindest things that a father could do for his daughters; for it enabled them to read the sacred oracles of truth, and judge for themselves, which was far more profitable than perusing a hundred volumes relating to the book itself to which they were all so much inferior. Lord Wallscourt, it was plain, was a very methodical person, and did not approve of any individual breaking through the rules he laid down. The journal of the young ladies weighed considerably on his Honour's mind; and though it had been contended that this had been written in such a manner as to meet the father's eye, and therefore contained nothing against him, yet there were certain passages which never would have been written had they been intended for his lordship's perusal; and that, to his Honour's mind, the style and contents of the journal were calculated to mitigate very much the influence of the severe treatment complained of. Then, with regard to those menial offices which the young ladies were said to be occasionally called upon to perform, this, doubtless, would be repugnant to their feelings; but it was a part of Lord Wallscourt's system of education to teach them what in future life they would have to superintend in their own household. It was evident that Lord Wallscourt's mind was imbued with a considerable deal of proper feeling, but occasionally breaking out into what might be called violence of temper; there was not, however, sufficient to call upon the Court to interfere. His Honour stated, that having himself seen the young ladies, he felt the greatest interest in them, and he had also evidence that the father was liable to sudden outbursts of temper; but he did not see that there was such an overwhelming case of necessity as ought to induce the Court to break in upon, not only the common law rights of the father to have the custody of his own children, but he must add, the most sacred rights and duties of a father; the common law of our country was only ancillary to the law of God and nature in declaring that, during the state of infancy, the father should have the custody and guidance of them. With respect to the other petition, by Lady Wallscourt, for the custody of her infant son, under Mr. Serjeant Talfourd's Act, it was plain that the Act contemplated that an English case should be dealt with by an English Court of Chancery, and an Irish case by an Irish Court, and that the Court had, consequently, no jurisdiction over Lord Wallscourt, who appeared to be residing chiefly in Ireland, and it was only for a particular purpose that he happened to be living in England. His Honour was not prepared to make any order for giving up the children to Lord Wallscourt; but if his lordship were still in a disposition to enter into any arrangement which had for its object the placing his children with some respectable person, it would be the greatest act of mercy and justice; and in that case the children might be placed in such a situation as would afford an opportunity for both parents to have access to them.

COMMISSIONERS' COURTS.

(Before Mr. Commissioner HOLROYD.)

Re KITTLE.

Jurisdiction of the Court.

The defendant, Kittle, who some time since took the benefit of the Insolvent Act, and who obtained his final order by paying 15s. a week for the gradual liquidation of his debts, was summoned to this court, under the Small Debts Act, for the payment of a certain debt and costs obtained in an action upon a bill, in favour of Mr. Gambridge.

Hughes, for the defendant, contended that the Court had no jurisdiction in the matter, by the fact, that the debt on the bill upon which his client was sued had been inserted in the petition under which the final order was granted.

Sturgeon, contra, submitted, that inasmuch as the name of the person (which was known) in whose hands the bill was at the time of filing the petition was not inserted in it, the Court had jurisdiction.

His HONOUR considered that the Court had jurisdiction in the matter, and, under all the circumstances of the case, the defendant must pay 1l. a month.

Re MASSON.

Disqualification.

The Court will not permit the appointment of an assignee who is an Atheist, and disbelieves in a state of future rewards and punishments.

J. R. Masson, who had been a printer in Mount-street, Bethnal-green, came up for examination. He was opposed by Buchanan, of Basinghall-street, on the part of Mr. Blunt, typewriter of St. Luke's.

Buchanan said he saw nothing at present to complain of in the bankrupt's accounts, but he thought his client ought to be appointed assignee.

Mr. Blunt was about being sworn, but he objected, stating that he did not believe in the Scriptures.

His HONOUR.—Are you then a Deist or an Atheist?

Mr. Blunt.—I neither believe in future rewards nor punishments, and perhaps I may be considered an Atheist.

His HONOUR.—Whichever may be your belief, you are not eligible for assignee, as you will be called upon to take an oath in accordance with the Christian creed.

Mr. Blunt.—I am a creditor, and here claim against the bankrupt's estate, according to law, and according to the amount due to me I ought to be an assignee.

His HONOUR.—But we cannot take your oath.

Mr. Blunt.—Am I on account of my religious tenet to be deprived of my civil privileges?

His HONOUR.—As a Christian, I feel that I can neither take the oath nor even the word of an Atheist, and I therefore cannot accept you as an assignee, and consequently the appointment of assignees must stand adjourned till the next meeting.

Monday, Sept. 21.

(Before Mr. Commissioner SHEPHERD.)

Re BEATTIE, MACNAUGHTON, and Co.

The mere fact of the appendage of an official seal to an affidavit, unsupported by confirmative evidence, will not admit a creditor residing abroad to proof of debt.

This day was appointed for the declaration of a dividend, but none took place, the official assignee stating that the assets at present realised amounted to little more than would meet the expenses hitherto incurred in the course of the proceedings.

In the course of the day Maynard sought to prove a debt on the part of a client who resided at Vienna, the affidavit bearing the "seal" of the British Minister at that court, and the signature was that of Mr. Foster, whom he (Maynard) supposed to be attached to the embassy.

His HONOUR said he knew nothing of the "seal," nor had he before him any evidence as to who "Mr. Foster" was.

Maynard urged that the "seal" of the "ambassador" was of more consequence than mere signature of a minister, and if the Court refused the proof upon objection of mere formality, it would put the party to considerable inconvenience and expense. The affidavit of debt was in court since June last, and it is only now in September that it was objected to, not then upon the merits.

His HONOUR saw no inconvenience beyond trouble of writing another letter to Vienna. He must be governed in this as in all other similar cases, the terms of the Act of Parliament.

Lawrence suggested that the Foreign-office would attest the genuineness of the seal, and give every information as to who Mr. Foster was.

The proof stood over for this purpose.

REG. v. CHARLES GAVAN DUFFY, Esq.
(Before the full Court.)

Practice—Indictment for seditious libel—Justices—Pleading—6 & 7 Vict. c. 96—Pleading of Occasional Bar—Demurrer cannot be opened by member of Inner Bar, except the Attorney-General.

The special plea of justification given by the def. &c. 4 Vict. c. 96, s. 6, cannot be pleaded in an indictment for a seditious libel.

Such plea can only be pleaded in justification of a private or personal libel.

The Court will not permit a demurrer to be opened even in a prosecution at the suit of the Queen, by any member of the Inner Bar, except the Attorney-General.

In this case an indictment having been found against the traverser, for composing and publishing in a Nation newspaper, "a certain false, defamatory, malicious, and seditious libel," of and concerning Her Majesty's government, and the administration thereof, and the Parliament of the United Kingdom, with intent to create in the minds of her Majesty's Irish subjects disaffection and hatred to her Majesty's government and the Parliament, and to cause to be suspected and believed that their interests were neglected in the administration of her Majesty's government, and with intent to excite the Irish subjects of the Queen to resist and forcibly oppose such of her Majesty's troops as might be employed in Ireland, in the support and maintenance of the laws and constitution of this realm, and of peace and good order, and to encourage such subjects to use, as means of resistance, the materials of railways in Ireland, and to make the same into weapons of attack and resistance, and with intent to foment jealousy, discord, and ill-will between the said subjects and their fellow-subjects in the other parts of the United Kingdom. The indictment contained four counts, the first charging the composing and publishing the article in question, setting it out with innuendoes; the second was the same, omitting the innuendoes; the third count charged the printing and publishing of the libel, and was the same in other respects as the first; the fourth was the same as the third, omitting the innuendoes.

To this indictment the traverser put in a plea in abatement (see 7 Law T. 9, for a copy of the plea) which having been set aside by the Court, and the traverser ordered to plead over (7 Law T. 10), forthwith he pleaded as follows:—

"And now, &c. comes the said Charles Gavan Duffy, by John Mitchell his attorney, and having heard the said indictment read, protesting that he is not guilty of the premises above laid to his charge, or any or either of them, or any part thereof, for plea nevertheless thereto, pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, says that the same ought not to be prosecuted against him the said Charles Gavan Duffy, and that he should be discharged and dismissed of the premises therein specified, because he says, that heretofore and before the composing and publishing of the supposed libel in the said indictment mentioned, entitled 'Threats of Coercion,' to wit, on the 15th day of November, in the year of our Lord 1845, to wit, at Dublin, in the county of the city of Dublin aforesaid, threats of coercion had been made use of against a large portion of the Irish people, to wit, that portion of the very said of her Majesty in that part of the United Kingdom called Great Britain and Ireland called Ireland, hereinafter mentioned, in certain articles in public newspapers, to wit, in the articles of the newspapers hereinafter mentioned, to wit, at the time and place aforesaid, and the said Charles Gavan Duffy further says, that the said supposed libels in the said indictment mentioned, to wit, at, &c. in certain newspapers published at London, in that part of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland called England, to wit, at Dublin, &c. to wit, in certain newspapers called respectively The Morning Herald and The Standard, directed to wit, four articles, had theretofore; to wit, the

and there been published, declaring respectively that the agitation then and now pending in Ireland for the purpose of obtaining constitutionally the repeal of the Act passed in the session of Parliament holden in the 6th year of the reign of his late Majesty King George the Third, entitled 'An Act for the Union of Great Britain and Ireland,' ought to be declared high treason, and threatening unconstitutional and military coercion against all such of her Majesty's subjects in that part of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland as should attempt to procure by legal and constitutional means a repeal of the said Act, and pointing out the advantages and facilities which he then projected railways in Ireland when made and completed would afford for the speedy and expeditious transport of troops in Ireland from one part thereof to the other, for the purpose of using said troops to carry into effect such unconstitutional and military coercion as aforesaid, to wit, at Dublin, &c. aforesaid; and the said Charles Gavan Duffy further says that, before and at the time of composing and publishing the said supposed libels in the said indictment mentioned, to wit, at, &c. from long observance of the character, nature, and contents of the articles theretofore contained and published in the said Morning Herald and Standard newspapers, and from long observance of the course of public affairs, and the conduct of the government hereinafter mentioned, he, the said Charles Gavan Duffy, had reasonable and probable cause to suspect and believe, and did then and there actually suspect and believe, that the said Morning Herald and Standard newspapers were what are commonly called the organs of the government, to wit, the government of Sir Robert Peel, and expressed their sentiments, to wit, the sentiments of the said government, in respect of such unconstitutional and military coercion as aforesaid, to wit, at Dublin, &c.; and the said Charles Gavan Duffy further says that he, the said Charles Gavan Duffy, published the said supposed libels in the said indictment mentioned, in a certain newspaper called The Nation, and not otherwise or elsewhere, to wit, at the place aforesaid, and that the said supposed libels, and all the matters therein contained, were occasioned by, and were so as aforesaid published by him, the said Charles Gavan Duffy, in answer to the said last-mentioned articles in said Morning Herald and Standard newspapers contained, and as commenting on them in the exercise of the constitutional right of free discussion, and of the liberty of the press, to wit, at Dublin, &c.; and the said Charles Gavan Duffy further says, that it was for the public benefit that the matters charged in the said supposed libels in the said indictment mentioned, should be published as aforesaid, and that the particular facts by reason whereof it was for the public benefit that the said matters should be published as aforesaid, were and are the several matters, facts, and publications hereinbefore mentioned; and this the said Charles Gavan Duffy is ready to verify, wherefore he prays judgment of the Court here, and that he may be dismissed and discharged of the premises in the said indictment above specified, and so forth."

The traverser, secondly, pleaded not guilty.

To the first plea, demurrer and joinder. On the second, issue joined.

Napier, Q.C. (with whom were Greene, A.G., Henn, Q.C., Marthy, Q.C. and Smyly) now appeared on behalf of the Crown, and was about to open the demurrer.

BLACKBURN, C.J. observed that a demurrer could not be opened except by a member of the Outer Bar.

Napier contended that her Majesty had a right to be represented by whatever counsel she chose.

BLACKBURN, C.J.—If her Majesty's Attorney-General desires to open the case for the Crown, he may do so undoubtedly.

Greene, A.G. accordingly proceeded to support the demurrer. The plea of justification in this case purports to be founded on the statute 6 & 7 Vict. c. 96. At common law, in the case of a civil action, a defamatory libel might be justified by a plea setting out its truth; but in a criminal prosecution, a justification was no ground of defence. The legislature by the stat. 6 & 7 Vict. have to some extent modified the law in that respect, and have accordingly provided that in certain cases where the public benefit justified and required the publication of slanderous or defamatory matter affecting individuals, the party charged should be allowed to plead that the matter charged as libellous was true. But the 6th section, upon which this plea purports to be founded, is confined to the case of private libels, and does not extend to blasphemous or seditious libels; the sixth section only extends to the case of private libels prosecuted criminally the same means of offering a justification as if the defendant had been sued in a civil action for damages; it is quite a misconception to suppose that the legislature meant the provisions of the Act to extend to cases of seditious or blasphemous libels. In the article charged as a libel there are but few matters of fact stated, it consists chiefly of comments and observations; and assuming for argument sake that the statute of 6 & 7 Vict. c. 96, does apply to seditious libels, still the plea is bad, for what the statute allows to be pleaded as true are the facts and matters put forward in the libel; the traverser does not state that either the Morning Herald or the Standard are the organs of the government, he merely gives his opinion of the fact, and does not set out any specific fact to excuse or palliate the publication; the word "true" is not contained in the entire plea. There is no such thing as "the government of Sir Robert Peel." The allegation that the article was published in the exercise of the right of free discussion is open to the traverser on a plea of the general issue. Upon common law principles it would be a bad plea even in a private prosecution; it is too vague and uncertain; it says that four articles appeared in certain public newspapers, which articles justified the publication of the libel, not setting them out, not stating what those articles were; the plea, besides, does not justify the whole libel (Smith v. Parker, 13 M. & W. 459), and is therefore bad; it ought to plea the truth of all the facts, so that the Court and jury might be enabled to see whether the inferences sought to be derived from them were well founded or not.

Robert Holmes and M. J. Barry, for the defendant.

—The operation of this Act is not confined to any class of libels. The title of the Act is general, "An Act to amend the Law relating to defamatory Words and Libels." The word "libel" is a general term, and there cannot be a more comprehensive one used. The preamble contemplates three objects; "the better protection of private character," "the more effectually securing the liberty of the press," and the "better preventing abuses in exercising said liberty." The entire object of the sixth section of the statute seems to be that where a party is prosecuted for a defamatory libel, he shall be entitled to plead that it was published for the public benefit. If the public benefit is a ground for the publication of a private libel, it is of much more importance that the press should be free in commenting on public bodies, who have the power of doing much more public injury than private individuals. The words of the sixth section are, "Be it enacted, that on the trial of any indictment or information for a defamatory libel," &c. Now a libel may be both seditious and defamatory, and does not cease to be defamatory because it is directed against Sir Robert Peel's government. There is nothing in the 6th section to confine the words to private libels. The eighth section is conclusively demonstrative that the object of the Act is general. It provides that in case of "a prosecution by a private prosecutor, if judgment shall be given for the defendant, he shall be entitled to recover from the prosecutor the costs sustained." It then proceeds to say, that upon "a special plea of justification to such indictment or information, if the issue be found for the prosecutor, he shall be entitled to the costs of such plea. Not saying private prosecutor, which omission of the word private, in the latter part of the clause, in contradistinction to the former part, seems to shew strongly that public as well as private libels come within the object of the statute. As to the non-allegation of the truth of the several facts contained in the libel, it is not necessary to allege that every one of them is true; it is enough to justify the substantial charge. In the article charged as a libel, there are two classes of facts, some of which are clearly not libellous; such as the assertion that "there is hot haste in the dockyards;" and again some are of a metaphorical kind, and it would be absurd to allege the truth, for instance, of the fact that "the growl of England's dogs of war had begun to sound across the Irish Sea." Taking the whole statute together, by all the rules of construction, it must be held to apply as well to public as private libels.

Napier, in reply, was not called on.

BLACKBURN, C.J.—In this case the demurrer of the Crown ought to be allowed. A plea has been filed by the defendant (against whom an indictment has been found for the publication of a seditious libel), alleging that he is privileged so to do by the statute 6 & 7 Vict. c. 96. We are of opinion that the plea in this case does not fall within the statute, and that even if it did, it is defective in itself. The first section of the statute applies altogether to actions brought for personal injuries; the second also is confined to actions for libel; by the sixth section, the power of pleading a justification is extended to cases of private prosecution, by way of indictment or information. The benefit which was withheld from defendants in criminal prosecutions for libel, of pleading a justification, has been extended to those cases by this statute. [His lordship read the sixth section 6 & 7 Vict. c. 96.] But on reference to the terms of the statute itself, it requires very little consideration to see that the privilege to plead the truth of the facts charged is given, where it is for the public benefit that the facts should be published; that is, it makes the individual liable to have the truth stated where it was for the public benefit; but the public benefit is the only object the statute has in view in such case; and no one can contend that libels of a blasphemous, or treasonable, or seditious nature, can come within this statute, for such never can be of any public benefit. Even if it were necessary to refer to the plea itself, it is clear that it does not comply with the requisites of the statute, by putting forward the truth of any of the specific matters of fact contained in the libel; the plea must therefore be overruled, and the demurrer allowed.

BURTON, J. was of the same opinion.

CRAMPTON, J.—I concur in the opinion pronounced by my Lord Chief Justice and my brother Burton, and entertained also by my brother Perrin. I am of opinion that it is perfectly clear that, upon the grounds which have been urged by the Attorney-General, the defendant's plea must be overruled. In the first place, the case does not come within the terms of this Act of Parliament. The indictment charges the publication to be a seditious and defamatory libel; now my opinion coincides with that of the rest of the Court, that this statute is applicable only to personal libels—it would be narrowing it too much, I think, to say that it only applied to private libels. The justification allowed by this statute to be put in is just such a one as would be a justification in a civil action for libel, before the statute, shewing that it was personal libels which were intended by the legislature to be affected by the Act. But it is said, why use the words "private prosecution" in the 8th section, unless to distinguish such from public prosecutions, and unless public prosecutions also were referred to? Now I apprehend that a very sensible reason may be assigned for the use of these words. The 8th section (6 & 7 Vict. c. 96) says, "In the case of any indictment, information by a private prosecutor for the publication of any defamatory libel, if judgment shall be given for the defendant, he shall be entitled to recover from the prosecutor the costs sustained by the said defendant by reason of such indictment or information; and that upon a special plea of justification to such indictment or information, if the issue be found for the prosecutor, he shall be entitled to recover from the defendant the costs sustained by the prosecutor by reason of such plea." Now why say this if it was intended to refer to Crown prosecutions, for the Crown neither takes nor gives costs? But the Attorney-General may, and often does, institute a prosecution for the defamation of an individual of high rank or authority, as the Lord Lieutenant suppose, or the Lord Chancellor; and if in such case the issue be found for the prosecutor, he shall be entitled to his costs, or the defendant shall be entitled to his if the issue be found for him; that appears to be the reason why these words were used; but I do not think that seditious libels were contemplated by the legislature in making this enactment.

PERRIN, J. was also of opinion that the demurrer must be allowed. It is quite clear that this Act refers only to defamatory libels either of public or private persons; but even if the case were within the provisions of the statute, the plea does not allege the truth of any one fact contained in the libel.

Judgment for the Crown.

Friday, May 1.

(Before the full COURT.)

REG. v. TAGGART.

Marriage law—Celebration of marriage between Protestants by a Roman Catholic priest, felony.

Under the stat. 7 & 8 Vict. c. 81, a Roman Catholic priest celebrating a marriage between two Protestants is guilty of a felony, and does not come within any of the exemptions contained in the 45th section of the Act.

Semle, that marriages which are invalid by the 19 Geo. 2, c. 13, are also unlawful.

The traverser, a Roman Catholic priest, was tried before Mr. Justice Burton at the last assizes for the county of Down, upon an indictment charging him with having celebrated in an unlicensed place a marriage between two persons of the Protestant religion. A doubt having arisen as to whether the facts charged amounted to a crime or not, a special verdict was taken upon the second, third, fourth, and fifth counts of the indictment, which were founded upon the 45th sect. of the stat. 7 & 8 Vict. c. 81, and now the case came on for argument, the only question being, whether or not the traverser came within the exemptions contained in the 45th section of the Act respecting marriages celebrated by Roman Catholic priests.

Hanna, for the Crown, contended, that though the early statutes which from time to time imposed the various penalties of transportation, death, and a fine of 500l. upon Roman Catholic priests celebrating marriages between two Protestants, or between a Protestant and a Roman Catholic, had been repealed by the 3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 102, as far as the pains and penalties were concerned, still that such marriage remained void by the 19 Geo. 2, c. 13, and the celebration of it an illegal act, and one which could not be taken to come within the exemption in the 45th section of the statute 7 & 8 Vict. c. 81, which only extended, in the case of marriages by a Roman Catholic priest, to such marriages as might at the time of the passing of that Act "be lawfully celebrated," and that therefore it was manifest by the plain words of the statute, that the prisoner was guilty of a felony.

The following authorities were cited or referred to:

Stat. 6 Anne; 12 Geo. 1, c. 3; 19 Geo. 2, c. 13; 23 Geo. 2, c. 10; 33 Geo. 3, c. 21; 3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 81; Reg. v. Milles (Jebb & B.).

Napier, Q.C. and O'Hagan for the traverser.—The statute in question arose in consequence of the long-continued discussions about Presbyterian marriages, and it is conversant about those marriages only, and marriages by clergymen of the Established Church. When the 7 & 8 Vict. was passed, it was not illegal for a Roman Catholic clergyman to celebrate such a marriage; and if the celebration then were not illegal, the inference is almost inevitable, that the late Act does not constitute it a felony. A series of penal laws were made for the prevention in two ways of marriages between two Protestants, or mixed marriages, by a Roman Catholic clergyman; one by making the celebration unlawful, and the other by making the marriage void; but in none of those penal laws was there to be found a distinct prohibition of the celebration of such marriages; the prohibition was involved in the penalty, but was not independent of, or capable of existing without the penalty during the existence of the penal laws, though the priest might be hanged or transported for celebrating it, the marriage remained good by common law; but then by 19 Geo. 2, c. 13, the marriage was made void, and all the penalties imposed being found insufficient, subsequently came the 23rd Geo. 2, c. 10, which, after reciting the former Acts, and that doubts had arisen whether, the marriages being void, the priest could be guilty of a felony for celebrating them, then enacts, that notwithstanding their invalidity, he should be liable to the penalties of felony. If, therefore, while the old penal laws were in force the mere making void the marriages rendered a distinct Act necessary to prevent the penal effects of the other statutes being wholly done away, can it be fairly contended now, that while the voidness of the marriages remains, but all the enactments against the celebrant have been abolished by the 3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 102, a priest could, upon the loose, obscure, and equivocal words of the 7 & 8 Vict. c. 81, be held guilty of a felony for celebrating such void marriages? This act was not unlawful at common law, nor by statute, for when all the penalties were abolished, the prohibition ceased. All unlawfulness involves in its nature the incidents of retribution or punishment; an act civilly unlawful gives to individuals a right to compensation; and a criminally unlawful act is the subject of an indictment. The unlawfulness of the act of the celebrant is, if it exists at all, the creation of positive law, it has nothing to do with the moral law or the law of nature, and as no action could have been maintained against the priest for it,—as no indictment would have lain against him for it,—that act which at common law was lawful, but had become unlawful by the statute law, was again rendered lawful when the statute law ceased to operate, the penalties which it had imposed being removed.

CRAMPTON, J.—Then you would contend that a man may lawfully do an unlawful act?

O'Hagan.—Confusion is created by the use of the word "unlawful." It would be more correct to say that a priest might lawfully celebrate an invalid marriage. Since the passing of the 3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 112, no prosecution has been instituted or attempted for the celebration of a void marriage by a Roman Catholic priest; the fact that such prosecutions have wholly ceased until the present time, affords a strong presumption that the opinion entertained by persons competent to advise on the subject is not in favour of the possibility of sustaining them. The Presbyterian Marriage Act was produced by discussions between Protestants and Presbyterians as to their own marriages, and the mischief it was framed to remedy was the uncertainty of the law in relation to them; all its provisions regard Protestants and Presbyterians, and are framed for their benefit, and, regarding the whole statute law, and its entire machinery and objects, no one could confidently say that the legislature really meant to alter the position of the Roman Catholic priesthood. The law does not favour the repeal of a statute by implication, and such repeal has ever been confined to doing away with as little as possible of the preceding statute; no penal law is to be extended by construction, and the general words of such an Act are to be restrained for the benefit of him on whom the penalty is to be inflicted. It is sought to construe the words "unlawfully celebrated" as if they were "invalidly celebrated." The exemption in the statute 7 & 8 Vict. is that all persons celebrating marriages under the circumstances described in the Act should be guilty of a felony, save in cases where a Catholic priest might celebrate a marriage without doing an illegal or punishable act. The validity of the ceremony and the legality of the act of the celebrant are different things; being a penal statute, it is to be taken mitiori sensu, favore amplianadi odia restringenda. If a reasonable construction can be given to the Act in favour of the traverser, the Court are bound to give it, and are bound not merely not to strain the law against him, but to give him the advantage of any doubt or difficulty which may arise in their minds. The question is, whether the act of the celebrant of a Protestant or mixed marriage, before the passing of the 7 & 8 Vict. was unlawful? The Court should not create a felony by construction on the vague, equivocal, and doubtful words in that statute, which are relied on by the counsel for the Crown, and deprive the traverser of the protection which he enjoyed by the common law and the antecedent statute law of the country. The Roman Catholic priest should not be put in a worse position than a Presbyterian clergyman would be if he celebrated a marriage between two Protestants. A clergyman is not to be reasoned into a felony by a subtlety, where the legislature could, by a few simple words, have cleared up any doubts on the subject; and at most, this case is not free from doubt; therefore there ought to be judgment for the prisoner upon this case. (Reg. v. Dye, 4 Mod. 174; Dwarris on Stat. 677; 2 Hook, c. 25; Blackst. Com. iv. 5; 6 Anne, c. 16, s. 6; 8 Anne, c. 5; 12 Geo. 1, c. 3; 19 Geo. 2, c. 13; 3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 102.)

Greene, A. G. replied.

BLACKBURN, C.J. (delivering the judgment of the Court).—In this case a special verdict has been found upon an indictment which, as far as it has been brought before us, is founded on the 45th of the stat. 7 & 8 Vict. c. 81. The charge against the traverser is, that he (a Roman Catholic priest) had solemnized a marriage between two Protestants in a place not one of those described in the 49th section of the statute, the fact is clearly established, and that the traverser comes within the provisions of the 45th section. There is, in arriving at this conclusion, no straining of the words of the statute, it is plain, clear, and explicit. The only question is, whether the traverser has celebrated a marriage which is not within the operation of the statute; and I must here say that this is not a case where the Court is spelling out the guilt of a prisoner. I must say that it is a great misapplication of terms to say that the Court is called on to punish the prisoner, or pronounce him guilty by an ex post facto interpretation of the statute. The Court are called on to interpret an Act of Parliament which received the royal assent in August 1844, and every act to be afterwards done in contravention of its provisions was to be visited with the declared consequences of such acts. The act of the traverser, for which he was prosecuted, is an act done after the statute was in full operation, done in direct violation of the existing law, and therefore there is no ex post facto interpretation of the law resorted to in this case. Now, the words of exception in the 45th section of the statute, and upon which the entire case turns, are, "except in the case of marriages by a Roman Catholic priest, which may now be lawfully celebrated, or a marriage between two of the Society of Friends, commonly called Quakers, according to the usages of the said society, or between two persons professing the Jewish religion, according to the usages of the Jews." Thus there are two kinds of marriages which come under the exception; marriages which might have been previously lawfully celebrated by a Roman Catholic priest, and marriages between members of the Society of Friends, and Jewish marriages, as has been stated by the learned counsel; originally, a marriage celebrated by a Roman Catholic priest between two Protestants, or between a Protestant and a Roman Catholic, was valid; then came the Acts under which a party celebrating such a marriage (12 Geo. 1, c. 3; 23 Geo. 2, c. 10, and 33 Geo. 3, c. 21) was made liable to the penalty of death, and by the latter statute to a fine of 500*l.*; and, besides, the Act of 19 Geo. 2, c. 13, made the marriage itself absolutely void. Then came the statute of 3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 102; by it all the Acts imposing penalties were abrogated, but the ceremony remained an invalid marriage, as it was before, leading to the direct consequences of a violation of the laws of God and man. Though the Roman Catholic clergyman was relieved from the penalties, the act remained invalid, just as it was before the passing of the statute of 3 & 4 Wm. 4, attended by all the same evils, in a religious, social, and moral point of view; the relation of man and wife never subsisted, it was merely concubinage, and the issue were bastards. Such was the state of things from 1833, until the passing of the recent statute. Whether, in the interval after the passing of the 3 & 4 Wm. 4, a Roman Catholic clergyman could have celebrated a marriage between two Protestants, without being liable to be indicted, is not now for the Court to pronounce; we have a narrower duty to perform, to decide whether the present case comes within the exemption contained in the 45th section (7 & 8 Vict. c. 81). The privileges given by that section are not personal privileges, but for the benefit of the Roman Catholic community; they are not personal in their nature, they are not privileges conferred for the benefit of the priest. Now, this exposition of the words used in the 45th section receives strong confirmation from the language of the third section, which provides, that "nothing in this Act shall affect any marriages by any Roman Catholic priest, which may now be lawfully celebrated, nor extend to the registration of any Roman Catholic chapel, but such marriages may continue to be celebrated in the same manner, and subject to the same limitations and restrictions, as if this Act had not been passed." That is, this Act is made, not for the protection of priests in the celebration of invalid or unlawful marriages, but to uphold the validity of the ceremony when performed by a Roman Catholic priest between members of his own communion. It is not a statute passed to affect the Roman Catholic subjects of the realm, to affect their worship, or their marriage ceremonies, they are to remain precisely as if this Act had never been passed; but a marriage celebrated by a Roman Catholic priest between two Protestants, or between a Protestant and a Roman Catholic, is absolutely null and void. My brother Crampton has referred me to the 13th section of the statute, in which there is a passage strongly illustrative of what I have been stating. After providing that a prescribed notice shall be given to the registrar, except in certain cases, the section proceeds to say, "provided always, that no such notice shall be required for any marriage by a Roman Catholic priest, which may lawfully now be celebrated, or when the marriage is intended to be solemnized between two Presbyterians, both or one of whom is a Presbyterian, in a Presbyterian meeting-house certified as aforesaid." This is a further confirmation of the argument that the exception in the statute only refers to marriages which might have been lawfully celebrated heretofore. It is now admitted by the traverser's counsel, that a marriage ceremony performed between two Protestants by a Roman Catholic priest is void, and does not create the relation of legal matrimony. Now the question is, is it intended by the legislature by this Act to protect a person performing an invalid ceremony? Nothing could justify the Court in putting such a construction upon the statute, except the most explicit words. The word "marriage" in the Act does not, in my opinion, mean any thing but a valid matrimonial contract, and the words of the exception which has been relied on by the traverser's counsel seem to me to be used to restrain the general words of the Act. I am, therefore, clearly of opinion, and the rest of the Court are also, that the case is free from all doubt and difficulty, and that the meaning of the statute is that a priest celebrating such a marriage shall be deemed guilty of an offence, without interfering with the rites, or privileges, or ceremonies of the Roman Catholic subjects, and preventing no marriages from being now celebrated, which were legal before the passing of this Act; but, like clergymen of other persuasions, who they celebrate illegal marriages, Roman Catholic clergymen celebrating such marriages as Mr. Tugart has done, are guilty of the offence contemplated by the statute, and therefore there must be Judgment for the Crown.

THE LEGISLATOR.

Summary.

THE Bill for restoring arrest under Messe Process, which we last week promised to give in this number, will be found, in extenso, beneath. We invite attention to it, and any suggestions upon its proposed clauses which the experience or sagacity of our readers may contribute. Among the measures of importance proposing to effect material changes in the law, affecting the duties or interests of the Profession, introduced last session, but not carried through Parliament, were the following:—

In Conveyancing Reform:—The General Registry of Deeds Bill, and the Short Forms of Conveyances Bill.

In the law of Debtor and Creditor:—The Bankruptcy and Insolvency Bill, and the Judgment Creditors' Bill.

The Amendment of the Highway and Turnpike Acts.

In Criminal Law:—The Bills relating to Juvenile Offenders, and the Punishment for deterring Prosecutors, Witnesses, &c.

The Game Law Amendment Bill.

All of these measures will, most probably, be re-introduced next session.

Bills in Progress.

The following is the Bill to restore Arrest on Messe Process, prepared and brought in by Messrs. Warburton and Leader, to which we made allusion in our last number:—

A Bill to restore Arrest on Messe Process in Civil Actions, under certain Limitations.

1. Preamble. Repeals partially 1 & 2 Vict. c. 116.—Whereas it has been found by experience, that the abolition of arrest on messe process has greatly increased the expense and difficulty of compelling payment of debts, and has enabled debtors to continue to resist their creditors, until the greater part of their assets have been wasted or concealed, or distributed amongst favoured creditors; and it is expedient to restore the power of arrest on messe process in civil

Of the Session 9 & 10 Victoria.

CAP. LXXXIV.

An Act to amend the Law concerning Lunatic Asylums and the Care of Pauper Lunatics in England.
(August 26, 1846.)

8 & 9 Vict. c. 126. In what cases justices and others are to issue orders for confinement of lunatics.—Whereas doubts have been entertained whether under provisions of an Act of the last session of Parliament, intituled "An Act to amend the Laws for the Provision and Regulation of Lunatic Asylums for Counties and Boroughs, and for the Maintenance and Care of Pauper Lunatics in England," it is incumbent on justices of the peace, and others therein specified, to issue orders for the reception into a lunatic asylum, or house licensed, or hospital registered for the reception of lunatics, of all persons who shall be brought before them, or whom they shall visit in the manner prescribed by the said Act, and of whose lunacy they shall be satisfied, or only of those persons of whose lunacy they shall be satisfied, and whom they shall deem proper persons to be confined, according to the tenor of the order set forth in the form numbered one in the schedule marked (E.) annexed to the said Act: Be it declared and enacted by the Queen's most excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, that it shall not be deemed incumbent on any justice of the peace, or upon any clergyman, overseer, or relieving officer, to sign or issue such order as aforesaid, in all cases in which the physician, surgeon, or apothecary whom he or they shall have called to his or their assistance shall have signed the certificate according to the form numbered one in the said Schedule (E.) as provided by the said Act; but that every justice, clergyman, overseer, or relieving officer by whom any such order shall be signed or issued, in the case of every such person of whose lunacy he shall be satisfied, shall be bound, before signing the order, to satisfy himself of the propriety of confining such lunatic in a lunatic asylum, unless a medical certificate that such lunatic is a proper person to be so confined, in the same form as the medical certificate in the said Schedule (E.) number one, shall have been signed by the medical officer of the union or parish to which the lunatic belongs, as well as by the said physician, surgeon, or apothecary, in which case such two medical certificates shall be received by every such justice, clergyman, overseer, and relieving officer as conclusive evidence that such lunatic is a proper person to be so confined.

2. Committees of justices appointed, or who may hereafter be appointed, for providing lunatic asylums, deemed to have been legally appointed.—And whereas by the said Act it is enacted, that a Committee of justices to superintend or to treat and enter into an agreement for the erecting or providing an asylum for the pauper lunatics of any county or borough which has no asylum for the pauper lunatics thereof shall be appointed at the time and in the manner prescribed by the said Act, after public notice of the intention to appoint such committee given on or before the general or quarter sessions for such county or borough next after the 20th day of December, 1845; but the objects of the Act have not been in all cases fully attained, and doubts have been entertained as to the power of the justices in the appointment of such committees, and as to the powers of such committees when appointed; be it declared and enacted, that a committee as aforesaid may and shall be appointed in every county and borough which has no asylum for the pauper lunatics thereof, and in which a committee has not been already appointed, or in which a committee once appointed has ceased or shall hereafter cease to exist without carrying into effect the purposes for which it was appointed, or, if appointed for the purpose only of treating and entering into an agreement, has reported, or shall hereafter report, that it is not practicable or expedient to enter into an agreement, or to that effect; and that, notwithstanding any committee already appointed, or hereafter to be appointed, may have been appointed, either for the purpose only of superintending the erecting or providing an asylum, or for the purpose only of treating and entering into an agreement for erecting or providing an asylum, or for effecting the one or the other of the said purposes, as to the said committee may seem best, such committee shall be deemed to have been legally appointed under the said Act, and duly empowered to carry into effect the purpose for which it has been or may be so appointed; and in any case in which the occasion for the appointment of a committee for any of the purposes aforesaid now exists or shall hereafter arise, public notice of the intention to appoint the same shall be given in the manner prescribed by the said Act, on or before the general quarter session of the peace to be holden for such county or borough next after the passing of this Act, or next after the occasion for the appointment thereof shall have arisen, as the case may be: provided, nevertheless, that notice at any subsequent general quarter session of the peace for such county or borough of the intention to appoint any such committee, and the appointment of a committee in pursuance thereof, shall be valid.

3. Powers of committees may be enlarged by justices.—That when any committee hath been or shall hereafter be appointed for one of the aforesaid purposes only, it shall be lawful for the justices, if they shall think fit, at any general quarter session of the peace after the like public notice as is required in the case of the first appointment of the committee, to enlarge the powers of the committee, so as to authorise the committee to effect the one or the other of such purposes, as to the said committee may seem best, and, if necessary, under the provisions of the said Act, to appoint additional members of the said committee; and every such committee shall be deemed to have been legally appointed under the said Act, and duly authorised to carry into effect the one or the other of the said purposes, as to the said committee may seem best.

4. Until committees of visitors shall be appointed for any county, &c. the committee appointed for providing an asylum shall act as such.—That until a committee of visitors shall, under the provisions of the said Act, or of this Act, be appointed on behalf of any county or borough, counties or boroughs, the committee appointed, or hereafter to be appointed, either for superintending the erecting or providing, or for treating and entering into an agreement for erecting or providing an asylum, or for effecting the one or the other of those purposes, as to the said committee may seem best, shall have, on behalf of the county or borough by which such committee shall have been appointed, all the powers, as well of contracting with the proprietors of any house licensed for the reception of lunatics, as otherwise, of a committee of visitors appointed under the said Act, save that a committee for the purpose only of treating and entering into an agreement as aforesaid shall not have power to take measures towards erecting or providing a lunatic asylum for the sole use of the county or borough for which it shall have been appointed.

5. Committee of visitors to be appointed by justices and subscribers to lunatic asylums.—That whenever any agreement shall have been entered into, signed, and reported, as in the said Act is mentioned, the justices of every county to which such agreement shall relate, assembled at the general or quarter sessions to which such report shall be made, and the justices of every borough to which such agreement shall relate, shall, at a special meeting to be held within twenty days after such agreement shall have been reported as aforesaid, and the subscribers of every lunatic asylum to which such agreement shall relate, or the majority of such subscribers, present at a meeting to be holden within twenty-eight days after the signing of such agreement, and of which notice shall have been given by public advertisement in some newspaper circulated within the place in which such lunatic asylum shall be situated, shall appoint a committee of visitors, in the same manner and under the regulations and with the powers mentioned in the said Act in respect of a committee of visitors appointed for the like purpose at the times mentioned in the said Act, and all the provisions in the said Act relating to committees of visitors shall apply to the said committee, as far as the same may be applicable.

6. Further provision for the temporary care of pauper lunatics.—And whereas certain powers are given by the said Act to every committee of visitors to contract for certain purposes, for a limited time and under certain restrictions, with the proprietors of any house licensed for the reception of lunatics: and whereas it is expedient to enable further provision to be made for the temporary care of pauper lunatics; be it enacted, that it shall be lawful for any committee of visitors to make provision, either in manner mentioned in the said Act or otherwise, for the temporary care of pauper lunatics, subject to the approval, restrictions, limitations, and provisoes mentioned in the said Act with respect to such contracts as aforesaid, in as far as such limitations and restrictions and provisoes are applicable to any provision other than a contract with the proprietor of a house licensed as aforesaid, and the expenses of making such provision shall be paid out of the same moneys or funds and in the same manner as is provided in the said Act in the case of contracts with such proprietors as aforesaid; and it shall be lawful for the guardians and overseers of any union or parish, with the consent of the poor law commissioners for England and Wales, to contract with any such committee of visitors for the use and occupation of all or any part of a workhouse as a temporary asylum for pauper lunatics; and during such temporary occupation such workhouse, or the part of it so occupied, shall be subject to the same law as a workhouse taken for the reception of pauper chronic lunatics under the provisions of the said Act.

7. Separate committees to be appointed for every actions, with proper precautions to prevent such power from being abused; Be it enacted, by the Queen's most excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, that so much of an Act passed in the first and second years of her Majesty, intituled, "An Act for abolishing Arrest on Mesne Process in Civil Actions, except in certain cases, for extending the Remedies of Creditors against the Property of Debtors, and for amending the Laws for the Relief of Insolvent Debtors in England," as abolished arrest on mesne process, shall be and is hereby repealed.

2. No arrest on mesne process, except by order of commissioner of Court of Bankruptcy.—That no writ of capias ad respondendum shall issue against any person, except upon the order of one of the London or district commissioners of her Majesty's Court of Bankruptcy.

3. No commissioner to issue order unless creditor first swears fully as to the particulars of his demand.—That no commissioner of the Court of Bankruptcy shall issue such order unless the creditor applying for the same shall file in court an affidavit, stating the particulars of his debt; and if the debt shall be on balance of account, or shall consist of more items than one, then annexing to his affidavit an account, commencing with the time when the account was last stated and agreed between himself and his debtor, if ever, and shewing every subsequent item, and the balance.

4. Nor unless, secondly, creditors' case a clear prima facie case, and creditor has twice demanded payment.—That no commissioner shall issue such order unless the party applying for the same shall shew to him a clear prima facie case of debt due, and shall make affidavit that the payment thereof has been twice demanded by letter, sent by post, addressed to the debtor at his last known place of residence, according to the usual and ordinary course of business; and that the second letter was sent not earlier than one week after the first letter, nor earlier than three weeks before the day of application to the court.

5. Commissioner to make careful inquiry before issuing order; and require production of books, &c. and creditor's attendance.—That the Commissioner, before issuing such order, shall be careful in examining into the reality of the debt alleged to be due, and into its nature and consideration; and shall, for that purpose, require of the creditor demanding such order, the production of such books and papers and writings as may be necessary to evidence the reality of the debt; and shall also require the personal attendance of the creditor, or, in cases where the debt is alleged to be due to more persons than one, of one of such creditors, unless under special circumstances he shall think fit to dispense with such attendance.

6. Debtor to be brought immediately before the commissioner, with liberty to shew cause against arrest. Doubtful case to be left to law. Commissioner may discharge or order bail.—That as soon as the alleged debtor shall be taken under such writ of capias, he shall be brought forthwith before a Commissioner of the Court of Bankruptcy, and shall be at liberty to shew either that the debt or any part thereof is not due, or that there is so much doubt about the reality of the debt as that the creditor ought to be left to establish his right in the proper court of justice before being permitted to issue a capias against the debtor; and for such purpose shall have liberty to examine the person or persons at whose instance the capias issued, and to produce such books, papers, and writings as he may think necessary to explain his case, after which the Commissioner may either discharge the party arrested, or order him to give bail, with two sufficient sureties, in such sum as shall appear to the Commissioner to be actually due, for the payment of such sum as may thereafter be adjudged to be due, pursuant to such judgment when made.

7. Debtor to be released on payment into court.—That the party arrested shall be entitled to his discharge on payment into court of any sum for which the Commissioner shall order him to give bail.

8. Or on filing declaration of insolvency: or petitioning as insolvent debtor.—That the party arrested shall be released, if, being a person liable to the bankrupt laws, he shall have signed or shall sign a declaration of insolvency, pursuant to an Act passed in the fifth and sixth years of her Majesty, intituled "An Act for the Amendment of the Law of Bankruptcy;" or if not being a person liable to the bankrupt laws, he shall have presented or shall present a petition for relief pursuant to certain Acts passed in the fifth and sixth years, and seventh and eighth years of her Majesty, intituled, respectively, "An Act for the Relief of Insolvent Debtors," and "An Act to amend the Law of Insolvency, Bankruptcy, and Execution."

such asylum. Justices may appoint the same committee for two asylums.—And whereas by the said Act provision is made that in certain cases therein specified more than one asylum shall be erected or provided in a county or borough, and it hath been doubted whether a separate committee of justices should be appointed in reference to every such asylum; be it declared and enacted, that the true intent and meaning of the said Act is, that a separate committee of justices be appointed in every such county or borough for every such asylum, each of which committees shall have all the powers and be subject to all the provisions of the said Act, with regard to the asylum for which it is appointed, as if it were the only asylum for that county or borough provided always, that it shall be lawful for the justices of the county or borough, if they shall think fit, with the approval of one of her Majesty's principal secretaries of state, to appoint the same committee for two or more such asylums.

8. For recovering money under orders made by justices under provisions of 9 Geo. 4, c. 40.—That all the powers and remedies given by the said Act of the last session of Parliament, and the provisions therein contained for recovering money ordered by justices of the peace, under the provisions of the same Act, to be paid by the overseers of any parish, shall extend to the recovery of any money which may have been ordered by any justices of the peace under the provisions of an Act passed in the ninth year of the reign of his late Majesty King George the Fourth, intitled "An Act to amend the Laws for the Erection and Regulation of County Lunatic Asylums, and more effectually to provide for the Care and Maintenance of Pauper and Criminal Lunatics, in England," to be paid by the overseers of any parish, and which at the time of the passing of this Act may be due, or may thereafter become due by virtue of any such order.

9. Extending powers of borrowing money.—That the powers given by the said Act to the justices of every such county and to the council of every such borough, to borrow money toward defraying the expenses of carrying into effect the purposes of the said Act, or of any Act thereby repealed, whenever it should appear, as therein provided, that such expenses would exceed the several sums of five thousand pounds, or two thousand pounds, in the several cases therein specified, shall be extended to all cases in which it shall appear to the said justices or council respectively, expedient to borrow money toward defraying such expenses, whether or not it shall appear that such expenses will exceed the sum of five thousand pounds, or two thousand pounds, as the case may be; and such money may be raised in any sum or sums at any rate of interest not exceeding the yearly rate of five pounds in the hundred.

10. Construction of terms.—That the words "furnishing and completing" the asylum, in the said Act, shall be held to include the purchase of clothing sufficient for opening the said asylum for the reception of patients.

11. Act to be construed with 8 & 9 Vict. c. 126.—That this Act shall be construed with and as part of the said Act of the last session of Parliament.

12. Act may be amended, &c.—That this Act may be amended or repealed by any Act to be passed in this session of Parliament.

THE MAGISTRATE.

Summary.

THE only particulars of interest which have offered for this department during the week are given below. We invite attention to a leading article on the subject of the Game Laws, which will be found in another column.

THOUGH extravagant in parts, the following essay on the Police Courts and Police Magistrates of the metropolis, contains many true remarks and useful suggestions; therefore we borrow the article from the Spectator, in whose columns it appeared:—

POLICE-COURT JUSTICE.

There is just now a run of censure on the magistrates of the police courts. Politics are flat and trite, writers are at a loss for piquant topics, and they fly to the standing resource of the police reports. Happy the people whose annals are dull: the annals of the police courts are not dull. Ever and anon the monotony is enlivened by some brilliant misdeed, some amiable act of arbitrary authority, some extra-decorous respect of persons in the magistrate:—

... From Tyndal's ... he knows the difference between a "friend," whom he has met at dinner, and any common person charged with uttering base coin.

It is to be observed, however, that the misconduct alleged against the functionaries is seldom that of violating the law, so much as that of violating substantial justice in the manner of administration. The last complaint is a case in point. A shopman called at an hotel in Leicester-square to duan an inmate, Lord William Paget, for three pounds; Lord William was denied; the young man was obstinate in staying for his money; and, ultimately, Lord William appeared, with menacing language and a knife! The indignant shopman went off to obtain the advice of a magistrate; who told him that he ought not to seek payment by means that tended to a breach of the peace, and advised the young man not to go to the hotel again. The case, therefore, stands thus. A tradesman may ask for his money; but he must not ask for it very much, because the debtor, if "aggravated," might add assault, homicide, or murder, to non-payment. There seems to be something absurd in such a state of the law; but such, it appears, is the law; and Mr. Hardwicke cannot be blamed for declaring it. If he was to blame at all, it must have been for something in his manner, that was understood to imply graver censure of the wronged tradesman than of the person who met a demand for money with bad language and a naked knife.

We suspect that the root of the mischief lies in our Police-Court system as a whole. We form too low an estimate of its requirements: we establish it on a low scale, and must not complain if its fruits are not always exalted. Perhaps no public servant is called upon to perform a more important function in the social polity than the Police Magistrate: he it is, conspicuously, whose duty it is to see justice done between man and man—to curb vice as it raises its hideous head, to check injustice in the bud, to render justice, and preserve the peace. The subject-matter of the disputes that come before him is often trifling, sometimes momentous; but the whole scope and drift of his function is never trifling—it is to watch over the flaws and accidents that mar the smooth working of the huge social engine, and to hinder mischief. The importance of his office is not so much desecrated from what he does actively, as from that which, in consequence of what he does, is prevented from happening. The Police Magistrate, with his subordinates, is the conservator, in daily life, of that vital element in society, the confidence in peace and justice. It is impossible, therefore, to form too high an estimate of the importance of the office.

The men chosen to fill it should, without exception, display certain qualifications. It does not suffice that they should possess a competent knowledge of the law, nor even that they should be honest and respectable and intelligent men: they should be men of imperturbable temper, of a nice sense of justice, and of such comprehensive understanding as would enable them to see in each case, besides the dry law, the substantial merits and the contingent questions; so that by their manner of administering the law they might soften its asperities, strengthen its weaknesses, and supply its defects. The Metropolitan Magistrates often obtain deserved commendation for their behaviour: we believe that on the whole they mean well; but it cannot be said that they always display the qualities necessary for the daily representative of justice—the tutelary guardian of society.

Nor is the choice of magistrates the sole deficiency. The whole machinery of the police courts is of a low order. The subordinate functionaries are to be said without personal disparagement—not of a class to exalt the administration of justice, or to redeem it from the debasing influences with which it comes in contact. The very structure of the court adds to the debasement. They are small and ill contrived—sometimes clumsily manufactured out of private houses. If they attain a pitch of decency, it is as much as they do. In all outward attributes the dignity of the law is starved. Judge, clerk, baristers, witnesses, and prisoner, are huddled together in a coageries of penfolds breast-high. The court is "open," and therefore "the public is admitted," but the space reserved for the said public is so close that few decent people venture into it. The ordinary aspect of a police court is banishing. As the desk lounges a respectable gentleman, the teller takes his case at his inn, or a member of the Commons in committee-room, could not exhibit more indifferent, devil-may-care nonchalance, than his worship. Barristers who have not attained the higher walks of their profession are the "Bar," and smile in the low litigation. Doorkeepers and other subordinates, whose vulgar fustian is tempered by the ennui of irksome routine, are perpetually struggling with the difficulties of keeping the doors quiet and making way where there is no way. And as to the public—that little mass of perpetual motion, humming in the confined space, is responsible by its influence on the atmosphere which open windows cannot conquer. It is impossible for human nature, even in the barrister of 30 many years' standing, to resist the depressing effects of these untoward circumstances. Squalor and corruption cannot but infect the very air he breathes without exercising a nightmare influence on his faculties, his tastes, his self-respect.

Instead of reviling the men, then, it would be much more judicious were we to clean out the Augean stable. Build a "temple of justice" adequate to its purpose, with such space as to place due distance between injured innocence, imprisoned vice, and the majesty of justice; make it possible for the real "public" to be present, without contamination; introduce the best men to represent justice; and then, if they go astray or slumber at their posts, call them to a stern account.

THE LAWYER.

Summary.

It will be seen, on reference to the last "Court Papers" in the present number, that the LORD CHANCELLOR, in consideration of the heavy amount of Bankruptcy business arising in the northern division of the counties of Derby and Nottingham most distant from Birmingham, and the heavy expense added upon estates of bankrupts by the necessary attendance of parties concerned in their settlement at the court in Birmingham, has ordered that the Birmingham District Bankruptcy Court hereafter hold sittings at Nottingham, and that one of the official assignees of the court do in future reside at least hold his place of business, at Nottingham. This will be found of great convenience to the Profession in the neighbourhood of Nottingham, and is at the same time a boon to the creditors and other parties interested in the estates of Bankrupts.

The Attorney-General has declined, and the Solicitor-General accepted, the puisse judgeship, vacant by the death of Mr. Justice WILLIAMS. Now, although as regards the competency, integrity, and distinguished attainments of the Solicitor-General, the public has every reason to be satisfied with this appointment, we cannot forbear expressing our belief that if the Government had nobly made a concession to a political opponent by offering the judgeship to Sir FREDERICK THESIGER, who, by the manner in which he conducted the duties of his late office of Attorney-General, won golden opinions from all ranks and parties, it would have been received by the Profession and the public at large with yet greater satisfaction than the offer of it to any—even the most deserving Lawyer, in silk or stuff, who treads the courts of Westminster Hall. Precedents of concessions of this nature there are enough, and even of officials, who possessing a claim to the offer of such an appointment, have generously waived it in favour of a displaced rival, especially where no serious risk of loss of emolument or standing was likely to accrue to the conceder. It is rumoured—upon how good an authority we cannot say—that Mr. ROMILLY will succeed Mr. DUNDAS as Solicitor-General.

REVIEW OF CASES DECIDED IN ALL THE COURTS OF COMMON LAW.

BANKING COMPANY.

Notice to shareholders, is not notice to the company.—The most important question of the relative position of partners in a joint stock bank with reference to the doctrine of notice, has been distinctly decided for the first time in a court of law by the Common Pleas, in Powles v. Page, 7 Law T. 247; 15 L. J. 217.

The facts were as follows:—One Dixon was a shareholder and director of a joint stock bank, and attended the weekly meetings of the Board; but his being a director gave him no management or right of interference in the banking accounts, which, together with the business of the bank, were managed by the manager. Dixon was also member of a copartnership which had opened an account with the bank, and of which the defendant was also at that time a member; the defendant having afterwards retired from the copartnership, and having given no notice to the bank of his retirement, and the copartnership having become indebted to the bank, it was held that the defendant was liable to the bank for the debts of the copartnership, and that Dixon's knowledge of the defendant's retirement was not an actual or construed notice of that fact to the bank.

If the old doctrine of notice to one partner being notice to all had applied, the defendant would not have been liable. The Court took time to consider, and then held, as had already been intimated by Parke, B. in Steward v. Dunn, 12 M. & W. 664, that a joint stock banking company established under 7 Geo. 4, c. 46, and 1 & 2 Vict. c. 96, made perpetual by 5 & 6 Vict. c. 85, and suing in the name of a public officer, is not to be considered as an ordinary copartnership, but a quasi corporate body, and that such joint stock company is not affected by that which may be known to its individual members. The fact that Dixon was a director did not make any difference, as the case found that he had no management or interference in the banking accounts. The principle of this decision will, of course, apply to a great variety of cases arising between banks and other joint stock companies.

BANKRUPTCY.

Power of Commissioners—Committal of Bankrupts.—The similarity of the powers given by the recent Small Debts Act, to commit parties not giving satisfactory answers to those possessed by the Bankruptcy Commissioners, render decisions upon the latter subject of more general importance than they otherwise would be. (Ex parte Ward, 1 B. C. R. 126; 15 L. J. 233, Q. B.; and Ex parte Bull, 1 B. C. R. 141; 15 L. J. 235, Q. B.) The former, decided by Coleridge, J. the latter, by Wightman, J. shew the mode in which the warrant should be drawn, and hence the reasons which would justify its being issued. In both these cases it was held sufficient that after the questions and answers had been set out, the warrant should state that the "said answers are not, nor are any of them, satisfactory to me, the said Commissioner," although there were some answers which were manifestly unobjectionable when taken alone. It is always necessary that the questions and answers should be set forth; and it would appear, from these cases, that if the Court can see, upon the whole, that the bankrupt answered in an unsatisfactory manner, the warrant would be upheld.

Oath.—It should, however, be observed, that a bankrupt cannot be committed for unsatisfactory answers taken upon oath, as 8 and 9 Vict. c. 48, which substitutes a declaration for an oath, is imperative. (Ex parte Ramsden, 1 B. C. R. 133; 15 L. J. 234, Q. B.) But such declaration need be made, only at the commencement of the examination, and not repeated at the subsequent examinations. (Ex parte Bull.)

Rules under 5 & 6 Vict. c. 122.—It is to be borne in mind that in bringing any of the proceedings of the Bankruptcy Court before the courts at Westminster, the rules, &c. made under 5 & 6 Vict. c. 122, must, if requisite, be brought specifically before them, or they cannot take judicial notice of them. (Ex parte Ramsden, ibid.)

Reputed possession—Fraudulent purchase by bankrupts.—The doctrine of reputed possession is much elucidated, and a new and important point decided by the case of Load v. Green, 7 Law T. 114; 15 L. J. 113, Ex. The bankrupt had fraudulently purchased goods on the 1st of July of the plaintiffs, without any intention of paying for them. On the 4th they were delivered, and upon the 8th they were seized by his assignees under a fiat upon an act of bankruptcy subsequent to the 6th. The vendors brought trover, and their right to recover hinged upon whether the goods could be said to be in the reputed possession of the bankrupt by their consent and permission. As fraud vitiates all contracts, the plaintiffs could have brought trover against the bankrupt (see Earl of Bristol v. Willemerre, 1 B. & C. 514); but no decision as to the effect of the bankruptcy statutes can, we believe, be found. Mr. Baron Parke, in delivering the elaborate judgment of the Court, after commenting upon the cases bearing upon it, proceeds to explain the meaning of the statute so well that we give the passage at length:—

The meaning of this statute was well explained by Lord Redesdale, in Joy v. Campbell, 1 Scho. & Lef. 336. In construing the analogous Irish Act, his lordship says, it refers to chattels, "where the possession, order, and disposition is in a person who is not the owner, to whom they do not properly belong, and who ought not to have them, but whom the owner permits, unconsciously as the Act supposes, to have such order and disposition. The object was to prevent deceit by a trader from the visible possession of property to which he was not entitled; but in the construction of the Act, the nature of the possession has always been considered, and the words have been construed to mean possession of the goods of another, with the consent of the true owner." In order, therefore, to bring the case within the statute, there must be the real owner, distinct from the apparent one; the real owner must consent to the apparent ownership, as such; but, in this case, the plaintiffs never did consent to the apparent ownership as such; they never contemplated permitting the bankrupt to obtain a credit by means of possession and ownership of the property which really did not belong to him; they intended to part with the property itself, and to divest themselves altogether of all right to it; and although, in consequence of the bankrupt's fraud upon them, they had the right to annul the contract, and again to become the real owners, that right they did not exercise until after the bankruptcy, and, consequently, at the time of the act of bankruptcy, on which the title of the assignees depends, the bankrupt was not apparent owner, but real owner, and the statute does not apply.

It is therefore established that a bankrupt cannot, by fraudulently possessing himself of goods, render them available to the payment of his creditors under a fiat upon a subsequent act of bankruptcy. That they would not be available, under a fiat upon a prior act of bankruptcy, whether obtained fraudulently or not, is also decided in this case (see the judgment), and by Fawcett v. Fearn, 6 Q. B. 261, for at the "time he becomes a bankrupt" means at the time of committing the act of bankruptcy. This case, and the observation of Pollock, C. B. suggests still further doubt upon the correctness of Parker v. Patrick, 5 T. R. 215, in which the vendee of a party who had obtained goods by fraud was held to have a good title against the owner, although he would not have had such title if the goods had been obtained by felony. (See 2 Saund. 47, n.)

This decision will, of course, give rise to questions in which fraud will be imputed when the insolvent state of the purchaser is discovered, and then will come the difficulty as to the time within which the vendors should rescind the contract after knowledge of the fraud, or of the circumstances from which they seek to infer fraud. The decision, however, plainly accords with the principles of justice.

Subsequent Promise.—Kirkpatrick v. Tattersall, 13 M. & W. 766, supra, iv. 458, established that a bankrupt may bind himself personally to pay a debt in full either before or after his certificate. It is only requisite that the promise be distinct and unconditional, and the usual rule of certum est quod certum reddi potest, will apply equally here. Thus, a letter from the bankrupts, stating that "We shall be happy to pay you the difference of the 100l. after you have taken a dividend upon the estate," and "we hope that you will make yourself comfortable, as we pledge ourselves to make every thing right with you," was held to be an unconditional promise to pay whatever remained due after the dividend. (Youell v. Cross, 7 Law T. 526.)

BILLS OF EXCHANGE AND PROMISSORY NOTES.

Notice of dishonour in wrong name.—No better instance could perhaps be given of the infinite diversity of circumstances, which raise new points of law, than that in the year 1846 the effect of a notice of dishonour given in a wrong name should remain to be decided. (Harrison v. Ruscoe, 7 Law T. 87; 15 L. J. 110, Ex.) That a notice need not state at whose request it is given, or who is the owner, was held in Woodthorpe v. Lawes, 2 M. & W. 109, and that the holder may avail himself of notice given in due time by any party to the bill, was settled in Chapman v. Keane, 3 A. & E. 193, due time meaning such time as would have enabled the party to give it, if he was suing as a principal, and had not been discharged by the laches of the holder. The facts here were different, but admitted the application of the principle which governed those decisions. The action was on a bill of exchange, drawn by the defendant, payable to his order, and by the defendant indorsed to W. H. Vaughan, and by W. H. Vaughan to the plaintiff. To this the defendant pleaded that there was no notice of dishonour. The bill, which in the body of it was made payable in London, became due on the 24th of April; and on the 26th, an attorney of Chester, who acted for the plaintiff, gave notice of dishonour to the defendant, stating in his letter that he was required by Vaughan to desire payment of the defendant's dishonoured bill; but he swore that he was not authorized by Vaughan to give that notice, and that he gave it in a wrong name by mistake. The only question, therefore, was the effect of this wrong statement. The answer is contained in the following extract from the judgment:—

What then ought to be the result of that mis-information? It is to be recollected, that whether the party is misled or not, as to the person giving notice, the object of a notice was answered by information of dishonour of the bill, and the person to whom notice is given is thereby enabled to withdraw his effects from, or to take his remedy against the prior parties; and we think it reasonable to hold that the misrepresentation of the name of the person on whose behalf notice is given, ought not wholly to avoid the notice, but only to place the party giving it in the same situation as to the party to whom it was given, as if the representation had been true; and therefore the defendant ought to have every defence against the plaintiff, that he would have if the notice had been really given by the party named; and this is in analogy to contracts with factors acting for principals in similar cases, where the contract is avoided by mis-statement. Those cases have been referred to by my brother Alderson, in a judgment just delivered, that the other party has all the equities against the real that he would have against the apparent contractor.

Foreign bills.—The following case deserves a brief notice:—A foreign bill of exchange stated the um to be cent. vintg quatre livres sterling, deux pence. At the top of the bill was written 124l. 0s. 2d. but a line was drawn through this, and at the side was put 122l. 2s. The acceptance was in English "for 122l. 2s." It was held to be rightly declared on as a foreign bill for 122l. 2s. and therefore did not require a stamp. (Amlett v. Bruck, 7 Law T. 256.)

Promissory note.—To render a negotiable instrument liable to an agreement stamp in addition to the ordinary stamp, the words in the instrument must be clearly such as would of themselves be liable, as constituting an agreement or other instrument, subject to the stamp laws. Thus a note containing the following sentence, "And I have lodged with Mr. Thorn the counterpart leases granted by me to A, B, C, D, &c. as a collateral security for the said 500l. (the amount of the note and interest)," was held not to require any other than the usual note stamp. (Fancourt v. Thorn, 7 Law T. 256.)

Meaning of indorsement.—A discussion of the precise meaning of the ordinary traverse of an indorsement would be more lengthy than useful in this summary; but as in Marston v. Allen, 8 M. & W. 494, "to indorse" was held to include a delivery for the purpose of completing the transfer, as well as the mere writing the name upon the instrument, and, as some doubt was thrown upon that case in Hayes v. Caulfield, 5 Q. B. 81, it may be well to mention that the former was adhered to by the Court of Exchequer in Boydell v. Eckstein, 7 Law T. 261, where it was held, that under the plea that the defendant did not indorse, he may give evidence to shew that the bill bearing the indorsements of the drawer of A B and of himself was returned into A. B.'s hands by an arrangement between A. B. and the defendant, the defendant's name being left upon it by mistake, and that the plaintiff took the bill from A. B. with notice of these facts.

CHARTER-PARTY.

Custom of London.—By the custom of the trade in London, a broker procuring a charter-party for a shipowner, is entitled to a commission of 5 per cent. upon the value of the freight provided for in the charter-party, whether the vessel be ultimately loaded according to the charter-party or not, and evidence of this custom may be adduced in an action to recover commission, where the charter-party is not in the ordinary form. (Hill v. Kitching, 7 Law T. 257.)

Broker's commission.—In the same case the meaning of the words "in whose immediate and individual behalf the action is brought," in 6 & 7 Vict. c. 85, was considered. By the custom of the trade, if A, a broker, introduce B, another broker, to a shipowner, in order that a charter-party which B has the power of procuring may be effected with the shipowner, A is entitled to half the commission paid to B by the shipowner in respect of procuring the charter-party. In an action against a shipowner for the commission payable to the broker for effecting such a charter-party under such circumstances, B is the only proper person to sue, and not A and B jointly, and A is a competent witness for B under 6 & 7 Vict. c. 85. The test put by Tindal, C. J. was, he might have had a claim against the plaintiff in respect of a sub-contract relative to the transaction, but he "had no right to put his hand upon the sum recovered." He was neither the formal nor substantial plaintiff.

CHEQUE.

When to be presented.—An attempt was made in Robinson v. Hawkesford, 7 Law T. 204, to maintain that the drawer of a cheque was freed from his liability from the simple fact that a delay had occurred in its presentation, he having been in no ways injured. The Court, however, expressed at once their most decided opinion, that no delay would have that effect, unless some loss or injury had occurred to the drawer in consequence.

CLERGY.

Toleration Acts.—The importance of the principle involved in Barnes v. Shore, 7 Law T. 110, merits a passing notice, although it will probably not be of much practical influence. It decides that by the law of England a person once admitted into holy orders cannot free himself from his vows of canonical obedience, and will not be protected by the Toleration Acts if he is sued for any offence against these laws within his diocese. He is protected against nonconformity, and that only, but not against disobedience to his bishop. It is easy to see that this might be used as a great engine of oppression, but a rigorous exercise of their powers by the bishops would soon lead to what is especially wanted, a thorough scrutiny, and we need hardly add, great reforms in the Ecclesiastical Courts.

Criticism upon Sermons.—In Gathercole v. Miall, 7 Law T., 15 L.J. 179, Ex. the right of comment upon a sermon preached by a clergyman to his congregation only, and not published, was much discussed. Pollock, C.B. and Parke, B. said that such sermons are not public acts; Alderson, B. and Rolfe, B. however, expressed a contrary opinion.

CONSIDERATION.

Compromise of indictment.—The whole law upon the validity of agreements to compromise indictable offences was examined in Keir v. Leeman, 6 Q. B. 308, and that case having now been affirmed in error upon very satisfactory reasoning, it may be said that so far as what is there decided, there is no room to doubt. As it will be seen, from the passage presently quoted, it is possible that the supposed validity of an agreement not to prosecute a common assault, is open to be impeached, but with that exception, the compromise of an indictable offence forming part of the consideration of an agreement, the whole would be void. At the same time, if the money were voluntarily paid upon such consideration, and not extorted by the threat of proceedings, it could not be recovered back in an action for money had and received, according to the maxim, in pari delicto potior est possidentis conditio. The conclusion of the judgment of the Exchequer Chamber is as follows:—

We have no doubt that in all offences which involve damages to the injured party, for which he may maintain an action, it is competent for him, notwithstanding that they are also of a public nature, to compromise or settle his private damage in any manner he may think fit. It is said, indeed, in the case of an assault, he may also undertake not to prosecute on behalf of the public. It may be so, but we are not disposed to extend this any further. In the case before us the compromise was of an assault and riotous obstruction of a public officer in the execution of his duty, and in no case has it been said that it is lawful to compromise a prosecution for such an offence.

It happened in this case that the compromise had been recommended by the judge who had tried the indictment, but this made no difference, as his recommendation could not make what was illegal legal.

Continuing consideration.—The distinctions are somewhat minute between agreements shewing a past and continuing consideration, but from the subject-matter of the agreement (Tanner v. Moore, 7 Law T. 202) ought not to be passed over. The agreement was, "I (the defendant) in consideration of natural love and affection, and in consideration of J. T. having agreed to stay all further proceedings at law against J. B. M. if J. B. M. shall die in the lifetime of his father, will, within six months after his father's death, pay to the said J. T. 165l." And this was held to support a declaration in assumpsit that, in consideration of J. T. agreeing to stay proceedings against J. B. M. if J. B. M. should die in his father's lifetime, the defendant promised, &c.

COSTS.

Against the Crown.—There are not many cases to notice under this head; and the point raised as to the power of the Court of Exchequer to order the costs of an amendment to be paid by the Crown, was not decided, in consequence of the defendant, after the amendment, without payment of costs, having applied for time to plead, and so waived the order. (Attorney-General v. Brown, 7 Law T. 141.)

Of amendment.—The mode in which the order might have been made, is shewn in Summers v. Ogden, 7 Law T. 258. There it was ordered, "that the issue in the cause should be amended," and "that the plaintiff should pay 13s. 4d. costs" to the defendant. It was held, first, that the defendant was entitled to the costs, whether the amendment was made or not; and, secondly, that a demand of the costs having been made, and not complied with, the defendant was justified in making the order a rule of court, and was entitled to the costs of so doing. It should not be forgotten, that for the purpose of obtaining these costs under R. G. May 1840, a refusal by the town agent to pay the costs, upon demand, entitles the other party to make the order a rule of court. (Thompson v. Billing, 11 M. & W. 361.) An improper refusal of the town agent would probably render him liable to an action. We have already noticed the Bill of the country attorney for the acts of his town agent.

Costs of remanet.—According to Robinson Day, 5 B. & Ad. 814, where a new trial is granted on payment of costs in a town cause, the costs occasioned by the cause being made a remanet are included; but this was expressly overruled by the Court of Common Pleas, after consulting the six judges. (Bentley v. Carver, 7 Law T. 84.) See costs are costs in the cause, and only the costs of the day are payable upon a new trial. It is to be remembered, that although there are certain recognised usages as to the payment of costs, giving or withholding them on motions for a new trial is entirely in the discretion of the Court.

Of remanet when plea is afterwards withdrawn.—If, after a cause is made a remanet, a plea is substituted, and a verdict obtained by the defendant upon it, and for the plaintiff upon other pleas, a plaintiff will be entitled to all the costs upon those pleas, up to the cause being made a remanet, for upon the record at that time the plaintiff must have succeeded. (Walker v. Blacklock, 7 Law T. 342.)

Costs upon stay of proceedings.—A novel question arose in Lipcombe v. Turner, 7 Law T. 114. The creditors of a deceased party filed a creditor's bill, and a receiver was appointed, but remained from bringing any action without the assent of the Master to whom the suit was referred. It became necessary to sue a debtor to the estate, and for that purpose steps were taken to procure the assent of the Master. The action was afterwards stayed upon the undertaking of the defendant to pay the debt and costs to be taxed as between attorney and client. The costs of obtaining the Master's consent to sue were held not to be due upon this order. They did not arise necessarily out of the action, and if intended to have been paid, the order should have specially provided for them.

Expenses of detaining witnesses.—The courts of common law allow, from the necessity of the case, examinations upon interrogatories; but that such a proceeding is by no means exonerat upon either party is illustrated by Evans v. Walton, 7 Law T. 259. The defendant had obtained an order for putting off a trial from one assizes to another, and afterwards obtained an order to stay the action upon payment of a certain sum and costs. The plaintiff was held entitled to the cost of detaining a witness in England from the time of the postponement until the time of settling the action, even though he had obtained an order to examine the witness upon interrogatories, which order he had declined to set upon. As Maule, J. very justly observed, the parties ought to be allowed with some liberality to exercise a bond fide judgment, whether the same effect is likely to be produced by interrogatories as by a voir dire examination. Certainly, as far as our experience has afforded us opportunities of judging, interrogatories are generally very unsatisfactory materials for the jury to form their opinion.

Indorsement upon writ.—If more costs are claimed upon the writ than are due, the proper course for the defendant is to pay the whole, and then apply for taxation. If less is paid, although more than is actually due, and the plaintiff's attorney proceeds with the action, the Court will not compel the plaintiff's attorney to pay the defendant's costs subsequent to the payment. (Hopkinson v. Flanagan, 7 Law T. 112.) We may conclude this head by noticing the rule of practice adopted in Brewer v. Watson, 7 Law T. 259, that where a judge's order is obtained to stay proceedings until a given day in Term, application may be made to review taxation; if the Court grant a rule nisi they will stay proceedings until cause shewn, even though no direct notice of the motion has been given. This is reasonable, for the fact of the proceedings being stayed is sufficient notice of the motion. Nothing is more common, at least in the Exchequer, than to hear applications made, including stay of proceedings, and refused as to the latter, because notice of the intended motion has not been given.

COUNTY COURT.

Jurisdiction as to freehold.—As the courts to be established under the Small Debts Act resemble much the County Courts, and sec. 58 excepts any question relating to title of corporeal or incorporeal hereditaments, Finniswood v. Pattison, 7 Law T. 229, should be noted, as it may be held to apply to these courts. It confirms most fully the old case of Cannon v. Smallwood, 3 Lev. 224, and establishes that the County Court cannot hold further cognizance of any matter in which the freehold is directly or collaterally brought in question. The defendant in replevin made cognizance as bailiff of the mayor, aldermen, and citizens of York, whose soil and freehold the close was. The plaintiff traversed the taking by him as bailiff, and, therefore, on the pleadings, the freehold was admitted to be in the mayor. The Court of Common Pleas, upon writ of false judgment, held that as soon as the cognizance was made the County Court lost its jurisdiction, just the same as when a modus is pleaded in a question of tithes in the Ecclesiastical Court.

Court Baron.—As to the proper description of this court, and of the proceedings, see Brown v. Gill, 7 Law T. 87.

CORPORATION.

Liability on contracts not under seal.—After our Summary of Hilary Term, the report of Paine v. The Guardians of the Strand Union, 6 Law T. 432, 453; 15 L. J. 89, M.C., was published, and we therefore mention it here, together with Sanders v. Guardians of St. Neots, 7 Law T. 111; 15 L. J. 104, M.C., the one being a negative, and the other an affirmative illustration of the same rule, viz. that corporations are not liable upon contracts not under seal, subject to the exceptions, of matters so constantly recurring, or of so small an importance, or so little admitting of delay, that ordinary convenience dispenses with the seal, or contracts necessarily incident to the purposes and objects of the corporation. (See judgment and cases cited in Paine v. Strand Union.) In that case the Poor Law Commissioners, upon the representation of the board of guardians of the union made at the request of the parish officers of C. one of the Strand Union, ordered the guardians to have a survey and plan made of the parish of C. for the purpose of the stat. 6 & 7 Wm. 4, c. 96. The board of guardians contracted under seal with the plaintiff to execute the survey and plan for 500l. After its completion they verbally ordered him to prepare a reduced plan as a key to the larger plan. It was executed accordingly and delivered to the board of guardians. It was held, that the contract for the reduced plan was not incident to the purposes for which they were incorporated, and therefore not binding on them, without their seal.

In the other case, the guardians defended an action brought for gates erected at the workhouse, upon a verbal order given through one of their officers. The jury found expressly that they were necessary, and the Court of Queen's Bench refused a rule nisi for a new trial, upon this ground principally, mentioning, however, in addition, that the gates had been received, and the contract adopted, by the defendants. As to contracts with Joint Stock Companies under 7 & 8 Vict. c. 110, see the 44th section of that Act.

Liability to indictment.—Reg. v. North of England Railway, 7 Law T. 468, appears to be the first case in which an indictment has been held to be against a corporation for a misfeasance, but that it is so liable follows of necessity from the decisions that it is liable in trespass, and upon indictments for nonfeasance.

DEVISE.

Meaning of "moiety."—The devise of "my moiety" carries with it the interest the devisor took in the subject-matter; thus, the testator being seised in fee of one moiety of a house, devised "my moiety of the house which my son Richard lives in" to my son Richard, which passed the fee, and not a life estate merely. (Doe dem. Atkinson v. Fawcett, 7 Law T. 283.)

In manner aforesaid.—It is often difficult to determine the antecedent intended by these words of reference, and Doe dem. Woodall v. Woodall, 7 Law T. 322, is, therefore, given here as an illustration. Thomas Morgan by his will, after having devised real estates to his grandson, T. L., with remainder in strict settlement to his issue, devised the same to his (testator's) grandchildren, William, Samuel, Alice, and Hannah, if they should happen to be living at the time of decease of T. L., "for and during the term of their natural lives, and the life of the survivor of them," as tenants in common, with remainder "to all and every the son and sons of the body or bodies of his the testator's said grandchildren 'lawfully to be begotten, and the respective heirs of the body and bodies of all and every such son and sons lawfully issuing,' remainder in tail in like manner to all the daughters of the testator's said grandchildren. There was then the following clause: "And in case either of my grandchildren, William, Samuel, Alice, Hannah, shall happen to die, leaving no issue behind him, her, or them, then my will and meaning is, that all and singular the premises herein lastly devised shall go and remain to the survivor of them, and the heirs of his or her body, lawfully to be begotten in manner aforesaid." It was held that the words "in manner aforesaid," in the last clause, referred to the preceding clause of the will, and that, therefore, the said grandchildren of the testator took only life estates under the will.

EJECTMENT.

A husband may maintain ejectment against his wife.—The somewhat strange case of a husband bringing an action of ejectment against his wife occurred for the first time in Doe dem. Merigan v. Daly, 7 Law T. 160, and the Court of Queen's Bench decided that it would well lie. It was urged that the legal notion of husband and wife being one person was a bar to such a proceeding, and that the plaintiff on the record being John Doe was only a legal fiction, which should not do injustice,—in actione juris semper existit equitas; but the Court seemed to think that that maxim cut both ways, and that the fiction here prevented the technical objection of the unity of husband and wife working injustice.

Devise by executor.—Each executor has the entire interest in his testator's estate, and therefore a devise by two out of three co-executors is good. (Doe dem. Stace v. Wheeler, 7 Law T. 231.)

By parish officers.—There is no distinction between ejectment and other actions, as to the rule that proof of acting as a public officer is sufficient prima facie proof that the party is such officer duly appointed. (Doe dem. Bowley v. Barnes, 7 Law T. 139.) The Court of Exchequer had, a short time previously, decided the same point in Ganvill v. Utting, 9 Jur. 1081.

EVIDENCE.

Proceedings in Chancery.—The famous Angel case is now, according to Lord Deaman, C. J. perfectly dead and lifeless, but to the end of its long career it furnished discussions and decisions upon all sorts of points. The last is that reported 7 Law T. 81, where the claimant of the last portion of the Surrey property sought to submit his case for a third time to a jury, on the ground that evidence had been improperly rejected. The case turned upon whether one Thomas Angel, from whom the claimant was descended, married at Evesham, was the Thomas Angel, the caterer, clearly descended from the first purchaser of Crowhurst. A copy of the Evesham register was put in, and shewed the burial of that Thomas Angel, with the addition of "descended from Crowhurst." It was proposed to put in a bill in Chancery, filed by the mother of that Thomas Angel, the caterer alone, to shew that the partnership between them, which had previously existed, had been dissolved, and also another bill and answer in which a member of the same family was defendant, as declarations as to the condition in life of that family. Both these were held to have been properly rejected, the bill being no evidence whatever of a fact, for it is the mere statement of counsel, and the other bill and answer were declarations by strangers, and this was not a question of pedigree, but of identity. (See The Wharton Peerage case, 12 Cl. & Fin. 295.)

Answer in Chancery.—An important question to professional men was settled in Wilkins v. Nokes, 7 Law T. 112, it being there held that an answer in Chancery cannot be used as evidence of any fact stated therein, against the solicitor to the defendant who filed it.

Parol evidence, explaining written contracts.—Parol evidence being admissible to explain the meaning of a term used in a contract according to the usage of the particular trade or custom of the locality, it is useful to observe the distinctions which decide the admissibility of such evidence. Thus, Smith v. Jeffreys, 7 Law T. 231, and Grant v. Madox, 7 Law T. 187, illustrate the principle. In the former case, evidence was not admissible to shew that in a contract for "Ware" potatoes, the parties meant "Regent's Wares" because, "Ware" had a definite meaning, viz. the best of any particular sort, and to confine it to one particular sort, would be to contradict the written contract. But in the latter case, evidence was admissible to shew that in a written contract with the manager of a theatre, the terms being so much "a week," the word week meant weeks when the theatre was open, such being the accepted usage of the theatrical world. To put it in another form, in the first instance, no one in the trade would have understood the contract, as it was sought to be construed; whereas in the latter, every one conversant with the theatrical profession would have so understood it.

Proceedings in Insolvent Court.—Many recent statutes make the official copies of "proceedings" in various courts evidence—as, for instance, the 1 & 2 Vict. c. 110, s. 105, relating to the Insolvent Court. This word includes the retainer of an attorney filed in the court, and the copy was held admissible in an action for fees for passing the defendant through the court. (Bowen v. Hodges, 7 Law T. 91.)

Manorial rights.—Evidence of reputation is admissible as to manorial rights or boundaries, where the manor is a reputed manor only, as much as where it is an existing manor. (Doe dem. Molesworth v. Sleeman, 7 Law T. 252.)

Secondary evidence of contents of documents.—Few questions are oftener discussed at Nisi Prius than the admissibility of secondary evidence of the contents of documents, which are not forthcoming. The sufficiency of the search is the turning point of each case. The principle which should guide the judge was much discussed in the recent case of Gathercole v. Miall, 7 Law T.; 15 L. J. 179, Ex.; and we give at some length the opinions of Pollock, C.B., and Alderson, B. as having a general application. The Lord Chief Baron said:—

I think the evidence of a document being lost upon which secondary evidence may be given of its contents may vary very much, according to the paper itself, the custody it is in, and all the surrounding circumstances of the peculiar matter before the court and jury. A paper of considerable importance which is not likely to be permitted to perish may call for a more extended and minute and accurate search than that which may be considered almost as waste paper, which nobody would be likely to take care of, and might, I think, be considered to be lost, so as not to be produced before a court and jury, where, after a search in the first instance at the place where it was likely to be found it is not discovered there, we cannot suggest any one place where it is more likely to be than another.

Mr. Baron Alderson said:—

I think the search should be such as should induce the judge to come to the conclusion, and the Court afterwards, on revising his opinion, to come to the same conclusion, that there is no reason to suppose that the omission to produce the document itself arose from any desire of keeping back, and that there has been reasonable opportunity of producing it which had been neglected. Now the question whether there has been a loss, and whether there has been sufficient search, must depend very much on the nature of each instrument searched for, and I put the case in the course of the argument on the back of a letter. It is quite clear a very slender search would be sufficient to shew that a document of that description had been lost. If we were speaking of an envelope in which a letter had been received, and a person said "I have searched for it among my papers; I cannot find it," would be sufficient.

Mr. Baron Rolfe entirely acquiesced in the above grounds upon which the secondary evidence at the trial had been admitted by Mr. Baron Parke, and the facts which led to the motion are an instructive instance of the principle above laid down. The action was for a libel in a newspaper, and a witness stated that he was president of a literary institution having eighty members; that about the date of the paper proved, one was brought (he could not say by whom) to the reading-room, and left there gratuitously; that a fortnight after it was taken away without his authority, and never returned; that he had searched for it but could not find it, and believed it to be lost or destroyed; that the title of it was the same as that proved, and, as far as he could judge, it contained the libel in question, and he believed it was a copy of that paper. He was not cross-examined, and the secondary evidence was held to have been rightly admitted.

The same general principle was laid down last year in Reg. v. Kenilworth, 2 New Sess. Cas. 66; the question being whether the sessions had rightly admitted secondary evidence of an indenture. The Court held, that they had acted properly, and Coleridge, J. commenced his judgment thus:—

I am of the same opinion. The case has been argued on a principle which is not the true test. It is not a strict rule as applicable to pleadings, or to the proof of actual facts, but rather a preliminary inquiry, for the purpose of satisfying the judicial part of the Court, whether they should go into the proof of facts. Therefore of necessity a somewhat loose rule must be adopted. The object is not to prove actually that the documents lost, but that there should be sufficient evidence of a bona fide honest search, so as to shew that it is not kept back. No doubt different rules may prevail according to circumstances.

It was further held in the principal case that there was evidence for the jury that the paper so sent to the institution was a copy of that which contained the libel; and thirdly, that though sent by a person unknown it was evidence against the defendant not to shew malice, but to affect the damages by shewing the extent of circulation.

EXECUTION.

Two important cases call for remark under this head of practice. The first is upon the Liability of married women to arrest.—The legality of the practice of discharging a married woman arrested upon a judgment against herself and her husband, when she has no separate property, was spoken of as doubtful in a considered judgment of the Court of Exchequer, in Rayner v. Jones, 7 Law T. 406, as being an interference by a judge with the clear common law rights of the successful party. However this may be, in the same case it was decided, that upon a judgment in an action brought against her, dum sola, and pending which she married, the creditor has a right to take her in execution, and keep her in custody, and an order of Rolfe, B. discharging her from custody was set aside, and the sheriff directed to retake her.

Effect of landlord claiming rent before sale, under a fi. fa.—Curiously enough, the true construction of 8 Ann. c. 14, s. 1, as to the legal effect of a landlord claiming rent, after an execution put in upon the demised premises, had never been absolutely decided, until the recent case of Cocker v. Musgrove, 7 Law T. 254. The practice very commonly has been, if the value of the goods has appeared insufficient to pay the rents, for the sheriff to withdraw, but if it appeared sufficient, for him to sell, and after satisfying the landlord, hand over the surplus to the execution creditor. This last practice was strengthened by the decision of the Court of Exchequer in Davies v. Edmonds, 12 M. & W. 31, that the sheriff had a right to his fees upon the produce of the sale, it being assumed in the argument that he was "bound to levy for the rent." The bare question of law, however, came under the consideration of the Court of Queen's Bench in the principal case. It was an action for a false return, the alleged falsehood consisting in the allegation that "there were no goods whereof the sheriff could levy." Upon the pleadings it was admitted that, after the execution put in, the landlord had given notice of rent being due, and the jury found, as a fact, that had a levy taken place, both the rent and the plaintiff's executions, as well as several others, would have been paid. At the trial, the counsel for the defendants unsuccessfully contended that the plaintiff ought to be nonsuited, but a motion for new trial was granted upon the point, and the rule, after a considerable delay, ultimately made absolute. As nearly all the cases are cited in our report of the argument, we do not therefore refer to them here, but only state the result, viz, that unless the execution creditor pays the landlord after notice, the sheriff cannot, however great the disproportion between the amount of the rent and the value of the goods, be called upon to sell the goods. It seems to follow, from this, that if he does sell, he cannot claim poundage upon the amount paid over to the landlord, for it is not in the performance of his duty. Further, it seems to follow, that, by such sale, he would render himself liable to an action at the suit of the debtor, who would thereby have been deprived of the statutory protection given to him in respect of a sale under a distress for rent, and might have been actually damaged, as well as suffering the legal injury. We believe, in consequence of the comments upon this decision in the pamphlet by Mr. Keane, upon the Small Debts Act (see supra, 461), the 107th sect. was inserted, by which the stat. of Anne is declared not to apply "to goods taken in execution under that Act;" but that section has by no means left the matter free from difficulty. It will be seen, at once, that it is not enacted which of the claimants is to have the preference, the landlord or the execution creditor: and while the provision that, notwithstanding a replevin, the execution is to be satisfied, points to the creditor having the preference, yet, on the other hand, the general language of the section points to the landlord. For, if not, what does the clause mean? To say that the bailiff may detain for both, would then only be saying that the landlord might make him his bailiff for the distress—rather a needless enactment. But, again, the landlord's right extends to all goods upon the premises, yet could the bailiff, under this section, detain upon such goods? However, there is the section, litera scripta manet, until the next session, when it is, of course, to be amended!

FEIGNED ISSUES.

8 & 9 Vict. c. 102, ss. 18, 19.—Upon a cursory perusal of 8 & 9 Vict. c. 109, the inference would be that feigned issues in the ordinary form were no longer to be used. The marginal note of the 19th section is "Proceedings under feigned issues abolished," and the words in the 18th section, that rendering suits illegal "for recovering any sum of money alleged to be won upon any wager," seem to point to such a proceeding. But in Luard v. Bulcher, 7 Law T. 86, the Court of Common Pleas decided that the 19th section was only an enabling, and not a compulsory clause; and that, consequently, the old form of the feigned issue may still be used.

GUARANTEE.

Consideration.—A guarantee in these words is insufficient, as not shewing that the consideration was a future supply of goods:—"I will see you paid for five or ten pounds' worth of leather on Dec. 6, for T. Lewis, shoemaker." (Price v. Richmond, 7 Law T. 186.)

FALSE REPRESENTATION.

The correctness of the doctrine laid down in Evans v. Collins, 5 Q. B. 804 (see supra, 5, 399), that fraud must co-exist with falsehood, to render the false statement actionable, has not hitherto been impeached in the House of Lords, and will, we doubt not, be upheld by that tribunal, whenever the question arises. But the recent case of Bailey v. Walford, 7 Law T. 252, shews that the principle does not permit dishonest persons to avail themselves of the credulity of their neighbours to their own advantage. It suffices to shew that the truth was wilfully uttered with a view to the advantage of the party uttering it, and then the person injured, by acting upon such statement, is entitled to his remedy by action.

HABEAS CORPUS.

Rules nisi.—The modern practice of avoiding the expense of actually bringing up the prisoner, is to obtain a rule nisi for the habeas, and if made absolute, the prisoner is discharged. This being so, the case, upon the argument of the rule, is to be treated in the same manner as if the prisoner was brought up upon a habeas in the first instance, and the Court will, therefore, look at any warrant, which might have been returned had the habeas issued, although not in existence at the time the rule nisi was obtained. (Ex parte Bull, 1 B. C. R. 141.)

INSOLVENT.

Final order under 7 & 8 Vict. c. 96.—In no department of legislation is the patchwork system exemplified so strongly as that which affects the rights of debtors and creditors. Always varying, and always obscure, the wonder is that those who suffer in consequence, being the whole commercial community, have not yet succeeded in obtaining a careful revision of the whole system. Toomer v. Gingell, 7 Law T. 230, furnishes a recent instance of this evil, deciding as it does that the final order, under 7 & 8 Vict. c. 96, only protects the person of the insolvent from arrest, and does not bar an action in respect of the very debts which have made him insolvent.

INTERPLEADER.

Liability of Sheriff for a substantive trespass.—An important question was decided in Olliv. Laurie, 7 Law T. 260, as to the extent of protection given to the sheriff by the Interpleader Act. Under an execution against A, the sheriff had entered, as he supposed, the house of A, and seized goods there, but B claimed to be the owner of the goods, and in respect of them proceedings were taken under the Interpleader Act, and B's claim was established. B then brought an action in the Common Pleas of trespass against the sheriff for the entry, alleging that the house was hers, and not the debtor's, any more than the goods. The sheriff then attempted to stop the proceedings by a motion, on the ground that the matter had been disposed of in the Court of Exchequer by the interpleader proceedings. The Court, however, dismissed the application with costs, as it clearly was not within the remedies given by the Interpleader Act that the sheriff should be justified or held harmless for a substantive trespass, in entering a house belonging to a stranger.

LANDLORD AND TENANT.

Notice to quit.—It is daily becoming more common to insert clauses in leases which give to the landlord much greater powers than would arise from the mere relationship between him and his tenant, and enable him to obtain possession of the premises in a more speedy method. The construction of the following clause as to forfeiture should not, therefore, be passed over, although the particular facts need not be detailed. The lease in Doe dem. Jeffkins v. Houston, 7 Law T. 182, contained this clause—"And it is mutually agreed that if it shall happen that the said rent shall be behind and unpaid for the space of twenty-eight days next after any day of payment, then and in that case the said John Jeffkins shall be at liberty to give to the said John Houston three months' notice to quit the said premises, which notice he, the said John Houston, hereby agrees to accept and peaceably deliver up the same pursuant thereto." This was held to override all legal presumptions and implications, and to render any demand of rent unnecessary, as preliminary to the landlord availing himself of this quasi forfeiture clause.

LIEN.

Certificated conveyancer.—In Steadman v. Hockley, 7 Law T. 211, a professional question of some interest was raised, as to the right of a certificated conveyancer to a lien on deeds sent to him and in respect of which business was to be done by him. The Court of Exchequer held that he had no such lien—a decision which will, of course, apply equally to a special pleader. E. W.

THE PRACTICE OF WILLS.

By G. S. ALLNUTT, Esq., Barrister-at-Law.

BOOK II.

PROBATE OF WILLS.

CHAPTER VI.—MODE OF PROOF.

There are two modes of proving a will, viz. in common form and in solemn form, or per testes.

I.—PROOF IN COMMON FORM.

This proof is made by the executor who produces witnesses as to the execution of the will if necessary, but the proof is made in the absence, and without citing the parties interested. The affidavit required of the executor is generally to the following effect:—

You swear that this writing contains the true last will and testament of A. B., deceased, as far as you know or believe, and that you will perform the same by paying his debts, and then the legacies therein contained, as far as his goods, chattels, and credits will thereto extend and the law charge you, and that you will make a true and perfect inventory of all the said goods, chattels, and credits, and exhibit the same into the registry of the Court of , at the time assigned you by the said Court, and render a just account thereof when lawfully required; that the whole of the goods, chattels, and credits of the said deceased does not amount in value to £ , and that the contents of the affidavit hereto annexed, to which you have subscribed your name, were and are true. So help you God.

The affidavit mentioned in the oath is that as to the value of the property, and is usually in the following form:—

In the Prerogative Court of Canterbury.

[Insert the names, residences, titles, or professions of the persons making the affidavit.] Appeared personally, C. D., of, &c. and E. F., of, &c. executors named in the last will and testament [If one or more codicils state so] of the said A. B., late of, &c. deceased, and made oath [in the case of Quakers, solemnly affirmed] that the said deceased died or about the day of , in the year of our Lord , and that the estate and effects of the said deceased, which he in any way died possessed of or entitled to, and for or in respect of which a probate of the said will is to be granted, exclusive of what the said deceased may have been possessed of or entitled to as a trustee for any other person or persons, and not beneficially [including the beneficial estates for years of the said deceased, whether absolute or determinable on lives] [as the case may be], and without deducting anything on account of the debts due and owing from the said deceased, are under the value of £ , to the best of these deponents' knowledge, information, and belief. [And they lastly made oath that the said deceased was not possessed of or entitled to any leasehold estate or estates for years, either absolute or determinable on lives to the best of these deponents' knowledge, information, and belief] [as the case may be.]

This affidavit is required by the 38th section of the 55 Geo. 3, c. 184, by which it is enacted that "from and after the expiration of three calendar months from the passing of this Act (11 July, 1815,) no Ecclesiastical Court or person shall grant probate of the will or letters of administration of the estate and effects of any person deceased, without first requiring and receiving from the person or persons applying for the probate or letters of administration, or from some other competent person or persons, an affidavit, or solemn affirmation in the case of Quakers, that the estate and effects of the deceased, for or in respect of which the probate or letters of administration is or are to be granted, exclusive of what the deceased shall have been possessed of or entitled to as a trustee for any other person or persons, and not beneficially, but including the leasehold estates for years of the deceased, whether absolute or determinable on lives, if any, and without deducting any thing on account of the debts due and owing from the deceased, are under the value of a certain sum to be therein specified, to the best of the deponent's or affirmant's knowledge, information, and belief, in order that the proper and full stamp duty may be paid on such probate or letters of administration, which affidavit or affirmation shall be made before the surrogate or other person who shall administer the usual oath for the due administration of the estate and effects of the deceased."

By the 39th section of the same Act, it is enacted that "every such affidavit or affirmation shall be exempt from stamp duty, and shall be transmitted to the said commissioners of stamps, together with the copy of the will, or extract, or account of the letters of administration to which it should relate, by the registrar or other officer of the court, whose duty it shall be to transmit copies of wills, and extracts or accounts of letters of administration to the said commissioners for the better collection of the duties on legacies and successions to personal estate upon intestacy; and if any registrar or other officer whose duty it shall be, shall neglect to transmit such affidavit or affirmation to the said commissioners of stamps as hereby directed, every person so offending shall forfeit the sum of fifty pounds."

It is also required by a rule of the Prerogative Court of Canterbury that the time of the death of the testator shall form part of the oath taken by the executors.

By the ancient canon law a proctor having a special proxy might make oath in animam constituentis, instead of the executor or administrator, but now, by the 132nd canon, it is ordered that "forasmuch as in the probate of testaments and suits for administration of the goods of persons dying intestate, the oath usually taken by proctors of courts in animam constituentis, is found to be inconvenient; therefore, from henceforth every executor or suitor for administration shall personally repair to the judge in that behalf, or his surrogate, and in his own person, and not by proctor, take the oath accustomed in these cases. But if, by reason of sickness or age, or any other just let or impediment, he be not able to make his personal appearance before the judge, it shall be lawful for the judge (there being faith first made by a credible person of the truth of his said hinderance or impediment), to grant a commission to some grave ecclesiastical person, abiding near the party aforesaid, whereby he shall give power and authority to the said ecclesiastical person in his stead to minister the accustomed oath above mentioned to the executor or suitor for such administration, requiring his said substitute, that by a faithful and trusty messenger he certify the said judge truly and faithfully what he hath done therein."

It has accordingly been the practice, in case the executor or deponent be infirm or live at a distance, to grant a commission to the clergyman of the parish of the executor or deponent, where he resides in England or Ireland, or to the magistrate, or other competent authority, where the executor or deponent resides elsewhere, to administer the necessary oath.

Where the memorandum of attestation, signed by the witnesses to the execution, shews that all the requisitions of the 1 Vict. c. 26, s. 9, have been complied with, any further evidence upon the subject will generally be dispensed with (See Burgoyne v. Showler, 8 Jur. 814), but where this is not the case, an affidavit must be taken by one or both of the witnesses, either before the ordinary, or by commission, as to the particulars of the execution. The following is the form of affidavit usually adopted in such a case:—

In the Prerogative Court of Canterbury.
In the goods of A B, deceased.

Appeared personally, C D, of, &c. and made oath that he is one of the attesting witnesses to the last will and testament now hereunto annexed of the said A B, late of, &c. deceased, the said will being contained on [describe the paper, &c.] and bearing date the day of . And he further made oath that the said deceased, on the said day of , signed her name at the foot or end of the said will, in manner as same now appears, in the presence of him, the affirmer, and E F, the other attesting witness thereto, both being present at the same time, and that they both signed their names to the said will as attesting the due execution thereof in the presence of the said deceased.

If the will be imperfect in the attestation, or in any other respect, the authenticity or correctness of it must either be supported by sufficient affidavits, or there must be an implied or express consent from all parties interested to the probate being granted. (In the goods of Thomas, 1 Hagg. 695; In the goods of Herne, 1 Hagg. 225; In the goods of Furrill, 1 Hagg. 253; and In the goods of Wenlock, 1 Hagg. 551; see also, In the goods of Feicher, 3 Add. 16; In the goods of Edmonds, 1 Hagg. 698; and In the goods of Adams, 3 Hagg. 258.)

Where an instrument propounded as a will is imperfect on the face of it, and minors are parties interested, probate in common form to which their consent would be necessary cannot generally be obtained, as they are, on account of their minority, unable to give a proxy of consent. (In the goods of Gibbs, 1 Hagg. 376; In the goods of Ross, 1 Hagg. 471; and In the goods of Thomas, 1 Hagg. 697.)

The probate granted by the Ecclesiastical Court contains an engrossed copy of the will and of any affidavits, which from the imperfect state of the will may have been rendered necessary. The following is the form of certificate under the seal of the court, and attached to the copy of the will, &c. issued by the Prerogative Court of Canterbury; this form has the stamp of the amount of duty paid affixed.

William, by divine providence, Archbishop of Canterbury, Primate of all England, and Metropolitan, do by these presents make known to all men that on the day of in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and , at London, before the worshipful John Danbony, Doctor of Laws, Surrogate of the Right Honourable Sir Herbert Jenner Fust, Knight, also Doctor of Laws, Master Keeper or Commissary of our Prerogative Court of Canterbury, lawfully constituted the last will and testament of A B, late of, &c. deceased, hereunto annexed, was proved, approved, and registered; the said deceased having, whilst living, and at the time of his death, goods, chattels, or credits, in divers dioceses or jurisdictions, by reason whereof the proving and registering the said will, and the granting administration of all and singular the said goods, chattels, and credits; and also the auditing, allowing, and final discharging the account thereof, are well known to appertain only and wholly to us, and not to any inferior judge; and that administration of all and singular the goods, chattels, and credits of the said deceased, and any way concerning his will was granted to C D, the sole executor named in the said will, he having been already sworn well and faithfully to administer the same, and to make a true and perfect inventory of all and singular the said goods, chattels, and credits, and to exhibit the same into the registry of our said court, on or before the last day of next ensuing, and also to render a just and true account thereof. Given at the time and place above written, and in the year of our translation.

Sworn under pounds, and that the testator died on the 18

Double probate.—Where there are several executors, and one of them has taken probate in the usual form, with reservation to the rest, the Ecclesiastical Court has granted what is called a double probate to another of the executors. This executor must be sworn in the usual manner, then a second probate is granted to him; but in the second grant the first grant is recited. This is repeated, if more of the executors should come in afterwards. (4 Burn's Eccl. Law, 244.) It should, however, be noticed, that "an executor derives title, not from the probate, but from the will, and a probate granted to one executor enures to the benefit of all." (Webster v. Spencer, 3 Barn. and Ald. 363, per Bayley, J.)

Where a probate is lost, the Court does not grant a second probate, but an exemplification of the first, and such exemplification may be given in evidence. (Shepherd v. Shorthose, 1 Str. 412.)

Limited probate.—Where a testator has limited his executor, the Court will grant a limited probate. 1 Cas. temp. Lee, 280. See also Spratt v. Harris, 4 Hagg. 408.

Will of feme covert.—A will made by a feme covert, in exercise of a power, may be proved without the consent of the husband, the probate being limited to the property comprised in the power. (Tappenden v. Walsh, 1 Phillim. 352; Moss v. Brander, 1 Phillim. 254.)

If the will should be contested, the instrument creating the power must be pleaded in the allegation of the executor, and exhibited. (Temple v. Walker, 3, Phillim. 394.)

The probate being limited to the property comprised in the power, the husband will be entitled to an administration ad admodum. (Bowley v. Stubbington, 2 Cas. temp. Lee, 537; Salmon v. Hays, Hagg. 388.)

NOTICES OF LAW REFORM FOR THE NEXT SESSION.

Mr. Romilly.—To call the attention of the House to the fees paid by the suitors in the various courts, and generally to the mode of defraying the expenses of the administration of justice throughout the country.

Mr. Aglionby.—Bill farther to amend "the Acts for facilitating the enfranchisement of copyhold and customary lands, and for the improvement of such tenure," by providing that such enfranchisement shall be compulsory.

Mr. Ewart.—To move the total repeal of the punishment of death.

Mr. Pusey.—Bill to remove doubts as to the power of owners of settled estates to grant tenant rights on their farms.

Mr. Aglionby.—Bill to amend the Acts to facilitate the enclosure of commons, by providing that all lands allotted under them shall be freehold, whatever the tenure of the lands in respect of which the allotments be made.

Mr. Bright.—Bill to amend the Game Laws.

Mr. Pusey.—Bill to enable occupiers of land to recover damages for injury inflicted by game on their crops.

Mr. Wakley.—Bill to provide for the registration in Great Britain and Ireland of all legally qualified practitioners in medicine and surgery.

Mr. Poulett Scrope.—Bill to exempt from poor-rate the occupiers of tenements under the value of 5l. per annum in rural, and 8l. in town districts, if certified by the medical officer of the district to be well drained and otherwise kept in good sanitary condition.

Mr. Poulett Scrope.—To move resolutions to the effect, that the main principle of English poor-law be extended to Ireland, but relief not limited to admission into a workhouse.

Mr. Ewart.—To move that committees on all private Bills consist of five members, neither personally nor indirectly concerned in the question submitted to their consideration.

Mr. R. Yorke.—To move that the same constitution and regulations now adopted with regard to committees on railway Bills be applied to committees on all private Bills.

[Lords Brougham and Campbell will, no doubt, largely add to this list at the commencement of the session.]

The Lord Chancellor also will very probably bring forward his amendment of the Law of Debtor and Creditor.—Legal Observer.

PROMOTIONS, APPOINTMENTS, ETC.

[Clerks of the Peace for Counties, Cities, and Boroughs will oblige by regularly forwarding the names and addresses of all new Magistrates who may qualify.]

The Queen has been pleased to appoint the Earl of Elgin and Kincardine to be Captain-General and Governor-in-Chief of her Majesty's provinces of Canada, New Brunswick, and Nova Scotia, and of the Island of Prince Edward, and Governor-General of all her Majesty's provinces on the continent of North America, and of the Island of Prince Edward.

The Queen has been pleased to nominate, constitute, and appoint the Right Hon. Sir James Robert George Graham, bart. to be one of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for England, in the room of the Right Hon. Sir George Grey, bart. resigned.

The Queen has been pleased to nominate the Right Hon. Sir George Grey, bart. being one of her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, an Ecclesiastical Commissioner for England.

The Queen has been pleased to direct letters patent to be passed under the Great Seal, granting the dignity of a Knight of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland unto Edward Pine Coffin, esq. Commissary-General of her Majesty's forces.

The Honourable Sir Thomas Wilde, knt. Lord Chief Justice of her Majesty's Court of Common Pleas, has appointed Robert Holyland, of Brierly, near Barnsley, in the county of York, gent. to be one of the Perpetual Commissioners for taking the acknowledgments of deeds to be executed by married women, under the Act passed for the abolition of fines and recoveries, and for the substitution of more simple modes of assurance, in and for the West Riding of the county of York.

COURT PAPERS.

LOCAL BANKRUPTCY COURT, NOTTINGHAM.—In consequence of an application made to the Lord Chancellor by the Solicitors of Nottingham, complaining of the heavy expense attending the District Court of Bankruptcy in Birmingham, an order has been issued by his lordship, of which the following is an extract:—

"Under the circumstances of the case, it appears to me to be expedient that matters of bankruptcy, and petitions for protection from process, arising or to arise within the northern division of the county of Leicester, or within the parts of Kesteven and Holland, in the county of Lincoln, within the southern division of the county of Nottingham, or within the town of Nottingham, or within the southern division of the county of Derby, should be heard and determined at the town of Nottingham. Now I do hereby order that the Court of Bankruptcy for the Birmingham District do hold sittings, except as the Lord Chancellor may otherwise direct, in the town of Nottingham, for the opening or proceeding upon all commissions, flats in bankruptcy already issued, or hereafter to be issued, against any person or persons residing within the divisions, towns, and places aforesaid, and for the receiving of any proceeding upon all petitions for protection from process already presented or hereafter to be presented, by persons residing within the divisions, towns, and places aforesaid, and in all matters preparatory to, or arising under, or in the prosecution of, such commissions, flats, or petitions. And I do further order that one of the Official Assignees of the said District Court of Birmingham do have his place for transacting the business appertaining to his office at the town of Nottingham, at which he shall transact all his business in matters of bankruptcy or petitions for protection from process, by virtue of this order to be transacted at the town of Nottingham."

The above order was read in the Birmingham Court on Saturday last, but Mr. Commissioner Balguy did not fix any day for opening the Court at Nottingham. It is believed, however, that it will take place on or about the 9th of October next. It is not at present intended that either of the Commissioners shall take special charge of the New Court, but that, with the aid of the permanent Official Assignee, they shall preside alternately, or as may be most convenient to them.

LEGAL INTELLIGENCE.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE MR. JUSTICE WILLIAMS.—On Wednesday, the remains of this lamented judge were interred in the Benchers' Vault of the Middle Temple, of which honourable society the learned knight was a member. The service was read by the Rev. Mr. Rowlett, the officiating clergyman in the absence of the Rev. Dr. Robinson, Master of the Temple. In addition to the chief mourners, we observed present—Lord Chief Justice Denman, the Lord Chief Baron (Sir F. Pollock). Justices—Sir J. Patteson, Sir J. T. Coleridge, Sir William Wightman, Sir T. Coltman, Sir C. Cresswell, and Messrs. Cole, Williams, Egan, Humphrey, Bayley, and other members of the equity and common law bar. The coffin of the learned knight was deposited in one of the lower compartments of the vault underneath the coffin of Lord Chancellor Thurlow. The aisle of the church was nearly filled, the public having been freely admitted.

We hear that the Solicitor-General, Mr. Dundas, will be the new judge, in the room of the late Mr. Justice Williams.

THE LIVERPOOL BURGESS LIST.—The Liverpool Times says the number of voters last year was 10,515. The total this year, from the additional burgesses that have been placed on the list by the overseers, is 11,184. The objections this year are, however, much more numerous than they were last year, amounting to 1,700, instead of 800.

CORRESPONDENCE.

COPYHOLDS ENFRANCHISEMENT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE LAW TIMES.

SIR,—As you intimate, in your paper of the 6th, that the above subject will be brought before Parliament next session by Mr. Aglionby, it is to be hoped that gentleman will take up the matter in a true reforming spirit; not as the champion of barbaric feudalism, or the jackal of that overpaid and, in too many instances, over-reaching class, the stewards of manors, but boldly and honestly as the stern and unflinching advocate of justice, improvement, and good-will to man.

It is sufficiently obvious that the existing Enfranchisement Act has altogether failed of effecting that general abrogation of the copyhold and customary tenures which it was expected to superintend, and which alone could have justified so elaborate a piece of legislative mechanism, with its clauses No. 1 to 102 inclusive.

And why this failure? Is it not because the old leaven of the steward has intruded itself, marrying, as usual, by its unwholesome presence, that which were otherwise sound, healthful, and beneficial?

I use the expression "old leaven of the steward," because the interests of that class are so constantly seen and felt as the opposing power to any amelioration of our copyhold system, and yet, strange to tell, are so specially regarded and upheld by the legislature in its professed ameliorative efforts, that one is almost compelled to speak of the thing as of an inviolable lurking agency, rather than in terms applicable to a living and substantial embodiment.

Take, for example, the Act of 55 Geo. 3, c. 192, for dispensing with the surrender to will; here, an acknowledged evil was found to exist, a mischief which called aloud for a simple and straightforward remedy; attached to the continuance of the evil there was a certain emolument accruing to the steward class; one would naturally have supposed, therefore, that, in proceeding to lop off the evil and to bar the consequent emolument, it would have been quite sufficient had a reserve been made of the latter, in favour of the then existing stewards, say for a period of seven years or so, or, at most, during the continuance of such their respective stewardships; but that, in regard to new or future stewards, to those who had never partaken of the emolument, and who, consequently, could not in any sense be considered as deprived thereof, not even dishonestly personified would have been bold enough to put forward the shadow of a claim for compensation; more than thirty years, however, have elapsed, and yet here are her Majesty's dutiful subjects of the present day mulcted of thirteen shillings and fourpence, in every case of admittance on devise, although Mr. Steward has no further trouble on the subject than just to enter in his bill of fees the graceless item of this sec stat: roguey! Who but must hold in deepest contempt the man, or the memory of him, by whom so nefarious an enactment was conceived or penned? More especially, too, when it is borne in mind that, up to that time, the fee could not be charged unless the party chose actually to make a surrender to will, which was by no means constantly done or requisite; so that, in point of fact, our benevolent legislature changed that which was previously precarious into an absolute and positive certainty, and invented this perpetual remuneration for an unperformed service lest stewards then unborn and unthought of should, haply, fall to exact, from the tenant class, a sufficient amount of that filthy lucre towards which our manorial stewards in general are so indifferent!

Pass we on to the Wills Act of 1 Vict. c. 26, s. 4. Here we have one of the most wanton and vicious specimens of blindfold law-making that human ingenuity could well have attempted or imagined; let us assume that, occasionally, so direful a circumstance may have occurred as the death of a surrenderee without having first obtained admittance to his copyhold; perhaps it might be that the steward was too idle to hold his court sufficiently often; but, be that as it may, the surrenderee, we say, had departed this life unadmitted; still "Actus Dei acini facit injuriam," and, though the surrenderee be gone, there is to his heir or devisee ready, and liable to take admittance in place of him. What evil, then, to call for redress—what equity requiring Parliamentary assistance? Had not the lord purchased his manor, had not the steward entered upon his office, each forewarned of and open to these pre-existing incidents? The lower depths of rascality could not have spawned up a base lie than to say that this were a case calling for legislative remedy, in behalf either of the lord or steward, nor is it, in my opinion, any thing short of legalised plunder, when they avail themselves of so flagrant an enactment; the enormity is, indeed, gross, in every point of view, that, whether we look at the lord pocketing his double set of fines arbitrary the Revenue exacting its double stamp duty, or the steward grasping and chuckling over his double set of fees for a single service rendered, it were difficult to conjure up a more perfect scene of statute-born wickedness; and I hesitate not to say, that whoever invented and palmed off this thing as an "amendment of the laws with respect to wills," deserves little other than to be himself shipped off by the first convict vessel bound for Norfolk Island!

Look at the enactment in another point of view:—it is made to apply to cases of devise only, as contradistinguished from those where the party dies intestate; the former are dealt with as objects of disavow and discouragement; the latter, on the contrary, of protection and relief; and this in direct violation of that principle and policy of our laws which has, hitherto, been adapted to the encouragement of testators in making such provident disposition of their property as it is notorious the law would fail to accomplish for them. Under the present provision, however, an unadmitted owner of copyholds, intending to devise them in favour of his eldest son or other customary heir, should be warned on no account so to do, for, sure as fate, the devisee would have to pay double the amount of fine, fees, and duty where he would have been liable, had his ancestor not been foolish enough to make him an express object of testatorial bounty!

Look, again, at those cases where the tenant is by fine certain; a fine, perhaps, of only one penny in amount: will not the lords themselves be absolutely disgusted to see that, under a specious pretext of guarding this small modicum of their interests, a charge is actually enforced, to the amount of some six pounds extra, for steward's fees, without a single iota of service, on the latter's part, to call for an extra farthing?

Is it not monstrous that any thing like this should for a moment disgrace our statute-book? and this, too, under the guise of an "amendment of the laws with respect to wills;" the fact being that, in this respect, it is an Act to multiply the fines and fees, theretofore, in certain cases, payable to the lords and stewards of manors; it is an Act to make lords and stewards cling more fondly than ever to their copyhold predilections; it is an Act to make devisees penal and to hinder enfranchisements; and, to sum up in a few words, it is an Act of insistent injustice, and most consummate fraud.

Let us picture to ourselves a case (and that a very possible one) where the father had just completed his purchase of a copyhold, and, in the course of a week or so, is summoned to that "bourne from whence no traveller returns." He had not been, he had not an opportunity to be, admitted, but he has left the estate, by will, to his eldest son; the disease which carried off the father is contagious, and too soon are symptoms manifested in the son that he also is doomed to be its victim. He is of age, and he, too, makes his will, thereby disposing of the property in favour of an infant child. The hand of death will not be stayed, the grave-yard will not await the court customary, and he (the son) is gathered to the sepulchre of his fathers. At length the court day arrives, and the infant's maternal guardian prays admittance for her hapless and fatherless babe; the steward strokes his chin, the homage are agape with expectation, wondering if it be possible that he is about to forego some portion of his fees upon this mournful occasion; he looks again and again at the statute; again and again are his eyes directed to the fee table; he coughs, he gathers nerve, and, in mystic voices, ejaculates, "It is—it must be so—this case comes within the fourth section of the Act for amending the law of wills; and the effect is, that the fines, fees, and stamp duties will be threefold—once as for an ordinary admittance, and twice for that which our immediate testator must needs have paid as devisee of his unadmitted ancestor: yes—the accumulation is actually threefold, and, however extraordinary it may seem that this should be so, still the facts are clear that such is the law, and whilst the latter remains I must of course act up to it." What in human nature can out-Herod this bold infamy? Would not the veriest den in St. Giles's cry aloud against such withering extortion? Change the scene, however, in only one minute particular: suppose the son to have died intestate, then smiles the law upon his infant offspring; the latter claims not by devise, and it is accounted unto him for righteousness. The infant devisee were an ungracious urchin let off mildly with a triple mulcture; the infant heir is the worthier, the more gladsome object of the law's preference, therefore shall he escape at the single and ordinary fine and charges! This shuts out comment.

Now for the Copholds Enfranchisement Act. What find we in sec. 56? Nothing less than a provision as follows: "That where any compensation shall have been agreed to be paid to the steward, or other officers of the manor, for the loss he or they may sustain by such enfranchisement, which compensation shall in all cases be provided for where a steward shall hold his office by patent or other instrument for the term of his life, or during good behaviour, or where, in the absence of such patent or other instrument, the usage shall have been such as, in the opinion of the said commissioners, to lead to a just expectation that the steward will hold his office during life or good behaviour, the schedule shall contain an apportionment of the sum agreed to be paid." Here, then, we have the cloven foot again poking out, as it were, though stealthily, from beneath the ermine robe. We know, as a fact, that nineteenth-twentieths, at least, of the steward class hold office during the lord's pleasure only. We know, also, that no compos mentis lord of a manor would shackle himself with a predicament whereby he should be controlled against "doing as he likes with his own;" yet here is a provision tending directly to the inference (and to one which the Commissioners have doubtless been ready enough to admit), that "the usage is such as to lead to a just expectation that the steward will hold his office during life." Mr. B. is the steward of Lord A. and the latter is a nobleman who, although entitled in fee, is unlikely ever to dispose of the manors whereof he is owner; hence a "just expectation," on B.'s part, that he will be continued in the stewardship during his lord's life, and hence, also, abundant ground-work for the commissioners to opine the required usage. But how stands the fact? Why, positively that the steward has no claim or tenure beyond that of the lord's mere pleasure; a disagreement arises, and behold! he is no longer steward. The lord chooses to enfranchise (as under the old law), and away go the hopes and precious nest-eggs of Mr. Steward. In the caprice of the moment my lord determines to sell; but, depend upon it, he neither asked nor had the previous consent of Mr. Steward; in other and various modes the like result is seen to ensue, nor has the steward any pretence to remonstrate or even to supplicate against it: Whence, then, the principle that he shall be compensated for rights and privileges which never existed? whence but from the badness of heart in those who concocted the specious enactment, and who, professing to facilitate enfranchisements, actually open up a new source of plunder to those who, strong though they be (in their array of fees and charges), have seldom indeed been signalized for their inclination to the merciful. What unscrupulous audacity, then, is this; what profanation in the very act of doing worship! as if the steward, forsooth, were entitled to fare better in the case of statutory enfranchisement (perhaps only to the most partial and trifling extent), than he would if the lord made an actual sale of the entire manor, or had chosen to enfranchise independently of these amiable provisions!

Ample scope, then, has Mr. Aglionby to distinguish himself, if he will only grapple with the subject according to its actual merits, or, rather, its demerits and its hideousness, and well will he deserve of his country, should he eventually be the means of putting down the old leaves of the steward. I have before me, at the present moment, a steward's bill of fees, on the admittance of a poor widow to her late husband's copyhold estate, value 100*l.*; the steward assured me, and I believe he did so in all sincerity, that these charges were very moderate, the amount (with stamps), being 6*l.* 13*s.* 9*d.*; whilst the lord's fine was only sixpence; thus, in order to keep up the lord's right to an occasional sixpence, say once in about fifteen years, this poor woman had to pay more than 227 times that amount, to the steward (or chancellor of the manor), including, amongst the rest,

Surrender to will.	Sec. stat.	0 13 4
Respecting fealty		0 6 8
Clerk and crier		0 4 6
Homage		0 5 0

£ 1 9 6

A sensible set of items, truly, to be exacted from a poor widow, or indeed from any one, at the present day!!! Surely the manor of Hong Kong had not a more brutish institution at the time of its surrender to our enlightened government!

In conclusion, though I may seem to have written harshly, these remarks are the offspring of impressions that are forced upon me, nor do I, upon mature consideration see that there is one word to soften or retract; there are honourable cases of exception to whom many of my remarks would be utterly inapplicable; but from these who form this exception I feel confident of applause rather than reproof.

QUESTION AS TO CONSTRUCTION OF "REMOVAL OF THE POOR" ACT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE LAW TIMES.

Darlington, 22nd Sept. 1846.

SIR,—As I have very frequent occasion to advise on Poor-Law questions, I have endeavoured to master the Act which received the royal assent on the 26th ult. "An Act to amend the Laws relating to the Removal of the Poor," but I cannot answer two questions which have arisen in my mind under it.

First, Reading sections 1st and 5th together, I cannot ascertain how parishes in which paupers shall have resided for five years next before the application for the warrant, are to have any benefit from sec. 5.

For, under the 1st section, such persons are not to be removed; but under sec. 5, they are not to acquire any settlement in the parishes whence they are not removable.

Can any of your correspondents or readers tell me how such persons are to be supported?

Must not they be supported by the parishes where they shall become chargeable?

And as they are not to be removed, will they not in effect, though not legally (what a farce!) acquire, if not settlements, what are equivalent to them, in the parishes where they shall so become chargeable?

Then section 8th makes all penalties and forfeitures imposed under this Act "recoverable as penalties and forfeitures under the said Act, for the amendment of the Laws relating to the Poor."

Can any of your readers or correspondents tell me what is the Act referred to. I observe that the 4 & 5 Wm. 4, c. 76, is recited in the early part of the section, but that is "An Act for the amendment and better administration of the Laws relating to the Poor in England and Wales," and can it therefore be the Act under which the penalties, &c. are to be recovered. I cite this from your paper of the 19th inst.

ALLOWANCE OF CONSTABLES' FEES BY JUSTICES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE LAW TIMES.

Uttoreter, Sept. 17, 1846.

SIR,—I should much like to know whether any solicitor has, besides myself, acted on the opinion given by Mr. Theisger, Fitzroy Kelly, and H. F. Swayne, as to "the allowance of constables' fees by justices."

Last week, on a summary conviction before the Magistrates at petty sessions in a case in which I appeared for the defence, my client having to pay costs, the magistrates included in such costs the hitherto usual fees to the police constable for serving the summons. I objected to this, and to support my objection, was proceeding to read the case and opinion reported in the LAW TIMES of Aug. 15th ult. p. 456, which opinion, as I take it, clearly states that magistrates have no power to allow police constables their fees for doing the duty of the old constables appointed under 18 Geo. 3, c. 19.

The magistrates refused even to hear my argument on the subject, treated the opinion of such eminent lawyers with disdain, and politely informed me to bring before them a "Queen's Bench Report of a Case," and not "a common opinion," and then they might be inclined to look into the matter. Verily the magistrates here want some one to advise them.

COPARCENERY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE LAW TIMES.

SIR,—Under the head of Parcenery, in Coke on Littleton, lib. iii. c. 1, sect. 241, it is said: "If a man hath issue two daughters, and the eldest hath issue divers sons and divers daughters, and the youngest hath issue divers daughters, the eldest son of the eldest daughter shall only inherit, for this descent is not in capite, but all the daughters of the youngest shall inherit, and the eldest son is coparcener with the daughters of the youngest, and shall have one moiety, viz. his mother's part." "So that men descending of daughters may be coparceners as well as women." Now I have read this in conjunction with the 2nd section 3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 106, "The Act for the amendment of the Law of Inheritance," and it is said by two friends of mine that if A dies intestate, leaving freehold land which descends on his two daughters, one of whom dies intestate, without having constituted herself a purchaser, leaving a son, the descent of her share must be traced from A, when her son and sister would take equally, and Sugden's V. & P. last edition, 5 & 9; Hayd's Conveyancing, 314; 23 Law Mag. 279; and Doe v. Blackburn, 1 Mood. & Rob. 547, are cited. Feeling very strongly that the 3 & 4 Wm. 4 has not overruled the dictum in Co. Lit., I am anxious, through your valuable journal, to see some gentlemen give their opinions on this question of descent.

QUESTION AS TO STAMP DUTIES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE LAW TIMES.

SIR,—I am desirous of being informed on the following point:—"A," by an instrument in writing usually denominated an agreement, "agrees to let to," and B. agrees to take and hire, certain premises, as a tenant from year to year. Is a 2*s.* 6*d.* agreement stamp a sufficient one for such an instrument, assuming it to contain less than 1,080 words, so as to enable "A," to distrain for rent in arrear, or does it require a lease stamp? I have looked through Woollaston's edition of "Woodfall's Landlord and Tenant," but, like most law books, the practical point you look for cannot be found. The doubt raised in my mind is this. If, by the wording of an instrument, it can be construed as an actual demise, the power of distress would attach; but if it is a mere agreement only, such power could not be exercised; that such an instrument, which otherwise might be construed as an actual demise, may be so far controlled by incidental circumstances as to operate as an agreement only, and such an incidental circumstance I consider the affixing an agreement stamp to be. The converse of that proposition is certainly true, viz. that when a lease stamp is affixed to an instrument which otherwise would be held to be an agreement to let only, it would then be considered an actual demise. Probably some of your subscribers are better informed on this question than I am, and will, through your columns, give me the benefit of their experience, as the point is a matter of some importance.

happens to be found. It may be matter for consideration, whether the property should be vested in the owner or occupier. For many reasons, too numerous to detail now, we should prefer to give it to the occupier, believing that game would thereby be better preserved than now, because the farmer would aid in its preservation. But whether it be vested in one or the other does not in any manner affect the question as to the protection that should be extended to it. Treat it, then, as any other property the produce of the land and exposed to depredation, with no distinctions of punishment, and no special enactments encouraging an impression that it is specially favoured. The certificate duty should be treated simply as a tax levied upon those who choose to enjoy the pleasure of sporting (and it is as fair a tax as any), and not as a measure for protecting game. Farmers, then, would either become sportsmen themselves, and kill their own game for sale, or let the right of taking it to others; in either case for their own interest acting as its preservers.

But this is not the purpose of those who clamour against the Game Laws in the newspapers and at public meetings. They do not desire to make game the property of those who maintain it, but to permit any man who pleases to take it wherever he can find it. If they do not mean this, what do they mean? The question has been often asked, but never satisfactorily answered. Did Mr. BRIGHT, for instance, intend by his committee to advocate the making the property in game more definite—the law protecting it more stringent than now? But how could he touch the property without throwing it open to the public? or how diminish the punishment without depriving this property of that fair protection which is given in our country to all other property?

With such views it seems to us that the committee have come to a very rational conclusion, and we recommend their report to careful perusal.

THE NEW COUNTY COURTS.

THE Edition of the "Small Debts Act," by Mr. PATERSON, comprising a complete Analysis, Observations, and a copious Index, was published on Monday, and may now be obtained at the office. We hear that the Act itself will not anywhere be put into operation before the close of the current year. This delay is attributed to the unwillingness of the judges to come purposely together before the usual period, Michaelmas Term, for the framing of the rules of practice and forms of procedure, —a task which is charged upon them.

NOTICES OF NEW LAW BOOKS.

The Law Magazine. No. VIII. New Series. Benning.

In a recent notice of this magazine, we promised, as less is known of the French Bar in this country than could be desired, to transfer to our pages from this periodical an able, entertaining, and instructive article on this subject; and now, with the full concurrence of its author and the editor of this established and well-conducted review, we acquit ourselves of this obligation to our readers.

THE DISCIPLINE OF THE FRENCH BAR.

THE CASE OF M. CH. LEDRU.

Seventeen centuries have elapsed since Juvenal described the advocates of Britain as learning their art from their brethren in Gaul: Gallia cauidicos docuit facunda Britannos. In the present day we should be unwilling to admit an obligation like that imputed to us by the Roman satirist; we may boast with just pride that we possess a school of forensic oratory, at which the whole world may probably take lessons; if of old we were pupils, we are now qualified to be masters. But while thus exulting in its strength, the English bar must at all times be ready to pay its tribute of gratitude to the advocates of France, for the eloquence and fervour with which they have ever maintained the honourableness of their profession, as a matter not of time nor of country, but inherent at every age in every land where justice has established her abode. Endless would be the task of citing the testimonies of this nature, which are recorded in the works of the French lawyers: we shall here content ourselves with transcribing those words of the Chancellor D'Aguesseau, in which, discoursing of the independence of advocates, he proudly declares their order, aussi ancien que la magistrature, aussi noble que la vertu, aussi nécessaire que la justice (D'Aguesseau Œuvres, 1).

This lofty sense of its own dignity would necessarily tend to preserve the bar in the position which it assumed, and may in some degree be at once the origin and effect of the high character which it has uniformly maintained. Yet in France the profession laboured under great disadvantages: instead of being, as in this country, concentrated in the metropolis, it was distributed among a multitude of provincial courts: the career of distinction there open to the advocate was by no means so brilliant as that which here expands before his view: for many ages the gens de robe, at least the lay portion of them, were in a position of marked inferiority to the gens d'épée, the sword was superior to the gown; it is indeed recorded (Fournel, Hist. des Avocats, i. 333) that in the reign of St. Louis, Gui Foucaud, an advocate of Paris, ascended the Papal throne as Clement IV. but this is a solitary exception, and occurred almost before the order was established on any recognized basis. Yet in spite of all this discouragement, in the midst of the foreign wars and civil commotions which desolated their country, the French advocates maintained a distinguished rank for five hundred years, and only fell, with everything else that was distinguished, in the great revolution. Now something more than ordinary esprit de corps seems required to account for such a career accomplished amidst such difficulties, and it may perhaps be found in the internal discipline by which the order was continually regulated, and which was recognized and authorized by law. At a time when the government of our own bar has been a subject of considerable discussion, we think our readers will take some interest in the proceedings of their brethren abroad in like matters, and we propose in this article to give a rapid glance at the history of advocacy in France, and a more detailed account of the discipline which regulates it at the present day.

Few and faint are the traces of the legal profession in the early days of French history. Advocates are mentioned in one of Charlemagne's Capitularies, A.D. 809, and in an edict of Charles the Bald, 861; by a canon of Louis VII., 1148, they were forbidden to take more than the legal fee on pain of losing Christian burial; their duties were defined in the establishment of St. Louis, 1270; and from this time their order was frequently the object of royal legislation: admission to it was limited by very rigid ordinances, and a system of discipline was established, the spirit of which survives in that which we shall presently discuss. We cannot linger on these picturesque times; when an advocate's fees varied with the number of mounted attendants who rode behind him (Fournel, i. 89), when the courts echoed with laughter at a cause grasse on Shrove-Tuesday (Boucher d'Argis, cited by Dupin Prof. d'Avocat), when an advocate's wife originated the ornament ferronnière (Fournel, ii. 234), when the faculty was required to attend in scarlet and ermine at a royal entry or a red mass (Fournel, ii. 268), when the nobles of France came annually in state to present a basket of roses to the parliament of Paris (Fournel ii. 270), or when an advocate, throwing down his client's glove as the gage of mortal combat, might, by a mistake in form, become liable to do battle in his own person. (Fournel, i. 97.) We can only pause, first, to give an extract showing that legal proceedings were not then exempt from a complaint which has been heard in our own times: thus wrote an advocate and professor of law at Bourges, in 1550, of the Paris parliament:—"In Basilica Parisiensis ad tres annos liberiter versatus sum: tametsi, ut verum fatear, immodicos ac propè inexplicabiles litium anfractus, quibus illud forum præ ceteris abundat, magis quam literas ipse ac judicis, quibus humanum genus carere non posse videtur, pervitutus nec absque ingenti fastidio illic viderim. Vix enim credibile est, quanta ibi hominum, eorumque, gravissimorum et lectissimorum, quam minutis et pusillis in rebus quotidie occupata sit." (Bayle, Dict. art. Duaren, Fr.) Secondly, we note the revolt of the advocates in 1602, which occasioned Loisel's curious "Dialogue des Avocats du Parlement de Paris": "the edict of Blois, 1579, required advocates to sign a receipt for their fees on their briefs, but no attempt was made to enforce the rule until May 1602, when the Paris parliament ordered that it should be obeyed: the whole bar immediately rose en masse, to the number of three hundred and seven; resolved unanimously not to submit; went in procession to the Hall of Audience; flung their hoods and gowns on the floor; and demanded the erasure of their names from the roll of the court: the parliament was obliged to comply, and the consequence was a total cessation of business: the quarrel was settled by a royal ordinance, which re-enacted the statute of Blois, and at the same time allowed the advocates to be re-admitted: one by one they accepted the terms, but no subsequent attempt was made to enforce the obnoxious decree. (Loisel, Opusculs, Paris, 1652. Reprinted by Dupin, Prof. d'Avoc.) And thirdly, we observe that even in those days of arbitrary power, the organization of the bar enabled it successfully to resist the admission of several persons of high rank and great influence: it is sufficient to mention the case of Poyet, chancellor in the reign of Francis I. (Merlin, Repertoire de Jurisprudence, art. Avocat.)

Together with the parliaments the bar had often stood forth in defence of popular rights; side by side they had been engaged in many a bloody fray; it was fitting, says M. Dupin, that together they should fall. A decree of the Legislative Assembly, Sept. 2, 1790, abolished the order of advocates, the parliaments having been just previously suppressed. Nevertheless, when the darker hours of the revolution came, and victim after victim was hurried to trial (?) before the revolutionary tribunal, ancient advocates were always ready to defend them, although at the imminent risk of sharing their client's fate: many of the order succeeded Malherbes at the guillotine. After a time this devotedness found its reward; a law of the 22nd Vent. xii. March 13, 1804, organized schools of law, and re-established the faculty of advocates; under this law the bar was rapidly recovering its former importance, when Napoleon, with the natural jealousy of a despot, conceived that it was instituted on too liberal a basis, and directed his council to prepare a new decree for its regulation: the emperor rejected the first draft presented to him as too lenient, writing brutally to Cambacères, that advocates were "des factieux, des artisans de crimes et de trahisons. Tant que j'aurai l'épée au côté, jamais je ne signerai un pareil décret: je veux couper la langue à un avocat, qui s'en sert contre le gouvernement." (Dupin, Prof. d'Avoc.) We may suppose that the decree enacted Dec. 14, 1810, was satisfactory to these imperial desires: it continued in force until Nov. 20, 1823, when a royal ordinance, attributed to M. de Peyronnet, regulated anew the position of the bar; pretending to relax the severity of the previous law, this ordinance was still very distasteful to the profession, on account of the mode it prescribed for the appointment of officers; and, immediately after the last revolution, Aug. 27, 1830, it was modified by a short edict of Louis Philippe, which restored the advocates to something like their ancient organization. It is of this system, as it exists at present, that we now proceed to give an account. A candidate for the French Bar must be a Frenchman by birth; he must have gone through a 'university' course of study at a recognized school of law, commenced after the completion of his sixteenth year, and must have obtained his diploma as bachelier en droit; this diploma he must submit to the procureur-général of the Cour Royale, at which he proposes to be admitted, and having received that officer's consent, he must be presented to the court: by a senior advocate, and must take the prescribed oath (of fidelity to the king and obedience to the law); this done, his introduction is recorded by the registrar, and indorsed on his diploma, and he is then admissible, with the sanction hereafter mentioned, to the stage, to commence practice. After having been stagiaire for three years, he is eligible to be inscribed on the tablet, tableau, or roll of advocates, and thereby to become an advocate complete; his inscription depends entirely on the Conseil de Discipline of the court; which is a council elected annually from among themselves by the whole body of advocates already inscribed, and presided over by an officer, termed bâtonnier, from his having of old carried a wand, annually chosen in the same manner. It is in the powers conferred by law on the councils of discipline that we discover so strong a guarantee for the honour of the profession in France: they decide, subject to appeal to their respective Cours Royales, on the admission of otherwise qualified candidates to the stage, and without appeal (at least this appears the better opinion), on the inscription of stagiaires on the tablet; they supervise the conduct and manners of the bar, and are bound to watch carefully over its welfare and honour; and to maintain its fidelity to the national institutions; and they punish, ex officio, or on complaint made, all infringements of these principles, not cognizable elsewhere, committed by members of the profession. For the latter purpose, the councils are empowered to inflict four degrees of penalty: 1st. Notice or warning, avertissement: 2ndly. Reprimand: 3rdly. Suspension, for any term not exceeding a year: 4thly. Erasure from the tablet, radiation, which, so far as practice in open court is concerned, amounts to disbarment. Delinquents are commonly brought before a council either by its bâtonnier or by their Procureur-général of the district; and the latter officer has an appeal in every case to the Cour Royale, while the like privilege is accorded to the accused only upon the infliction of the last two penalties. There is a further appeal on either side in matters of law, such as the jurisdiction of the tribunal, to the Court of Cassation at Paris. If a council declines or neglects to act in any case, the Cour Royale may adjudicate upon it omisso medio, and the latter is always competent to punish offences.

committed in open court. (Encyclopédie de Droit, art. Avocat.) In now proceeding to elucidate this system by cases extracted from the reports of MM. Sirey and Devilleneuve (Recueil des Lois et des Arrêts), we shall not aim at minute accuracy of technical detail, our object being to exhibit the spirit rather than the form of operation; and we must observe, that as the decisions of councils are not published, it is only where they are brought before a court of law by appeal, or where the latter acts on its own authority, that the reports afford any information. From the instances of each kind to be found in the books, we shall here select a few, some entertaining, others, as we think, instructive.

In France an advocate can recover his fees at law (S. & D. 34, 2, 377.), although it is said that he is liable to radiation for bringing an action for them. (Merlin, Repert. de Jurisprud. art. Avocat.) Councils of Discipline have the power of reducing the fees received by advocates, and in every case where a client resists payment of his attorney's bill, the amount charged for fees to counsel is referred for their revision. At Florac, in the district of Nîmes, in 1825, the council reduced fees received by one C. from 306 francs to 150, and suspended him for a month. He appealed to the Cour Royale of Nîmes, which decided that no appeal lay against the reduction of fees, and dismissed that against the suspension for irregularity. (Sirey, 26, 2, 67.)

Something similar to the following case has possibly been heard of at quarter sessions in this country. In 1836 there were seven advocates inscribed on the tablet of the court of Chinon, in the Orleans district. One of them married a daughter of the president of the court, and, thereupon, three others signed a protest, that so long as he continued to plead before his father-in-law, they would not plead before the court of Chinon. One subsequently retracted. At the next election of bâtonnier the court refused to recognize the one chosen by the Bar, because the two recusant advocates voted. The matter was brought before the Cour Royale of Orleans, which pronounced for the validity of the election, but at the same time held itself competent to adjudicate on the conduct of the two advocates (S. & D. 37, 2, 234): what it did is not reported: the former part of the judgment was affirmed, on appeal of the Procureur-Général, by the Court of Cassation. (S. & D. 40, 1, 319.)

The bar in France is equally jealous with our own of an advocate's pursuing any derogatory occupation or holding certain offices. In 1840, the Council of Discipline at Toulouse erased two advocates from the tablet, on their being appointed conseillers de préfecture; on appeal, however, the sentence was reversed. (S. & D. 41, 2, 100.) F. secretary to the Chamber of Commerce at Dunkerque, with a salary, applied in 1843 to be inscribed on the tablet, and was rejected by the council,—a decision confirmed, on appeal, by the Cour Royale at Douai. (S. & D. 43, 2, 460.)

M. Bourdeau, an ex-keeper of the seals and peer of France, erased his name from the tablet of advocates at Limoges, in 1842, writing in the margin that he did so because two old and honourable advocates had been excluded from the council for defending him in an action for defamation. Upon this the council pronounced a formal sentence against him of permanent disbarment. M. Bourdeau took no notice of their proceeding, but the Procureur-Général appealed against it. The bâtonnier applied to be heard on behalf of the council; but the Cour Royale refused his application, and annulled the sentence. The Court of Cassation, on petition from the bâtonnier, decided that there were no grounds for an appeal. (S. & D. 43, 1, 377.)

At Rouen, in 1835, an advocate, D. defending one B. charged with disturbing public worship, said the disturbance had been owing to the improper conduct of the woman who let the chairs. The imputation was unfounded, and the woman summoned both B. and D. for defamation. The latter justified himself by his instructions, which were immediately disclaimed by B.; but upon this disclaimer B.'s advocate in this second case volunteered to be sworn, and contradicted his own client. These facts being brought before the Cour Royale, both the advocates concerned were severely reprimanded; the Court quoting, with reference to the first case, the remark of an eminent jurist, "que rien n'est plus contraire à la dignité du barreau, que les efforts continus que l'on fait souvent dans certaines causes pour égarer un auditoire, parce que les ris sont pour le peuple et le mépris pour l'avocat." (Merlin Rep. de Jurisprud. S. & D. 35, 2, 211.) It should be remembered that these are not merely oral reproaches, but form part of the written and recorded judgment of the Court.

The case which we are now about to detail will, we hope, afford our readers some diversion. The advocates practising before the Court at Ambert, smitten with that love for the moyen âge, which is far from unknown on this side the channel, adopted the fashion of cultivating moustaches. The mode had prevailed for some time, when on April 17, 1844, the president of the court declared that it was inconsistent with the gravity of legal costume, and required that at the next sitting the advocates should present themselves with lips shorn of their hairy honours. Upon this M. Imberdis (certainly not imberbis) rose, and begged to know, whether it was an invitation or an injunction which the President had just delivered. He was answered that it was an order, which the Court would rigorously enforce. Nevertheless, at the next sitting, MM. Imberdis and Pacros appeared unshaven, in manifest defiance of the Court's authority. The judges immediately took this contumacy into consideration,—declined to excuse one of their number from acting, who was uncle to one of the culprits,—forbade the latter from appearing in court, until they had made proper use of their razors, and, for what had already passed, sentenced them to censure. The two advocates appealed against this sentence to the Court of Cassation, where, after solemn argument, the judgment of the Court below was affirmed. From the discussion, we learn that the chin was worn smooth at the bar until the reign of Francis I. who let his beard grow to cover a scar which he had received in a tournament,—that when Louis XIII. came to the throne at the age of nine, the fashion began to decline, but revived towards the middle of the same century, with the addition of moustache and royal, and continued to prevail, till the introduction of full wigs and bands under Louis XIV. finally suppressed it. (S. & D. 44, 1, 577.)

At the Seine assizes, March, 1829, a prisoner complained aloud of the conduct of two advocates towards him. The Court called upon them for explanation, and deeming their account unsatisfactory, and that the allegations impeached their honour and delicacy, it publicly ordered that the matter should be laid before the Council of Discipline for investigation. The council entirely exonerated the parties inculpated, and added that it had seen with profound regret the manner adopted by the Court in bringing the matter before them, which, according to all precedent, should have been done by private communication, and not by public order. This remonstrance was decreed to be erased from their minutes on appeal of the Procureur-Général to the Cour Royale of Paris; and a further appeal of the bâtonnier, founded on this decree being an excess of jurisdiction, was rejected by the Court of Cassation. (S. & D. 30, 1, 197.) Nor was the council at Grenoble more fortunate in 1835, in endeavouring to protect an advocate, who had been severely reprimanded by the Cour Royale, for displaying undue irritation; their resolution exonerating him from blame being ordered to be cancelled. (S. & D. 36, 2, 441.)

We now come to an important class of cases, founded on that article of the Peyronnet ordinance, which requires Councils of Discipline to maintain fidelity towards national institutions. In 1829, M. Grand, an advocate of Paris, was suspended for a year by the council, for delivering a funeral eulogium over the grave of a member of the Convention, who had voted for the death of Louis XVI. M. Grand appealed against the sentence, but it was confirmed by the Cour Royale. (Dupin, Prof. d'Avocat, 395.) At Caen, in the same year, M. Seminel published a letter in the "Journal de Calvados," reflecting on the conduct of M. Guernon-Ranville, then minister of public instruction in the unfortunate Polignac cabinet. For this the Crown cited him before the Council of Discipline, when he was sentenced to suspension for six months. On appeal, however, this judgment was set aside, on the ground that two-thirds of the council were not present when it was delivered, as required by law. (S. & D. 31, 2, 77.)

These two cases occurred before the election of the council had been entrusted to the Bar at large by the ordinance of Louis Philippe: the following (S. & D. 34, 1, 457) happened since that period: it is one which produced an immense sensation in all the courts of France, and which still occasions universal reclamation on the part of the Bar. It must be premised, that the advocates of the various courts are accustomed to hold weekly meetings termed conferences, for the purpose of discussing points of law, at which the stagiaires are required to attend, and in turn to take part in the debate; these conferences are presided over by the bâtonnier of the year, who commonly delivers an address to the bar at the first meeting after his election. In 1833, M. Parquin was elected bâtonnier by the advocates of the Cour Royale of Paris, and made the usual oration, which was published subsequently in the Gazette des Tribunaux; in it he bitterly complained of the delay which had taken place in the promised reform of the laws affecting the Bar, and attributed it in a great degree to certain of the judges of the court, whom he represented as being ouvertement hostiles à l'ordre des avocats, jaloux de son affranchissement, et disposés à tout faire pour le retarder et l'empêcher. In consequence of this and similar expressions, the Procureur-Général, M. Persil, cited M. Parquin directly before the Cour Royale, to receive whatever punishment that Court might be pleased to inflict. The bâtonnier immediately convened the Council of Discipline, which decided that he should deny the competence of the Court (on the ground that it could not be possessed of the matter de plano, but only by appeal), and assigned three advocates to assist him in maintaining the point. However, the Court considering that if it allowed the plea it might be paralyzed by mere inertia on the part of the council, and that such a state of things was inconsistent with its dignity, pronounced itself competent, and ordered M. Parquin to answer on the merits; he refused to do so, and being declared in default, was sentenced to suffer the penalty of warning, avertissement. In the mean time he had appealed against the former decision to the Court of Cassation; and the hearing the question was argued at very great length, the appellant being represented by M. Dupin whose speech, the reporter observes (S. & D. 34, 460), contains a complete treatise on the discipline of the Bar. After congratulating himself that he had argued a question of law and not of fact, and reviewing the whole modern history of the legal profession in France, the learned advocate proceeded to contest that there was nothing offensive to the dignity of the court in its alleged incompetency to act ex officio on appeal from a subordinate jurisdiction. The Crown he observed, condescends to appear in the humble tribunals; they were not discussing a question of aristocratic precedence; it was unjust to the Council of Discipline to treat it with contempt, composed as it was of twenty-one most distinguished advocates elected by their fellows. Moreover, the moral effect of its sentences was greater than of those of the superior court; the latter was liable to be charged with personal motives in being the first to notice an affront from without its walls. The Bar and the Bench would be placed in direct hostility; the independence, the honour, the safety of the former would be jeopardized, on the other hand, the court risked nothing. But these arguments were of no avail; the Court of Cassation rejected the appeal on the ground that the Council of Discipline ought to have proceeded ex officio against M. Parquin, and that, as it had neglected to do so, the Cour Royale was competent, omisso medio (S. & D. 34, 1, 458.) It may be added, that M. Parquin, having resigned his office of bâtonnier in consequence of this decision, was immediately re-elected by the whole body of advocates.

Finally we arrive at the recent case of M. C. Ledru, the facts of which must be fresh in our readers' recollection. This distinguished advocate had conducted a prosecution against an abbé, named Contrafatto, who was found guilty, and sentenced to the galleys for ten years. Circumstances afterwards came to M. Ledru's knowledge which convinced him of the abbé's innocence; and by great exertions he obtained his release. The abbé applied to M. Ledru for a certificate of the facts, that he might present it to his ecclesiastical superior in Italy, and M. Ledru granted his request. But the Procureur-Général, M. Hébert, considered that in giving this certificate, M. Ledru cast an imputation upon the Court which had tried the abbé, and cited him to answer a charge to that effect before the Council of Discipline at Paris, which condemned him to suspension for six months. This sentence appearing to M. Hébert not sufficiently severe, he appealed to the Cour Royale, which annulled it, and pronounced the heaviest in its power, radiation; a judgment which has excited the warmest sympathy for M. Ledru, not only in his own country, but also in ours.

Dim as may be the light which these examples throw upon the operation of the system they relate to, we yet think that they do not leave it wholly in the dark. We have seen Councils of Discipline regulating the amount of fees, sanctioning a protest against supposed favoritism, excluding from the Bar persons engaged in certain other pursuits, vindicating their order from insult, interfering to protect advocates from unjust treatment by the bench, and would it were not so, punishing public offences. We have also seen the courts recording a stern censure upon an advocate's misconduct, gravely discussing the great question of moustaches, and adjudicating upon certain proceedings as contempt. In almost every case cited we have found a contest arise between a Council of Discipline and a Cour Royale; and among much to admire in the system, this conflicting jurisdiction appears to us to be a great, if not a fatal defect: it is a legacy from the government of the restoration, the consistent enemy of all free institutions; the ordinance of 1822, which abolished the election of councils and established them on a complicated system of seniority, also conferred upon the officers of the Crown that unlimited power of appeal against their decisions which we see used with such unsparing rigour; but the innovation has not been submitted to in tranquillity; on the contrary, it has been the continual object of petition and remonstrance on the part of the Bar: in 1828, when M. Portalis, himself an illustrious member of the profession, became minister of justice, a requisition was presented to him, very numerous signed, praying for a modification of the law on the subject; and since the revolution of 1830 the topic has been a prolific source of agitation, its consideration having been often promised, and as often postponed. Nor can we wonder at the Bar's anxiety in this matter, when we see the encroachments which the Courts appear desirous to make on the functions of the council, and which the want of a sufficiently distinct boundary between their separate provinces renders temptingly easy. The Council of Discipline is in theory a court of honour, appointed to protect the dignity and purity of the Bar, by watching the professional conduct of advocates towards one another, towards their clients, and generally in public, and punishing any infringements of what it considers the rule of propriety: so long as it confines itself to the discharge of these duties, the official report of its judgment should be the only communication between it and the officers of the Crown, and should be final so far as the latter are concerned. It may be desirable to allow an appeal to a party accused, to be heard and decided in open court; but we repeat, so long as the matter adjudicated is simply professional, no public officer should be permitted to intervene. Unfortunately for the Councils of Discipline, their attention has not been confined to such matters; they have suffered themselves to become judges of public as well as private offences. What was it to the Council of Caen that one of its members labelled a minister of the Crown? Why was the Council of Paris called upon to punish M. Parquin or M. Ledru for offences against superior courts? By undertaking the task imposed upon them in cases of this nature, the councils necessarily incur the hazard of having their judgments set aside, and thence of being interfered with even when confining themselves to their legitimate duty. In a conflict between a court of honour and a court of law possessed of concurrent or successive jurisdiction, it is quite evident that the former must succumb; and the French law courts have been the reverse of backward in availing themselves of their advantage. The evil seems to arise out of that vague section of the Peyronnet ordinance, which requires Councils of Discipline to maintain fidelity to the national institutions, thereby imposing upon them the onerous duty of trying public offences not directly cognizable at law, and making them the unwilling instruments of bringing such offences within the jurisdiction of the courts. So long as the councils are obliged to perform this invidious task, and to administer law, not merely unwritten and unspoken, but invented for the occasion by the government of the day, we fear they will be doomed to an ineffectual struggle with the power of the superior courts, a struggle in which they may ultimately lose the beneficial influence which they at present possess. And we hold that they are calculated to accomplish a vast amount of good in the profession over which they preside. Instituted on the most liberal basis of election, liable at the year's end to account for any injustice they may exhibit, with jurisdiction limited strictly to professional misconduct, to offences against good manners, etiquette or honour, with powers of punishment extending from friendly caution and stern reprimand to suspension and expulsion, we should see in these tribunals a sure guarantee for the uprightness and dignity of the French Bar: but even this is only a part of the benefit derived from the system; a seat on the council is an object of honourable ambition, and as it can be obtained solely by popular favour, this circumstance must tend to promote kindness and consideration towards the junior advocates, and to tighten the bonds by which the whole order is held together; the post of bâtonnier is aspired to like that of public orator at our universities; in short, the scheme supplies ordinary professional esprit de corps with form, substance, and energy, and gives it a visible existence. We do not now enter on the question how far similar institutions are adapted to the Bar in this country; but we cannot avoid expressing the feeling that it is far from possessing the influence which is desirable in the admission and retention of its members. We congratulate our brethren in France on their advantages in this respect; we sincerely hope that their Councils of Discipline may be speedily relieved from their extraneous duties and from the obnoxious interference of the Procureur Général, and may long continue to uphold the honour of a profession which can make its followers "noble without birth, rich without inheritance, exalted without titles, happy without the aid of fortune." NECROLOGY

OF LEGISLATORS, MAGISTRATES, AND LAWYERS.

THE EARL OF YARBOROUGH.

The death of this nobleman appears to have been wholly unexpected. The melancholy event took place on the 10th of this month, and intelligence of it was received at Southampton on Thursday morning, and in London on Thursday night. His lordship had a residence in the Isle of Wight, and by the inhabitants of that island he was much regarded for his liberality, and for the many agreeable qualities which marked his character. At the time of his death he was in the 66th year of his age, having been born on the 8th of August, 1781.

Charles Anderson Pelham, the subject of this notice, was the eldest son and heir of the first Baron Yarborough. Having spent his youth and boyhood in acquiring such accomplishments as usually fall to the lot of men who, being eldest sons of great families, have no motive for encountering the labours of a profession, he married, on the 11th of August, 1806, Henrietta Anne Maria Charlotte Bridgman, who was second daughter of the Hon. John Bridgman Simpson, of Babworth-hall, Nottinghamshire, and granddaughter of Henry, first Lord Bradford. This lady was niece and sole heir of the Right Hon. Sir Richard Worsley, bart., whose estates she inherited. Mrs. Pelham, who never became Lady Yarborough, was born in the month of April, 1788; therefore, at the time of her marriage she was in the 19th year of her age, and at the time of her death, which took place on the 30th of June, 1813, she had only entered on her 26th year. The subject of this notice remained a widower; and three of the four children who were the issue of his marriage still survive. These are the present Earl of Yarborough, Lady Charlotte Copley, and Captain Pelham, R. N. The family from which Lord Yarborough descends is one of no very great antiquity, at least on the paternal side; maternally, however, he reckons amongst his ancestors Sir William Pelham, a military commander of some note in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, one of whose descendants married Mr. Francis Anderson, of Moreby, who was great grandson of Sir Edmund Anderson, a lawyer of eminence, and chief justice of the Common Pleas in the reign of Elizabeth. This Francis Anderson, who afterwards assumed the name of his father-in-law, and Mary Pelham, the descendant of Sir William, became the parents of Charles Anderson Pelham, who was created Baron Yarborough in the year 1794. He married Sophia, daughter and heir of Mr. George Anfrere, and the eldest son of that marriage was the noble earl just deceased. The first Lord Yarborough being a man of considerable fortune and influence, naturally desired that his eldest son should sit in Parliament for the county with which he was connected by residence and property. Accordingly the latter, at the general election in 1806, stood for Lincolnshire, and was returned upon the Whig interest. The subject of this notice supported the short-lived ministry of which the celebrated Charles James Fox was the leader, and having enjoyed that brief period of official connection, he remained on the profitless benches of opposition throughout the long reign of the Tories under Perceval, Liverpool, and Wellington. In 1812, he was a second time returned for Lincolnshire, and again in 1818, upon which occasion he was opposed by Sir Robert Heron. For the fourth time he was returned in 1820; but before the next general election he became a member of the Upper House, and Sir William Ingilby succeeded him in the Lower House. During the entire period that he possessed a seat in the House of Commons it may be said that he answered the expectations of the electors who sent him into that assembly, for they expected to find him a Whig, and there can be no doubt that he scarcely ever voted with the Tories.

On the 23rd of September, 1823, the first Lord Yarborough was gathered to his fathers, and the subject of this notice became a peer; but his friends were still in opposition, and not being influenced by any strong vocation towards a parliamentary career, he gave his attention partly to the pursuits of a country gentleman and partly to those of an amateur sailor. In the latter it is well known that he attained to considerable excellence. Still he continued to give his political party the full benefit of his support. The chief reward of his fidelity was conferred upon him on the 24th of January, 1837, when, for no other reason than the parliamentary services of himself and his eldest son, he was raised to the dignity of an earl, and, certainly, so far as general consistency and devotion to party interests entitle a man to such a distinction, he fully earned his earldom. Upon one important subject, however, he differed from his political friends, for he was a staunch protectionist, and to the last he resisted any attempt to repeal the Corn Laws. As commodore of the Yacht Club he was much respected, and obtained from the Admiralty their especial permission to carry, when sailing in his own yacht, a broad pendant. His lordship left Cowes in the month of July last, and since that time up to the period of his death he had been cruising, and occasionally putting into port. Although for some weeks past he had complained of illness, yet his indisposition did not seem to be so serious as to justify any alarm on the part of his friends; it, therefore, happened that no member of his family was with him at the time of his lamented decease. This melancholy and unexpected event took place when the noble earl was in his own yacht, the Kestrel, off Vigo. That vessel is now proceeding homeward, bearing his lordship's remains. Lord Worsley, now Earl of Yarborough, has been a member of the House of Commons during the last sixteen years; but throughout the first half of that period he was known as Mr. Anderson Pelham, for it was not till an earldom had been conferred on the head of the family that the barony of Worsley was created, a title which evidently was chosen to mark the fact that the present peer, in right of his mother, represents that family, of which his grandfather, Sir Richard Worsley, was the head.—Abridged from the Times.

LORD METCALFE.

On Tuesday afternoon the mortal remains of Charles Theophilus, first and last Baron Metcalfe, were consigned to their last resting-place. The much-lamented nobleman died at Malahanger, near Basingstoke, but his body was removed on the morning of the funeral to within a few miles of the church of Winkfield, in Berkshire, to be deposited in the vault with his ancestors. The country seat of the Metcalfe family is Fern-hill, in the parish of Winkfield, but for many years past that residence has been held by successive tenants of the deceased peer, the last of whom was Sir Felix Booth; its present occupant is the Dowager Lady Granville. On this account, therefore, the mourners and attendants did not assemble, as under other circumstances they would have done, at Fern-hill, but at Hill-house, the residence of his lordship's nephew, Sir Hesketh Fleetwood. Hill-house is also in the parish of Winkfield. The obsequies of the deceased peer were conducted in a manner quite becoming his high rank and the great personal esteem in which he had ever been held, but at the same time with no unusual or ostentatious display. Amongst the mourners were Lord Monson, Sir Alan M'Nab, Mr. Jas. Metcalfe, Mr. Thomas Metcalfe, Mr. Brownrigg, M.P., Sir Hesketh Fleetwood, Bart., Messrs. Martin, Brownrigg, jun., Smythe, Howell, &c. The private carriages of several noblemen and gentlemen followed the mourning coaches; amongst the latter was that of Lord Ashbrooke, the brother-in-law of the deceased. It is understood that Mr. Brownrigg has been appointed Lord Metcalfe's executor, and that the bulk of his lordship's property will go to Mr. James Metcalfe. His lordship's brother, now in India, inherits the baronetcy, to which the deceased peer succeeded more than 20 years ago.

JOURNAL OF PROPERTY.

ON

THE LAW OF CONTRACTS RELATING TO REAL PROPERTY.

By WILLIAM HUGHES, Esq. Barrister-at-Law.

Distinction between conveyances to use, and conveyances at common law.—The late Mr. Butler, in his valuable edition of Fearn's Contingent Remainders, has very ably pointed out the distinction between conveyances at common law, and those which derive their effect through the Statute of Uses. "A feoffment fine or recovery," he remarks, "are conveyances at the common law, so far as they convey the land to the feoffee, donee, or recoveror; if they are directed to operate to, or to the use of the feoffee, donee, or recoveror, they have no other operation than as conveyances at the common law (Jenkins v. Young, Cro. Car. 230; Altham (Lord) v. Anglessa (Barl of), Gilb. Rep. 16); but if they are directed to operate to the use of any other person, then, though they are conveyances at common law so far as they convey the land to such feoffee, donee, or recoveror, they derive their effect under the Statute of Uses, so far as the use is limited by them to the person or persons in whose favour it is declared. A lease and release," he observes, "has a mixed operation; the lease has the operation of a bargain and sale, and is in effect a bargain and sale under the statute; but the fee passes to the lessee, and enlarges his estate to an estate of inheritance by the operation of the release at common law; and if the release is directed to operate to the use of the releasee, he is in by the common law; but if the use be declared in favour of another person, the statute again intervenes and executes the use in the person or persons in whose favour it is declared. A bargain and sale inrolled, and a covenant to stand seised, wholly derive their effect from the Statute of Uses; neither having any effect at common law, independently of the statute in conveying the land from the party selling or covenanting to stand seised to those in whose favour they are intended to operate; so that at common law they have no legal operation, and are merely declarations of trust binding the lands in equity. But the statute attaches on them, and divests the land from the party selling or covenanting to stand seised, and vests it in the person to whose use it is limited." (Butler's Fearn, 416.)

A use cannot be limited on a use.—But as a use cannot be upon a use, it cannot be limited by a bargain and sale to any but the bargainee, though an estate limited to arise out of his seisin would be good as a trust in equity. And the like doctrine holds in the case of an appointment in execution of a power, which does not operate as a conveyance of the possession of the estate, but as a limitation of a use, which the statute executing into possession, thus vests the legal estate in the appointee, who is, in fact, the cestui que use, and takes in the same manner, when he actually does take, as if he had been named in the original deed by which the power was created. (1 Prest. Abs. 313; Co. Litt. 272, s; 10 Ves. 264.) So if a simple appointment were made to a purchaser, habendum to him and his heirs, thus vesting the fee in him, and then limiting the lands to such uses as he should appoint, as in the ordinary dower uses, an appointment afterwards made by him under those limitations would be void in law, although good as a trust in equity. But a consequence, perhaps not less important than this, will result from limitations thus framed; for in the case of a purchaser married previously to 1834, the statute executing the legal estate in him will entitle his wife to dower, and thus one of the most important objects of the dower uses would altogether become nugatory. To prevent an occurrence of this kind, the practice has been, in all well penned appointments where dower uses are inserted, to appoint that the parcels shall be to such uses as the purchaser shall appoint (previously to limiting any estate to the purchaser himself), and in default of appointment, to the purchaser for life, with remainder to a trustee during his life and in trust for him; with the ultimate remainder to him in fee; so that the limitation over in fee will be a remainder, and any appointment made by the purchaser will take effect in the same manner as if inserted in the original deed, by which the power was created, and thus the purchaser's appointee would be in under the original conveyance, and under a title paramount to the claims of the wife. (See Wat. Convey. by Morley, Coote, and Coventry, 88; Butler's note to Fearn, C.R. 347.) Upon the principle also that a use cannot be upon a use, if lands are limited to A to the use of B, to the use of, or in trust for C, the use will be executed in B, and C will take a mere equitable estate. (Symeon v. Turner, 1 Eq. Ca. Abr. 383; Whetstone v. Bury, 3 P. Wms. 146; Wagstaffe v. Wagstaffe, 1b. 258; Attorney-General v. Scott, Forrest, 138; Venables v. Thorne, 7 T.R. 342, 438.) So also if lands be limited to A B, and his heirs, to the use of himself (A B), and his heirs, to the use of, or in trust for C D, and his heirs, the statute will execute the use in A B, and C D will only take a trust estate. (Doe dem. Lloyd v. Passingham, 6 B. & C. 305.)

And where lands are limited to trustees in trust to receive the rents and profits to pay them over to B, B will only take a trust estate, and not a use executed under the statute; because B's interest is not of that nature as would have been construed a use previously to the statute, and it is only such that it will execute into possession; for in the case of a use the feoffees did not actually enter on the lands or receive the rents and profits, but permitted the cestui que use to perform those acts himself; and hence it is that the diversity subsists in the construction of a limitation to A in trust to permit B to receive the rents and profits; and a limitation to A in trust to receive the rents and profits and pay them to B; for the former being descriptive of a use, the statute will execute it in B; whereas the latter describing a different interest, the statute can have no operation upon it, and therefore the land must remain in the trustee in order to enable him to perform the trust. (Symon v. Turner, 1 Eq. Ca. Abr. 382; Bush v. Allen, 5 Mod. 63; Nevil v. Saunders, 1b. S.C. 1 Vern. 415; Jones v. Say and Sele (Lord), 3 Bro. P.C. 75; Silvester dem. Law v. Wilson, 2 T.R. 444; 3 Bos. & Pull. 177.) But where both expressions are used in a will, the last will be allowed to prevail. (Broughton v. Langley, 2 Raym. 873; Right and Phillips v. Smith, 12 East, 455; Doe dem. Leicester v. Bigge, 2 Taunt. 109; Gregory v. Henderson, 4 ib. 772.)

Of resulting trusts.—It may also be proper in this place to offer a few remarks upon the doctrine of resulting trusts. These do not arise from direct words of limitation, but by operation of law from the evident and implied intention of the parties. (Cru. Dig. 421.) As where a conveyance is taken in the name of one person, but another pays the purchase-money, in which case an implied or resulting trust will arise in favour of the latter party, who, in the eye of a court of equity, will be considered as the rightful owner of the property; and this, whether the purchase be taken in the name of the purchaser and others jointly, or whether in one name or in the names of several. (Anon. 2 Ventr. 631; Dyer v. Dyer, 2 Cha. Cas. 108; Gascoigne v. Thwing, 1 Vern. 366; Acherley v. Verror, 1 Cha. Cas. 39; Willis v. Willis, 2 Atk. 71; Lloyd v. Spillett, 1b. 150; Ripley v. Waterworth, 7 Ves. 425.) And the construction will be the same in the case of a purchase of leasehold and copyhold property, as in the case of freeholds. This species of trust being also exempted out of the Statute of Frauds (29 Car. 2, c. 3, s. 8) will equally result in favour of the person advancing the money, although no declaration of trust should ever be made by the person in whose name the conveyance is taken. (Hungate v. Hungate, Toth. 184; Anon. 2 Ventr. 361, n. (3); Gascoigne v. Thwing, 1 Vern. 366; Ambrose v. Ambrose, 1 P. Wms. 321; Ex parte Vernon, 2 ib. 549; Smith v. Baker, 1 Atk. 606; Lloyd v. Spillett, 2 ib. 148; Withers v. Withers, Amb. 15; Lade v. Lade, 1 Wils. 21; O'Hara v. O'Neil, 2 Bro. C. C. 39; Smith v. Camelford (Lord), 2 Ves. 713; Rider v. Kidder, 10 Ves. 360; Wray v. Steele, 2 Ves. & Bea. 388.) Parol evidence in such case will also be admitted to explain the nature of the transaction, though it seems doubtful if it would be admitted against an answer of a trustee denying the trust. (Skett v. Whitmore, 2 Freem. 289; Newton v. Preston, Pre. Cha. 103; Cottingham v. Fletcher, 2 Atk. 155; Bartlett v. Pickersgill, 4 East, 577.) But where the trust is confessed in the answer (Hampton v. Spencer, 2 Vern. 288; Cottingham v. Fletcher, 2 Atk. 155), or by any note, memorandum, or letter, or by any writing in the shape of mutual covenants or agreements, although not under seal or stamp, it will be sufficient. (Ambrose v. Ambrose, 1 P. Wms. 322; Bellamy v. Burron, Ca. temp. Talb. 97; Ryall v. Ryall, 1 Atk. 59; Lane v. Dighton, Amb. 409; Crooke v. Brooking, 2 Vern. 106; Legard v. Hodges, 3 Bro. C. C. 53; Hodges v. Lloyd, 2 ib. 534.)

When the purchase is made with trust moneys.

—In the case also of purchases with trust moneys, a trust will result for the owner of the money. It was, indeed, formerly said, that as money has no ear mark, equity could not follow it in the land in which a trustee had invested it, unless the latter owned, by deed, that he had so laid it out. (Kirk v. Webb, Pre. Cha. 84; Halcott v. Markant, 1b. 168; Deg v. Deg, 2 P. Wms. 414.) But whatever doubt may once have existed upon this matter, it is now clearly settled that, where a trustee lays out the trust-money in the purchase of landed property, the money may be followed in to the land in which it is so invested; and that claims of this nature, like other resulting trusts, may be supported by parol evidence. (Keech v. Sandford, Sel. Cas. in Cha. 61; Holt v. Holt, 1 Char. Cas. 191; Pierson v. Shore, 1 Atk. 480; Abney v. Miller, 2 ib. 597; Edwards v. Lewis, 3 ib. 538; Ex parte Bennett, 10 Ves. 395; Lench v. Lench, 1b. 517; Featherstonhaugh v. Fenwick, 17 Ves. 298.)

As to unappropriated funds.—And in case of wills where real or personal estate is devised or bequeathed for certain specified purposes, and there is no residuary devise or bequest, the unappropriated part of the real estate, or the proceeds thereof, belong to the testator's heirs (Randall, v. Ben. 2 Vern. 405; City of London v. Garrey, 571; Hobart v. Suffolk, 1b. 694; Anon. 1 C. 345; Wyck v. Packington, 3 Bro. P. C. 1; Starkey v. Brookes, 1 P. Wms. 390; Emley Freeman, Pre. Cha. 541; Baggins v. Jala Mod. 362; Hill v. Bishop of London, 1 Atk. 61; Hopkins v. Hopkins, 1 Ves. sen. 288; Sheldens Barnes, 2 ib. 447; Collins v. Wakeman, 1b. 61; Attorney-General v. Bowyer, 3 ib. 325; Wt v. Major, 11 ib. 203; Gibbs v. Ogier, 12 ib. 4; Wright v. Wright, 16 ib. 188; Williams v. Co. ib. 500; Kellett v. Kellett, 1 Ball & B. 3; Hooper v. Goodwyn, 18 Ves. 156; King v. D. nelson, 1 Ves. & Bea. 260, 272; Mayhew v. A son, 1 Ves. & B. 410; Dunne v. White, 1 ib. & Walk. 593; Jones v. Mitchell, 1 Sim. & 290); and the unappropriated residue of the personal estate to the testator's next of kin. (De v. Lambert, 4 Ves. 725; Dawson v. Clarke, 1b. 416; Menze v. Menze, 18 ib. 348.) And if estates are conveyed for particular purposes, viz. wholly or partially fail of effect, then to the use of such total (Pre. Cha. 162, 541; Digby v. Le gard, 3 P. Wms. 22; Gravenor v. Hulton, Amb. 642; Ackroyd v. Simpson, 1 Bro. C. C. 343), a partial failure (Lloyd v. Spillett, 2 Atk. 150; Davidson, v. Foley, 2 Bro. C. C. 102; Helyar v. Vincent, 2 Ves. 204; Sidney v. Sidg, 1b. 352), as the case may be, a trust will result back to the original owner.

The subject of purchases by a father in the name of a wife or child, and whether such will be considered as an advancement for the party in whose name the purchase is taken, or a resulting trust for the husband or father, having been already treated of in a former part of this work (see ante, p. 151-196), will render a repetition here unnecessary.

Public Sales.

By Messrs. MUSGROVE and GADSDEN, at the Mart. A leasehold estate, comprising a factory, wharf, and premises, near the Ragen's canal bridge, Boston; held for 99 years at 1000. per annum; let at 2000. per annum—bid. Nine houses, Nos. 1 to 9, Francis-place, New North-road; held for 61 years at 300. per annum; let at 900. per annum—2,550*l.*

Two leasehold farms, called Yalden and Wren House Farms, in Dagenham and Barking, Essex; let under the Deeds and Canons of Windsor, consisting of upwards of 300 acres of market garden, arable, pasture, and wood lands, with residence, farm house, agricultural buildings, cottages, &c. and eight acres of arable land, sold pursuant to an order of the High Court of Chancery, in the cause of Wimmill v. Wimmill, 7,148*l.*

By Messrs. DANIEL SMITH and SON. The freehold estate of Whittlesea, Cambridgeshire, extending over nearly 25,000 acres of land, offered in one lot, but bought in at 169,000*l.* and afterwards offered in two lots as follows, viz.—"The freehold rent-charges, in lieu of tithes, embracing about 17,000 acres—66,000*l.*"

Several farms lying within the manor and parish of Whittlesea, altogether about 2,136 acres of land; also the manor, which extend over 25,000 acres, and embrace the greater part of the town of Whittlesea, and the patronage of the perpetual advowson of the vicarage of Whittlesea—bid.

The freehold estate of Addington, Buckinghamshire, comprising the whole parish, with the manor, manse, advowson, several farms, and about 1,143 acres of grazing and dairy land—bought in at 75,300*l.* but afterwards offered in three lots as follows, viz.—

An improved rental of 14*l.* 6s. per annum, arising out of a messuage in Edward's-yard, at the back of Langham-place; held for 12½ years—59*l.*

FORD ABBEY.—We understand that this extensive and romantic property was purchased by Messrs. Osborne and Ward, solicitors, for George Miles, esq. of this city, one of the sons of the late P. J. Miles, esq. and brother of the members for Bristol and East Somerset.—Bristol Paper.

GREAT SALE OF PROPERTY AT BIRKENHEAD.—An immense sale of property, by auction, took place on Tuesday evening at the Woodside Hotel, and consisted of a large quantity of building land, and no less than ninety-seven mansions, houses, and shops in Birkenhead and the neighbourhood. The mansions and houses did not meet ready sale, which may be fairly attributed to the effects of the late turn-out; but the sale of land proved convincingly that property had not depreciated in value.—Liverpool Mercury.

OATLANDS PARK.—The statement which has appeared in the papers is incorrect. This estate was sold in eighty lots by Messrs. Drivers, of Parliament-street, on the 19th of May and 4th of August, 1846, and at the latter sale lot 6, being the bailiff's house, and the farm-yard, was bought by Mr. E. Driver for 1,750l. On finding this to be the case, the agents employed by Mr. Hughes Ball determined to call on Mr. E. Driver to give up the lot, he being the auctioneer engaged to sell the property, which he did, and it was this lot, subdivided into six lots, that Messrs. Shuttleworth and Sons put up at the Auction Mart on Friday last, when it fetched 3,200l. The whole estate, exclusive of the timber and manor, produced more than 70,000l.

PROSPECTUS.

Several assurance offices belong exclusively to lawyers, and the advantages of their connexion are acknowledged, but those advantages have hitherto been confined to the shareholders.

It is one of the objects of this Institution to place the benefits arising from this connexion within the reach of every member of the profession in the United Kingdom, whether he be a shareholder or not. Another and paramount object is to give the assured perfect security at the most moderate cost, and to afford them the advantages without the risks of mutual assurance.

The public will have the option of assuring either upon a scale entitling them to participate in the profits, or upon a lower scale without profits.

Four-fifths of the profits arising from assurances upon the higher scale will be divided periodically among the assured, and the remaining one-fifth will be carried to a fund comprising all the profits accruing to the Society from other sources.

The first charge upon this fund will be the payment of interest at the rate of four per cent. per annum to the shareholders upon the amount of the capital paid up; then a portion of the surplus (not exceeding one-tenth) will be applied in aid of a Widows' and Orphans' Fund, or Nominee Society, for the benefit of the widows and families of members of the Profession; and of the residue, one moiety will be divided amongst the shareholders, and the other moiety between the solicitors through whose means assurances are effected.

The attention of the Profession is earnestly invited to the principles of this Society, which combine perfect security to the Assured, with advantages to the Profession superior to those afforded by the existing Law Assurance Offices.

The Society will transact every species of business usually undertaken by Life Assurance Companies; and the utmost care will be taken to render the arrangement of this office satisfactory to the Profession and the Public.

A Table of Premiums is in course of preparation, and will shortly be published.

Some shares remain to be allotted. Application in the usual form may be made to the Secretary.

UNITED KINGDOM LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY.

3, WATERLOO-PLACE, RAIL-MALL, LONDON.

Established by Act of Parliament in 1834.

DIVISION OF PROFITS AMONG THE ASSURED

DIRECTORS.

James Stuart, esq. Chairman.
Hansard De Castro, esq. Deputy Chairman.
Samuel Anderson, esq.
Hamilton Blair Avarne, esq.
Edw. Boyd, esq. Resident.
E. Lennox Boyd, esq. Asst. Resident.
Charles Downes, esq.
Surgeon—F. Hale Thomson, esq. 42, Baring-street.

This Company, established by Act of Parliament, affords the most perfect security in a large paid-up Capital, and in the great success which has attended it since its commencement in 1834.

The Annual Income being upwards of £22,000.

In 1845 the Company added a Bonus of 2l. per cent. per annum on the sum insured to all policies of the participating class from the time they were effected.

The Bonus added to policies from March, 1834, to the 31st Dec. 1845, is as follows:—

Sum Assured.	Time Assured.	Sum added to Policy
£5,000	6 Yrs. 10 Months.	£763 6s. 6d.
5,000	6 Years	500 0 0
5,000	4 Years	400 0 0
5,000	2 Years	200 0 0

The Premiums nevertheless are on the most moderate scale, and only one-half need be paid for the first five years, where the Insurance is for Life.

Every information will be afforded on application to the Resident Directors, EDWARD BOYD, Esq. and E. LENNOX BOYD, Esq. of No. 3, Waterloo-place, Rail-mall, London.

PUBLICATIONS FOR THE VERULAM SOCIETY.

I. PRACTICAL REPORTS. II. FORMS FOR OFFICES. III. BOOKS.

PROSPECTUS OF THE VERULAM SOCIETY.

This Society has been established by the Legal Profession for the purpose of supplying to the Members useful Practical Reports, Text Books, and Forms, at moderate prices.

Any person admitted a member on payment of an entrance-fee of 10s. 6d.

An account of Forms and Publications had by the Members is transmitted half-yearly, and if paid within one month after delivery (not otherwise), a deduction of one-fourth from the cost price is allowed.

It is one of the advantages of the Society, that members may have all or any of the publications at the members' prices, or any one or more series of the Practical Reports.

It should be expressly understood that the members will incur no risks or responsibilities whatever. The difficulties of the Law of Partnership have been entirely avoided by the following arrangement:—The books and reports are issued by the Publisher of the Law Times, who undertakes to bring them out on his single responsibility, as his own publications, contracting to supply them to the members at the Society's prices.

THIS IS THE ONLY COMPANY who are bound by their deed of constitution not to dispute any policy unless they can prove that it was obtained by fraud, and for this purpose the Company have, by a clause in their deed of constitution, unhesitatingly deprived themselves of the power of objecting to any policy unless they undertake to prove that it was obtained from them by fraudulent misrepresentation.

THIS IS THE ONLY COMPANY who bind themselves to pay the full amount of the policies, although the debts for which they were effected shall have been liquidated before the claim arises.

THIS IS ALMOST THE ONLY COMPANY who grant in favour of creditors' whole world policies, whereby the debt is secured, although the debtor should go beyond the limits of Europe.

MESSRS. BROOKS and GREEN, Estate Agents, Surveyors, and Auctioneers, 41, Old Broad-street, being about to re-publish an index to their registers of estates, manors, farms, villa residences, town houses, &c. which they have at present for sale or to be let, beg to inform most respectfully to notify, that parties who may wish to have a description of their property inserted therein, are requested to send the full particulars to their offices, before the end of the present month. These registers are published and circulated all over the kingdom at Messrs. BROOKS and GREEN'S expense, and this method (which originated in their offices) of describing the property, its locality, &c. without making the name and address publicly known, has proved itself to be a successful and speedy mode of disposing of the same.

This Society grants Insurances to meet every kind of pecuniary risk contingent upon the duration of human life.

Assurances for the whole Term of Life may also be effected upon an Increasing Scale, commencing at a rate much below the ordinary Premiums, and exempt from any augmentation for a period of seven years.

The rates are calculated on the lowest scale consistent with security, from the Government returns. The payments may be made annually for life, or in one sum, or by a limited number of annual payments (afterwards to cease), or upon a decreasing scale, to meet the circumstances of the party assuring.

Four-fifths of the profits are divided among the assured.

The Board meets every Wednesday, at half-past Three o'clock, to receive proposals and transact other business; but any assurance for which immediate dispatch is required may be effected on the same day that it is proposed.

In cases where a life assured by another has gone beyond the limits prescribed by the policy, without the knowledge of the party interested, the Society will, upon his application, and proof of the life being then in a satisfactory state of health (but subject to their medical officers' approval of the risk as applicable to such life), renew the policy upon the same terms as they would have required for its continuance had their consent been previously obtained.

The usual commission allowed to all solicitors.

Desirable Leasehold Residence near Brunswick-square.

UNITED KINGDOM LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY.

8, WATERLOO-PLACE, PALL-MALL, LONDON.

Established by Act of Parliament in 1834.

DIVISION OF PROFITS AMONG THE ASSURED

DIRECTORS.

James Stuart, esq. Chairman.
Hananel De Castro, esq. Deputy Chairman.
Samuel Anderson, esq.
Hamilton Blair Avaric, esq.
Edw. Boyd, esq. Resident.
E. Lennox Boyd, esq. Asst. Resident.
Charles Downes, esq.

Surgeon—F. Hale Thomson, esq. 48, Berners-street.

This Company, established by Act of Parliament, affords the most perfect security in a large paid-up Capital, and in the great success which has attended it since its commencement in 1834.

Its Annual Income being upwards of £82,000.

In 1841 the Company added a Bonus of 2l. per cent. per annum on the sum insured to all policies of the participating class from the time they were effected.

The Bonus added to policies from March, 1834, to the 31st Dec. 1840, is as follows:—

Sum Assured.	Time Assured.	Sum added to Policy
£5,000	6 Yrs. 10 Months.	£683 6s. 8d.
5,000	6 Years	600 0 0
5,000	4 Years	400 0 0
5,000	2 Years	200 0 0

The Premiums nevertheless are on the most moderate scale, and only one-half need be paid for the first Five Years, where the Insurance is for Life.

Every information will be afforded on application to the Resident Directors, EDWARD BOYD, Esq. and E. LENNOX BOYD, Esq. of No. 8, Waterloo-place, Pall-mall, London.

A NEW DISCOVERY.—MR. HOWARD,

Surgeon-Dentist, 52, Fleet-street, begs to introduce an ENTIRELY NEW DESCRIPTION OF ARTIFICIAL TEETH, fixed without springs, wires, or ligatures. They so perfectly resemble the natural Teeth as not to be distinguished from the original by the closest observer; they will NEVER CHANGE COLOUR or DECAY, and will be found very superior to any Teeth ever before used. This method does not require the extraction of roots or any painful operation, and will give support and preserve teeth that are loose, and is guaranteed to restore articulation and mastication; and that Mr. Howard's improvement may be within the reach of the most economical, he has fixed his charges at the lowest scale possible. Decayed teeth rendered sound and useful in mastication.—52, Fleet-street, at home from Ten till Five.

PROSPECTUS.

This Society is now completely registered, and prepared to transact all the usual business of a Life Assurance.

It is based upon a principle which will combine the benefits of Mutual Assurance with the guarantee of a Subscribed Capital of ONE MILLION STERLING.

Whilst perfect security is thus given, the number and character of the Shareholders (consisting of nearly 500 Members of the Legal Profession), will command a large amount of business, and consequent advantages will arise to the Assured.

Tables of Premiums have been prepared expressly for this Office, by F. G. P. NEISON, Esq. F.L.S., calculated on the nearest approximation to the real law of mortality.

These Tables will be found to afford peculiar encouragement to the assurance of young lives. They embrace participating and non-participating scales.

In the participating class, the Assured will be entitled to have four-fifths of the profits divided amongst them periodically, either by way of addition to the amount assured, or in diminution of premium, as the parties may elect. No deduction will be made from such profits for interest of capital, or for a guarantee fund.

The Premiums may be paid half-yearly or annually, or by a single payment.

Assurances may be effected through any respectable Solicitor, or by writing to the Secretary.

The Directors meet on Thursdays at Two o'clock; but Assurances may be effected on any day, by applying between the hours of Ten and Four, at the Offices of the Society, where Prospectuses and all other requisite information may be obtained.

CHARLES JOHN GILL,

Secretary.

THE NEW TOOTH-BRUSH, made on the most scientific principle, thoroughly cleansing between the teeth, when used up and down, and polishing the surface when used crossways. This Brush so entirely enters between the closest teeth, that the inventors have decided upon naming it the TOOTH-PICK BRUSH; therefore ask for it under that name, marked and numbered as under:—viz.—full-sized Brushes, marked T. P. W. No. 1, hard; No. 2, less hard; No. 3, middling; No. 4, soft. The narrow Brushes marked T. P. N. No. 5, hard; No. 6, less hard; No. 7, middling; No. 8, soft. These inimitable Brushes are only to be had at ROSS and SONS', and they warrant the hair never to come out, at 1s. each, or 10s. per dozen, in bone; or 2s. each, or 21s. per dozen, in ivory.

THE ATRAPILATORY, or LIQUID HAIR DYE—the only dye that really answers for all colours, and does not require re-doing but as the hair grows, as it never fades or acquires that unnatural red or purple tint common to all other dyes. ROSS and SONS can, with the greatest confidence, recommend the above dye as infallible, if done at their establishment; and ladies or gentlemen requiring it are requested to bring a friend or servant with them to see how it is used, which will enable them to do it afterwards without the chance of failure. Several private apartments devoted entirely to the above purpose, and some of their establishment having used it, the effect produced can be at once seen. They think it necessary to add, that by attending strictly to the instructions given with each bottle of dye, numerous persons have succeeded equally well without coming to them.

Address ROSS and SONS', 119 and 120, Bishopsgate-street, London, the celebrated Perruquiers, Perfumers, Hair-cutters, and Hair-dyers. N.B.—Parties attended at their own residences, whatever the distance.

HALF-PINTS PORT and SHERRY,

10s. 6d. per dozen, in demi-semi-quaver bottles.

"Four glasses of capital wine, in an elegant bottle, called a demi-semi-quaver, so ornamentally shaped as to grace any dinner-table."—Review.

"In the study, at chambers, or at the office, with a snack or luncheon, nothing can be better, and the wine is certainly first-rate."—Fort.

"The wine is admirable, and the half-pints, or demi-semi-quaver bottles, a most convenient form."—Herald.
Hampers, containing one dozen of each, or smaller quantities, may be had as samples. Semi-quavers, or pints, 21s.; quavers, or quarts, 40s.

Surgeon—W. Coulson, esq. No. 2, Frederick's-place, Old Jewry.

Consulting Actuary—Professor Hall, of King's College.

LOW RATES OF PREMIUMS.

In addition to the subscribed Capital of 300,000l. the Assured have the security of the Company's rapidly increasing income and an accumulating Assurance Fund invested in Government and other available securities, of considerably larger amount than the estimated liabilities of the Company.

The rates of Premium are reduced to the lowest scale compatible with the safety of the Assured and the stability of the Company, thereby, in effect, giving to every Policy-holder an immediate and certain bonus, without risk, in lieu of the deferred and frequently delusive prospect of a periodical division of profits.

ANNUAL PREMIUM TO ASSURE 100L.

Age.	For One Year.	For Seven Years.	Whole Term.
20	0 17 8	0 19 1	1 31 13
30	1 1 8	1 2 7	2 0 7
40	1 5 0	1 6 0	2 14 12
50	1 14 1	1 19 10	4 8 11
60	3 2 4	3 17 0	5 8 13

One-third of the "whole term" premium may remain unpaid at five per cent. compound interest as a debt upon the policy for life, or may be paid off at any time without notice.

In assurances for advances of money, as security for debts, or as a provision for a family when the least present outlay is desirable, the varied and comprehensive tables of the Argus Office will be found to be particularly favourable to the assured.

The Medical Officers attend daily, at a Quarter before Two o'clock.

GALVANISM.—Invalids are solicited to send to Mr. HALSE, of 5, PELHAM CRESCENT, BROMPTON, LONDON, for his PAMPHLET on MEDICAL GALVANISM, which will be forwarded free on receipt of Two Postage Stamps. They will be astonished at its contents. In it will be found the particulars of cures in cases of Asthma, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Tic-douloureux, Paralysis, Spinal Complaints, Headaches, deficiency of Nervous Energy, Liver Complaints, General Debility, Indigestion, Stiff Joints, all sorts of Nervous Disorders, &c. Mr. Halse's method of applying the Galvanic fluid is quite free from all unpleasant sensation; in fact, it is rather pleasurable than otherwise, and many ladies are exceedingly fond of it. It quickly cures the patient to do without medicine. Terms, One Guinea per week.

"Galvanism.—We hold it a positive duty to call attention to the extraordinary cures lately effected by Mr. Halse, of Pelham-crescent, Brompton, London, by the means of Galvanism. A detail of these may be seen in a clever pamphlet on the subject, lately published by the practitioner himself; but we are enabled to corroborate the most essential part of these statements, by the fact of having ourselves undergone the operation, the process of which is no way disagreeable, while the effect is equally astonishing and complete. In Asthma, more especially, the powers of Galvanism, properly applied, are wonderful."—Court Journal.

"Galvanism.—The Science of Galvanism appears to be now brought to great perfection; for we are given to understand that it can be administered to mere infants, without producing the least inconvenience to them. Mr. Halse, of Pelham-crescent, Brompton, is the gentleman to whom the public are indebted for this improvement in the Galvanic Apparatus; in short, Mr. Halse may be considered the Medical Galvanist of the metropolis. Like most other men of talent, however, he has opponents and imitators; but what reasonable person, who feels desirous of trying the remedial powers of Galvanism, would think of resorting to any imitator, when Mr. Halse can himself be applied to?"—Weekly Chronicle.

"Galvanism.—Our readers may have noticed several extracts we have given from Mr. Halse's Pamphlet on Medical Galvanism. We have reason to believe, that every case stated in the pamphlet is perfectly true, wonderful as they certainly are; for a short time since we called on Mr. Halse, and were introduced by him to a gentleman who was undergoing the operation. The patient informed us that it was not at all an unpleasant sensation; indeed, we felt it ourselves, and there was not the least unpleasantness about it. This gentleman's case was Paralysis; and he declared to us, that before he came to Mr. Halse, one leg had withered away to a mere skeleton, 'but now,' said he, 'you perceive, it is both stout and healthy.' Such, indeed, was the case. If we can judge by the number of patients Mr. Halse has, we should say he is making some very wonderful cures."—Shipping and Mercantile Gazette.

HALSE'S PORTABLE GALVANIC APPARATUS.—Mr. W. H. Halse, of 5, Pelham-crescent, Brompton, London, is now ready to supply patients with his efficient PORTABLE APPARATUS. It is constructed on so simple a plan, that the most unscientific can manage it; and what renders it far superior to all other galvanic apparatuses is, that it will remain in action for several weeks without the least trouble. It is constructed on precisely the same principle as the ones he uses at Pelham-crescent; and as he galvanizes between 40 and 50 patients every day, it may be well supposed that he has brought the galvanic apparatus to great perfection. Price 10 guineas, the cash to accompany the order. Medical advice will be given how to apply it.

N.B.—By enclosing two postage stamps to Mr. Halse, a pamphlet on galvanism will be forwarded post-free.

Between Maidstone and Rochester.—The Stark Castle Farm, near the banks of the Medway.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON are instructed to offer for SALE by AUCTION, at the Mart, some time in May, the above desirable FREEHOLD ESTATE, comprising a superior farm homestead, with the interesting Castle Farm, and about 293 Acres of Land, including about 50 Acres of Marsh Land, now in the hands of a highly respectable and responsible tenant for a short unexpired term, at a low rent, offering a most desirable investment.—The Estate may be viewed, and particulars with plans obtained, when the day of sale is fixed, at the neighbouring Inns; the Auction Mart; and at the offices of DANIEL SMITH and SON, in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall.

Long Leasfield Estate, Camberland-market, near the Regent's-park.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON will offer for absolute SALE by AUCTION, at the Mart, near the Bank of England, on TUESDAY, April 22, at Twelve o'clock, by direction of the Administratrix of the late Mr. John Sheppard, a valuable ESTATE, held under the Queen for an unexpired term of 79 years, and now producing, from respectable tenants, a net rental (after deducting the ground rent of 241. of 2001. The Estate comprises six houses, forming the prominent corner on the east side of Camberland-market, one a coffee and chop-house, and another an old-established dairy. The estate may be viewed by application to the tenants (Messrs. Allen, Pepple, and others), and particulars may be had upon the premises; at the Auction Mart; of Messrs. SMART and BULLER, Solicitors, 65, Lincoln's-inn-fields; and at DANIEL SMITH and SON'S Office, in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall.

Important and capital Freehold Landed Investment, in a fine, healthy, and picturesque part of Hampshire, with beautiful and remarkably thriving woodlands, valuable trout streams, manor, &c. with some fine sites for the erection of a mansion.

BEDFORD-SQUARE.

MESSRS. BULLOCK are instructed by the Trustees and Executors of the late John Legh, Esq. to SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, May 5, at Twelve (unless previously disposed of by Private Treaty), the GROUND LEASE for 284 years, from Midsummer next, of an excellent Residence, No. 26, on the north side of the square. The house is in very good repair, and has the advantage of an extra room on the ground floor, 23 feet by 20 feet, with lead flat roof. The furniture, large glass, pictures, books, fine cellar of wines, plate, &c. will be disposed of shortly after, unless taken by valuation.—Further particulars may be had of Messrs. CLOWES, WEDLAKE, and CLOWES, King's Bench-walk, Temple; and of Messrs. BULLOCK, Holborn.

Highly Valuable Property on Lord Portman's Estate, held for a long term at a peppercorn, and leased for twenty-one years from 1840, at 200*l.* per annum.

MESSRS. BULLOCK have received instructions from the Trustees to SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, near the Bank of England, on TUESDAY, May 5, at Twelve, the important LEASES, for nearly fifty years unexpired, of the Premises known as the Crown Livery Stables, with dwelling-house, farrier's, coachmaker's, and other workshops, situate in Great and Little York-mews, between Gloucester-place and York-place, Marylebone, and embracing a frontage, in Great York-mews, of 67 feet by a depth of 154 feet. The extent and eligible site, being close to the Regent's-park, must always give great value to this property; and the former rental at which it was let, viz. 300*l.* per annum, may be looked forward to at the expiration of the present lease.—Printed particulars and plans will be ready in a few days, and may be had of Messrs. CLOWES, WEDLAKE, and CLOWES, 10, King's Bench-walk, Temple, Solicitors; at the Auction Mart; and of Messrs. BULLOCK, Holborn.

IN THE COUNTY OF ESSEX.—Capital Landed Investment.

MESSRS. BULLOCK are directed to SELL by AUCTION, at the Auction Mart, on TUESDAY, May 5, at Twelve, TWO compact FARMS, principally freehold, called Great and Little Martins, situate in the parishes of Stowmarket and Cold Norton, five miles from Danbury, seven from Maldon, eleven from Chelmsford, and a short distance from the navigable rivers Crouch and Blackwater. The estate consists of a good farmhouse and outbuildings, substantially built and in excellent repair, and 83 acres of arable and small part pasture land, lying in convenient inclosures round the homestead, and is let for 12 years from Michaelmas, 1859, to Messrs. Taylor, old and punctual tenants, at the very low rent of 83*l.* per annum.—Printed particulars and plans may be had of Messrs. CLOWES, WEDLAKE, and CLOWES, 10, King's Bench-walk, Temple; at the Inns at Chelmsford, Maldon, Colchester, and Witham; at the Auction Mart; and of Messrs. BULLOCK, Holborn.

MILE-END.—Twenty-six Plots of Freehold Building-ground, Land-tax redeemed.

MR. ROBERTS (of Old Jewry) will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on FRIDAY, April 17, at ONE, TWENTY-SIX PLOTS of valuable FREEHOLD GROUND, most desirably situate on the New-road, called Albert-road, East-street, Mile-end, on the south side of the Eastern Counties Railway, near the Devonshire-street arch, about two miles from the Royal Exchange, and a short remove from the Victoria-park. The soil is sound and dry, and having a deep substratum of gravel, there is an abundant supply of pure and good water at about sixteen feet from the surface. The ground is well stocked with fruit and other trees, and is well adapted for the erection of moderate-sized houses. The roads have been made in the best manner, at an unlimited expense, and the poor and other rates are very low. Each lot will entitle the purchaser to a vote for Middlesex.—Particulars and plans may be had at the Prince Regent Tavern, Globe-road, corner of Devonshire-street, Mile-end; the New Globe, Mile-end-road; at the Auction Mart; of Mr. SCARBOROUGH, 19, Tokenhouse-yard; and of the Auctioneer, 7, Old Jewry.

Valuable Freehold and Leasehold Estates, Homerton, Dalston, and Haggerstone, producing 743*l.* per annum.

MR. ROBERTS (of Old Jewry) will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on FRIDAY, April 17, at Twelve, Three very genteel five-roomed FREEHOLD HOUSES, situate King-street, Homerton; Nine capital Houses and Shops, desirably situate, Hertford-terrace, near the Regent's canal-bridge, Haggerstone; Seven neat Residences, containing each seven rooms, kitchen, and large garden, pleasantly situate, Holly-street, Dalston; Two detached Cottages, each containing six rooms and large garden, in Laurel-street, adjoining; Four four-roomed Houses, one with shop, situate Nos. 23 to 26, Woodland-street, Dalston; and Three genteel six-roomed Houses, Nos. 1 to 3, York-street, Kingsland-road, near Haggerstone Church. The whole of the above valuable property is let (part on lease) at low rents. The leaseholds are held for long terms, at low ground rents.—Particulars may be had of J. SCARBOROUGH, Esq., 19, Tokenhouse-yard; at the Lamb and Flag, Homerton; King's Arms, Kingsland-green; at the Mart; and of the Auctioneer, 7, Old Jewry.

Outlands Mansion, Park, and Estate of 900 acres, Surrey, within one mile of the Weybridge or Walton Stations on the South-Western Railway, and within half an hour's ride of the Terminus in London.

MESSRS. DRIVER have been favoured with instructions to offer to PUBLIC COMPETITION, at the Auction Mart, Bartholomew-lane, on TUESDAY, the 19th of May, at Twelve o'clock, in 64 Lots (unless an acceptable offer for the whole estate should be previously made), the above renowned and highly admired DOMAIN, formerly the property and residence of his late Royal Highness the Duke of York. Lot 1 will comprise Outlands Mansion, Offices, delightful Pleasure Grounds, the far-famed Grotto, Kitchen Garden and Lawn, extending to and including part of the magnificent lake called the Broad Water, and containing altogether 97 acres, without exception constituting one of the most desirable and enviable residences, and site of ornamental grounds in the kingdom, and from the house having been recently completely repaired and fitted up in the best style of taste and elegance, forms a most desirable abode for any family. The Park and other Lands south of the Lake will be divided into about 50 lots, varying from 3 to 10 acres each, with the exception of 2 or 3 lots, from 10 to 20 acres, and of the most inviting character for the erection of villas, being upon a peculiarly salubrious soil, and much adorned with ornamental timber, which may be thinned to suit the tastes of the various purchasers. The present Gravel Road, so long the acknowledged and highly admired drive through the Park, leading from Walton to Weybridge, affording at all points fine prospects, will be preserved as the public road and approach to a great number of the lots, and another principal road will be set out to lead through other parts of the park, affording an outlet at the present lodge entrance, where it crosses the South-Western Railway and leads to Cobham, Kingston, and all the adjacent beautiful neighbourhood. The lands on the north of the lake, and extending to the river Thames, will be divided into 7 lots of larger description, one being about 113 acres, and the remainder of the estate, consisting of Weybridge and Child's Farm, containing about 85 acres, will form other lots, besides which there will be 2 other lots in the town of Weybridge of about 10 acres each, admirably adapted for farm ornices.—Printed specifications, with plans annexed, are now prepared, and will be ready for delivery after the 4th of April, and may then be had of Mr. Haines, at the Farm House, Outlands; at the Swan, Chertsey; White Hart, Windsor; Griffin, Kingston; of Messrs. Frere, Foster, and Co. Solicitors, Lincoln's-inn; at the Auction Mart, near the Bank of England; and of Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors and Land Agents, 8, Richmond-terrace, Parliament-street, of whom cards to view the mansion may be had.

Immediate Vicinity of Croydon.—Sixty-two Acres of Freehold Land, Tithe Free, and exonerated from Land Tax.

MESSRS. DRIVER have received instructions to submit to PUBLIC COMPETITION, at the Auction Mart, Bartholomew-lane, London, on FRIDAY, the 8th of May next, at Twelve o'clock, in 10 Lots, the above Sixty-two Acres of FREEHOLD LAND, principally Meadow, free of Rectorial Tithes, and exonerated from Land Tax, divided in separate and well-enclosed paddocks, all very eligible situate, adjoining and surrounding Heath Lodge Mansion, lately the residence of Lieut. Col. Utterton, but now of John Morland, Esq. and also adjoining the high road leading from Croydon to Addiscombe and Bromley, and being on a dry gravelly soil, with easy access of water, are peculiarly well adapted for the erection of Villages. The whole is now in the hands of the proprietor, and immediate possession may be had on completion of the purchase.—Printed specifications, with plans annexed, may be had at the Greyhound, Croydon; Lion, Streatham; of F. J. RIDSDALE, Esq. solicitor, 5, Gray's-inn-square; at the Auction Mart; and of Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors and Land Agents, 8, Richmond-terrace, Parliament-street.

Votes for the County.—Freehold Building Ground, Two-waters, Herts, contiguous to the Birmingham Railway Station at Boxmoor, and the market town of Hemel Hempstead.

MESSRS. BROOKS and GREEN have received instructions to SELL by AUCTION, at the Bell Inn, Two-waters, on THURSDAY, April 30, at Twelve, 27 Lots of highly desirable FREEHOLD BUILDING GROUND on the Manor Farm, having excellent frontages, and offering eligible investments for builders and large or small capitalists. Through the formation of the Birmingham Railway, with its station at Boxmoor, and the consequent facilities for travelling, the applications for residences and apartments for families have been so numerous, that extensive building operations have been most successfully conducted between Two-waters and Hemel Hempstead.—Particulars and plans may be had at the Bell Inn, Two-waters; at the Railway Inns at Hemel Hempstead, Berkhamstead, Tring, Watford, Rickmansworth, and St. Alban's; of Messrs. Smith and Grover, solicitors, Hemel Hempstead; Messrs. Teesdale, Symes, Weston, and Teesdale, solicitors, Fenchurch-street; and of Messrs. THE LIFE COAT, &c.—This invaluable article of dress is so contrived that it may be worn on land and water, and ready for immediate use, without the invention being visible, and will support the head and shoulders considerably above the surface of the water, which was proved in the sea at Brighton and by the Royal Humane Society. This invention can be applied to any over-coat or pea-jacket for yachting, boating, or voyaging. Life waist-coats for sea and river bathing, 11. 1s. Many a valuable life has been lost whilst bathing.

R. WILSON, Tailor and Habitmaker, Inventor and Patentee, 30, Edward-street, Portman-square, London.

A NEW DISCOVERY.—Mr. HOWARD, Surgeon-Dentist, 52, Fleet-street, begs to introduce an ENTIRELY NEW DESCRIPTION OF ARTIFICIAL TEETH, fixed without springs, wires, or ligatures. They so perfectly resemble the natural Teeth as not to be distinguished from the original by the closest observer; they will NEVER CHANGE COLOUR OR DECAY, and will be found very superior to any Teeth ever before used. This method does not require the extraction of roots or any painful operation, and will give support and preserve teeth that are loose, and is guaranteed to restore articulation and mastication; and that Mr. Howard's improvement may be within the reach of the most economical, he has fixed his charges at the lowest scale possible. Decayed teeth rendered sound and useful in mastication.—52, Fleet-street. At home from Ten till Five.

PROUT'S TOOTH-BRUSHES.—These celebrated Brushes are well known in most parts of the world, and esteemed for their durability and beauty of workmanship. They retain the hair till quite worn out, are made of every degree of hardness and variety of shape, to the extent of nearly 100 sorts, including those recommended by the principal dentists of our day, and are sold at the usual price of 1s. each, or by post for thirteen stamps.

Superior smooth-pointed Tortoiseshell Combs, the workmanship of which is rarely equalled. The new and fashionable Comb for Ladies' Head-dress in great abundance. Tail and Dressing Combs, together with Front Combs, carved, turned, and plain. The stock, for variety, colour, or extent, is presumed to be the most complete as well as the largest in London.

Prout's Brush and Comb Manufactory, 229, Strand, London, seven houses west of Temple-bar. Established forty years.

To Readers and Correspondents.

We cannot insert, or notice in any way, any communication that is sent to us anonymously; but those who choose to address us in confidence will find their confidence respected. NEITHER CAN WE UNDERTAKE TO RETURN ANY MANUSCRIPTS WHATSOEVER.

A. J. J. reminds us that we last week cited the Debtors and Creditors Act as 8 & 9 Vict. c. 127, instead of 7 & 8 Vict. c. 70, the former being the Small Debts Act. Thanks.

A YOUNG BEGINNER.—The second volume of Stephens's Commentaries.

W. F.—We well remember such a statement. It appeared somewhere among the Legal Intelligence, but we have been unable to lay our finger upon it.

The query on a point in Conveyancing is one for Counsel, and is not a point of practice, to which, for obvious reasons, our queries are limited.

H. N. C. (York).—Thanks for pointing out the error. It is almost unavoidable, when the author does not correct his own proofs.

S. Y.—We have no doubt that his conjecture is the true one; but we cannot venture to charge professional malpractices upon a conjecture.

LEX.—We have received no report of this case.

F. A. M. (Cheltenham).—As we do not know whether Mr. Lockwood is an Attorney or only a sham lawyer, we cannot announce him as the latter.

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS.

The volumes of the LAW TIMES, neatly, strongly, and uniformly bound, for 5s. 6d. each, with the name and address of the owner on the cover, 1s. extra, if sent to the office. If the numbers for binding be transmitted by the post, they must be tied in a parcel open at the ends, and contain some distinguishing mark by which it may be recognised, of which the publisher should be advised by letter and directed how he shall return the bound volume. Advantage may be taken of the same parcel to enclose other books for binding.

NOTICE.

The subscription for the current half-year is now due, and subscribers desirous of availing themselves of the great reduction allowed for pre-payment, should forward the same in the course of the ensuing week. The prepaid subscription is 11. 5s. for the half-year, and 21. 7s. for the year, being a reduction respectively of 25 and 30 per cent.

CIRCULAR NOTES AND LETTERS OF CREDIT.—The LONDON AND WESTMINSTER BANK issues Circular Notes for the use of Travellers and Residents on the Continent. These Notes are payable at every important place in Europe, and thus enable a traveller to vary his route without inconvenience; no expense is incurred except for the price of the stamp, and when cashed no charge is made for commission.

These Notes may be obtained either at the Head Office of the London and Westminster Bank, in Lombard; or at the Branches of the Bank, viz.—1, St. James's-square; 213, High Holborn; 4, Strand-place, Oxford-street; 3, Wellington-street, Borough; and 87, High-street, Whitechapel.

By order of the Board,
JAMES WILLIAM GILBERT, General Manager.

COCO-NUT FIBRE.—This substance envelopes the shell of the milky coco-nut, around which it forms a strong protecting net-work. Man's ingenuity has turned the fibre to account by manufacturing it into many useful articles—such as carpets for stairs and passages, matting for churches, public buildings, offices, nurseries, and kitchens, hearth-rugs, door-mats, ropes, netting for sheep-folds, &c.; but among the applications there is not any to which it is better adapted than for the stuffing of mattresses and cushions, as a substitute for horse-hair, wool, and flock. It is very elastic, and affords great ease and support to the body, whether used with or without a feather bed. It has also the additional recommendation of being so obnoxious to vermin that they will not live in it whilst it is a fact well known that wool, flock, tow, and even horse-hair, will engender animalcules. Possessing peculiar chemical properties that render it a non-absorbent, the fibre is particularly suitable for children's beds, for use of schools, in all large dormitories, and a sea. Coco-nut fibre mattresses are only about one-half the price of those made from horse-hair. Priced lists may be had on application at the warehouse, or will be sent free by post.

TARLETON, 42, Ludgate-hill, seven doors from Farringdon-street, and five below Belle Sauvage Inn.

AMERICAN BRASS CLOCKS, 18s.—Purchasers should see that they buy JEROME'S CLOCKS. These clocks keep exact time, strike the hours in cathedral tones, are handsome, will stand upon a bracket or mantle, or may be suspended, and, without violence, will last for ever. Eight-day clocks, 42s.; eight-day silent ditto, 36s.; ditto, with alarm only, 35s.; one-day clock, 18s. 21s. and 23s. 6d.; with alarm, 35s.; mahogany brackets for ditto, 2s. 6d. They will be sent home free, and set running, within three miles of the Post-office. Country orders, with remittance or reference, solicited: the clocks packed in running order and forwarded free of further expense. Warranted to perform well, or the money returned. This Society is now completely registered, and prepared to transact all the usual business of Life Assurance.

It is based upon a principle which will combine the benefits of Mutual Assurance with the guarantee of a Subscribed Capital of ONE MILLION STERLING.

Whilst perfect security is thus given, the number and character of the Shareholders (consisting of nearly 500 Members of the Legal Profession), will command a large amount of business, and consequent advantages will arise to the Assured.

Tables of Premiums have been prepared expressly for this Office, by F. G. P. Naisson, Esq. F.L.S., calculated on the nearest approximation to the real law of mortality.

These Tables will be found to afford peculiar encouragement to the assurance of young lives. They embrace participating and non-participating scales.

In the participating class, the Assured will be entitled to have four-fifths of the profits divided amongst them periodically, either by way of addition to the amount assured, or in diminution of premium, as the parties may elect. No deduction will be made from such profits for interest of capital, or for a guarantee fund.

The Premiums may be paid half-yearly or annually, or by a single payment.

Assurances may be effected through any respectable Solicitor, or by writing to the Secretary.

The Directors meet on Thursdays at Two o'clock; but Assurances may be effected on any day, by applying between the hours of Ten and Four, at the Office of the Society, where Prospectuses and all other requisite information may be obtained.

CHARLES JOHN GILL, Secretary.

The business of the Company is divided into three principal branches.

The assurance of life, and all the ordinary transactions of assurance offices, upon advantageous terms, peculiar to this Company.

An entirely new and advantageous system at once of assurance and deposit.

And the granting of loans upon a new and highly beneficial system, and the effecting all pecuniary arrangements connected with life assurance.

A Board of Directors meet every Thursday, at 2 o'clock; but proposals may be made at any time.

Prospectuses and every information may be obtained, and proposals for assurance or loans may be made, at the offices of the Company, between the hours of 10 and 4 o'clock daily, or by letter addressed to the Secretary.

GEORGE CUMMING, Secretary.

SOVEREIGN LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY,

5, St. James's-street, London.

The entirely new plan of Assurance on the Deposit System, adopted by the Company, being now in full operation, Prospectuses and Tables may be had on application at the Offices of the Company, or by letter addressed to the Secretary.

John Ritchie, Esq.
F. H. Thomson, Esq.

Surgeon—F. Hale Thomson, Esq. 48, Berners-street.

This Company, established by Act of Parliament, affords the most perfect security in a large paid-up Capital, and in the great success which has attended it since its commencement in 1834.

Its Annual Income being upwards of £22,000.

In 1841 the Company added a Bonus of 21 per cent. per annum on the sum insured to all policies of the participating class from the time they were effected.

The Bonus added to policies from March, 1834, to the 31st Dec. 1840, is as follows:—

Sum Assured.	Time Assured.	Sum added to Policy
£5,000	6 Yrs. 10 Months.	£663 6s. 8d.
5,000	6 Years	600 0 0
5,000	4 Years	400 0 0
5,000	2 Years	200 0 0

The Premiums nevertheless are on the most moderate scale, and only one-half need be paid for the first Five Years, where the Insurance is for Life.

Every information will be afforded on application to the Resident Directors, EDWARD BOYD, Esq. and E. LENNOX BOYD, Esq. of No. 8, Waterloo-place, Pall-mall, London.

DIRECTORS.

Richard Spooner, Esq. M.P. Chairman.
Benjamin Hall, Esq. Deputy Chairman.

THIS IS THE ONLY COMPANY who are bound by their deed of constitution not to dispute any policy unless they can prove that it was obtained by fraud, and for this purpose the Company have, by a clause in their deed of constitution, unhesitatingly deprived themselves of the power of objecting to any policy unless they undertake to prove that it was obtained from them by fraudulent misrepresentation.

THIS IS THE ONLY COMPANY who bind themselves to pay the full amount of the policies, although the debts for which they were effected shall have been liquidated before the claim arises.

THIS IS ALMOST THE ONLY COMPANY who grant in favour of creditors' whole world policies, whereby the debt is secured, although the debtor should go beyond the limits of Europe.

REAL GLENLIVAT WHISKY.—The reduction in duty, and consequent low price at which brandy (or what is called such) is now being advertised, may lead to the impression that that article is as cheap as the real Glenlivet, now so widely and favourably known to the public. To correct this error, the subscribers beg to direct attention to an important point in estimating the value of a spirit—its strength. The price of the real Glenlivet is as follows:—At the ordinary brandy strength, 10s. per gallon; proof strength, 12s.; full strength, 14s.; genuine old Cognac brandy, pale and brown, finest imported, 30s. and 35s. per gallon.

ANDREW UHLEN and Co., 1, Northumberland-street, Strand.

NERVOUSNESS: CURE for the MIL-

LION.—Mr. HENRY NEWTON (late Chemist to the Rev. Dr. Wille Mosely) has made arrangements to extend to every member of the community the benefit of the great discovery for the CURE of NERVOUS COMPLAINTS, which hitherto has been enjoyed by the upper and wealthier classes exclusively. Persons suffering from nervousness, fear, delusion, melancholy, inquietude, distrust, nation for society, study, business, &c. confusion; blood to the head, giddiness, failure of memory, insomniolence, and every other form of nervous disease, are invited to avail themselves of this never-failing remedy. The most deep-seated symptoms are effectually and permanently removed. Hours for consultation daily from Eleven to Five, and in the evening from Seven to Nine, at Mr. Newton's residence, 7, Northumberland-street, Trafalgar-square. —Letters, with a concise statement of cases, promptly attended to; and the means of cure sent to all parts.

GALVANISM.—Invalids are solicited to send to Mr. HALSE, of 5, PELHAM CRESCENT, BROMPTON, LONDON, for his PAMPHLET on MEDICAL GALVANISM, which will be forwarded free on receipt of Two Postage Stamps: They will be astonished at its contents. In it will be found the particulars of cures in cases of Asthma, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Tic-douloureux, Paralysis, Spinal Complaints, Headaches, deficiency of Nervous Energy, Liver Complaints, General Debility, Indigestion, Stiff Joints, all sorts of Nervous disorders, &c. Mr. Halse's method of applying the Galvanic Fluid is quite free from all unpleasant sensation; in fact, it is rather pleasurable than otherwise, and many ladies are exceedingly fond of it. It quickly cures the patient to do without medicine. Terms, One Guinea per week.

"Galvanism.—We hold it a positive duty to call attention to the extraordinary cures lately effected by Mr. Halse, of Pelham-crescent, Brompton, London, by the means of Galvanism. A detail of these may be seen in a clever pamphlet on the subject, lately published by the practitioner himself; but we are enabled to corroborate the most essential part of these statements, by the fact of having ourselves undergone the operation, the process of which is in no way disagreeable, while the effect is equally astonishing and complete. In Asthma, more especially, the powers of Galvanism, properly applied, are wonderful." —Court Journal.

"Galvanism.—The Science of Galvanism appears to be now brought to great perfection; for we are given to understand that it can be administered to mere infants, without producing the least inconvenience to them. Mr. Halse, of Pelham-crescent, Brompton, is the gentleman to whom the public are indebted for this improvement in the Galvanic Apparatus; in short, Mr. Halse may be considered the Medical Galvanist of the metropolis. Like most other men of talent, however, he has opponents and imitators; but what reasonable person, who feels desirous of trying the remedial powers of Galvanism, would think of resorting to any imitator, when Mr. Halse can himself be applied to?" —Weekly Chronicle.

"Galvanism.—Our readers may have noticed several extracts we have given from Mr. Halse's Pamphlet on Medical Galvanism. We have reason to believe, that every case stated in the pamphlet is perfectly true, wonderful as they certainly are; for a short time since we called on Mr. Halse, and were introduced by him to a gentleman who was undergoing the operation. The patient informed us that it was not at all an unpleasant sensation; indeed, we felt it ourselves, and there was not the least unpleasantness about it. This gentleman's case was Paralysis; and he declared to us, that before he came to Mr. Halse, one leg had withered away to a mere skeleton, 'but now,' said he, 'you perceive, it is both stout and healthy.' Such, indeed, was the case. If we can judge by the number of patients Mr. Halse has, we should say he is making some very wonderful cures." —Shipping and Mercantile Gazette.

HALSE'S PORTABLE GALVANIC APPARATUS.—Mr. W. H. Halse, of 5, Pelham-crescent, Brompton, London, is now ready to supply patients with his efficient PORTABLE APPARATUS. It is constructed on so simple a plan, that the most unscientific can manage it; and what renders it far superior to all other galvanic apparatus is, that it will remain in action for several weeks without the least trouble. It is constructed on precisely the same principle as the one he uses at Pelham-crescent; and as he galvanises between 40 and 50 patients every day, it may be well supposed that he has brought the galvanic apparatus to great perfection. Price 10 guineas, the cash to accompany the order. Medical advice will be given how to apply it.

N.B.—By enclosing two postage stamps to Mr. Halse, a pamphlet on galvanism will be forwarded post-free.

DEEDS FOR EXECUTION ABROAD.

J. A. GODDARD, FOREIGN AGENT, No. 36, Old Jewry, informs the Legal Profession, that he undertakes to forward, through his foreign correspondents, Deeds and other documents for execution by parties residing abroad, for the expense of transmission, and a moderate commission.

J. A. G. also undertakes to receive, and pass through the Custom House, Works of Art, Wines, Baggage, &c. and to forward effects to all parts of the world. The List of J. A. G.'s Correspondents, and every information, may be obtained at his Offices, 36, Old Jewry.

Outlands Mansion, Park, and Estate of 900 acres, SURREY, within one mile of the Weybridge or Walton Stations of the South-Western Railway, and within an hour's ride of the Terminus in London.

MESSRS. DRIVER have been favoured with instructions to offer to PUBLIC COMPETITION, at the Auction Mart, Bartholomew-lane, on TUESDAY, the 19th of May, at Twelve o'clock, in 64 Lots (unless an acceptable offer for the whole estate should be previously made), the above renowned and highly admired DOMAIN, formerly the property and residence of his late Royal Highness the Duke of York. Lot 1 will comprise Outlands Mansion, Offices, delightful Pleasure Grounds, the far-famed Grotto, Kitchen Garden and Lawn, extending to and including part of the magnificent lake called the Broad Water, and containing altogether 97 acres, without exception constituting one of the most desirable and enviable residences, and site of ornamental grounds in the kingdom, and from the house having been recently completely repaired and fitted up in the best style of taste and elegance, forms a most desirable abode for any family. The Park and other Lands south of the Lake will be divided into about 56 lots, varying from 3 to 20 acres each, with the exception of 2 or 3 lots, from 10 to 20 acres, and of the most inviting character for the erection of villas, being upon a peculiarly salubrious soil, and much adorned with ornamental timber, which may be thinned to suit the tastes of the various purchasers. The present Gravel Road, so long the acknowledged and highly admired drive through the Park, leading from Walton to Weybridge, affording at all points fine prospects, will be preserved as the principal road and approach to a great number of the lots, and another principal road will be set out to lead through other parts of the park, affording an outlet at the present lodge entrance, where it crosses the South-Western Railway and leads to Cobham, Kingston, and all the adjacent beautiful neighbourhood. The lands on the north of the lake, and extending to the river Thames, will be divided into 7 lots of larger description, one being about 113 acres, and the remainder of the estate, consisting of Weybridge and Child's Farm, containing about 85 acres, will form other lots, besides which there will be 2 other lots in the town of Weybridge of about 10 acres each, admirably adapted for farm offices.—Printed specifications, with plans annexed, are now prepared and will be ready for delivery after the 4th of April, and may then be had of Mr. Haines, at the Farm House, Outlands; of the Swan, Chertsey; White Hart, Windsor; Griffin, Kingston; of Messrs. Frere, Forster, and Co. Solicitors, Lincoln's-inn; at the Auction Mart, near the Bank of England; and of Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors and Land Agents, 8, Richmond-terrace, Parliament-street, of whom cards to view the mansion may be had.

Immediate Vicinity of Croydon.—Sixty-two Acres of Freehold Land, Tithe Free, and exonerated from Land Tax.

MESSRS. DRIVER have received instructions to submit to PUBLIC COMPETITION, at the Auction Mart, Bartholomew-lane, London, on FRIDAY, the 8th of May next, at Twelve o'clock, in 10 Lots, the above Sixty-two Acres of FREEHOLD LAND, principally Meadow, free of Rectorial Tithes, and exonerated from Land Tax, divided in separate and well-enclosed paddocks, of very eligible situate, adjoining and surrounding the Lodge Mansion, lately the residence of Lieut. Col. Denham, but now of John Morland, esq. and also adjoining the big road leading from Croydon to Addiscombe and Reigate, and being on a dry gravelly soil, with easy access of water, are peculiarly well adapted for the erection of Villas. The whole is now in the hands of the proprietor, and immediate possession may be had on completion of the purchase. Printed specifications, with plans annexed, may be had at the Greyhound, Croydon; Lion, Streatham; of F. J. BIDDLE, Esq. solicitor, 3, Gray's-inn-square; at the Auction Mart; and of Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors and Land Agents, 8, Richmond-terrace, Parliament-street.

Periodical Sales (established in the year 1803) of Reversions, Life Interests, Annuities, Policies of Assurance, Advowsons, Next Presentations, Rent Charges in lieu of Tithes, Post-obit Bonds, Tontines, Debentures, Ground Rents, Improved Rents, Shares in Docks, Canals, Mines, Railways, Insurance Companies, and all Public Undertakings.

MESSRS. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS

respectfully inform the public, that upwards of 40 years' experience having proved the classification of this species of property to be extremely advantageous and economical to vendors, and equally satisfactory and convenient to purchasers, the PERIODICAL SALES of reversionary interests, policies of insurance, tontines, debentures, advowsons, next presentations, all securities dependent upon human life, shares in docks, canals, mines, railways, and all public undertakings, will be continued through 1848, as follows:—

This Society grants Insurances to meet every kind of pecuniary risk contingent upon the duration of human life.

Assurances for the whole Term of Life may also be effected upon an Increasing Scale, commencing at a rate much below the ordinary Premiums, and exempt from any augmentation for a period of seven years.

The rates are calculated on the lowest scale consistent with security, from the Government returns. The payments may be made annually for life, or in one sum, or by a limited number of annual payments (afterwards to cease), or upon a decreasing scale, to meet the circumstances of the party assuring.

Four-fifths of the profits are divided among the assured. The Board meets every Wednesday, at half-past Three o'clock, to receive proposals and transact other business; but any assurance for which immediate dispatch is required may be effected on the same day that it is proposed.

In cases where a life assured by another has gone beyond the limits prescribed by the policy, without the knowledge of the party interested, the Society will, upon his application, and proof of the life being then in a satisfactory state of health (but subject to their medical officers' approval of the risk as applicable to such life), renew the policy upon the same terms as they would have required for its continuance had their consent been previously obtained.

The usual commission allowed to all solicitors.

Surgeon—F. Hale Thomson, esq. 48, Berners-street.

This Company, established by Act of Parliament, affords the most perfect security in a large paid-up Capital, and in the great success which has attended it since its commencement in 1834.

Its Annual Income being upwards of £82,000.

In 1841 the Company added a Bonus of 2l. per cent. per annum on the sum insured to all policies of the participating class from the time they were effected.

The Bonus added to policies from March, 1834, to the 31st Dec. 1840, is as follows:—

Sum Assured.	Time Assured.	Sum added to Policy
£5,000	6 Yrs. 10 Months.	£683 6s. 8d.
5,000	6 Years	600 0 0
5,000	4 Years	400 0 0
5,000	2 Years	200 0 0

The Premiums nevertheless are on the most moderate scale, and only one-half need be paid for the first five years, where the Insurance is for Life.

Every information will be afforded on application to the Resident Directors, EDWARD BOYD, Esq. and E. LENNOX BOYD, Esq. of No. 8, Waterloo-place, Pall-mall, London.

AYCKBOURN'S CHANCERY PRACTICE, SECOND EDITION.

This day is published, in one vol. 12mo. price 14s. boards.

THE NEW CHANCERY PRACTICE, comprising all the Alterations effected by the New Orders of 8th May, 1845; with Practical Directions, a full selection of the Modern Cases (including the decisions upon the New Orders), and an Appendix of Forms.

By HUBERT AYCKBOURN.

Second edition, enlarged and carefully revised, by THOMAS H. AYCKBOURN, Esq. of the Middle Temple, Barrister-at-Law, and HUBERT AYCKBOURN.

This is the pocket-book of Chancery practice, as Daniell's is the text-book. In a small volume, without inconveniently small type, Mr. Ayckbourn has contrived to condense the substance of the existing practice in Chancery, and many of the cases to the present time.—Law Times.

Surgeon—W. Coulson, esq. No. 2, Frederick's-place, Old Jewry.

Consulting Actuary—Professor Hall, of King's College.

LOW RATES OF PREMIUMS.

In addition to the subscribed Capital of 200,000l. the Assured have the security of the Company's rapidly increasing income and an accumulating Assurance Fund invested in Government and other available securities, of considerably larger amount than the estimated liabilities of the Company.

The rates of Premium are reduced to the lowest scale compatible with the safety of the Assured and the stability of the Company, thereby, in effect, giving to every Policy-holder an immediate and certain bonus, without risk, in lieu of the deferred and frequently delusive prospect of a periodical division of profits.

ANNUAL PREMIUM TO ASSURE 100l.

Age.	For One Year.	For Seven Years.	Whole Term.
20	0 17 8	0 39 1	1 11 4
30	1 1 8	1 2 7	2 9 7
40	1 5 0	1 6 0	2 14 10
50	1 14 1	1 19 10	4 4 11
60	3 2 4	5 17 8	9 4 12

One-third of the "whole term" premium may remain unpaid at five per cent. compound interest in a debt upon the policy for life, or may be paid off at any time without notice.

In assurances for advances of money, as security for debt, or as a provision for a family when the least present value is desirable, the varied and comprehensive table of the Argus Office will be found to be particularly favorable to the assured.

The Medical Officers attend daily, at a Quarter before Two o'clock.

STOCKWELL.—Leasehold Ground Rents, and a LEASEHOLD HOUSE, held for 74 years.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on WEDNESDAY, April 29, at Twelve for One, a LEASEHOLD ESTATE, situate at 7, 2, and 3, Paradise-row, Stockwell, comprising three wall-built residences: two of them are let on lease at a ground rent of 50. per annum, the other is let at 31l. 10s. per annum: total rental, 27l. 10s., the ground rent on the whole, 12s., leaving a net profit rental of 25l. 10s. per annum.

Particulars will be ready in due time, and may be obtained of Mr. THOMAS PRYER, Solicitor, 17, Pavement, Finsbury; and at the office of Mr. SINGLE, 24, Coleman-street, City.

EALING, MIDDLESEX.—Two Cottages, with four rooms and kitchen, and about half an acre of Building Ground.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on WEDNESDAY, April 29, at One precisely, TWO WELL-BUILT DWELLING-HOUSES, desirable situate, Nos. 1 and 2, Grove-park, Ealing-grove, about two minutes' walk from the railway station on the Great Western Railway, together with valuable Building Ground, the whole comprising nearly half an acre: each contains four rooms and kitchen. The property is let at 20l. per annum, and held for 99 years from Midsummer, 1825, at 10l. per annum. The lease must be renewed every 21 years.

Particulars will be ready in due time, and may be obtained of Mr. SINGLETON, Solicitor, Great James-street, Bedford-row; and at the office of Mr. SINGLE, 24, Coleman-street, City.

MIDDLESEX, CHELSEA, SOUTH-STREET, KING'S-ROAD.—A Desirable House.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on WEDNESDAY, April 29, at Twelve for One, a desirable LEASEHOLD DWELLING HOUSE, situate No. 14, on the east side of South-street, King's-road, Chelsea. It contains, on the ground floor, two parlours; first floor, two bed rooms; second floor, two bed rooms; basement, two kitchens; and a garden in rear. It is let to a tenant who has been long in the house, at 24l. per annum, but is worth perhaps 20l. Lease about 23 years to come; ground rent only 4l. per annum. Being in a good yet improving situation, it is a desirable property.

Particulars may be obtained of Mr. JOHN F. W. FESER, Solicitor, 23, Bedford-row; and at the office of Mr. SINGLE, 24, Coleman-street, City.

Superior Cottage Residence, Church-road, De Beauvoir-square.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on WEDNESDAY, April 29, at Twelve for One, a detached pair of handsome COTTAGE RESIDENCES, well built, and desirably situate, Nos. 27 and 28, (formerly Nos. 1 and 2, De Beauvoir-square, and containing, on the ground floor, entrance hall and two parlours; first floor, four good rooms; basement, breakfast parlour, kitchen, and sundry other domestic conveniences. There are fore-courts in front enclosed with iron palisades, and good gardens in rear. No. 28 is let at 32l. per annum, No. 27 is let at 20l. per annum; each house; term about 70 years.

Particulars may be obtained of Mr. HUSKEY, Solicitor, Queen-street, Chesham; and at the office of Mr. SINGLE, 24, Coleman-street, City.

MIDDLESEX.—ISLINGTON.—Capital Leasehold Property, detached Residences.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on WEDNESDAY, April 29, at Twelve for One, in four lots, FOUR well-built and superior semi-detached VILLA RESIDENCES, of attractive elevations, pleasantly situate, 1, 2, 23, and 24, Bellisha Villa, Barnsbury-park, Islington. They each contain, on the ground floor, spacious entrance hall, two handsome parlours communicating by folding doors; first floor, three good bed rooms; second floor, two bed rooms; basement, breakfast room, kitchen, side entrance for domestics, and sundry other conveniences. Nos. 23 and 24 each contain three rooms on second floor, and have washhouses. There are fore-courts in front, and large garden in rear. The situation is high and dry, and the neighbourhood very respectable.

Particulars may be obtained of Mr. THOMAS PRYER, Solicitor, 17, Pavement, Finsbury; of Mr. HUSKEY, Solicitor, Queen-street, Chesham; of Messrs. HILL and MATTHEWS, Solicitors, Bury-court, St. Mary-axe; and at the office of Mr. SINGLE, 24, Coleman-street, City.

SOUTHWARK.—Four well-built Houses.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, May 5, at Twelve for One, FOUR well-built HOUSES, and Workshops in rear, situate, 71, Suffolk-street, and 1, 2, and 3, Grand-cane, Southwark, a large and populous neighbourhood. They contain six rooms and kitchen each, and are let to good tenants, at rentals amounting together to about 124l. per annum; held under the Winchester-park Estate for a term, shewen, about 26 years less unexpired, at a ground-rent of 25. per annum on the whole.

Particulars will be ready in due time, and may be obtained of Mr. SINGLE, 24, Coleman-street, City.

SYDENHAM, DARTMOUTH ARMS.—Building Land and a Paddock, delightfully situate on the high-road and the Albert-road, between the two Railway Stations.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, JUNE 10, at Twelve for One, a most valuable FREEHOLD ESTATE, beautifully situate on the high road between the two important stations, Dartmouth Arms and Sydenham, comprising nine plots of building ground in the neighbourhood of most respectable and gentlemanly villas, and peculiarly adapted for the erection of superior residences. Also a small paddock. The neighbourhood may be said to rival any part of Devonshire itself for beauty of scenery and salubrity of air; but when we reflect that so interesting and delightful a spot is within a few minutes' ride of the City by railway, such property cannot be too highly estimated, nor can the facilities railway travelling now offers be sufficiently appreciated.—Particulars may be obtained at the office of Mr. SINGLE, 24, Coleman-street, City.

Freehold and Leasehold, Islington, and Southwark, by order of the Executors of the late Mr. J. Runnington, deceased.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, May 5, at Twelve for One, a valuable FREEHOLD RESIDENCE, let upon lease to Mr. Tombs, for a term whereof about 20 years are unexpired, at 42l. per annum, but of the annual value of a much higher sum; also a valuable Leasehold Residence, situate No. 12, Leman-street, Lomond's-pond, Southwark, held for a term whereof about 16 years are unexpired, and let at an improved rental of 10l. per annum.

Particulars will be ready in due time, and may be obtained of Mr. GEORGE DREW, Solicitor, Bernersbury; and at the office of Mr. SINGLE, 24, Coleman-street, City.

Twelve Houses, Bernersbury, by order of the Executors of the late Mr. J. Runnington, deceased.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, May 5, at Twelve for One, TWELVE HOUSES, situate Nos. 1 to 7, and 20 to 22, all inclusive, Long-walk, Bernersbury, and a corner shop, No. 1, Little Abbey-street, and No. 2, adjoining; most of them contain about two rooms and wash-house, except No. 20, which contains six rooms. They are all let to good tenants, most of them of long standing, at rentals amounting together to about 140l. per annum. Being in a densely populated neighbourhood, these houses will at all times command good tenants and high rentals.

Particulars will be ready in due time, and may be obtained of Mr. GEORGE DREW, Solicitor, Bernersbury; and at the office of Mr. SINGLE, 24, Coleman-street, City.

WOODFORD.—Freehold Building-land, almost contiguous to the intended Railway-station, in 15 Lots.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, JUNE 2, at 12 for 1, a valuable ESTATE, comprising freehold and copyhold building-ground (fine certain and nominal), divided into 15 lots, presenting desirable building frontages, and situated in and near to Snake's-lane, Woodford. Several of the plots are in the line of the intended railway, and will be required for it, and a station will be erected, it is expected, almost contiguous to the spot. This sale offers a fine opportunity for improving capital, without risk, and open alike to small or large capitalists.—Particulars will be ready in due time, and may be obtained of Mr. Wm. GOVE, Solicitor, 1, Coler-street, north, Dover-road, Southwark; and at the Office of Mr. SINGLE, 24, Coleman-street, City.

Keex, almost contiguous to Brentwood Station.—Two Freehold Estates, Building Land in 20 Plots; a famous situation for a Tavern and for Residences.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, JUNE 2, at Twelve for One, in about 20 plots, Two Valuable FREEHOLD ESTATES, in an elevated and delightful situation, close to the station at Brentwood, on the Eastern Counties Railway, presenting most valuable building frontages on the direct roads from the station. One is situate on the Albert-road, the direct communication from the station to Brentwood, presenting frontages also on a road leading from it, so that at the corner a new leading tavern might at once be erected, which would stand close to the station, and without a rival. The other estate comprises most valuable plots on the main road, known as the Barrack-road, also presenting an invaluable site for a tavern and residence. To those who are sick of inhaling night and day the impure atmosphere of the crowded parts of the metropolis this is an excellent opportunity to purchase a freehold plot of land for the erection of a dwelling, &c. from which they can step into the carriage almost instantaneously, and be in London before they have scarcely had time to fully appreciate the refreshing beauty of the country scenery.—Particulars will be ready in due time, and may be obtained of Mr. THOMAS PRYER, Solicitor, 17, Pavement, Finsbury; and at the Office of Mr. SINGLE, 24, Coleman-street, City.

MILE-END-ROAD.—20 Houses and Building Ground, all held at a peppercorn, comprising good general residences, a large beer-shop, and other shops, and small houses, near the Canal-bridge.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, JUNE 2, at Twelve for One, the above valuable ESTATE, let principally to good and old tenants, and offering an opportunity for a most lucrative investment. The property comprises Nos. 1 to 6, Mile-end-terrace, in Canal-road, Mile-end-road, a capital thoroughfare; each contains, on the second floor, two convenient bed-rooms; first floor, a handsome drawing-room with French ornaments to the floor, and bed-room in the rear; ground floor, two bold parlours; basement, two capital kitchens; and they stand in a most commanding and pleasant situation. Also the 10 houses, some with shops, in a line with the same; together with 25 small houses, comprising the whole of Elizabeth Ann-place, Princess-place, and Providence-row. Mr. Single has collected the rents and had the entire management of this estate for the last eight or ten years, and feels himself justified in recommending it to such as seek investments in property that always commands a ready and good paying tenants.—The average rental is about 200l. per annum. It is held for an unexpired term of about 22 years, without ground rent.—Particulars will be ready in due time, and may be obtained of Mr. W. NOKES, Solicitor, Rectory-place, Woolwich; and at the office of Mr. SINGLE, 24, Coleman-street, City.

CAMBRIDGE-HEATH, near Hackney-road.—21 Houses, in Lots.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, on TUESDAY, JUNE 2, at Twelve for One, TWENTY-ONE HOUSES, as follows: Six Houses, Nos. 21 to 26 inclusive, Melina-place; Three Houses, Ada-street; and Twelve Houses, Nos. 12 to 23 inclusive, George-street, near the Canal-bridge, Cambridge-heath-road, a capital situation for letting. They offer an opportunity for most lucrative investment, being in an old neighbourhood, populous but respectable, and where there are comparatively few small houses; they let remarkably well.—Further particulars will appear in future advertisements, and may be obtained of Mr. WATHEM, Solicitor, St. Swintha's-lane; and at the Office of Mr. SINGLE, 24, Coleman-street, City.

In DURHAM.—Between 2,000 and 2,500 acres of Freehold Land in a Ring-fence, let to yearly tenants, at inadequate rentals, and capable of incredible improvement.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, either in London or at Durham, early in JULY (as he may be determined), a most valuable FREEHOLD ESTATE, in the county of Durham, extending over about 2,500 acres of valuable and improvable land, the full resources of which may be said to be not yet known or developed, let to yearly tenants at rentals so low as to afford any idea of its value, and the whole capable of improvement in a variety of ways. Mr. Single is now going down to survey the estate, for the purpose of selling it by auction, in one or more lots, and on his return he will enter into a more detailed description. The wonderful alteration which has taken place of late throughout the United Kingdom, through the railway, the rapid deterioration in value of some property, and almost instantaneous and unexpected augmentation of value of other parts, must make it manifest to capitalists that such a property as this may, either by good management on the part of a purchaser, or by the vicissitudes of business movements throughout the country, become shortly worth perhaps half as much more—perhaps as much more as it is at present.—Particulars may be obtained at the office of Mr. SINGLE, 24, Coleman-street, City.

Hants, near Hardley-row and a Railway Station.—Forty-two Acres, with a House, &c., and Four five-acre Plots, all Freehold Building Land, in lots, small and large.

MR. SINGLE has arranged to SELL the whole, in lots, by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, JUNE 2, at Twelve for One. The estate is prettily ornamented with thriving plantations, and on it are some of the prettiest sites in England for building. The land is famous for gardening purposes, and what with the probable cheapness of railway conveyance, and the raising of the Government Surveyors and Parliament itself against the increased health and delight from living in the country, thousands of the inhabitants of the metropolis are likely, by and by, to reside in such a locality as this in preference to the metropolis. For a few pence a day, or long one will be whirled from his snug little home, 20 or 30 miles in the country, to his place of business in London, just while he barely has time to arrange the shortest mode of despatching his day's business to get back early to his homelife and delightful home. There will be some rare speculation lots, even for such as may not see any immediate desire for them or inclination to let at present.—Particulars will be ready in due time, and may be obtained of Mr. THOMAS PRYER, Solicitor, 17, Pavement, Finsbury; and at the office of Mr. SINGLE, 24, Coleman-street, City.

IN SURREY, near Frimley and a Railway Station.—120 acres of Freehold Building Land, in small and large lots.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, MAY 5, at Twelve for One o'clock, two acres of FREEHOLD BUILDING LAND, not cut in successive compartments, and situated upon the high road from London to Frimley, about half a mile from Frimley, and not far distant from the Farnborough Railway Station. Offering such a rare opportunity for purchasing for the erection of a residence for one's self, or for letting, at moderate ground-rents on building-land, rarely not again occur in half a century. The unexpired term of five years, through railways, will one long cause building land, in such situations as this, to be more valuable than this now in the neighbourhood of London. People of all grades and classes in London will, in two or three years hence, live a few miles in the country, and, for 4l. or 5l. a year, will be able to come 20 or 30 miles to London and back daily, in such time as they would waste in walking from one part of the town to another. The land is high, beautifully undulating surface, and commands delightful views in all directions.—Particulars will be ready in due time, and may be obtained of Mr. WILLIAM NOKES, Solicitor, Rectory-place, Woolwich; and at the office of Mr. SINGLE, 24, Coleman-street, City.

ESSEX.—Freehold Estates, High-road, West Ham.—Two Family Residences and Paddocks in Plots for building purposes—an Improving Property.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, MAY 5, at Twelve for One o'clock, in lots, a very eligible FREEHOLD ESTATE, situate on the high road from West Ham to Finsbury, comprising two capital old Family Residences, together with a famous Paddock, comprising about five acres. One of the residences contains, on the ground floor, entrance hall, dining room, drawing room, and sitting room, two kitchens, pantry, dairy, ample cellars, &c.; first floor, two good bed rooms and two dressing rooms; second floor, three bed rooms and dressing room; there is a fine large court yard, ample stabling, coach-house, bath, hot and cold, gardeners' cottages, &c.; behind which are capital pigeon-hole, bullock stalls, large and productive kitchen garden, greenhouse, fish pond, and other things too numerous to detail. The other residence, which is also very large, and possesses extensive and valuable premises behind, has been used as a silk factory, and is valuable either as business premises or for a residence. The land will be sold in four plots. West Ham has but just commenced that course of improvement which has gone on for years in other neighbourhoods around London.—Particulars will be ready in due time, and may be obtained at the office of Mr. SINGLE, 24, Coleman-street, City.

DALSTON.—Eight Residences.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, JUNE 2, at Twelve for One, in six lots, SIX well-built RESIDENCES, elegantly situate in Holly-street, Queen's-road, Dalston; one is a corner house, with double-fronted shop, baker's oven, &c. and is let for three years at 40l. per annum clear; the others contain six rooms each, have good gardens, and are of the annual value of 23l. Also two semi-detached cottages, containing about six rooms each; term 75 years; ground rent, 2l. each house.—Further particulars will appear in a future advertisement, and in the mean time may be obtained of Mr. GEORGE FITCH, Solicitor, 15, New Bridge-street, Blackfriars; and at the office of Mr. SINGLE, 24, Coleman-street, City.

WIMBLEDON and WESTHILL PARKS. Surrey, late the properties of the Duke of Sutherland and Earl Spencer. MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON respectfully announce that the subdivision of the several beautiful and choice portions of these splendid Domains, about to be appropriated for the Erection of Detached Mansions and Villas, is now arranged, and that the Plans shewing the different sites may be inspected at their Offices in Waterloo-place; and Mr. Hendry, at Tibbett's Lodge (one of the entrances of the Park from Putney-heath), will shew the various lots to any one wishing to select his own site on the spot.

Messrs. S. confidently urge a visit to this singularly attractive and unrivalled spot (only five miles from Hyde-park corner), as it indisputably opens to the Public the most beautiful and eligible sites for Building that can be found within any moderate distance of the Metropolis, especially with regard to the bold undulations and rich scenery of the various grounds; its magnificent Timber and extensive Lake; also as to the proverbial salubrity of the air (embracing the vast and healthy tracts of Wimbledon and Putney Heaths); its favourite and highly respectable neighbourhood, beautiful Rides and Drives, and the advantage of Railroad Communication on both sides.

Waterloo-place, April 23, 1846.

STANMORE HALL. Middlesex, about 24 miles from the Harrow Station on the Birmingham Railway, and one of the most healthy and select neighbourhoods within the same easy reach of the Metropolis.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON respectfully apprise the public, that (unless an acceptable offer should be previously made by private treaty) the above beautifully situated FREHOLD PROPERTY, on which many thousands of pounds have been recently expended, will be submitted for PUBLIC SALE, at the Mart, early in the Spring. It comprises a singularly handsome and admirably constructed Mansion, in the early Tudor style of architecture, with a beautiful tower and oratory. It is most substantially built and faced with the grey Kentish rag and fine Caen stone, on a broad bold terrace, with south-east aspect, leading to a finely timbered and varied pleasure-grounds, opening on three sides to very rich and extensive scenery. It has a capital walled garden, a greenhouse, &c. The Mansion is not completed, but the original house not having been removed, may be used as a convenient residence during the completion of the new edifice.—Particulars, with plans, will be ready when the day of sale is fixed, and may then be had in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall; at the Auction Mart; of Messrs. NELSON and WYNN, Solicitors, Gresham-place, Lombard-street; and in the interim the estate may be viewed with cards; and Messrs. SMITH are fully authorized to dispose of the property.

ST. LEONARD'S, in WINDSOR PARK.—The splendid Seat of the late William Dawson, esq. for the last three years occupied by Lord Haddo, delightfully situated adjoining St. Leonard's Hill (the noble seat of Colonel Harcourt), amidst the most romantic and elevated portions of the Royal Park, with a magnificent View of the Castle, the Thames, and rich surrounding country; also a former portion of the Forest adjoining, situated with venerable Timber, offering a choice Site for Building.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON have the honour to announce to the Nobility and others seeking a capital and beautifully situated residence, that they are instructed to SUBMIT TO PUBLIC SALE, early in JUNE next (unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by Private Contract), in Two Lots, the above most justly-admired and elegant noble MANSION, admitted to stand unrivalled (except, perhaps, by its princely neighbour St. Leonard's-hill) in the whole circle of the court. The mansion is modern and of an elegant and chaste style of architecture, placed on the verge of a romantic and finely-wooded eminence, perfectly secluded, overlooking a lovely vale and a great breadth of the Royal parks, with the magnificent castle towering in the back ground, with the rich banks of the Thames, Eton College, and other interesting objects. The house contains a splendid suite of rooms, with east and south aspects, a beautiful conservatory, paved terrace, &c. surrounded by a rich small park, of nearly 100 acres, adorned with handsome timber, noble avenue of limes, a sheet of water, with extensive terrace and other walks. About 20 acres adjoining will be offered in a separate lot, extending from St. Leonard's hill to the Winkfield-road, opposite Forest-hill, presenting a fine and romantic building site, bounded on one side by Lot 1, and on the other by some of the private drives and plantations of the royal park, through which and the beautiful grounds of Colonel Harcourt, are the approaches to this delightful domain.—The estate can be viewed only with cards, which may be had at Messrs. SMITH'S Offices, in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall, and Windsor; or of THOMAS WEBSTER, Esq. Solicitor, Queen-street, Cheap-side.

The Maer Hall Estate, in Staffordshire, with Mansion, Manor, beautiful Lake, valuable Farms and Plantations; also the Advowson and a smaller Residence, with 27 acres of Land, adjoining between Drayton and Newcastle-under-Lyne, about midway between Birmingham and Liverpool, and only a mile and a half from a first-class station on the Birmingham Grand Junction Railway.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON are commissioned by the Executors of the late Josiah Wedgwood, esq. to SUBMIT TO PUBLIC SALE, in JUNE next (unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by Private Contract), the above very valuable and most desirable FREHOLD DOMAIN, comprising, in a ring-fence, about 1,100 acres of excellent, sound, healthy land, finely undulated and ornamentally wooded, surrounding the old family seat of Maer Hall. The handsome lake, or mere, with the fine woods and covers for game, interspersed on the estate, with the patronage of the church, which is close to the mansion, render it an attractive and most enjoyable residence, in addition to its solid recommendations as a safe and improving landed investment. The adjoining residence, with 27 acres of land, is known as Camp Hill, and is only one mile from the Whitmore Railway Station.—The estate may be viewed, and particulars, with plans, will be published when the day of sale is fixed. In the interim, any information may be obtained at their offices in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall, London.

Long Leasehold Estate, Cumberland Market, near the Regent's Park.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON will OFFER for absolute SALE BY AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, APRIL 23, at Twelve, by direction of the Administratrix of the late Mr. John Sheppard, a valuable ESTATE, held under the Crown for an unexpired term of 79 years, and now producing, from respectable tenants, a net rental (after deducting the ground rent of 24*l.*) of 235*l.* The estate comprises six houses, forming the prominent corner on the east side of Cumberland Market, one a coffee and chop house, and another an old-established dairy. The estate may be viewed by application to the tenants (Messrs. Allen, Peuple, and others), and particulars may be had upon the premises; at the Auction Mart; of Messrs. SMART and BULLER, Solicitors, 56, Lincoln's-inn-fields; and at Messrs. DANIEL SMITH and SON'S Offices, in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall.

Outlands Mansion, Park, and Estate of 900 acres, Surrey, within one mile of the Weybridge or Walton Stations on the South-Western Railway, and within half an hour's ride of the Terminus in London.

MESSRS. DRIVER have been favoured with instructions to offer to PUBLIC COMPETITION, at the Auction Mart, Bartholomew-lane, on TUESDAY, the 19th of May, at Twelve o'clock, in 64 Lots (unless an acceptable offer for the whole estate should be previously made), the above renowned and highly admired ROYAL HIGHNESS of the Duke of York. Lot 1 will comprise Outlands Mansion, Offices, delightful Pleasure Grounds, the far-famed Grotto, Kitchen Garden and Lawn, extending to and including part of the magnificent lake called the Broad Water, and containing altogether 97 acres, without exception constituting one of the most desirable and enviable residences, and site of ornamental grounds in the kingdom, and from the house having been recently completely repaired and fitted up in the best style of taste and elegance, forms a most desirable abode for any family. The Park and other Lands south of the Lake will be divided into about 56 lots, varying from 3 to 10 acres each, with the exception of 2 or 3 lots, from 10 to 20 acres, and of the most inviting character for the erection of villas, being upon a peculiarly salubrious soil, and much adorned with ornamental timber, which may be thinned to suit the tastes of the various purchasers. The present Gravel Road, so long the acknowledged and highly admired drive through the Park, leading from Walton to Weybridge, affording at all points fine prospects, will be preserved as the public road and approach to a great number of the lots, and another principal road will be set out to lead through other parts of the park, affording an outlet at the present lodge entrance, where it crosses the South-Western Railway and leads to Cobham, Kingston, and all the adjacent beautiful neighbourhood. The lands on the north of the lake, and extending to the river Thames, will be divided into 7 lots of larger description, one being about 112 acres, and the remainder of the estate, consisting of Weybridge and Child's Farm, containing about 85 acres, will form other lots, besides which there will be 2 other lots in the town of Weybridge of about 10 acres each, admirably adapted for farm purposes.—Printed specifications, with plans annexed, are now prepared, and will be ready for delivery after the 4th of April, and may then be had of Mr. Haines, at the Farm House, Outlands; at the Swan, Chertsey; White Hart, Windsor; Griffin, Kingston; of Messrs. Frere, Forster, and Co. Solicitors, Lincoln's-inn; at the Auction Mart, near the Bank of England; and of Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors and Land Agents, 8, Richmond-terrace, Parliament-street, of whom cards to view the mansion may be had.

Immediate Vicinity of Croydon.—Sixty-two Acres of Freehold Land, Tithie Free, and exonerated from Land Tax.

MESSRS. DRIVER have received instructions to submit to PUBLIC COMPETITION, at the Auction Mart, Bartholomew-lane, London, on FRIDAY, the 8th of May next, at Twelve o'clock, in 10 Lots, the above Sixty-two Acres of FREHOLD LAND, principally Meadow, free of Rectorial Tithes, and exonerated from Land Tax, divided in separate and well-enclosed paddocks, of very eligible situate, adjoining and surrounding Heath Lodge Mansion, lately the residence of Lieut. Col. Utterton, but now of John Morland, esq. and also adjoining the high road leading from Croydon to Addiscombe and Bromley, and being on a dry gravelly soil, with easy access of water, are peculiarly well adapted for the erection of Villas. The whole is now in the hands of the proprietor, and immediate possession may be had on completion of the purchase.—Printed specifications, with plans annexed, may be had at the Greyhound, Croydon; Lion, Streatham; of F. J. RIDSDALE, Esq. solicitor, 5, Gray's-inn-square; at the Auction Mart; and of Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors and Land Agents, 8, Richmond-terrace, Parliament-street.

SALE POSTPONED TO THE 21st OF MAY.

Votes for the County.—Freehold Building Ground, Two-waters, Herts, contiguous to the Birmingham Railway Station at Boxmoor, and the market town of Hemel Hempstead.

MESSRS. BROOKS and GREEN have received instructions to SELL BY AUCTION, at the Bell Inn, Two-waters, on THURSDAY, MAY 21, at Twelve, 27 Lots of highly desirable FREHOLD BUILDING GROUND on the Manor Farm, having excellent frontages, and offering eligible investments for builders and large or small capitalists. Through the formation of the Birmingham Railway, with its station at Boxmoor, and the consequent facilities for travelling, the applications for residences and apartments for families have been so numerous, that extensive building operations have been most successfully conducted between Two-waters and Hemel Hempstead.

Particulars and plans may be had at the Bell Inn, Two-waters; at the Railway Inn at Hemel Hempstead, Berkhamstead; Tring, Waterford, Rickmansworth, and St. Alban's; of Messrs. Smith and Grover, solicitors, Hemel Hempstead; Messrs. Teesdale, Symes, Weston, and Teesdale, solicitors, Fenchurch-street; and of Messrs. PROSPECTUS.

This Society is now completely registered, and prepared to transact all the usual business of Life Assurance.

It is based upon a principle which will combine the benefits of Mutual Assurance with the guarantee of a Subscribed Capital of ONE MILLION STERLING.

Whilst perfect security is thus given, the number and character of the Shareholders (consisting of nearly 500 Members of the Legal Profession), will command a large amount of business, and consequent advantages will arise to the Assured.

Tables of Premiums have been prepared expressly for this Office, by F. G. P. NEISON, Esq. F.L.S., calculated on the nearest approximation to the real law of mortality.

These Tables will be found to afford peculiar encouragement to the assurance of young lives. They embrace participating and non-participating scales.

In the participating class, the Assured will be entitled to have four-fifths of the profits divided amongst them periodically, either by way of addition to the amount assured, or in diminution of premium, as the parties may elect. No deduction will be made from such profits for interest of capital, or for a guarantee fund.

The Premiums may be paid half-yearly or annually, or by a single payment.

Assurances may be effected through any respectable Solicitor, or by writing to the Secretary.

The Directors meet on Thursdays at Two o'clock; but Assurances may be effected on any day, by applying between the hours of Ten and Four, at the Offices of the Society, where Prospectuses and all other requisite information may be obtained.

CHARLES JOHN GILL,
57, Chancery-lane. Secretary.

GALVANISM.—Invalids are solicited to send to Mr. HALSE, of 5, PELHAM CRESCENT, BROMPTON, LONDON, for his PAMPHLET on MEDICAL GALVANISM, which will be forwarded free on receipt of Two Postage Stamps. They will be astonished at its contents. In it will be found the particulars of cures in cases of Asthma, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Tic-douloureux, Paralysis, Spinal Complaints, Headaches, deficiency of Nervous Energy, Liver Complaints, General Debility, Indigestion, Stiff Joints, all sorts of Nervous disorders, &c. Mr. Halse's method of applying the Galvanic Fluid is quite free from all unpleasant sensation; in fact, it is rather pleasurable than otherwise, and many ladies are exceedingly fond of it. It quickly causes the patient to do without medicine. Terms, One Guinea per week.

"Galvanism.—We hold it a positive duty to call attention to the extraordinary cures lately effected by Mr. Halse, of Pelham-crescent, Brompton, London, by the means of Galvanism. A detail of these may be seen in a clever pamphlet on the subject, lately published by the practitioner himself; but we are enabled to corroborate the most essential part of these statements, by the fact of having ourselves undergone the operation, the process of which is no way disagreeable, while the effect is equally astonishing and complete. In Asthma, more especially, the powers of Galvanism, properly applied, are wonderful."—Court Journal.

"Galvanism.—The Science of Galvanism appears to be now brought to great perfection; for we are given to understand that it can be administered to mere infants, without producing the least inconvenience to them. Mr. Halse, of Pelham-crescent, Brompton, is the gentleman to whom the public are indebted for this improvement in the Galvanic Apparatus; in short, Mr. Halse may be considered the Medical Galvanist of the metropolis. Like most other men of talent, however, he has opponents and imitators; but what reasonable person, who feels desirous of trying the remedial powers of Galvanism, would think of resorting to any imitator, when Mr. Halse can himself be applied to?"—Weekly Chronicle.

"Galvanism.—Our readers may have noticed several extracts we have given from Mr. Halse's Pamphlet on Medical Galvanism. We have reason to believe, that every case stated in the pamphlet is perfectly true, wonderful as they certainly are; for a short time since we called on Mr. Halse, and were introduced by him to a gentleman who was undergoing the operation. The patient informed us that it was not at all an unpleasant sensation; indeed, we felt it ourselves, and there was not the least unpleasantness about it. This gentleman's case was Paralysis; and he declared to us, that before he came to Mr. Halse, one leg had withered away to a mere skeleton, 'but now,' said he, 'you perceive, it is both stout and healthy.' Such, indeed, was the case. If we can judge by the number of patients Mr. Halse has, we should say he is making some very wonderful cures."—Shipping and Mercantile Gazette.

HALSE'S PORTABLE GALVANIC APPARATUS.—Mr. W. H. Halse, of 5, Pelham-crescent, Brompton, London.

don, is now ready to supply patients with his efficient PORTABLE APPARATUS. It is constructed on so simple a plan, that the most unscientific can manage it; and what renders it far superior to all other galvanic apparatus is, that it will remain in action for several weeks without the least trouble. It is constructed on precisely the same principle as the ones he uses at Pelham-crescent; and as he galvanizes between 40 and 50 patients every day, it may be well supposed that he has brought the galvanic apparatus to great perfection. Price 10 guineas, the cash to accompany the order. Medical advice will be given how to apply it.

N.B.—By inclosing two postage stamps to Mr. Halse, a pamphlet on galvanism will be forwarded post-free.

GENERAL INTERLOCUTORY AGENCY

OFFICE, 24, CROOKER-STREET, LONDON.—Mr. J. L. COTTON begs to call the attention of the nobility, gentry, the members of the several professions, and others, and particularly those who are interested in Railway matters, to the advantages and facilities afforded by the establishment of a GENERAL LONDON AGENCY OFFICE, and to express them in the prepared—

To negotiate every description of business in London or the neighbourhood for those parties to whom personal attendance may be inconvenient.

To procure, where practicable, accurate information relative to the several Railway Schemes brought before Parliament, and to attend and vote by proxy at the meetings which are now rendered necessary by the standing orders.

To obtain for clergymen, landowners, and others, any particulars relating to, or connected with, documents deposited with the several departments of official and public business.

To transact for solicitors and others, resident in the country, all matters that do not come within the practice or duties of their ordinary business; and generally—

To conduct every description of negotiation wherein the services of an Interlocutory Agent may be required.

Forms, where necessary, and other instructions and information, will be forwarded to parties on application to Mr. COTTON, at the office as above.

A NEW DISCOVERY.—Mr. HOWARD, Surgeon-Dentist, 52, Fleet-street, begs to introduce an ENTIRELY NEW DESCRIPTION OF ARTIFICIAL TEETH, fixed without springs, wires, or ligatures, or any other means to hold them in place. Teeth are not to be distinguished from the original by the closest observer; they will NEVER CHANGE COLOUR or DECAY, and will be found very superior to any Teeth ever before used. This method does not require the extraction of roots or any painful operation, and will give support and preserve teeth that are loose, and is guaranteed to restore articulation and mastication; and that Mr. Howard's improvements may be within the reach of the most economical, he has fixed his charges at the lowest scale possible. Decayed teeth rendered sound and useful in mastication.—52, Fleet-street. At home from Ten till Five.

Manufacturers' Agents, American Clock Depot, 16, John-street, Minories, London.

COCOA-NUT FIBRE.—This substance

envelopes the shell of the milky cocoa-nut, around which it forms a strong protecting net-work. Man's ingenuity has turned the fibre to account by manufacturing it into many useful articles—such as carpets for stairs and passages, matting for churches, public buildings, offices, nurseries, and kitchens, hearth-rugs, door-mats, ropes, netting for sheep-folds, &c.; but among the applications there is not any to which it is better adapted than for the stuffing of mattresses and cushions, as a substitute for horse-hair, wool, and flock. It is very elastic, and affords great ease and support to the body, whether used with or without a feather bed. It has also the additional recommendation of being so obnoxious to vermin that wool, flock, tow, and even horse-hair, will engender animalcules. Possessing peculiar chemical properties that render it a non-absorbent, the fibre is particularly suitable for children's beds, for use of schools, in all large dormitories, and a sea. Cocoa-nut fibre mattresses are only about one-half the price of those made from horse-hair. Priced lists may be had on application at the warehouse, or will be sent free by post.

TRELOR, 42, Ludgate-hill, seven doors from Farringdon-street, and five below Belle Sauvage Inn.

PROUT'S TOOTH-BRUSHES.—These

celebrated Brushes are well known in most parts of the world, and esteemed for their durability and beauty of workmanship. They retain the hair till quite worn out, are made of every degree of hardness and variety of shape, to the extent of nearly 100 sorts, including those recommended by the principal dentists of our day, and are sold at the usual price of 1s. each, or by post for thirteen stamps.

Superior smooth-pointed Tortoiseshell Combs, the workmanship of which is rarely equalled. The new and fashionable Comb for Ladies' Head-dress in great abundance. Tail and Dressing Combs, together with Front Combs, carved, turned, and plain. The stock, for variety, colour, or extent, is presumed to be the most complete as well as the largest in London.

Prout's Brush and Comb Manufactory, 320, Strand, London, seven houses west of Temple-bar. Established forty years.

THE LIFE COAT, &c.—This invaluable

article of dress is so contrived that it may be worn on land and water, and ready for immediate use, without the invention being visible, and will support the head and shoulders considerably above the surface of the water, which was proved in the sea at Brighton and by the Royal Humane Society. This invention can be applied to any over-coat or pea-jacket for yachting, boating, or voyaging. Life waistcoats for sea and river bathing, 1s. 1s. Many a valuable life has been lost whilst bathing.

This Company, established by Act of Parliament, affords the most perfect security in a large paid-up Capital, and in the great success which has attended it since its commencement in 1834,

£22,000.

In 1841 the Company added a Bonus of 2l. per cent. per annum on the sum insured to all policies of the participating class from the time they were effected.

The Bonus added to policies from March, 1834, to the 31st Dec. 1840, is as follows:—

Sum Assured. Time Assured. Sum added to Policy

£5,000 6 Yrs. 10 Months. £683 6s. 8d.

5,000 6 Years 600 0 0

5,000 4 Years 400 0 0

5,000 2 Years 200 0 0

The Premiums nevertheless are on the most moderate scale, and only one-half need be paid for the first five years, where the Insurance is for Life.

Every information will be afforded on application to the Resident Directors, EDWARD BOYD, Esq. and E. LENNOX BOYD, Esq. of No. 8, Waterloo-place, Pall-mall, London.

All the prominent advantages offered by modern assurance offices, which can be transacted with security, are combined in the plan of this company; and in addition—

An entirely new plan of Assurance on the Deposit system, peculiarly adapted to all who are deterred from effecting assurances on their lives from an apprehension that it may not be convenient to continue the payment of an annual premium; and to such as avail themselves of savings or deposit banks as a means of investment.

Also a highly advantageous system of advancing or antecipating the full amount secured by an ordinary life policy on a plan peculiar to this company.

The usual commission allowed to solicitors and agents. Prospectuses, Forms of Proposal, and every information may be obtained, and Proposals for Assurances, Advances, or Loans, may be made at the offices of the company between the hours of ten and four o'clock daily, or by letter, addressed to the secretary.

GEORGE CUMMING, Secretary.

Oatlands Mansion, Park, and Estate of 900 acres, Surrey, within one mile of the Weybridge or Walton Stations on the South-Western Railway, and within half an hour's ride of the Terminus in London.

MESSRS. DRIVER have been favoured with instructions to offer to PUBLIC COMPETITION, at the Auction Mart, Bartholomew-lane, on TUESDAY, the 19th of May, at Twelve o'clock, in 54 Lots (unless an acceptable offer for the whole estate should be previously made), the above renowned and highly admired DOMAIN, formerly the property and residence of his late Royal Highness the Duke of York. Lot 1 will comprise Oatlands Mansion, Offices, delightful Pleasure Grounds, the far-famed Grotto, Kitchen Garden and Lawn, extending to and including part of the magnificent lake called the Broad Water, and containing altogether 97 acres, without exception constituting one of the most desirable and enviable residences, and site of ornamental grounds in the kingdom, and from the house having been recently completely repaired and fitted up in the best style of taste and elegance, forms a most desirable abode for any family. The Park and other Lands south of the Lake will be divided into about 56 lots, varying from 3 to 10 acres each, with the exception of 2 or 3 lots, from 10 to 20 acres, and of the most inviting character for the erection of villas, being upon a peculiarly salubrious soil, and much adorned with ornamental timber, which may be thinned to suit the tastes of the various purchasers. The present Gravel Road, so long the acknowledged and highly admired drive through the Park, leading from Walton to Weybridge, affording at all points fine prospects, will be preserved as the public road and approach to a great number of the lots, and another principal road will be set out to lead through other parts of the park, affording an outlet at the present lodge entrance, where it crosses the South-Western Railway and leads to Cobham, Kingston, and all the adjacent beautiful neighbourhood. The lands on the north of the lake, and extending to the river Thames, will be divided into 7 lots of larger description, one being about 113 acres, and the remainder of the estate, consisting of Weybridge and Child's Farm, containing about 85 acres, will form other lots, besides which there will be 2 other lots in the town of Weybridge of about 10 acres each, admirably adapted for farm or uses.—Printed specifications, with plans annexed, are now prepared, and will be ready for delivery after the 4th of April, and may then be had of Mr. Haines, at the Farm House, Oatlands; at the Swan, Chertsey; White Hart, Windsor; Griffin, Kingston; of Messrs. Frere, Forster, and Co. Solicitors, Lincoln's-inn; at the Auction Mart, near the Bank of England; and of Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors, &c. 8, Richmond-terrace, Parliament-st. of whom cards to view the mansion may be had.

NOTICE.—THE OATLANDS ESTATE.

—By Messrs. DRIVER, at the Auction Mart, on TUESDAY, the 19th of MAY, Lot 1, comprising the MANSION HOUSE and 97 acres, will be submitted at the Auction on the above day, exclusive of the two Manors of Byfleet and Walton-on-Leigh, though included in Lot 1 of the specifications already published, which said manors will be submitted in a separate lot. The remaining 53 lots will be offered to Auction on the above day, as already advertised. Richmond-terrace, Whitehall, April 27, 1846.

Immediate Vicinity of Croydon.—Sixty-two Acres of Freehold Land, Title Free, and exonerated from Land Tax.

MESSRS. DRIVER have received instructions to submit to PUBLIC COMPETITION, at the Auction Mart, Bartholomew-lane, London, on FRIDAY, the 8th of May next, at Twelve o'clock, in 10 Lots, the above Sixty-two Acres of FREEHOLD LAND, principally Meadow, free of Rectorial Tithes, and exonerated from Land Tax, divided in separate and well-enclosed paddocks, all very eligible situate, adjoining and surrounding Heath Lodge Mansion, lately the residence of Lieut. Col. Utterson, but now of John Morland, esq. and also adjoining the high road leading from Croydon to Addiscombe and Bromley, and being on a dry gravelly soil, with easy access of water, are peculiarly well adapted for the erection of Villas. The whole is now in the hands of the proprietor, and immediate possession may be had on completion of the purchase.—Printed specifications, with plans annexed, may be had at the Grayhound, Croydon; Lion, Streatham; of F. J. RIDSDALE, Esq. solicitor, 5, Gray's-inn-square; at the Auction Mart; and of Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors and Land Agents, 8, Richmond-terrace, Parliament-street.

Absolute Sale.—To Builders and others.—Carcases of Four Houses, Chepstow-place, Westbourne-green.

MESSRS. BROOKS and GREEN have received instructions from the Mortgagees in Trust, to SELL by AUCTION, at their Estate Auction Gallery, 28, Old Bond-street, on WEDNESDAY, MAY 20, at One, the roofed-in CARCASSES of FOUR HOUSES, of handsome architectural elevation, most desirably situate in a respectable and rapidly increasing neighbourhood, adjacent to Hyde-park and Kensington-gardens: held on lease at a ground-rent of 10l. per annum each.—Particulars may be had of Messrs. Grey and Berri, solicitors, 12, Grove-place, Lisson-grove; Hall of Commerce, Threadneedle-street; and of Messrs. BROOKS and GREEN, Estate Agents, Surveyors, and Auctioneers, 28, Old Bond-street.

Votes for the County.—Freehold Building Ground, Two-waters, Herts, contiguous to the Birmingham Railway Station at Boxmoor, and the market town of Hemel Hempstead.

MESSRS. BROOKS and GREEN have received instructions to SELL by AUCTION, at the Bell Inn, Two-waters, on THURSDAY, MAY 21, at Twelve, highly desirable FREEHOLD BUILDING GROUND on the Manor Farm, having excellent frontages, and offering eligible investments for builders and large or small capitalists. Through the formation of the Birmingham Railway, with its station at Boxmoor, and the consequent facilities for travelling, the applications for residences and apartments for families have been so numerous, that extensive building operations have been most successfully conducted between Two-waters and Hemel Hempstead.—Particulars and plans may be had at the Bell Inn, Two-waters; at the Railway Inns at Hemel Hempstead, Berkhamstead, Tring, Watford, Rickmansworth, and St. Alban's; of Messrs. Smith and Grover, solicitors, Hemel Hempstead; Messrs. Teesdale, Symes, Weston, and Teesdale, solicitors, Fenchurch-street; and of Messrs. BROOKS and GREEN, estate agents, surveyors, and auctioneers, 28, Old Bond-street.

SIXTY-FIVE SHARES in the ANTWERP STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY.

MR. FREDERICK CHINNOCK will SELL by AUCTION, at the Auction Mart, London, on WEDNESDAY, MAY 6, at Twelve, in Lots (unless previously disposed of by Private Contract), the above SHARES, which were issued at 2,000 francs, or 80l. value each, and in which the full amount of 80l. sterling has been paid. The Antwerp Steam Navigation Company was established in December, 1835, by several of the most influential merchants at Antwerp, under the immediate patronage of the Belgian Government, for the conveyance of passengers and goods between that city and London, and with a view of establishing it ultimately as the principal line of communication between England and Germany, the Company having already the command of the traffic from and to Antwerp and London. This object the directors have effectually secured by means of their well-known steam vessels the Prince Victoria and the Antwerpen. The management of the Company is under the directory of the Baron Osi, M. J. A. Dierckx, M. Maximilien, Vanden Bergh, and other influential persons resident at Antwerp. According to the prospectus of the Company, the ships of the Antwerp Steam Navigation Company enjoy privileges granted by the Belgian Government unequalled by the ships of any other country, and exempt others a drawback of more than 10 per cent. on the duties on all goods and merchandise imported. It is also stated in the prospectus that the shareholders are indemnified by the Government statutes from all personal risks beyond the value of their shares; and after receiving 4l. per cent. on the value of their subscriptions, they partake of the profits of the Company. Since the decease of the proprietor of these shares, in August, 1837, the shareholders have received the sum of 1,600l. on account of the dividends payable on the 65 shares, up to and inclusive of the 31st of December, 1845, which is at the rate of 4l. per cent. on the capital. The accounts of the Company, furnished to the executors, for the year ending 31st December last, showing the present state of its finances, are open to inspection, and further particulars and information may be obtained on application to the agents of the Company, Messrs. Legley and Simon, 123, Fenchurch-street; of Messrs. Begg and Son, Solicitors, 55, Lincoln's-inn-fields; of Messrs. Paine and Nettleship, Solicitors, 4, Trafalgar-square; or Mr. F. CHINNOCK'S Auction and Agency Office, 23, Regent-street, Waterloo-place; and at the offices of the Standard Gazette, and the Precursor, Antwerp, and the English Reading Rooms, No. 4, Borgeand, Brussels.

Periodical Sales (established in the year 1830) of Reversions, Life Interests, Annuities, Policies of Assurance, Advowsons, Next Presentations, Rent Charges, Tithes, Post-obit Bonds, Tonines, Debentures, Ground Rents, Improved Rents, Shares in Docks, Canals, Railways, Insurance Companies, and all Public Undertakings.

MESSRS. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS

respectfully inform the public, that, of over 40 years' experience having proved the classification of the species of property to be extremely advantageous and economical to vendors, and equally satisfactory and convenient to purchasers, the PERIODICAL SALES of reversions, annuities, policies of insurance, tonines, debentures, advowsons, next presentations, all securities dependent upon human life, shares in docks, canals, mines, railways, and all public undertakings, will be continued through 1846, as follows:—

This Society grants Insurances to meet every kind of pecuniary risk contingent upon the duration of human life.

Assurances for the whole Term of Life may also be effected upon an Increasing Scale, commencing at a rate much below the ordinary Premiums, and exempt from any augmentation for a period of seven years.

The rates are calculated on the lowest scale consistent with security, from the Government returns. The payments may be made annually for life, or in one sum, or by a limited number of annual payments (afterwards to cease), or upon a decreasing scale, to meet the circumstances of the party assuring.

Four-fifths of the profits are divided among the assured.

The Board meets every Wednesday, at half-past Three o'clock, to receive proposals and transact other business; but any assurance for which immediate dispatch is required may be effected on the same day that it is proposed.

In cases where a life assured by another has gone beyond the limits prescribed by the policy, without the knowledge of the party interested, the Society will, upon his application, and proof of the life being then in a satisfactory state of health (but subject to such medical officers' approval of the risk as applicable to such life), renew the policy upon the same terms as they would have required for its continuance had their consent been previously obtained.

The usual commission allowed to all solicitors.

Oatlands Mansion, Park, and Estate of 900 acres, Surrey, within one mile of the Weybridge or Walton Stations on the South-Western Railway, and within half an hour's ride of the Terminus in London.

MESSRS. DRIVER have been favoured with instructions to offer to PUBLIC COMPETITION, at the Auction Mart, Bartholomew-lane, on TUESDAY, the 19th of May, at Twelve o'clock, in 64 Lots (unless an acceptable offer for the whole estate should be previously made), the above renowned and highly admired DOMAINE, formerly the property and residence of his late Royal Highness the Duke of York. Lot 1 will comprise Oatlands Mansion, Offices, delightful Pleasure Grounds, the far-famed Grotto, Kitchen Garden and Lawn, extending to and including part of the magnificent lake called the Broad Water, and containing altogether 97 acres, without exception constituting one of the most desirable and enviable residences, and site of ornamental grounds in the kingdom, and from the house having been recently completely repaired and fitted up in the best style of taste and elegance, forms a most desirable abode for any family. The Park and other Lands south of the Lake will be divided into about 46 lots, varying from 3 to 10 acres each, with the exception of 2 or 3 lots, from 10 to 20 acres, and of the most inviting character for the erection of villas, being upon a peculiarly salubrious soil, and much adorned with ornamental timber, which may be thinned to suit the tastes of the various purchasers. The present Gravel Road, so long the acknowledged and highly admired drive through the Park, leading from Walton to Weybridge, affording at all points fine prospects, will be preserved as the public road and approach to a great number of the lots, and another principal road will be set out to lead through other parts of the park, affording an outlet at the present lodge entrance, where it crosses the South-Western Railway and leads to Cobham, Kingston, and all the adjacent beautiful neighbourhood. The lands on the north of the lake, and extending to the river Thames, will be divided into 7 lots of larger description, one being about 113 acres, and the remainder of the estate, consisting of Weybridge and Child's Farm, containing about 85 acres, will form other lots, besides which there will be 2 other lots in the town of Weybridge of about 10 acres each, admirably adapted for farm houses.—Printed specifications, with plans annexed, are now prepared, and will be ready for delivery after the 4th of April, and may then be had of Mr. Haines, at the Farm House, Oatlands; at the Swan, Chertsey; White Hart, Windsor; Griffin, Kingston; of Messrs. Fryer, Forster, and Co. Solicitors, Lincoln's-Inn; at the Auction Mart, near the Bank of England; and of Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors, &c., Richmond-terrace, Parliament-st. of whom cards to view the mansion may be had.

NOTICE.—THE OATLANDS ESTATE.

—By Messrs. DRIVER, at the Auction Mart, on TUESDAY, the 19th of May, Lot 1, comprising the MANSION HOUSE and 97 acres, will be submitted at the Auction on the above day, exclusive of the two Manors of Byfleet and Walton-on-Leigh, though included in Lot 1 of the specifications already published, which said manors will be submitted in a separate lot. The remaining 63 lots will be offered to Auction on the above day, as already advertised. Richmond-terrace, Whitehall, April 27, 1846.

Glasenwood, near Witham, Essex.—A remarkably unique Freehold Property, land-tax redeemed, comprising the celebrated Horticultural, Orchard, Nursery, Australian and American Gardens, containing upwards of 50 acres (with a capital mansion-house in the centre, in the occupation of the Rev. Sir John Page Wood, bart.); also a genteel newly-erected Villa, besides another residence, with all requisite conservatories and buildings for horticultural and floricultural purposes; the whole property constituting one of the Lions of that part of the county, and admirably adapted either for occupation or investment.

MESSRS. DRIVER have received instructions to OFFER to PUBLIC COMPETITION, at the Auction Mart, London, on TUESDAY, the 9th day of JUNE, at Twelve o'clock, in two lots, the above valuable PROPERTY, freehold, and land-tax redeemed, comprising the celebrated Glasenwood Estate, in the parish of Bradwell, next Coggeshall, consisting of above 50 acres of orchard, nursery, and American gardens, a considerable portion of which is well stocked with the choicest fruit trees of the most approved sorts in full bearing, and the remainder planted with a fine and rare collection of American and Australian shrubs and plants, in the most luxuriant and flourishing condition; the whole ornamentally disposed with the greatest taste, and intersected with a capital gravel walk, extensive conservatories, and sundry pits, with a capital mansion-house in the centre of the property (the residence of the Rev. Sir John Page Wood, bart.). Also a genteel newly-erected villa, replete with every accommodation for any respectable family; besides another residence and all requisite buildings for horticultural or floricultural purposes, the whole constituting a remarkably eligible property, either for occupation in its present lucrative trade, or as an investment. It is only about five miles from the Witham Station on the Eastern Counties Railway, surrounded with excellent roads, and resorted to by all persons fond of or admiring horticultural or floricultural pursuits as quite the lion of that part of the county. The entire property is in the hands of the proprietor (excepting the Mansion House, occupied by the Rev. Sir J. P. Wood, bart.), and will be divided into Two Lots. The principal lot, comprising the Mansion House, &c. and upwards of thirty-eight acres. Lot 2, consists of the Villa and the other residence, with Conservatories and Buildings, and twelve acres of Nursery and Orchard Ground attached thereto.

To be viewed, on application to Mr. Curtis, at Glasenwood, of whom printed specifications, with plans annexed, may be had. Specifications may also be had at the Hotel at Chipping-hill, close to the Witham Station; the Saracen's Head, Chelmsford; the Three Cups, Colchester; of E. G. Craig, Esq. Solicitor, Braintree; of W. W. Oldenshaw, Esq. of Tokenhouse-yard, London; at the Auction Mart, near the Bank of England; and of Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors and Land Agents, 8, Richmond-terrace, Whitehall, London.

BRILL, BUCKS.—To Hotel and Tavern Keepers, Speculators, and others.

MESSRS. BECKWITH and SALMON are instructed to SELL BY AUCTION, at Garraway's, on TUESDAY, MAY 19, at Twelve o'clock, an acceptable offer is made previously, the valuable PREMISES known as the SPA HOTEL, at Brill, in Buckinghamshire, which, together with the grounds, occupy about an acre and a half. The premises contain in all about twenty-four rooms, stabling for ten horses, standing for carriages, kitchen and flower gardens, and a quantity of ground unappropriated, which might be turned to good account in building; the whole fitted up in the most superior manner for doing a first-class trade with persons of distinction, and, in the hands of a spirited and enterprising man of business, cannot fail to prove a very valuable property, as an hotel of this description was much wanted to meet the demands of the country frequenting the celebrated Dorton Spa, which, from the excellence of its spring, bids fair to be a powerful rival to the famous spa at Leamington. The premises are of an imposing elevation, standing on an eminence rather out of the town, and commands the most beautiful views of the Spa grounds and surrounding country; they have been erected in the most substantial manner, regardless of expense. This valuable property is held on lease, direct from the freeholder, for about ninety-five years, at the trifling ground rent of 11l. per annum. In the event of the formation of the intended Cambridge and Oxford Railway, of which there is now no doubt, it must prove a fortune.—May be viewed, and particulars had at the SPA Hotel, Brill; Star Inn, Aylesbury; of Messrs. WILLOUGHBY and JACQUET, Solicitors, 13, Clifford's Inn; at Garraway's; and at the Auctioneer's Office, 25, Bucklersbury.

Very desirable Leasehold Houses and Estates at Lambeth, Vauxhall, City-road, Pentonville, and Brixton; also an Improved Ground-rent of 45l. producing in all 269l. per annum.

MESSRS. BECKWITH and SALMON will SELL BY AUCTION, at Garraway's, on TUESDAY, MAY 19, at Twelve, in 8 lots, Two brick-built Residences, Nos. 43 and 44, Brook-street, Lambeth, let at 49l. 8s. per annum, and held for about 40 years at a ground-rent of 10l. A brick-built Dwelling-house and Shop, No. 46, Vauxhall-walk, let at 30l. per annum, and held for about 33 years at a ground-rent of 5l. 5s. A brick-built semi-detached Dwelling-house, No. 26, Lambeth-terrace, let at 26l. per annum, and held for about 13 years, at a ground-rent of 6l. A brick-built residence, No. 31, Sidney-street, City-road, let at 28l. per annum, and held for about 31 years, at a peppercorn rent. A brick-built Residence, No. 66, White Lion-street, Pentonville, let at 39l. per annum, and held at a ground-rent of 2l. 15s. Three brick-built Residences, Nos. 9, 10, and 12, Melbourne-square, North Brixton, rental 96l. per annum, and held for about 54 years, at a ground-rent of 16l. Three brick-built Residences, Nos. 30, 31, and 33, Brighton-terrace, near the Church, Brixton, rental 73l. per annum, and held for about 64 years, at a ground-rent of 12l. Also an Improved Ground-rent of 45l. per annum, well secured upon ten houses in Martha-street, Lark-row, and John-street, Cambridge-heath, Hackney, held for 41 years, and underleased for the whole term at 55l. 10s. per annum, subject to the payment of 10l. 10s. These are very eligible properties for investment, and some of them particularly so for occupation.—May be viewed by permission of the respective tenants, and particulars had of HENRY HARPUR, Esq. Solicitor, Kennington-crook; at Garraway's; and at the Auctioneer's Office, 25, Bucklersbury.

Brickfield, Sydenham, Kent.—To Bricklayers, Builders, and Others.

MESSRS. BECKWITH and SALMON will SELL BY AUCTION, at Garraway's, on TUESDAY, MAY 19, at Twelve, a LEASE for 21 Years, from Midsummer next, of a valuable BRICKFIELD at Ball Green, Sydenham, about a mile from the Forest and Sydenham Stations, on the Croydon Railway. It is complete working order, in extent about 4 acres and half, contains very superior clay, and capable of making three millions per season; well supplied with water, erected thereon are two workmen's cottages. Will be subject to a rent of 48l. per annum, and a royalty of 2s. thousand on all made.—May be viewed, and particulars of G. W. HUSSEY, Esq. Solicitor, 25, Chancery-lane; at Garraway's; and at the Auctioneer's Office, 25, Bucklersbury.

KNIGHTSBRIDGE.—For Occupation or Investment.

MESSRS. BECKWITH and SALMON will SELL BY AUCTION, at Garraway's, on TUESDAY, MAY 19, at Twelve, an excellent brick-built LEASEHOLD RESIDENCE, finished in a superior style, situate No. 23, Hill-street, Knightsbridge, near the Horse Guards. It contains ten rooms, good garden and conservatory, and let to a highly respectable tenant on agreement for 10 years, at 45l. per annum; held for 98 years, at the ground rent of 7l. 7s. May be viewed by permission of a tenant.—Particulars had of Messrs. STONE and TUBER, Solicitors, 57, Jermyn-street, St. James's; at Garraway's; and at the Auctioneer's Office, 25, Bucklersbury.

Eligible Leasehold Property in Kent and on Old Kent Road, for Occupation and Investment.

MESSRS. BECKWITH and SALMON will SELL BY AUCTION, at Garraway's, on TUESDAY, MAY 19, at Twelve, in four lots, four desirable RESIDENCES, situate in Windover, County of Kent, Old Kent-road, containing each six rooms, washhouse, pantry, and large gardens in the rear, with landward to courts; let to very excellent tenants, at rents varying to 125l. 10s. per annum, but worth 125l. and held for about 7 years, at the low ground-rent of 18l. These houses are very large, substantially built and handsomely finished. Also, in the same street, three brick-built HOUSES, Nos. 20, 21, and 22, containing three rooms each and one fire room, washhouse, yard, and large gardens in front. Let to good weekly tenants, at rents amounting to 70l. 4s. per annum, and held for 10 years, at the low ground-rent.—May be viewed by permission of the respective tenants, and particulars had of T. P. APODOR, Esq. Solicitor, 16, Cornhill; at Garraway's; and at the Auctioneer's Office, 25, Bucklersbury.

GROWTH OF THE HAIR.—No great change can be permanently brought about without going to the root of the evil. The growth of the hair, as in other cases, lies beneath the surface; were ungues to grow over, but will not remove the cause. The only preparation that acts unerringly, because in accordance with these principles, is OLDRIEDGE'S BALM OF COLUMBIA, which produces Whiskers and Eyebrows, prevents the hair from falling out, and the hair application causes it to curl beautifully, frees it from scurf, and stops it from falling off. Price 3s. 6d., 6s., and 11s. per bottle. No other prices are genuine. Ask for OLDRIEDGE'S BALM, 1, Wellington-street, Strand. Sold by all respectable chemists, perfumers, and stationers.

NERVOUSNESS: CURE for the MILLION.

Mr. HENRY NEWTON (late Chemist to the Rev. Dr. Willis Moseley) has made arrangements to extend to every member of the community the benefit of the great discovery for the CURE of NERVOUS COMPLAINTS, which hitherto has been enjoyed by the upper and wealthier classes exclusively. Persons suffering from groundless fear, delusion, melancholy, inquietude, disinclination for society, study, business, &c. confusion, blood to the head, giddiness, failure of memory, insomnia, and every other form of nervous disease, are invited to avail themselves of this never-failing remedy. The most deeply-rooted symptoms are effectually and permanently removed. Hours for consultation daily, from Eleven to Five, and in the evening from Seven to Nine, at Mr. Newton's residence, 7, Northumberland-street, Trafalgar-square.

Letters, with a concise statement of cases, promptly attended to, and the means of cure sent to all parts.

ORNAMENTS for the DRAWING-ROOM,

LIBRARY, and DINING-ROOM, consisting of a new and elegant assortment of VASES, Figures, Groups, Candlesticks, Inkstands, Obelisks, Busts, Watchstands, beautifully inscribed and engraved Tables, Paper-weights, &c. in Italian Alabaster, Marble, Bronze, Derbyshire Spar, &c. imported and manufactured by J. TENNANT (late Maw), 149, STRAND, LONDON.

Mr. TENNANT arranges elementary collections of Minerals, Shells, and Fossils, which will greatly facilitate the interesting study of Mineralogy, Geology, or Cosmology, at 2s., 10s., 20s. to 50s. each. He also gives private instruction in Geological Mineralogy.

SCHWEPPE'S AERATED LIME WATER,

an excellent anti-acid, when taken under medical direction; but the Public are cautioned against an indiscriminate use of this water (under whatever fanciful or disguised name it may be pressed upon their notice), as LIME is well known to produce in some constitutions the most violent and even fatal effects. SCHWEPPE'S AERATED LIME WATER, and MAGNESIA WATER, manufactured as usual upon the largest scale, at their several Establishments in London, Liverpool, Bristol, and Derby. Each bottle is protected with a red label over the cork, bearing the name. German Sellers direct from the Springs at Nassau.—41, Berners-street, London.

THE NEW TOOTH-BRUSH, made on the most scientific principles, thoroughly cleansing between the teeth, when used up and down, and polishing the surface when used crossways. This Brush so entirely enters between the closest teeth, that the inventor has decided upon marking it with the TOOTH-BRUSH, and to ask for it under that name, marked and numbered as under:—No. 1, full-sized Brushes, marked T.P.W. No. 1, hard; No. 2, less hard; No. 3, middling; No. 4, soft. The narrow Brushes, marked T.P.N. No. 5, hard; No. 6, less hard; No. 7, middling; No. 8, soft. These Brushes will never come out, at 1s. each, or 10s. per dozen, in boxes or 2s. each, or 20s. per dozen, in boxes.

THE TRICHLAPYRATOR, or LIQUID HAIR DYE.—The only Dye that really answers for all colours, and does not require re-doing, but as the hair grows, as it never fades or acquires that unnatural red or purple tint common to all other dyes. ROSS and SONS can, with the greatest confidence, recommend the above Dye as infallible, if done at their establishment; and ladies or gentlemen requiring it are requested to bring a friend or servant with them to see how it is used, which will enable them to do it afterwards without the chance of failure. Several private apartments devoted entirely to the above purpose, and some of these establishments having used it, the effect produced can be at once seen. They think it necessary to add, that by attending strictly to the instructions given with each bottle of the Dye, numerous persons have succeeded equally well without coming to them.

Addres—ROSS and SONS, 119 and 120, Bishopsgate-street, London, the celebrated Perfumers, Perfumers, Hair-cutters, and Hair-dyers. N.B. Parties attended at their own residences, whatever the distance.

A NEW DISCOVERY.—Mr. HOWARD, Surgeon-Dentist, 12, Fleet-street, begs to introduce an ENTIRELY NEW DESCRIPTION OF ARTIFICIAL TEETH, fixed without springs, wires, or ligatures. They so perfectly resemble the natural Teeth as not to be distinguished from the original by the closest observer; they will NEVER CHANGE COLOUR or DECAY, and will be found very superior to any Teeth ever before used. This method does not require the extraction of roots or any painful operation, and will give support and preserve teeth that are loose, and is guaranteed to restore articulation and mastication; and that Mr. Howard's improvements may be within the reach of the most economical, he has fixed his charges at the lowest scale possible. Decayed teeth rendered sound and useful in mastication.—22, Fleet-street. At home from Ten till Five.

CARSON'S ORIGINAL ANTI-CORROSION

PAINT, specially patronised by the British and other Governments, the Hon. East-India Company, the principal Dock Companies, and other public bodies, &c. is particularly recommended to the Nobility, Gentry, Agriculturists, Manufacturers, West-India Proprietors, and others, it having been proved, by the practical test of nearly sixty years, to surpass all other Paints as an out-door preservative. It is extensively used for the preservation of wooden houses, farm and other out-buildings, farming implements, conservatories, park paling, gates, iron railings, iron burlies, copper, zinc, lead, brick, stone, old copper and stucco fronts, and tiles to represent slate. The superiority of the ANTI-CORROSION over every other paint, for its out-door purposes, may be easily inferred from the simple fact, that its use has been found to be most strongly approved by colour manufacturers, painters, oil and colourmen, and others interested in the sale of common paints. It is also very economical, any labourer being able to lay it on. Colours—light stone, dark or Portland stone, Bath ditto, light and dark yellow ditto, light and dark red, light and dark lead, light and dark chocolate, bright and dark red, and black. 34s. per cwt.; invisible green, 30s.; bright ditto, 60s.; deep green, 60s. per cwt.; in casks, 25 lb., 35 lb., and 112 lb. each. Oil and Brushes. More detailed particulars will be sent free of postage. The original ANTI-CORROSION PAINT is only to be obtained of WALTER CARSON (successor to the inventors), 15, Tottenham-house-yard, back of the Bank of England, who will send nearly 300 Testimonials received from the Nobility, Gentry, and Clergy, who have used the Anti-Corrosion for many years at their country seats. W. C. is respectfully compelled to caution the Public against the spurious imitations of the Original ANTI-CORROSION PAINT, now offered for sale. He has no agents whatever. All orders are particularly requested to be sent direct.

COCOA-NUT FIBRE.—This substance

envelopes the shell of the milky cocoa-nut, around which it forms a strong protecting net-work. Man's ingenuity has turned the fibre to account by manufacturing it into many useful articles—such as carpets for stairs and passages, matting for churches, public buildings, offices, nurseries, and kitchens, hearth-rugs, door-mats, ropes, netting for sheep-folds, &c.; but among the applications there is not any to which it is better adapted than for the stuffing of mattresses and cushions, as a substitute for horse-hair, wool, and flock. It is very elastic, and affords great ease and support to the body, whether used with or without a feather bed. It has also the additional recommendation of being so obnoxious to vermin that they will not live in it! whilst it is a fact well known that wool, flock, tow, and even horse-hair, will engender animalcules. Possessing peculiar chemical properties that render it a non-absorbent, the fibre is particularly suitable for children's beds, for use of schools, in all large dormitories, and a sea. Cocoa-nut fibre mattresses are only about one-half the price of those made from horse-hair. Priced lists may be had on application at the warehouse, or will be sent free by post.

NERVOUSNESS: a Pamphlet containing novel Observations on the Rev. Dr. Willis Moseley's great Original Discoveries, by which, for thirty years, after curing himself of a deep-rooted nervous complaint of fourteen years' standing, he has had not less than 14,000 applications, and knows not twenty-five uncured who have followed his advice. From noblemen to menials he has for thirty years cured persons of all classes and ages of groundless fear, mental depression, wretchedness, confusion, delusions, involuntary blushing, despair, indecision, dislike of society, blood to the head, sleeplessness, restlessness, thoughts of self-destruction, and insanity itself. This pamphlet is cheerfully sent to every address free of charge, and franked home if but one stamp is inclosed. The original means of cure are sent in a pure and effective state to all parts. At home from Eleven to Three.

Upton-place, Stratford, and Stamford-hill.—Valuable long

Leasehold Estates, desirable for occupation, in five lots.

MR. MOORE will SELL BY AUCTION, at the Mart, on FRIDAY, MAY 15, at Twelve, a substantially-built FAMILY RESIDENCE, situate No. 16, Upton-place, on the high-road to Ilford, commanding extensive and beautiful views over Essex, Kent, and the river Thames. The house is in perfect repair, and contains twelve good rooms, with modern improvements, most convenient offices; a fore-court, and large well-stocked garden, as the same is occupied by Mr. Drane, together with a coach-house, two stable and loft, with back entrance to road leading to Upton-lane; held for an unexpired term of 970 years, at the trifling ground-rent of 7½ per annum. Also the house (No. 17) adjoining, of a similar description, but smaller, as occupied by Mr. Greenwood; together with a fire-room cottage in the rear, fronting the road to Upton-lane; term, 970 years; ground-rent, 5½ per annum. And three handsomely-finished semi-detached cottage residences, situate on Mount-pleasant, Warwick-road, near Stamford-hill, overlooking the river Lea, Leyton, Walthamstow, and other parts of Essex; held, direct from the freeholder, for 57 years, at 5½ ground-rent each. The houses are all finished in a convenient style, well drained, land-tax redeemed; fit for the reception of a respectable family; situation four miles from the City, to which conveyances constantly pass; and, as each house will form a lot, are particularly adapted for occupation.—May be viewed, and particulars had of Mr. HUMPHREY'S, Solicitor, East India Chambers, Leadenhall-street; of Mr. Ford, Finner's-hall, Old Broad-street; at the Swan, Stamford-hill; Swan, Stratford; Angel, Ilford; at the Mart; and at the Auctioneer's Office, Mile-end-road.

Freehold and long Leasehold Estates, eligible for investment at Old Ford, Mile-end, and Poplar, giving Votes for Middlesex; the whole producing 460l. per annum. In Fifteen Lots.

MR. MOORE will SELL BY AUCTION, at the Mart, on FRIDAY, MAY 15, at Twelve, by order of the executors of Mrs. Mary Branch, deceased, two neat houses, Eagle-place, Mile End-road, held for 324 years, at a nominal rent; also seven freehold houses in Iceland-road, Old Ford, let at 82l. per annum; five freehold houses (two with shops), Lochlade-place, Old Ford, near the White Hart, let at 78l. per annum; a freehold house in Globe-road, Mile-end, near the Rising Sun; a freehold house, No. 8, Cannon-place, Whitechapel-road; nine well and newly-built six-roomed houses, with gardens, in Grundy, Ellortherp, and Thomas-streets, East India Road, Poplar, suitable for occupation, let at 26l. each, term ninety-seven years, direct from the freeholder, ground rent 3s. 3d. each; and two small houses in Henry-street, Back Church-lane, Whitechapel, term fifty years, ground rent 5l.—May be viewed, and particulars had of Messrs. Martin, Thomas, and Hollins, 31, Commercial-Chambers; Messrs. Jarnum and German, 49, Leadenhall-street; Mr. F. R. Smith, Butcher's-inn; Mr. Humphreys, East India Chambers; Mr. Ellortherp, Colet-place, Commercial-road; at the Mart; at the Inns near the property; and at the Auctioneer's office, Mile End-road.

ST. LEONARD'S, in WINDSOR PARK.—The splendid Seat of the late William Dawson, esq. for the last three years occupied by Lord Haddo, delightfully situated adjoining St. Leonard's Hill (the noble seat of Colonel Harcourt), amidst the most romantic and elevated portions of the Royal Park, with a magnificent View of the Castle, the Thames, and rich surrounding country; also a former portion of the Forest adjoining, studded with venerable Timber, offering a choice Site for Building.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON have the honour to announce to the Nobility and others seeking a capital and beautifully situated residence, that they are instructed to SUBMIT to PUBLIC SALE, in JUNE next (unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by Private Contract), in Two Lots, the above most recently-adorned and elegant noble MANSION, admitted to stand unencumbered (except, perhaps, by its princely neighbour St. Leonard's Hill) in the whole circle of the court. The mansion is modern and of an elegant and chaste style of architecture, placed on the verge of a romantic and finely-wooded eminence, perfectly secluded, overlooking a lovely vale and a great breadth of the Royal park, with the magnificent castle towering in the back ground, with the rich banks of the Thames, Eton College, and other interesting objects. The house contains a splendid suite of rooms, with east and south aspects, a beautiful conservatory, paved terrace, &c. surrounded by a rich small park, of nearly 100 acres, adorned with handsome timber, noble avenue of limes, a sheet of water, with extensive terrace and other walks. About 30 acres adjoining will be offered in a separate lot, extending from St. Leonard's hill to the Winkfield-road, opposite Forest-hill, presenting a fine and romantic building site, bounded on one side by Lot 1, and on the other by some of the private drives and plantations of the royal park, through which, and the beautiful grounds of Colonel Harcourt, are the approaches to this delightful domain.—The estate can be viewed only with cards, which may be had at Messrs. SMITH'S Offices, in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall, and Windsor; or of THOMAS WEBSTER, Esq. Solicitor, Queen-street, Chesham.

MAER-HALL, in Staffordshire, bordering on Cheshire and Shropshire, near Newcastle-under-Lyme, many years the residence and property of the late Josiah Wedgwood, Esq. with its splendid Lake or Mere, surrounded by rich park-like pastures, and a bold broken chain of wooded hills, intersected by romantic drives and walks, of several miles in extent, forming one of the most beautiful and desirable domains of its size (about 1,100 acres) in the country; the soil being remarkably fine and healthy, the lands nearly timber-free, and the farm homesteads of a very superior description; also the Advowson and Manor of Maer, and a romantic residence, known as Camp-hill, adjoining; midway between Birmingham, Manchester, and Liverpool, with a first-class station within a mile of the estate, bringing it within about seven hours' journey of London, and two and a half from those important towns.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON are directed by the Executors of the late Josiah Wedgwood, Esq. to SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, near the Bank of England, on TUESDAY, the 23rd of JUNE, at Twelve o'clock, in Three Lots (unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by private contract), the above important and singularly beautiful FREEHOLD PROPERTY, delightfully situated in a remarkably healthy and picturesque part of the country, between the towns of Newcastle-under-Lyme, Stafford, Drayton, and Eccleshall, on the Shrewsbury-road. It comprises the Mansion of Maer Hall, possessing every comfort for a moderate establishment, capital newly-built stabling, gardens, and park-like pastures, refreshed by a lake of nearly twenty-three acres, studded with venerable timber, and a variety of other fine and beautiful scenery, clothing and crowning the brows and wooded hills of this highly picturesque domain, commanding very extensive and romantic scenery, and forming excellent preserves for game. The farms are let to respectable yearly tenants at low rents, and the two principal farmhouses and homesteads have been entirely newly built in the most substantial manner, and of a superior character. The Manor and the Advowson of the living (a perpetual curacy), with its Parsonage, Glebe, &c., appertain to the estate, as also the small old established inn, the Swan with Two Necks, and several cottages. Camp-hill is a modern compact residence, with twenty-seven acres of romantic wooded grounds on the northward side of the property, about one mile from the railway station.—The estates may be viewed by parties sending their address. Descriptive particulars, with lithographic plans, may be had after the 31st of May, on the premises; at the chief hotels at Birmingham, Liverpool, Manchester, Stafford, &c.; of Messrs. KEMAY and SHEPPARD, solicitors, Stoke-upon-Trent; at the Auction Mart, London; and of DANIEL SMITH and SON, Land Agents, in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall, to whom only applications to treat are to be made.

The Sedgell Estate and Farm in Wilts, on the Borders of Dorsetshire, altogether about 310 acres, in the rich vale between Shaftesbury and Fonthill, in a famous sporting country.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON are directed to OFFER for PUBLIC SALE, at the end of JUNE next (unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by private contract), in Two lots, a very desirable FREEHOLD GENTLEMAN'S RESIDENCE, on a moderate scale, though capable of accommodating a good establishment. It is a modern house of a handsome uniform elevation, with all suitable offices, stabling, walled garden, farm buildings, lodge, &c. surrounded by a very rich little park, studded with fine oak and other timber, commanding some highly picturesque scenery, embracing the finely varied range of hills and domain of Fitt House, the seat of John Bennett, esq. and portions of the Fonthill Estate, together with a valuable farm adjoining, with all requisite buildings, labourers' cottages, &c. Also, in a separate lot, a highly-conditioned and compact farm of about 170 acres, a great part pasture, in the parish of Sedgell, with a neat farm-house and homestead, all recently put into substantial repair, and let to a highly respectable tenant.—The estates may be viewed by application on the premises, and descriptive particulars with plans may be had, when the day of sale is fixed, at the inns at Shaftesbury, Salisbury, &c.; of J. BATTEN, Esq. Solicitor, Yeovil, and of DANIEL SMITH and SON, Land Agents, in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall, London.

DESIRABLE FREEHOLD ESTATE, with a very superior FARM RESIDENCE, known as STARK CASTLE, bounded by a bold reach of the River Medway, only three miles from the City of Rochester, and about seven from Maidstone, amidst grand and beautiful scenery.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON will offer for SALE by AUCTION, in JUNE (unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by Private Contract), the above very compact and valuable FREEHOLD PROPERTY, comprising a superior Farm Residence, embracing a portion of the old Castle, with a fine Gothic window, capital buildings of the most substantial description, and about 900 acres of arable, pasture, and marsh land, in a ring fence, and in a high state of cultivation, being on lease to Mr. John Pearce, a highly respectable tenant, for an unexpired term of five years, at a low rent, offering a safe and superior investment for capital, as also a desirable property for future occupation, being in a beautiful part of the country.—The estate may be viewed by application to the tenant, and particulars, with plans, may be had on the premises; at the chief inns at Rochester, Maidstone, Canterbury, &c. when the day of sale is fixed; at the Auction Mart; and of DANIEL SMITH and SON, Land Agents, in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall.

Whiteknights' Park, near Reading, Berks, Freehold; the greater part land-tax redeemed, and nearly all tithe-free.—Notice of Sale of this unrivalled Estate, subdivided into plots for the erection of an assemblage of mansions and villas, agreeably to a plan which will ensure its becoming a nucleus for the residence of families of the highest respectability, affording to capitalists, builders, and gentlemen desirous of erecting their own private residences an opportunity for investment rarely to be obtained, and for the sale of the whole Estate in one lot previously.

MR. FREDERICK CHINNOCK begs to announce that he has been honoured with instructions from the proprietors to submit for public COMPETITION, at the Great Western Railway Hotel, Reading, Berks, on THURSDAY, JUNE 18, at One, this exceedingly valuable and highly picturesque ESTATE, unless the whole estate, which will be previously offered in one lot (comprising the beautiful undulating park, the well-known and much-admired botanical and American gardens, the charming and romantic wilderness, the splendid lake of water, abounding with fish, the noble avenue of trees, through which it is approached, with the rich pasture and park land, embracing together upwards of 264 acres), shall be sold. The greatest possible care has been taken in apportioning and lotting this truly interesting and picturesque property for sale, so as not only to preserve and retain the natural beauties of the particular spot so allotted, but also to afford that extent of ground necessary to surround the villas or houses which may be erected on its site, and at the same time to preserve intact the leading features of the estate, by offering, in one lot, the site of the old mansion, the lake of water, the botanical kitchen gardens, the avenue of trees and the home park, containing together about 100 acres, and thus afford an opportunity for erecting a mansion on the old foundation of a spot already formed by nature and art to give every characteristic of an ancient family mansion, and render it one of the most compact, delightful, and inexpensive seats in the county of Berks. The wilderness, containing about 36 acres, will be offered in one lot, in the hope that there will be found in the town of Reading or the county a purchaser who will keep up this romantic and charming retreat in the same state of order and cultivation in which it at present stands. Detached villa residences are much needed in this locality, and there are few spots in England presenting such attractions and affording such facilities for this object, whether from the new church which has lately been erected close to the estate, from its contiguity to the town of Reading, from its easy access from every part of the kingdom (which must materially enhance the value of land in the neighbourhood, and of this estate in particular), from the known salubrity of the air, from the delightful drives in the neighbourhood, but, above all, from the natural and artificial beauties of the estate, which are so well known and highly appreciated by all who have had the good fortune to see it, and which might but a bold and noble conception, combined with the most refined taste, alone could produce, in order to afford facilities and encouragement to purchasers, arrangements have been made whereby the conveyance of each purchase shall be fixed at a definite and low sum. Descriptive particulars, with lithographic plans of the estate, will be published early, and may be obtained at the Great Western Railway Hotel; of T. Rogers, esq. solicitor, Friar-street, Reading; of Messrs. Smith and Allistons, solicitors, Warford-court, City; of Messrs. Hillier, Lewis, and Hillier, 6, Raymond-buildings, Gray's-inn; at the White Hart, Bath; of Messrs. Fowler, Clifton, near Bristol; and at Mr. CHINNOCK'S Offices, 28, Regent-street, Waterloo-place.

Valuable Reversions to Money in the Funds.
MR. F. CHINNOCK has received instructions to SELL by AUCTION, at the Auction Mart, on WEDNESDAY, JUNE 3, at Twelve, the following valuable REVERSIONS TO MONEY in the FUNDS, standing in the names of highly respectable trustees, comprising one-eighth share of 5,993 $\frac{1}{2}$ 17s. 10d. in the Three per Cent. Consolidated Annuities, and one-eighth portion of 4,617 $\frac{1}{2}$ 10s. 6d. in the Three-and-a-Quarter per Cent. Annuities, receivable on the death of the survivor of a gentleman and his wife, the former in his 70th and the latter in the 63rd year of her age.—Printed particulars to be obtained of Messrs. PURRIER and WRIGHT, Solicitors, 35, New Broad-street, City; at the Auction Mart; and at Mr. F. CHINNOCK'S Offices, 28, Regent-street, Waterloo-place.

Long Leaseholds, Old Kent-road, producing a Rental of 60l. per annum.
MR. FREDERICK CHINNOCK will SELL by AUCTION, at the Auction Mart, on WEDNESDAY, JUNE 3, TWO brick-built private HOUSES, of modern elevation, with good gardens in front and rear, situate and being Nos. 5 and 6, Ann's-terrace, Old Kent-road, let to highly respectable tenants, at rents amounting to 60l. per annum, held for a term of 68 years from Midsummer, 1843, at a ground-rent of 15l. 6s. per annum.—May be viewed, and particulars had at the Auction Mart; of Messrs. THOMPSON and POWELL, Solicitors, 3, Raymond-buildings, Gray's-inn; and at Mr. CHINNOCK'S Auction and Estate Offices, 28, Regent-street, Waterloo-place.

KENSINGTON-PARK, NOTTING-HILL.—Highly valuable Building Land, on the most important and eligible part of this rapidly improving and highly picturesque Estate, presenting sites for the erection of about 80 detached and semi-detached villas, embracing about nine acres of land, held direct from the freeholder.

MR. FREDERICK CHINNOCK has been directed to SELL by AUCTION, at the Auction Mart, on TUESDAY, JUNE 14, at Twelve, the valuable Plots of BUILDING LAND, described above, in lots suitable for either the capitalist, builder, or gentleman desirous of erecting their own residence. The land is situate on the north side of the intended road 60 feet wide, leading from St. John's Church to Waterhouse-grove, to which it presents a frontage of 794 feet; it is at the highest points of ground on the estate, commanding a perfect panoramic view of great beauty and extent, upon which about 80 villas may be erected, giving to each villager space for appropriate pleasure-grounds; the area, in which notice has been given, will be made at the expense of the proprietor. A bird's-eye view of the same, showing villas in different styles of architecture, will be supplied, and may be seen at Mr. CHINNOCK'S Office, 28, Regent-street, Waterloo-place, where lithographic plans and particulars may be obtained; and of E. Elderton, esq. solicitor, 1, Lombury, City; Messrs. Bayley and Janson, solicitors, 1, Abinghall-street; and at the Auction Mart.

Judd-street and Tunbridge-place, New-road.—Baker's and Fruiterer's House and Shop, held at a low price; and leasehold Ground-rent of 43l. per annum, absolutely secured.

MR. FREDERICK CHINNOCK is instructed to SELL by AUCTION, at the Auction Mart, on WEDNESDAY, JUNE 3, at Twelve o'clock, LEASEHOLD HOUSE, and BAKER'S SHOP, situate at the corner of Judd-street, and Tunbridge-place, New-road, let on lease, which will expire at Christmas, 1851, at 10s. 6d. per annum; a Shop adjoining, let on lease for 21 years, and in the occupation of Mr. Pamment, from 1s. 10d. of 30l. 9s. per annum. And an improved leasehold of 42l. per annum, arising from two houses adjoining Tunbridge-place; let at 110l. per annum. The whole is held on an unexpired term of 60 years, at the very low ground-rent of 12l. 12s. per annum.—May be viewed by permission of the tenants, and particulars obtained at the Auction Mart, of J. TAYLOR, Esq. Solicitor, 15, Farnley-street, Baker; and at Mr. F. CHINNOCK'S Auction and Estate Offices, 28, Regent-street, Waterloo-place.

Lansdowne-terrace, Kensington-park, Notting-hill.—Seat of Sale of Six First-class Residences, most delightfully situated, commanding charming and extensive panoramic views of the surrounding country, held for long periods at exceedingly low ground-rents, affording a most valuable opportunity for either occupation or for a safe investment.

MR. FREDERICK CHINNOCK begs to announce he has been favoured with instructions to SELL by AUCTION, at the Auction Mart, on WEDNESDAY, JUNE 3, at Twelve, SIX newly-erected detached RESIDENCES, situate on the highest and best part of this interesting and picturesque estate, and but a short distance from St. John's Church. The houses are substantially built, and five of them are finished, with a reception of decoration, which is left to the taste of the purchaser, fit for the reception of, and having accommodation for large families. They are approached by a bold sweep, screened from the road by a massive stone balustrade, and are entered by a lofty porch of four orders, with commanding staircase, noble reception hall, numerous best and secondary bed-chambers, large bath, promenade in a pleasure garden most tastefully planted, &c.—Particulars to be obtained of E. M. ELDERTON, Esq. Solicitor, 1, Lombury, City; at the Auction Mart; and at Mr. CHINNOCK'S Auction and Estate Offices, 28, Regent-street, Waterloo-place.

Valuable Leasehold House and Shop, Coventry-street, Haymarket, producing an improved rental of 300l. per annum.
MR. FREDERICK CHINNOCK will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on WEDNESDAY, JUNE 3, at Twelve, the valuable LEASEHOLD HOUSE and SHOP, situate at the corner of Coventry-street, immediately opposite the Haymarket, possessing every advantage for carrying on an extensive business, and recently undergone considerable embellishment, and is let upon lease for the full term at a rental of 300l. per annum. This property is held on lease from Sir Robert Peel, Bart., for an unexpired term of nine years, at a ground-rent of 7l. 10s. per annum, thereby producing an improved rental of 300l. per annum. May be viewed any time preceding the sale by permission of the tenant.—Printed particulars to be obtained of Messrs. RICHARDSON, SMITH, and SADDLER, solicitors, 28, Golden-square; at the Mart; and at Mr. F. CHINNOCK'S Auction and Agency Offices, 28, Regent-street, Waterloo-place.

CORRESPONDENCE.

LEGAL EDUCATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE LAW TIMES.

SIR,—The deep interest which you invariably take in every question that affects the well-being of the Profession, induces me to address a few observations to you on the inquiry about to be instituted into the present system of legal education in England and Ireland, under the auspices of Mr. Wyse, the member for Waterford. I trust that, in the spirit of candour and justice, the committee of the House of Commons will not confine their attention to the nominal exercises of the Inns of Court, but will call for a return of the whole number of pupils (being members of the Inns) for the last three years, in the chambers of barristers, special pleaders, conveyancers, &c. We hear a great deal about the deficient means of legal education; and a large portion of the public are led to suppose that either there are no means of regular legal education at all, or that the present system is a bad one. But is this so? You, sir, I think, will agree with me that this is by no means the case.

Readings and exercises in the halls of the four Inns have, it is true, fallen into desuetude; but another (and experience proves a more efficient) system of legal education has grown up, by which the student is enabled to apply his reading practically, and dive into the inmost recesses of the law. When a return of the number of students, within any required period of three years, is made out, it will, I apprehend, appear that almost every student who intends to practise at the bar, qualifies himself by a course of study in the chambers either of a barrister, special pleader, or conveyancer. Experience proves that entering the chambers of a gentleman actually engaged in the daily practice of the law is the best mode of becoming a lawyer, the most certain and ready means of acquiring proficiency in his profession. This fact accounts for the circumstance that hundreds are ready to pay a fee of 100 guineas to a pleader, while at the same moment they could obtain admission to the Law Lectures of King's College, London, for 5l. 5s. a year, or "perpetual admission" for 10l. 10s. Indeed, I understand that the lectures at that admirable institution (although it may be said to be adjoining the Temple) have been wholly given up in consequence of the non-attendance of pupils. I am perfectly satisfied, therefore, that the benches of our several Inns have not remained quiescent because they are insensible of the importance of this question, or because they have not been anxious to forward the alumni of the Inns in their professional career; for the contrary must be notorious to every one of us; but because they know, as a matter of fact, that a large portion of their students are diligently and successfully pursuing their studies in the best possible manner, and because they entertain doubts as to the practical value of public courses of lectures, which may be said to have failed at the Universities. The days of "mootings," it is true, are passed; but yet, as you, sir, are fully aware, the practice of forensic disputation has not been suffered to fall into disuse among the students. There are three efficient societies, composed of members of the four Inns of Court, which meet every week during the greater part of the year in Lyon's-inn Hall, for the discussion of legal questions of difficulty and importance—the Forensic Society, the New Forensic Society, and the Union Society. These societies comprise several hundred members, embracing many Practising Barristers, Special Pleaders, and Conveyancers, and the proceedings are conducted with the greatest regularity and decorum.

But after all, what is the great Educator of the nineteenth century? The printing-press. It is no uncommon thing to hear men talking of the decline of legal education since the days of solemn readings, mootings, and exercises in Norman French; but the multiplication of books during the last two centuries has created a totally new state of circumstances. The treasures of the law are no longer locked up in rare manuscripts or in books of enormous price.

In order to estimate fairly the present state of legal education in England, a return should be called for of the condition of the libraries of the Inns; of the numbers who are in the habit of frequenting them; as well as an accurate account of the number of legal periodicals and law books issued from the press annually in the metropolises.

I do not say that it is impossible to improve our present method of legal education; but, in conclusion, I venture confidently to assert, that it has hitherto answered every practical purpose;—a fact which the galaxy of great and eminent men which the Bar of this kingdom has produced during the last century sufficiently attests.

I am yours, &c.

A MEMBER OF GRAY'S-INN.

CHARITABLE TRUSTS BILL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE LAW TIMES.

SIR,—I am glad to observe that you have given your attention to this important measure; but permit me, with great respect, to say that it appears to me, that you are deluded, by the title and preamble of the bill, and by the public exposure that has been made of the gross abuses of charities, into an approval of the bill which it does not merit. I have, through another channel, called public attention to the fact, that, through the want of an interpretation clause, defining and limiting the meaning of the term "charity," all the chapels or meeting-houses of dissenters, Wesleyans, Quakers, and Roman Catholics, will come under the superintendence and control of the proposed commissioners, and that the deeds of them must be registered, and, in some cases, deposited in the office of the commissioners, and the chapels be taxed for the maintenance of the new court. This will be the case, although there may be no complaint or ground for complaint of any breach of trust. I apprehend also that, taking the word "charity" to mean, as defined by Lord Camden, "a general public use, which extends to the rich as well as the poor," numerous literary institutions which are not charities, in the popular sense of the word, will come under the superintendence and control of the commissioners. The words "superintendence and control" have no well-defined legal meaning, and may confer a power and authority that may be exercised most vexatiously. It appears to me that if the operation of the bill were confined to the charities referred to in the analytical digest mentioned in the 11th section, it would be a wise and useful measure.

In my lecture to the articulated clerks of the members of the Manchester Law Association, which you reviewed last year, in most complimentary terms, I took notice of the extensive legal meaning of the term "charity;" and I humbly think that, if this bill is to use the word in that sense, the measure will be very harassing to numerous trustees who are faithfully fulfilling the obligations imposed on them.

An interpretation clause has become a "common form" in Acts of Parliament, and I am surprised that this important bill is without one.

I am, Sir, yours, &c.

JOS. GRAVE.

STAMP DUTY ON MORTGAGE TRANSFERS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE LAW TIMES.

SIR,—I am not going to revive the old question as to the transfer duty, which was left far from settled, but regret to find a practice has grown up, and is followed by many solicitors who have extensive practice in mortgage transactions, viz. to affix the ad valorem duty on a mere transfer of the security, though no further sum has been advanced, where the heir or devisee, trustees or cestui que trusts, &c. of the mortgagor are made parties—treating it, in fact, as a new security. Is this the regular and correct practice? and what is the opinion of the more experienced members of the Profession?

To talk of the conveyancer's or solicitor's charges for the conveyance or mortgage being a serious burden on land is preposterous! Let us all unite, and shew where the real grievance lies. The truth is, those noble lords who receive annual pensions dare not face the real question.

I am, Sir, yours, &c.

May 9, 1846.

R. I.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE LAW TIMES.

SIR,—Having read in your Vol. VII. No. 162, p. 124, the question put by "An Original Subscriber" respecting the right to furnish additional abstract on a transfer of mortgage, and your reply, I take the liberty of saying, it is the privilege of the mortgagee's solicitor to furnish the abstract in question, and not the mortgagor's solicitor.

I am, Sir, yours, &c.

MATTHEW KENNETT.

SELECTIONS FROM CORRESPONDENCE.

"Another Solicitor" thus replies to a query in our last relative to the Lease and Release Act and Transfer of Property Act:—

In answer to the question of a "Solicitor" in your last week's paper, I would confidently submit that the deed therein specified did not require any reference either to 4th Vict. c. 21, or 7 & 8 Vict. c. 76, and that, inasmuch as by the latter statute every person was authorized to convey by any deed (without a prior lease), all such freehold land as previously thereto he might have conveyed by lease and release, and inasmuch also as it is "by a second limb (rather redundantly)," declared that such conveyance shall take effect as if made by lease and release, there can be no question but the old operative word "release" would and did abundantly suffice for the purpose.

The deed did not refer to, and therefore was not made in pursuance of 4 Vict. and as for the 7th & 8th Vict. no such reference was required, but the statute operated of itself, without any invocation of its powers or aid.

"A Subscriber" asks for information on the following point of practice:—

Under the Small Debts Bill, the registrar receives all fees for orders, &c. Supposing the commissioner make an order on the debtor to pay, by certain instalments, on whom devolves the duty of filling up that order for the signature of the commissioner? The same question is asked with reference to the filling up the summons to the debtor? An answer, if you or any of your readers can give it, will oblige.

"Another Original Subscriber" adds these comments on the right to furnish additional abstract on "Transfer of Mortgage:":—

I believe you are right in your reply to "An Original Subscriber" under this head; but some members of the Profession are at issue on the following case, where it is submitted the privilege alluded to is much stronger. S. prepares mortgage deed with the usual powers of sale as solicitor for both mortgagor and mortgagee, and the mortgagee subsequently takes the title-deeds, with which is an abstract of the title, to another solicitor to realize his security. Before any steps are taken by P. (the new solicitor for the mortgagee) to realize the security, S. (as solicitor for the mortgagor alone) sells the property, and being in possession of the draft of the abstract of title which accompanied the title-deeds, and of the original draft of the mortgage, makes an abstract and sends it to the solicitor for the purchaser without even the knowledge of the mortgagee or his solicitor, and the mortgagee's solicitor is then called upon to produce the deeds and peruse draft conveyance on behalf of the mortgagee. It is submitted that, independent of the infringements upon the professional privileges of the mortgagee's solicitor, S. would, by this conduct, commit a breach of professional confidence towards the mortgagee in exposing his security in which there might be some flaw. Any observation from your pen, or that of your readers on this case, and in reply to the two following queries, would be much valued, and might serve to settle a point which has been much mooted in one of the largest provincial Law Societies.

Is not the mortgagee's solicitor entitled to the privilege of furnishing the abstract?

Was S, who prepared the security, as solicitor for the mortgagee as well as mortgagor, justified in discovering the mortgagee's title to the purchaser, who is a stranger?

NERVOUSNESS: CURE for the MILLION.

Mr. HENRY NEWTON (late Chemist to the Rev. Dr. Willis Moseley) has made arrangements to extend to every member of the community the benefit of the great discovery for the CURE of NERVOUS COMPLAINTS, which hitherto has been enjoyed by the upper and wealthier classes exclusively. Persons suffering from groundless fear, delusion, melancholy, inquietude, disinclination for society, steady business, &c. confusion, blood to the head, giddiness, failure of memory, irresolution, and every other form of nervous disease, are invited to avail themselves of this life-saving remedy. The most deeply rooted symptoms are effectually and permanently removed. Hours for consultation daily, from Eleven to Five, and in the evening from Seven to Nine, at Mr. Newton's residence, 7, Northumberland-street, Trafalgar-square.

SCHWEPPE'S AERATED LIME WATER,
an excellent anti-acid, when taken under medical direction; but the Public are cautioned against an indiscriminate use of this water (under whatever fanciful or disguised name it may be pressed upon their notice), as LIME is well known to produce in some constitutions the most distressing and even fatal disorders. SCHWEPPE'S SODA, POTASS, and MAGNESIA WATERS, manufactured as usual upon the largest scale, at their several Establishments in London, Liverpool, Bristol, and Derby. Each bottle is protected with a red label over the cork bearing their name. German Sellers direct from the Springs at Nassau—41, Berners-street, London.

A NEW DISCOVERY.—Mr. HOWARD, Surgeon-Dentist, 52, Fleet-street, begs to introduce an ENTIRELY NEW DESCRIPTION OF ARTIFICIAL TEETH, fixed without springs, wires, or ligatures. They so perfectly resemble the natural Teeth as not to be distinguished from the original by the closest observer; they will never become loose, and require no painful operation, and will give support and preserve teeth that are loose, and is guaranteed to restore articulation and mastication; and that Mr. Howard's improvements may be within the reach of the most economical, he has fixed his charges at the lowest scale possible. Decayed teeth rendered sound and useful in mastication.—52, Fleet-street. At home from Ten till Five.

EYE BROWS, MOUSTACHES, and WHISKERS, produced in a few weeks by GRIMSTONE'S AROMATIC REGENERATOR, an Essential Spirit, drawn by the inventor from choice Aromatic Herbs. IMPORTANT TO SOLICITORS, &c.
FIRE-PROOF SAFE MANUFACTORY, 125,
Aldersgate street, City.—J. LEADBEATER, nine years sole manufacturer for Chubb's, of St. Paul's Church-yard, begs most respectfully to announce to the Public that he has discontinued manufacturing for the above firm, and solicits attention to his present stock of Fire-proof Book-Safes and Chests, Wrought Iron-proof Doors for strong rooms, Fire-proof Jewel Cases, Cash and Deed Boxes, Fire-proof Plate Chests, &c. &c. every article of which is got up in the most superior manner as regards materials and workmanship, all secured by the "Patent" Improvements of the "Lever" and "Dead-bolt" locks, three to twenty bolts, and sold at prices 40 per cent. under the charges usually made by that firm. J. L. having accomplished many substantial improvements in iron fire-proof articles, which obtained for the Messrs. Chubb an unequalled degree of celebrity, and offering to the Public advantages which cannot be obtained elsewhere—namely, the very best guarantee for property against fire and thieves—at prices so much reduced, he looks forward with confidence for the support of the Public. J. L. can refer to the testimonials of several bankers, merchants, and private gentlemen, in London and elsewhere, for whom he has erected fire-proof works.—Manufactory, 125, Aldersgate-street, London.

COMFORT FOR TENDER FEET, &c.
WELLINGTON-STREET, STRAND, LONDON.
HALL and Co. PATENTEES of the PANNUS CORIUM, or LEATHER CLOTH BOOTS and SHOES, for Ladies and Gentlemen. These articles have borne the test, and received the approbation of all who have worn them. Such as are troubled with Corns, Bunions, Gout, Chilblains, or Tenderness of Feet from any other cause, will find them the softest and most comfortable ever invented—they never draw the feet or get hard, and very durable, adapted for every climate; they resemble the finest Leather, and are cleaned with common blacking.

THE PATENT INDIA RUBBER GLOVES are light, durable, elastic, and waterproof; they thoroughly protect the feet from damp or cold; are excellent preservatives against Gout, Chilblains, &c.; and when worn over a boot or shoe, no sensible addition is felt to the weight. Ladies and Gentlemen may be fitted with either of the above by sending a boot or shoe.

Hall and Co.'s Portable WATERPROOF DRESSES for Ladies and Gentlemen. This desirable article claims the attention of all who are exposed to the wet. Ladies' Cardinal Cloaks, with Hoods, 21s. Gentlemen's Dresses, comprising Capes, Overcoats, and Raincoats, 21s. The whole can be carried with convenience in the pocket.

The Trade supplied.—Terms, Ready Money.

HALL and Co. particularly invite attention to their ELASTIC BOOTS, which are much improved; they supersede lacing or buttoning, are drawn on in an instant, and are a great support to the ankle.

TO THE PROFESSION.
THE ALBERT, or ELASTIC CRAVAT.—This patented and highly patronized invention is fast superseding the old bristles, India rubber, or whalebone Stocks, and the dangerous and slovenly Necktie and Starched Cravat. It is quite necessary for all who claim acquaintance with improvements of the present age to give this unrivalled article a proper trial. They will find a gain by so doing. Numerous and most gratifying reviews and testimonials shown at the manufactory.

DEEDS FOR EXECUTION ABROAD.

MEASRS. J. and R. M'CRACKEN, Foreign Agents,
No. 7, Old Jewry, beg to inform the Legal Profession, that they undertake to forward Deeds for Execution by Parties abroad, through their correspondents on the Continent, for the costs of transmission, and a simple commission.

List of Correspondents, and for further information, apply as above.

DEEDS FOR EXECUTION ABROAD.

J. A. GODDARD, FOREIGN AGENT,
No. 26, Old Jewry, informs the Legal Profession, that he undertakes to forward through his foreign correspondents, Deeds and other documents for execution by parties residing abroad, for the expense of transmission, and a moderate commission.

J. A. G. also undertakes to receive, and pass through the Custom House, Works of Art, Wine, Baggage, &c. and to forward effects to all parts of the world.

The List of J. A. G.'s Correspondents, and every information, may be obtained at his Office, No. 26, Old Jewry.

THE LIFE COAT, &c.—This invaluable

article of dress is so contrived that it may be worn on land and water, and ready for immediate use, without the invention being visible, and will support the head and shoulders considerably above the surface of the water, which was proved in the sea at Brighton and by the Royal Humane Society. This invention can be applied to any over-coat or pea-jacket for yachting, boating, or voyaging. Life waistcoats for sea and river bathing, 11. 1s. Many a valuable life has been lost whilst bathing.

PROSPECTUS.

This Society is now completely registered, and prepared to transact all the usual business of Life Assurance. It is based upon a principle which will combine the benefits of Mutual Assurance with the guarantee of a Subscribed Capital of ONE MILLION STERLING.

Whilst perfect security is thus given, the number and character of the Shareholders (consisting of nearly 600 Members of the Legal Profession), will command a large amount of business, and consequent advantages will arise to the Assured.

Tables of Premiums have been prepared expressly for this Office, by F. G. P. NIXON, Esq. F.L.S., calculated on the nearest approximation to the real law of mortality.

These Tables will be found to afford peculiar encouragement to the assurance of young lives. They embrace participating and non-participating scales.

In the participating class, the Assured will be entitled to have four-fifths of the profits divided amongst them periodically, either by way of addition to the amount assured, or in diminution of premium, as the parties may elect. No deduction will be made from such profits for interest of capital, or for a guarantee fund.

The Premiums may be paid half-yearly or annually, or by a single payment.

Assurances may be effected through any respectable Solicitor, or by writing to the Secretary.

The Directors meet on Thursdays at Two o'clock; but Assurances may be effected on any day, by applying between the hours of Ten and Four, at the Offices of the Society, where Prospectuses and all other requisite information may be obtained.

CHARLES JOHN GILL,
57, Chancery-lane.

Oatlands Mansion, Park, and Estate of 900 acres, Surrey, within one mile of the Weybridge or Walton Stations on the South-Western Railway, and within half an hour's ride of the Terminus in London.

MESSRS. DRIVER have been favoured with instructions to offer to PUBLIC COMPETITION, at the Auction Mart, Bartholomew-lane, on TUESDAY, the 19th of May, at Twelve o'clock, in 64 Lots (unless an acceptable offer for the whole estate should be previously made), the above renowned and highly admired DOMAIN, formerly the property and residence of his late Royal Highness the Duke of York. Lot 1 will comprise Oatlands Mansion, Offices, delightful Pleasure Grounds, the far-famed Grotto, Kitchen Garden and Lawn, extending to and including part of the magnificent lake called the Broad Water, and containing altogether 97 acres, without exception constituting one of the most desirable and enviable residences, and site of ornamental grounds in the kingdom, and from the house having been recently completely repaired and fitted up in the best style of taste and elegance, forms a most desirable abode for any family. The Park and other Lands south of the Lake will be divided into about 56 lots, varying from 3 to 10 acres each, with the exception of 2 or 3 lots, from 10 to 20 acres, and of the most inviting character for the erection of villas, being upon a peculiarly salubrious soil, and much adorned with ornamental timber, which may be thinned to suit the tastes of the various purchasers. The present Gravel Road, so long the acknowledged and highly admired drive through the Park, leading from Walton to Weybridge, affording at all points fine prospects, will be preserved as the public road and approach to a great number of the lots, and another principal road will be set out to lead through other parts of the park, affording an outlet at the present lodge entrance, where it crosses the South-Western Railway and leads to Cobham, Kingston, and all the adjacent beautiful neighbourhood. The lands on the north of the lake, and extending to the river Thames, will be divided into 7 lots of larger description, one being about 113 acres, and the remainder of the estate, consisting of Weybridge and Child's Farm, containing about 85 acres, will form other lots, besides which there will be 2 other lots in the town of Weybridge of about 10 acres each, admirably adapted for farm uses.—Printed specifications, with plans annexed, are now prepared, and will be ready for delivery after the 4th of April, and may then be had of Mr. Haines, at the Farm House, Oatlands; at the Swan, Chertsey; White Hart, Windsor; Griffin, Kingston; of Messrs. Fox & Forster, and Co. Solicitors, Lincoln's Inn; at the Auction Mart, near the Bank of England; and of Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors, &c. 8, Richmond-terrace, Parliament-st. of whom cards to view the mansion may be had.

NOTICE.—THE OATLANDS ESTATE.—By Messrs. DRIVER, at the Auction Mart, on TUESDAY, the 19th of May, Lot 1, comprising the MANSION HOUSE and 97 acres, will be submitted at the Auction on the above day, exclusive of the 60 Manors of Byfleet and Walton-on-Legh, though included in the list of the specifications already published, which said manors will be submitted in a separate lot. The remaining 63 lots will be offered to Auction on the above day, as already advertised. Richmond-terrace, Whitehall, April 27, 1846.

Sales by Auction.

Glazenwood, near Witham, Essex.—A remarkably unique Freehold Property, land-tax redeemed, comprising the celebrated Horticultural, Orchard, Nursery, Australian and American Gardens, containing upwards of 50 acres (with a capital mansion-house in the centre, in the occupation of the Rev. Sir John Page Wood, bart.); also a genteel newly-erected Villa, besides another residence, with all requisite conservatories and buildings for horticultural and floricultural purposes; the whole property constituting one of the Lions of that part of the county, and admirably adapted either for occupation or investment.

MESSRS. DRIVER have received instructions to OFFER to PUBLIC COMPETITION, at the Auction Mart, London, on TUESDAY, the 9th day of JUNE, at Twelve o'clock, in two lots, the above valuable PROPERTY, freehold, and land-tax redeemed, comprising the celebrated Glazenwood Estate, in the parish of Bradwell, next Coggeshall, consisting of above 50 acres of orchard, nursery, and American gardens, a considerable portion of which is well stocked with the choicest fruit trees of the most approved sorts in full bearing, and the remainder planted with a fine and rare collection of American and Australian shrubs and plants, in the most luxuriant and flourishing condition; the whole ornamentally disposed with the greatest taste, and intersected with delightful gravel walks, extensive conservatories, and sundry pits, with a capital mansion-house in the centre of the property (the residence of the Rev. Sir John Page Wood, bart.). Also a genteel newly-erected villa, replete with every accommodation for any respectable family; besides another residence and all requisite buildings for horticultural or floricultural purposes, the whole constituting a remarkably eligible property, either for occupation in its present lucrative trade, or as an investment. It is only about five miles from the Witham Station on the Eastern Counties Railway, surrounded with excellent roads, and resorted to by all persons fond of admiring horticultural or floricultural pursuits as quite the lion of that part of the county. The entire property is in the hands of the proprietor (excepting the Mansion House, occupied by the Rev. Sir J. P. Wood, bart.), and will be divided into Two Lots. The principal lot, comprising the Mansion House, &c. and upwards of thirty-eight acres. Lot 2. consists of the Villa and the other residence, with Conservatories and Buildings, and twelve acres of Nursery and Orchard Ground attached thereto.

To be viewed, on application to Mr. Curtis, at Glazenwood, of whom printed specifications, with plans annexed, may be had. Specifications may also be had at the Hotel at Chipping-hill, close to the Witham Station; the Saracen's Head, Chelmsford; the Three Cups, Colchester; of E. G. Craig, Esq. Solicitor, Braintree; of W. W. Oldershaw, Esq. of Tokenhouse-yard, London; at the Auction Mart, near the Bank of England; and of Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors and Land Agents, 8, Richmond-terrace, Whitehall, London.

LIFE DEPARTMENT.

The important advantages offered by the plan and constitution of the Life Department of this Society are—

That Insurers are protected by a large invested capital upon which there is no interest to pay, and for which no deduction of any kind is made, which enables the Directors to give the whole of the profits to Insuring Members.

That the profits are divided annually amongst all members of five years' standing, and applied towards reducing Life Insurance to the lowest possible rates of premium, the amount for the years 1842, 1843, and 1844, being at the rate of 45l. per cent. and for the years 1845 and 1846, 58l. per cent.; that is, a policy taken out on or before the 24th of June, 1841, at an annual premium of 100l. will be charged 58l. at this year's premium, and it is expected that an equal share will in future be annually made.

That persons insuring their own lives, or the lives of others, may become members.

That persons who are willing to forego participation in the profits, can insure at a lower rate than that charged to members.

The following table will shew the effect of the reduction of premium made by the society on members' policies that have been five years in force.

Age when Insured.	Sum Insured.	Annual Premium for first 5 years.	Reduction made on the 6th Premium.
30	100	£2 13 5	£1 6 8

Situations Wanted.

A GENTLEMAN, who has had considerable experience in the practice of Conveyancing, is a solicitor's clerk, and also as a pupil in the Chambers of an eminent Conveyancer, is desirous of obtaining an ENGAGEMENT in a Conveyancing Solicitor's office, either in town or country. The Advertiser's object being to gain experience, he would be happy to offer his services to any Conveyancer at his Bar, by whom his services might be deemed an equivalent for the instruction.

Apply by letter to A. B. MANNING, Esq., and Son, 19, Bartholomew-lane, London.

A RESPECTABLE YOUNG MAN, thoroughly acquainted with Magisterial Business and Quarter Sessions Practice, including Parish Settlements, and who has been accustomed to the general business of a conveyancing office, is desirous to meet with a SITUATION by the 1st of July, where he could receive a moderate salary, with a prospect of being articled, if his services should be approved of. The Advertiser has been seven years in his present situation, and can furnish highly satisfactory references as to competency and respectability.

Address, by letter, F. H. LAW TIMES Office.

LAW.—A Confidential MANAGING CLERK, in an Office of the first respectability, and in which activity he has been for several years, wishes for an ENGAGEMENT. Salary, 200l. per annum. Apply to G. B. at Mr. LAUNDY'S, Law Stationer, Essex-street, Strand, London.

A SOLICITOR, 33 years of age, who has relinquished his Profession, is desirous of obtaining a SITUATION in an office of General Practice in Town, or as CLERK to a barrister, conveyancer, or proctor, resident in London or its vicinity. The advertiser being without incumbrances, a moderate salary only will be required. Apply by letter (prepaid) A. M. Post-office, Warwick (until called for.)

Situations Vacant.

LAW.—WANTED, a CLERK who could attend five or six hours on alternate days in an Office near the Temple, to make up the Books and Draft Costs. Applicants are requested to state terms and references by letter. No person need apply who is not fully competent to perform in an office of general business the services required.

Apply to G. B. at Mr. LAUNDY'S, Law Stationer, Essex-street, Strand.

Partnerships Wanted.

LAW.—PRACTICE or PARTNERSHIP WANTED; must be well established, of undoubted respectability. The party seeking this has been in practice many years. Any elderly gentleman wishing to retire, or be relieved of a great portion of his labours, will find an opportunity of confiding his connections to hands that will bear the strictest inquiry.

Apply by letter to D. E. at the Office of the LAW TIMES, Essex-street, Strand, London.

TO SOLICITORS and CAPITALISTS.

A respectable Brewing Firm having frequent opportunities of meeting with persons desirous of selling houses or raising money upon their leases or other security, at 5 per cent. would be happy to arrange for the allowance of an additional per centage either on the rental or on the amount of business done, so as to produce a guaranteed return of 10 per cent. per annum. Further details will be given, upon addressing A. B. 6, Foster-place, Bedford-road, Clapham.

This Society grants Insurances upon the lives of persons in every profession and station wherever resident.

Fourth-fifths of the profits are divided among the assured. The rates are calculated on the lowest scale consistent with security, from the Government returns. The payments may be made, yearly, half-yearly, and quarterly, during life, or for a limited period.

Assurances for the whole Term of Life may also be effected upon an Increasing Scale, commencing at a rate much below the ordinary Premiums, and exempt from any augmentation for a period of seven years.

The Board meets every Wednesday, at half-past Three o'clock, to receive proposals and transact other business; but any assurance for which immediate despatch is required may be effected on the same day that it is proposed.

In cases where a life assured by another has gone beyond the limits prescribed by the policy, without the knowledge of the party interested, the Society will, upon his application, and proof of the life being then in a satisfactory state of health (but subject to their medical officers' approval of the risk as applicable to such life), renew the policy upon the same terms as they would have required for its continuance had their consent been previously obtained.

The usual commission allowed to all solicitors.

UNITED KINGDOM LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY,

8, WATERLOO-PLACE, Pall-Mall, LONDON.
Established by Act of Parliament in 1834.

DIVISION OF PROFITS AMONG THE ASSURED

DIRECTORS.
James Stuart, esq. Chairman.
Hannell De Castro, esq. Deputy Chairman.
Samuel Anderson, esq.
Hamilton Blair Avarne, esq.
Edw. Boyd, esq. Resident.
E. Lennox Boyd, esq. Asst. Resident.
Charles Downes, esq.
Surgeon—F. Hale Thomson, esq. 48, Berners-street.

This Company, established by Act of Parliament, affords the most perfect security in a large paid-up Capital, and in the great success which has attended it since its commencement in 1834.

Its Annual Income being upwards of 482,000.

In 1841 the Company added a Bonus of 2l. per cent. per annum on the sum insured to all policies of the participating class from the time they were effected.

The Bonus added to policies from March, 1834, to the 31st Dec. 1840, is as follows:—

Sum Assured.	Time Assured.	Sum added to Policy
£5,000	6 Yrs. 10 Months.	£683 6s. 8d.
5,000	6 Years	500 0 0
5,000	4 Years	400 0 0
5,000	2 Years	300 0 0

The Premiums nevertheless are on the most moderate scale, and only one-half need be paid for the first Five Years, where the Insurance is for Life.

Every information will be afforded on application to the Resident Directors, EDWARD BOYD, Esq. and E. LENNOX BOYD, Esq. of No. 8, Waterloo-place, Pall-mall, London.

Glazenwood, near Witham, Essex.—A remarkably unique Freehold Property, land-tax redeemed, comprising the celebrated Horticultural, Orchard, Nursery, Australian and American Gardens, containing upwards of 50 acres (with a capital mansion-house in the centre, in the occupation of the Rev. Sir John Page Wood, bart.); also a grand newly-erected Villa, besides another residence, with all requisite conservatories and buildings for horticultural and floricultural purposes; the whole property constituting one of the Lions of that part of the county, and admirably adapted either for occupation or investment.

MESSRS. DRIVER have received instructions to OFFER to PUBLIC COMPETITION, at the Auction Mart, London, on TUESDAY, the 9th day of JUNE, at Twelve o'clock, in two lots, the above valuable PROPERTY, freehold, and land-tax redeemed, comprising the celebrated Glazenwood Estate, in the parish of Sandwell, next Coggeshall, consisting of above 50 acres of orchard, nursery, and American gardens, a considerable portion of which is well stocked with the choicest fruit trees of the most approved sorts in full bearing, and the remainder planted with a fine and rare collection of American and Australian shrubs and plants, in the most luxuriant and flourishing condition; the whole ornamentally disposed with the greatest taste, and intersected with delightful gravel walks, extensive conservatories, and sundry pits, with capital mansion-house in the centre of the property (the residence of the Rev. Sir John Page Wood, bart.). Also a grand newly-erected villa, replete with every accommodation for any respectable family; besides another residence and all requisite buildings for horticultural or floricultural purposes, either for occupation in its present lucrative trade, or as an investment. It is only about five miles from the Witham Station on the Eastern Counties Railway, surrounded with excellent roads, and resorted to by all persons fond of admiring horticultural or floricultural pursuits as quite the Lion of that part of the county. The entire property is in the hands of the proprietor (excepting the Mansion House, occupied by the Rev. Sir J. P. Wood, bart.), and will be divided into Two Lots. The principal lot, comprising the Mansion House, &c. and upwards of thirty-eight acres. Lot 2 consists of the Villa and the other residence, with Conservatories and Buildings, and twelve acres of Nursery and Orchard Ground attached thereto.

To be viewed, on application to Mr. Curtis, at Glazenwood, of whom printed specifications, with plans annexed, may be had. Specifications may also be had at the Hotel at Chipping-hill, close to the Witham Station; the Samaritan Head, Chelmsford; the Three Cups, Colchester; of E. G. Craig, Esq. Solicitor, Braintree; of W. W. Olden, Esq. of Tokenhouse-yard, London; at the Auction Mart, near the Bank of England; and of Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors and Land Agents, 8, Richmond-terrace, Whitehall, London.

MAER-HALL, in Staffordshire, bordering on Cheshire and Shropshire, near Newcastle-under-Lyme, many years the residence and property of the late Josiah Wedgwood, Esq. with its splendid Lake or Mere, surrounded by rich park-like pastures, and a bold broken chain of wooded hills, intersected by romantic drives and walks, of several miles in extent, forming one of the most beautiful and desirable domains of its size (about 1,100 acres) in the country; the soil being remarkably sound and healthy, the lands nearly timber-free, and the farm homesteads of a very superior description; also the Advowson and Manor of Maer, and a romantic residence, known as Camp-hill, adjoining; midway between Birmingham, Manchester, and Liverpool, with a first-class station within a mile of the estate, bringing it within about seven hours' journey of London, and two and a half from those important towns.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON are directed by the Executors of the late Josiah Wedgwood, Esq. to SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, near the Bank of England, on TUESDAY, JUNE 23, at Twelve o'clock, in Five Lots (unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by private contract), the above important and singularly beautiful FREEHOLD PROPERTY, delightfully situated in a remarkably healthy and picturesque part of the country, between the towns of Newcastle-under-Lyme, Stafford, Drayton, and Eccleshall, and on the Shrewsbury-road. It comprises the Mansion of Maer Hall, possessing every comfort for a moderate establishment, capital newly-built stabling, gardens, and park-like pastures, refreshed by a lake of nearly twenty-three acres, stored with fish, amidst remarkably thriving plantations, chiefly of larch and oaks, clothing and crowning the brows and wooded hills of this highly picturesque domain, commanding very extensive and romantic scenery, and forming excellent preserves for game. The farms are let to respectable yearly tenants at low rents, and the two principal farmhouses and homesteads have been entirely newly built in the most substantial manner, and of a superior character. The Manor and Advowson of the living (a perpetual curacy), with its Parsonage, Glebe, &c., appertaining to the estate, as also the small old established inn, the Swan with Two Necks, and several cottages. Camp-hill is a modern compact residence, on the northward side of the property, about one mile from the railway station. The estates may be viewed by parties sending their addresses. Descriptive particulars, with lithographic plans, may be had after the 26th of May, on the premises; at the chief hotels at Birmingham, Liverpool, Manchester, Stafford, &c.; of Messrs. KEARY and SHEPPARD, solicitors, Stoke-upon-Trent; of R. S. Ford, Esq. Swinerton, near Stone; at the Auction Mart, London; and of DANIEL SMITH and SON, Land Agents, in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall, to whom only applications to treat are to be made.

The Dell—one of the most admired bijoux of Windsor-park, and long distinguished for its unrivalled and surprisingly magnificent view of the Castle.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON respectfully announce that the late sale of this estate having been abandoned, they are commissioned by the noble proprietor to SUBMIT to PUBLIC SALE, at the end of JUNE, (unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by Private Contract), the above delightful and highly distinguished FREEHOLD VILLA, at Bishopgate; a remarkably dry and healthy spot, overlooking one of the most romantic portions of the park, through which is its beautiful drive of only three miles to Windsor. It contains an elegant and spacious suite of reception-rooms and carved oak library, and altogether accommodation for a large family, with handsome conservatories, partly surrounding the house; capital stabling and coach-houses, &c.; walled garden, complete farm-yard and cottage, entrance-lodge, beautiful pleasure-grounds, lawn, and paddocks, in all about 17 acres, abundantly supplied with spring and soft water. A cottage, and about seven acres, a little detached, might be a separate lot. The whole is in the most perfect order, and the purchaser may treat for the elegant and useful fittings and furniture with the estate, so as to have immediate possession.

This enviable retreat can only be viewed with cards, which may be had at their offices in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall; or will be forwarded to applicants giving their own address.

NEAR RAMSGATE—Beautiful Marine Villa at Pegwell Bay, for its delightful situation, aspect, tasteful arrangements, and perfect order, unrivalled on the coast; also other valuable Freehold Lands, &c. adjoining.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON beg to announce that they will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, near the Bank of England, on TUESDAY, JUNE 16, at Twelve, in five lots (unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by Private Contract), a singularly beautiful and most comfortable FREEHOLD VILLA, at Pegwell Bay (for many years the admired and favourite retreat of the late Sir William Garraw), with its range of elegant conservatories (forming a tasteful pavilion, connected with and screening the whole suite of rooms), excellent salt and freshwater baths, ornamental cottages, good stabling, and various out-offices, walled gardens, and well-dressed secluded lawn, bounded by the bold chalk cliff, and opening with a full south aspect to all the grandeur of this magnificent bay. Also, in separate lots, several enclosures of rich pasture and arable land, commanding invaluable sites for building, with extensive frontages both to the roads and cliff, and embracing splendid sea views.—Particulars, with plans, may be had at the principal hotels and libraries at Ramsgate, Margate, Canterbury, and Dover; at the Mart; of Messrs. SMEDLEY and ROGERS, Solicitors, Jernyn-street, St. James's; and of Messrs. DANIEL SMITH and SON, Land Agents, Waterloo-place, Pall-mall.

Freehold Residence, & valuable little Farm, in Windsor Park.
MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON will offer for SALE by AUCTION, at the Mart, near the Bank of England, on TUESDAY, JUNE 16, at Twelve (unless previously disposed of by private contract), the compact FREEHOLD ESTATE of Barton Lodge, within a few miles of Windsor, adjoining the Great Park, comprising a desirable gentleman's Residence, on a moderate scale, with pleasure grounds, good gardens, and a valuable farm of nearly 80 acres, amidst the grand scenery of Windsor Park, a favourite neighbourhood, and in the centre of the Royal hunts. A plan may be seen, and the estate may be viewed, by application at their offices in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall, and at Windsor.

DESIRABLE FREEHOLD ESTATE, with a very superior FARM RESIDENCE, known as STARK CASTLE, bounded by a bold reach of the River Medway, only three miles from the City of Rochester, and about seven from Maidstone, amidst grand and beautiful scenery.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON will offer for SALE by AUCTION, at the Mart, near the Bank of England, on TUESDAY, JUNE 16, at Twelve (unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by Private Contract), the above very compact and valuable FREEHOLD PROPERTY, comprising a superior Farm Residence, embracing a portion of the old Castle, with its fine Gothic windows, capital buildings of the most substantial description, and above 20 acres of arable, pasture, hop, and marsh land, in a ring fence, and in a high state of cultivation, being on lease to Mr. John Pearce, a highly respectable tenant, for an unexpired term of five years, at a low rent, offering a safe and superior investment for capital, as also a desirable property for future occupation, being in a beautiful part of the country.—The estate may be viewed by application to the tenant, and Particulars, with plans, may be had on the premises; at the chief inns at Rochester, Maidstone, Canterbury, &c.; at the Auction Mart; and of DANIEL SMITH and SON, Land Agents, in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall.

STANMORE HALL, Middlesex, about 25 miles from the Harrow Station on the Birmingham Railway, and one of the most healthy and select neighbourhoods within the same easy reach of the metropolis.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON respectfully apprise the public, that unless an acceptable offer should be previously made by private treaty, the above beautifully situated FREEHOLD PROPERTY, on which many thousand pounds have been recently expended, will be submitted for PUBLIC SALE, at the Mart, near the Bank of England, on TUESDAY, JUNE 16, at Twelve. It comprises a singularly handsome and admirably constructed Mansion, in the early Tudor style of architecture, with a beautiful tower and oratory. It is most substantially built and faced with the grey Kentish rag and fine Caen stone, on bricked arches, presenting an imposing elevation upon a broad bold terrace, with south-east aspect, leading to finely timbered and varied pleasure grounds, opening on three sides to very rich and extensive scenery. It has a capital walled garden, a green-house, &c. The Mansion is not completed, but the original house not having been removed, may be used as a convenient residence during the completion of the new edifice.—Particulars, with plans, may be had in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall; at the Auction Mart; of Messrs. NELSON and WYNN, Solicitors, Gresham-place, Lombard-street. The estate may be viewed with cards; and Messrs. SMITH are fully authorized to dispose of the property.

FREEHOLD VILLA at OLD WINDSOR, between Windsor and Egham, with its beautiful Grounds, Conservatory, and rich Paddock, commanding a fine view of the Castle, and skirting the picturesque bank of the Thames.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON are directed by the Executors of the late proprietor to SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, some time in JUNE (unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by private contract), the above desirable FREEHOLD FAMILY RESIDENCE, comprising three or four reception rooms, with conservatory, and the usual appendages for a moderate establishment, beautiful and well-timbered pleasure grounds, and a rich paddock of pasture land adjoining, making altogether about 15 acres, most desirably situated within a pleasant walk of the town and parks of Windsor, of Englefield-green, and Egham, and close to the Thames. Immediate possession may be had.—The estate may be viewed, and particulars had at the inns at Egham and Staines; upon the premises; at the Mart; of Messrs. C. and E. J. JENINGS, Solicitors, Mitre-court-buildings, Temple; or of DANIEL SMITH and SON, Waterloo-place, Pall-mall, and Windsor.

Lansdowne-terrace, Kensington-park, Notting-hill.—Notice of Sale of Six First-class Residences, most delightfully situated, commanding charming and extensive panoramic views of the surrounding country, held for long terms, at exceedingly low ground-rents, affording a most desirable opportunity for either occupation or for a safe investment.

MR. FREDERICK CHINNOCK begs to announce he has been favoured with instructions to SELL by AUCTION, at the Auction Mart, on WEDNESDAY, JUNE 3, at Twelve, SIX newly-erected first-class RESIDENCES, situate on the highest and best portion of this interesting and picturesque estate, and but a short distance from St. John's Church. The houses are most substantially built, and five of them are finished, with the exception of decoration, which is left to the taste of the purchaser, fit for the reception of, and having accommodation for, large families. They are approached by a bold carriage sweep, screened from the road by a massive ornamental balustrade, and are entered by a lofty portico of the Doric order, with commanding staircase, noble reception and numerous best and secondary bed-chambers, together with a promenade in a pleasure garden most tastefully laid out.—May be viewed, and descriptive particulars obtained of E. M. ELDERTON, Esq. Solicitor, 3, Lothbury; at the Auction Mart; and at MR. CHINNOCK'S Auction and Estate Offices, 28, Regent-street, Waterloo-place.

Judd-street and Tunbridge-place, New-road.—Baker's and Fruiterer's House and Shops, held at a low ground-rent, and leasehold Ground-rent of 42*l.* per annum, abundantly secured.

MR. FREDERICK CHINNOCK is instructed to SELL by AUCTION, at the Auction Mart on WEDNESDAY, JUNE 3, at Twelve, a brick-built LEASEHOLD HOUSE, and BAKER'S SHOP, situate at the corner of Judd-street, and Tunbridge-place, New-road; let on lease, which will expire at Christmas, 1855, at 84*l.* per annum; a Shop adjoining, let on lease for the whole term, and in the occupation of Mr. Panmure, fruiterer, at a rental of 30*l.* 9*s.* per annum. And an improved Ground-rent of 42*l.* per annum, arising from two houses adjoining in Tunbridge-place; let at 110*l.* per annum. The whole is held for an unexpired term of 60 years, at the very low ground-rent of 12*l.* 12*s.* per annum.—May be viewed by permission of the tenants, and particulars obtained at the Auction Mart; of J. TAYLOR, Esq. Solicitor, 15, Farnival-inn, Holborn; and at MR. F. CHINNOCK'S Auction and Estate Offices, 28, Regent-street, Waterloo-place.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"They are proffered so unaffectedly, so much more in the manner of a friend than in that of a master, that they cannot fail to be heard; and, if heard, they cannot fail to accomplish much good among the large circle to whom they are addressed."—Law Times.

"Mr. Slack's arguments are just, forcible, and convincing; and the remarkably happy manner in which they are expressed is not less worthy of commendation than the excellent motive which dictated them."—Glasgow Gazette.

"Mr. Slack has acquitted himself of his task most creditably."—Critic.

Sales by Auction.

Important Landed Estate, comprising Mansion, Farms, Woods, Manor, and Manorial Rights, and 1,200 acres of land, eligible alike for occupation or investment.

MR. LEIFCHILD is instructed to SELL the above valuable and important PROPERTY, at GARWAY'S, on THURSDAY, JULY 23 (unless in the meantime disposed of by private contract, of which due notice will be given). This highly desirable estate consists of the ancient and spacious mansion called Chettle-house, built in the style of Sir John Vambrough, on a fine commanding eminence, and embracing views of great beauty and extent, numerous and convenient offices and stabling, beautiful lawns and plantations, paddocks and rookery, capital kitchen garden, and hot-house; the Chettle farm, with good dwelling-house, barns, stables, cow-house, piggeries, granary and dove-house, cart and wagon lodges, malt-house and brew-house, with numerous workshops and other buildings, large stack-yards and feeding yards, in which is a powerful spring of fine water, with an engine pump to supply the mansion, farm-house, and offices; spacious wood and timber yards, and every appurtenance necessary to a large establishment, including 548 acres 1 rood of very excellent arable and pasture-land. A very commodious and substantial dwelling-house, with capital offices and stabling, lawns and walled gardens; 30 other good and substantial dwelling-houses and cottages, with shops, offices, and gardens; 160 acres of woodland, abounding in fine timber, and a luxuriant growth of underwood; 160 acres 2 roods of capital down land, affording most excellent pasturage for sheep; several valuable occupation inclosures. Also a very desirable and excellent farm, now occupied by Mr. Blanchard, comprising a good dwelling-house and office, barns, stables, piggeries, wagon lodges, yards, garden and orchard, several cottages and gardens, and six inclosures of prime arable and meadow land, containing 165 acres 1 rood; together with the reputed manor or lordship of Chettle, with its rights, privileges, and immunities, and the perpetual advowson and right of presentation to the rectory and parish church of Chettle, comprising the parsonage-house, with offices and gardens, 21 acres of excellent glebe land, and valuable pasturage or commonage for six beasts and 60 sheep. The tithes are commuted at 1911. per annum. This very desirable and eligible property embraces the whole parish of Chettle, which contains 1,113 acres of land, now in the highest possible state of cultivation. Game of all sorts is very plentiful, though not extensively preserved, and several packs of foxhounds are kept in the immediate neighbourhood. Chettle abuts on the Great Western road, and is 16 miles from Salisbury, six from Blandford, nine from Shaftesbury, 17 from the port of Poole, 20 from Wareham, 30 from Weymouth, and 98 from London. The estate can be viewed by applying to Mr. Robert Rogers, at Chettle Farm, of whom full particulars may be had; also at the White Hart, Salisbury; Crown, Blandford; King's Arms, Dorchester; Russell's Hotel, Weymouth; Red Lion, Wareham; Antelope, Poole; Grosvener Arms, Shaftesbury; of John Esplin, esq.; 3, New Boswell-court, Lincoln's-inn; or of James Foster Groom, esq., the official assignee of Messrs. Chambers and Son; at Garway's; at MR. LEIFCHILD'S Head and Timber Office, 62, Moorgate-street, London; and of MR. DASHWOOD, Solicitor, Sturminster Newton, Dorset. My. Leifchild is fully authorized to dispose of the property to any nobleman or gentleman by private contract.

Safe Investment.—Eligible Freehold and Copyhold Farm, in the county of Essex.

MR. LEIFCHILD has received positive instructions from the Trustees, to SELL by AUCTION, without reserve, at Garway's, on MONDAY, JUNE 8, at Twelve for One precisely, a most desirable FREEHOLD and PART COPYHOLD FARM, delightfully situated at Debden-green, in the parish of Loughton, comprising a very excellent farm-house, with offices and large garden, spacious well sheltered farm yards, with barns, stables, granary, cow-house, fattening houses, piggeries, and other convenient agricultural buildings, the whole being most judiciously arranged, and in excellent repair, together with 25 handsome enclosures of capital meadow, pasture, and arable land, well supplied with water, and containing in the whole 118a. 3r. 9p. of which 69a. 3r. 3p. are freehold, and the remainder are copyhold of the manor of Loughton Hall. This very desirable farm is now held by Mr. David King, a most respectable tenant at will, who will show the estate. Also, with the above, two substantial and convenient Copyhold Cottages, with offices and gardens, occupied by Messrs. Harris and Purkis. Debden green is 12 miles from London and 3 from Epping and Woodford, and nearly all the fields abut on good hard roads.—Particulars and conditions of sale may be had at the King's Head, Loughton; Cock, Epping; New Inn, Waltham Abbey; Roundings, at Woodford; at Garway's; of Messrs. FRERE, POSTER, GOODFORD, and CHOLMELEY, Solicitors, 6, New-square, Lincoln's-inn; and at MR. LEIFCHILD'S Land and Timber Office, 62, Moorgate-street, London.

Improveable Copyhold Estate, South Mimms, near Barnet, Herts.

MR. LEIFCHILD has received instructions from the proprietors to SELL by AUCTION, in one or more lots, at Garway's, on MONDAY, JUNE 8, at Twelve for One, that old-established and well-known INN, called the White Hart, admirably situated for business at the junction of the old and new high north road, leading from Barnet to St. Albans, and near the church, in the pleasant village of South Mimms, in the county of Middlesex, comprising a large and roomy dwelling-house, containing numerous sleeping-rooms, commodious bar, front and back parlours, and dining rooms, with excellent cellaring, good stabling, large yard, and capital well and spring water; together with a blacksmith's shop, and a long range of stabling on the opposite side of the road, with rick-yards and gardens, and two enclosures of meadow-land, with extensive frontage to the high North-road; the whole is in the occupation of Mr. George Wild, under lease, 27 years of which will be unexpired at Christmas next, at the yearly rent of 801.—May be viewed by leave of the tenant any time preceding the sale, and particulars had at all the principal inns in the neighbourhood; at Messrs. WINTER, WILLIAMS, and Co., Solicitors, Bedford-row; on the premises; and at MR. LEIFCHILD'S Land and Timber Office, 62, Moorgate-street.

Desirable small compact Farm and Cottages, Loughton, Essex.

MR. LEIFCHILD has received positive instructions from the Trustees to SELL by AUCTION, at Garway's, on MONDAY, JUNE 8, at Twelve for One, in Three lots, without reserve, a very eligible COPYHOLD FARM pleasantly situated on the west side of Debden-green, Loughton, abutting on hard roads, and near good markets. It comprises a convenient and substantial cottage residence, with large and productive garden, sheltered farm-yard, barn, cow-house, sheds, and other necessary out-buildings, together with 11 beautiful enclosures of very superior arable and meadow land, well watered and lying close to the house, and containing 63a. 2r. 21p.; also two large copyhold cottages and gardens, let to Mr. and Mrs. Randall, and two other very capital copyhold tenements, with good gardens, occupied by Messrs. Middle and Wood. The above land is now held by Mr. David King, as tenant at will, and the house, buildings, and garden are in hand.—May be viewed by applying to Mr. M'Callum, on the premises, of whom particulars may be had; also at the usual principal inns; at the place of sale, of Messrs. FRERE, POSTER, GOODFORD, and CHOLMELEY, 6, New-square, Lincoln's-inn; and at MR. LEIFCHILD'S Land and Timber Office, 62, Moorgate-street, London.

First-rate Arable and Grazing Farm of 390 acres, near good ports and excellent markets.

MR. LEIFCHILD is instructed to offer for SALE by AUCTION, at Garway's, on WEDNESDAY, JUNE 17 (unless previously disposed of by private contract, of which due notice will be given), a very desirable and valuable FREEHOLD ESTATE, great tithe-free, very pleasantly situated in the parishes of Hemsey and Dover-court, in the county of Essex, and commanding land and sea-views of great extent and beauty. It comprises a very substantial and gentlemanly residence, containing eight principal and servants' bed rooms, handsome dining and drawing-rooms, and breakfast-room, large kitchen and scullery, numerous other domestic offices, and capital cellarage, with lawn, shrubberies, and pleasure grounds, excellent walled kitchen garden, large and sheltered farm-yard, with barns, stable, cow-house, piggeries, and every other convenience necessary to a first-rate agricultural establishment, together with 58 enclosures of very superior arable, pasture, and marsh land, containing 390a. 1r. 9p., which is land-tax redeemed, and is now in the highest state of cultivation; it is held by a most respectable tenant under lease, which will expire at Michaelmas, 1844, at the moderate rent of 6001. per annum.—Particulars may be had at all the principal inns in the counties of Essex, Suffolk, and Norfolk; and at MR. LEIFCHILD'S Land and Timber Office, 62, Moorgate-street, London. Mr. Leifchild is fully authorized to treat with any gentleman for the disposal of the above valuable property by private contract.

Capital Dwelling-House and Offices, with convenient-tenement of Land; Castle-hill, Reading, Berks.

MESSRS. HOGGART and NORTON have received instructions from the Trustees to OFFER for SALE, at the Mart, on FRIDAY, JUNE 30, at Twelve, a most valuable and beautiful FREEHOLD PROPERTY, delightfully situated on the summit of Castle-hill, Reading, Berks; comprising an excellent Family Residence, placed at an agreeable distance from the road, approached by a carriage drive, with lawn and pleasure ground in front; flower and kitchen gardens, green-house, and a park-like meadow in the rear, bounded by the beautiful avenue leading to Coley Park, containing together about seventeen acres. The residence, which has been fitted up with every accommodation a moderate family could require, contains three good principal bed-rooms, dressing-room, two smaller bed-rooms, and servants' rooms, dining and drawing-rooms, morning-room, china and store closets, kitchen and servants' offices, with an excellent supply of water. Detached are two three-stall stables, two coach-houses, granary, piggeries, cow-sheds, &c. This valuable property (independent of its advantages for occupation as one entire estate) possesses a very extensive frontage to the high road in one of the most beautiful and healthy parts of the neighbourhood, upon which a terrace might be erected and the meadow in the rear has every facility for being divided into plots for building, and producing a considerable income in ground rents, leaving, if a purchaser felt disposed, sufficient land for occupation with the house. The house may be viewed between the hours of eleven and four, by application, on the premises, and with tickets only.—Particulars may be had at the Beaz Inn, Reading; of J. J. BLANDY, Esq. Solicitor, Reading; at the Mart; and of Messrs. HOGGART and NORTON, 62, Old Broad street, Royal Exchange.

DEEDS FOR EXECUTION ABROAD.

—Messrs. J. and R. M'CRACKEN, Foreign Agents, No. 7, Old Jewry, beg to inform the Legal Profession, that they undertake to forward Deeds for Execution by Parties abroad, through their correspondents on the Continent, for the costs of transmission, and a simple commission.

CHUBB'S PATENT FIRE-PROOF and WROUGHT-IRON SAFES and CHESTS.—Caution.—As several imitations of the above are now offered for sale by different makers, bankers, merchants, and the public generally are respectfully informed that no ironmongers, smiths, or furniture brokers are supplied with the above safes or chests, and that they can only be obtained direct from CHUBB and SON, the patentees, 57, St. Paul's-churchyard, London.

SCHIEDAM HOLLANDS.—Owing to the late enormous duty on this beautiful and wholesome Spirit, comparatively very little has been used or known in this country. The Public have, therefore, had opportunity of testing its merits. VINCENT and PUGH, after innumerable experiments and immense outlay in machinery, have at length arrived at that state of distillation which has enabled them to produce an ARTICLE equal in every respect to the finest Foreign. VINCENT and PUGH introduce this splendid matches spirit to the public for the purpose and approval of which they trust its merits, not only for quality but price, being enabled to offer it at 2s. 6d. per bottle, in square Dutch bottles, with the corks branded (VINCENT & PUGH), and sealed for security as to its genuineness. To be had of all the respectable retail dealers in and about the metropolis, or of their agent, Mr. Charles HODDER, Castle, Moorgate-street, City, and wholesale, Vincent and Pugh, Distillery, 16, New Park-street, Borough, and 10, Road-lane, City.

The public attention is particularly called to their Pale Brown British Brandy, which is allowed to be matchless.

THE ALBERT PATENT ELASTIC SPRING CRAYAT is commended for comfortable, economical, and gentlemanly wear.

Twelve Acres Freehold, near Lee and Lewisham. in lots.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, JUNE 2, Twelve Acres of FREEHOLD BUILDING LAND, delightfully situated on an inclined plane, with an extensive frontage on the public road from Lee to Bromley, about a mile from Lee, and near to which an intended railway is likely to have a station. The estate will be divided into small and large lots, presenting valuable frontage on serpentine roads and groves, which will be desirable for residences. Lee and Lewisham and the neighbourhood are most improving places; and this property, when some of this land is built upon, the rest will be worth more than double its present value. Particulars may be obtained of Mr. GROVES, Solicitor, Charlotte-street, Bedford-square; and at the offices of Mr. SINGLE, Land Agent, 34, Coleman-street, City.

Essex, almost contiguous to Brentwood Station.—Two Freehold Estates, Building Land in 50 Plots: a famous situation for a Tavern and for Residences.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, JUNE 2, at Twelve for One, in about 50 plots, TWO valuable FREEHOLD ESTATES, in an elevated and delightful situation, close to the station at Brentwood, on the Eastern Counties Railway, presenting most valuable building frontages on the direct road from the station. One is situated on the Albert-road, the direct communication from the station to Brentwood, presenting frontages also on a road leading from it, so that at the corner a commanding Tavern might be at once erected, which would stand close to the station, and without a rival. The other estate comprises most valuable plots on the main road, leading to Ockendon, also presenting an invaluable site for a Tavern and Residence. To those who are sick of inhaling night and day the impure atmosphere of the crowded parts of the Metropolis, this is an excellent opportunity to purchase a freehold plot of land for the erection of a dwelling, &c. from which they can step into the carriage almost instantaneously, and be in London before they have scarcely had time to fully appreciate the refreshing beauty of the country scenery.—Particulars may be obtained of Mr. THOMAS PRYOR, Solicitor, 17, Pavement, Finsbury; and at the offices of Mr. SINGLE, 34, Coleman-street, City.

MILE-END-ROAD.—38 Houses and Building Ground, all held at a peppercorn, comprising good genteel residences, a large beer-shop, and other shops, and small houses, near the Canal-bridge.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, JUNE 2, at Twelve for One, the above valuable ESTATE, let principally to good and old tenants, and offering an opportunity for a most lucrative investment. The property comprises Nos. 1 to 6, Mile-end-terrace, in Canal-road, Mile-end-road, a capital thoroughfare; each contains, on the second floor, two convenient bed-rooms; first floor, a handsome drawing-room, with French casements to the floor, and bed-rooms in the rear; ground floor, two bold parlours; basement, two capital kitchens; and they stand in a most commanding and pleasant situation. Also the 10 houses, some with shops, in a line with the same; together with 22 small houses, comprising the whole of Elizabeth Ann-place, Princess-place, and Providence-row. Mr. Single has collected the rents and had the entire management of this estate for the last eight or ten years, and feels himself justified in recommending it to such as seek investments in property that always commands settled and good paying tenants.—The average rental is about £301. per annum. It is held for an unexpired term of about 22 years, without ground rent.—Particulars may be obtained of Mr. W. NOKES, Solicitor, Rectory-place, Woolwich; and at the office of Mr. SINGLE, Land Agent, 34, Coleman-street, City.

Herts, near Hertley-row and a Railway Station.—Forty-two Acres, with a House, Barn, &c., and Four five-acre Plots, all Freehold Building Land, in lots, small and large.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION at the Mart, on TUESDAY, JUNE 2, at Twelve for One, in lots, a FREEHOLD ESTATE, situated near the Outbeef Inn, upon the high roads from London to Farnham, and from Farnborough Station to Winchfield Station, Epsworth and Hertley-row, comprising 42 acres, prettily ornamented with thriving plantations, and on it are some of the prettiest sites in England for building. The land is famous for gardening purposes, and what with the probable cheapness of railway conveyance, and the raising of the Government Surveyors and Parliament itself against the confined and unhealthy state of the metropolis, together with the increased health and delight from living in the country, thousands of the inhabitants of the metropolis are likely, by and by, to reside in such a locality as this in preference to the metropolis. For a few pence a day, ere long, one will be whirled from his snug little home, 20 or 30 miles in the country, to his place of business in London, just while he barely has time to arrange the shortest mode of despatching his day's business to get back early to his healthful and delightful home. There will be some rare speculation lots, even for such as may not see any immediate desire for them or inclination to let at present.—Particulars may be obtained of Mr. THOMAS PRYOR, Solicitor, 17, Pavement, Finsbury; at the Inns in the neighbourhood; and at the offices of Mr. SINGLE, Land Agent, 34, Coleman-street, City.

SYDENHAM, Dartmouth Arms.—Building Land and a Paddock, delightfully situated on the High-road and the Albert-road, between the two Railway Stations.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION at the Mart, on TUESDAY, JUNE 16, at Twelve for One, a most valuable FREEHOLD ESTATE, beautifully situated on the high road between the two important stations, Dartmouth Arms and Sydenham, comprising 9 plots of Building Ground in the neighbourhood of most respectable and gentlemanly villas, and peculiarly adapted for the erection of superior residences. Also a small Paddock. The neighbourhood may be said to rival any part of Devonshire itself for beauty of scenery and salubrity of air; but when one reflects that so interesting and delightful a spot is within a few minutes' ride of the City by railway, such property cannot be too highly estimated, nor can the facilities which railway travelling now offers be sufficiently appreciated.—Particulars may be obtained of Messrs. HOLMER and SON, Bridge-street, Southwark; and at the offices of Mr. SINGLE, Land Agent, 34, Coleman-street, City.

TOLLINGTON-PARK.—Freehold Estate, intended Public-house, Ground-rents, and Residences, delightfully situated, in lots.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, JUNE 16, at Twelve for One, a most valuable FREEHOLD ESTATE, desirably situated in the preferable part of Tollington-park, Hornsey-road, comprising a commanding and capital corner intended public-house, with cheerful open bar, bar-parlour, kitchen, and wash-house, handsome lofty parlour and tap-room on the ground floor, a noble room nearly twenty-eight feet long with three French casements therein, and two capital bed rooms on the first floor, four airy rooms on the second floor, incomparable fine cellars on basement, a good piece of ground behind, side-entrance, &c.; a Freehold Ground-rent of 14s. per annum, secured on two large houses adjoining, and three gentlemanly eight-roomed residences, all freehold and close by, commanding delightful views, and being in the most respectable part of the most respectable neighbourhood around London. A purchaser of the intended public-house would, no doubt, at once obtain a license, and he would enjoy an unrivalled and most lucrative trade for years, as there is scarcely a possibility of another being allowed all round the estate: a purchaser of one of the residences would have a delightful home if he should live in it, and a sound investment if he let it; of the ground-rent it is not necessary to say a word.—Particulars may be obtained at the offices of Mr. PRYOR, Solicitor, 17, Pavement, Finsbury; and of Mr. SINGLE, Land Agent, 34, Coleman-street, City.

DALSTON.—Eight Residences.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, JUNE 2, at Twelve for One, in six lots, SIX well-built RESIDENCES, eligibly situated in Henry-street, Queen's-road, Dalston; one is a corner house, with a double-fronted shop, baker's oven, &c. and is let for three years at 40l. per annum clear; the others contain six rooms each, have good gardens, and are of the annual value of 25l. Also two semi-detached cottages, containing about six rooms each; term 75 years; ground-rent 8l. each house.—Particulars may be obtained of Mr. GEORGE FITCH, Solicitor, 15, New Bridge-street, Blackfriars; and at the offices of Mr. SINGLE, 34, Coleman-street, City.

Peckham, near Deptford-lane, Old Kent-road, and New-cross, in the parish of Camberwell.—Freehold Building Land, about five acres, in lots.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, JUNE 30, at Twelve for One, about five acres of FREEHOLD BUILDING LAND, land-tax redeemed, presenting valuable frontages on Bath-road, Clifton-road, and Bath-grove, Bath-road, in which there is a famous arched sewer, is a continuation of Asylum-road, and a direct communication from the Old Kent-road to Deptford-lane, now called Queen's-road. The distance from the city is only two miles and a half, or three miles, and the conveyance both by railway and omnibus is very convenient and cheap. There is a deep gravelly soil throughout this locality, affording also a natural surface drainage, which, together with the mild salubrious air for which the neighbourhood is proverbial, have gained for Peckham its present celebrity for promoting health and longevity. As this spot is one of the most favoured and fashionable, houses upon it will always insure good tenants, and a profitable investment of capital.—Particulars will be ready in due time, and may be obtained of Mr. W. NOKES, Solicitor, Woolwich; and at the offices of Mr. SINGLE, Land Agent, 34, Coleman-street.

IN THE COUNTY OF DURHAM.—The Wolsingham Park Estate, Freehold, comprising about 2,400 acres of Arable, Meadow, Pasture, and beautiful Wood and Moor Land, with invaluable Freestone, and perhaps Ironstone, and a river and a railway passing through it.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, JULY 21, at One precisely, the valuable and highly improvable FREEHOLD ESTATE, known as the Wolsingham Park Estate, comprising about 2,400 acres of arable, meadow, pasture, wood, and moor land, situated only about three quarters of a mile from the Corbridge turnpike-road, and two and a half or three from Wolsingham, and four from Stanhope, both excellent market towns, and only about seventeen miles from the city of Durham, and eighteen from Newcastle-on Tyne, possessing the advantages of a railway through it. There are but two tenants on the estate, and they hold yearly at trifling rentals. The income from the property at present is only about 440l. per annum, which gives no idea of its estimated rental. The whole lies within a ring fence on either side the "Wakerly," a river having its rise at one end, and winding in meandering beauty through the estate, and discharging itself into the river Wear. On one side of the river are beautiful hanging woods and improvable land, on the other good old pasture and arable land, capable of great improvement, lying principally on an inclined plane towards the river, presenting therefore peculiar facilities for drainage, by which the estate might in a short time be made by ordinary good management to produce double the present annual rental with only a trifling outlay, as there is an invaluable slate or stone quarry on the estate, affording materials for drainage at but little cost, as well as valuable stone for other purposes. There are nearly 400 acres of thriving wood land, and the railway which passes through the estate has two stations on the property; there are three farm-houses with homesteads, all stone-built, and a residence capable of being made a snug little sporting-box, lying open to the warm south, and to one of those delightfully picturesque views peculiar to some of the most favoured parts of the county of Durham. There is famous trout-fishing in the river, first-rate grouse and other shooting on the estate, and plenty of fox-hunting in the neighbourhood. The property has for many years been in the hands of a London gentleman, who has neither advantageously let it, or in any way attempted to do it; it offers, therefore, to capitalists an opportunity which seldom occurs for investing money in an improving property. It is believed that a few thousand pounds might be made by improving the land, &c. and a few hundred thousands by the minerals. The tenants on the estate will point out the property, and full particulars, with maps of the estate, will be ready in due time, and may be obtained of AMBROSE CLARE, Esq. Solicitor, 5, Sine-lane, City, London; and of Mr. SINGLE, Land Agent, 34, Coleman-street, City.

Freehold Houses and Corner Shop, Manor-grove, Hatcham-park, Old Kent-road.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, JUNE 30, at Twelve for One, SEVEN FREEHOLD HOUSES, pleasantly situated, Nos. 1 to 7, Manor-grove, Hatcham-park, Old Kent-road. Let at about 18l. per annum each. Further particulars in future advertisements, and in the mean time may be obtained at the offices of Mr. SINGLE, Land Agent, 34, Coleman-street, City.

Freeholds and Leaseholds, High-street, Peckham, and in Church-street, Camberwell.—Seven small Houses, in old neighbourhoods.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, at Twelve for One, in two lots, SEVEN HOUSES, situated as follows:—3 to 7, in the Orchard, High-street, Peckham, a flourishing and daily improving neighbourhood. They contain three or four rooms each, and are let at rentals amounting to about 72l. per annum. The other two houses are leasehold, and are situated 3 and 3, Arthorke-row, opposite Grove-lane, Camberwell, and contain four rooms and wash-houses.—Particulars will be ready in due time, and may be obtained of Messrs. MARTEN, THOMAS, and HOLLAND, Solicitors, Mincing-lane, and at the offices of Mr. SINGLE, Land Agent, 34, Coleman-street.

Residences, Beaumont-square, Mile-end, and Shops, Back-road, St. George's-in-the-East.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, JUNE 30, at Twelve for One, SIX HOUSES, as follows:—Nos. 1 and 2, Bell-street, and Nos. 35 and 36, New-road, St. George's-in-the-East, let at low rentals, amounting to about 90l. per annum, to capital tenants, who, having made money in their shops, could now pay higher rentals; held under the Draper Company, of twenty-one years from Michaelmas, 1878, at 40l. per annum; a purchaser would no doubt get a removal from the company. Also Nos. 20 and 21, Beaumont-square, Stepney; let at rentals amounting together to about 12l. per annum.—Further particulars will appear in future advertisements, and in the meantime may be obtained at the offices of Mr. SINGLE, Land Agent, 34, Coleman-street, City.

Wandsworth-road.—Four Residences, in detached plots, an improvable Property.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, JUNE 30, at Twelve for One, in lots, FOUR well-built LEASEHOLD RESIDENCES, in detached pairs, pleasantly situated, Crumdiagh-grove, near the Stag, Wandsworth-road. They each contain on the ground-floor two parlours, first-floor two rooms, basement two kitchens, wash-house, &c. The present proprietor has taken to the property against his inclination, lives at a distance, and has imagined they would be purchased, house at a time, for occupation, so that he has declined letting them, though they stand in as good a situation for letting as anywhere throughout the whole metropolis. The estimated rental is about 28l. per annum.—Particulars will be ready in due time, and may be obtained of Mr. SHARP, Solicitor, Devonshire-terrace, New-road; and at the Office of Mr. SINGLE, Land Agent, 34, Coleman-street, City.

EDMONTON.—A gentlemanly Freehold Residence, by order of the Trustees, and without reserve.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION at the Mart, on TUESDAY, JUNE 30, at Twelve for One, without the slightest reservation, a capital FREEHOLD RESIDENCE, one of a detached pair, built in a very superior manner, and cheerfully situated on the high-road, in the preferable part of Edmonton. It contains on the ground-floor two parlours; first floor, a capital drawing-room and two bed-rooms; second floor, two spacious bed-rooms; third floor, attic; basement, two kitchens, wash-house, pantry, &c. There is stabling, loft, large garden, &c. Being within an omnibus distance of the city, and near to the railway station, it is very desirable either for occupation or mere investment.—Particulars will be ready in due time, and may be obtained of Mr. COMPAGNE, Solicitor, 24, Back-lane; and at the offices of Mr. SINGLE, Land Agent, 34, Coleman-street, City.

Cambridge-heath, near Hackney-road.—Twenty-one Houses.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, on TUESDAY, JUNE 2, at Twelve for One, TWENTY-ONE HOUSES, as follows:—Six Houses, Nos. 21 to 26 inclusive, Melina-place; Three Houses, Ada-street; and Twelve Houses Nos. 12 to 23 inclusive, Gough-street, near the Canal-bridge, Cambridge-heath-road, a capital situation for letting. They offer an opportunity for most lucrative investment, being in an old neighbourhood, populous but respectable, and where there are comparatively few small houses; they let remarkably well.—Particulars may be obtained of Mr. J. B. WATSON, Solicitor, St. Saviour's-lane; and at the offices of Mr. SINGLE, Land Agent, 34, Coleman-street, City.

WOODFORD.—Freehold Building-land, almost contiguous to the intended Railway station, in 16 lots.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, JUNE 2, at Twelve for One, a valuable ESTATE, comprising freehold and copyhold building ground (fine certain and nominal) divided into 16 plots, presenting desirable building frontages, and situated in and near to Snake's lane, Woodford. Several of the plots are in the line of the intended railway, and are almost contiguous to the spot. This sale offers a fine opportunity for improving capital without risk, and open also to small or large capitalists.—Particulars may be obtained of Mr. WILLIAM GOVER, 1, Cole-street north, Dove-road, Southwark; and at the offices of Mr. SINGLE, Land Agent, 34, Coleman-street, City.

LONDON.—Printed by HARRY MORRELL, CORN. of 74, Great Queen Street, in the Parish of St. Giles, in the City of London; in the County of Middlesex, Printed by J. B. MORRELL, CORN. of 74 & 75, Great Queen Street, and printed and published by JOHN CROOKER, of 29, Essex Street, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the City of Westminster, at the Office of the LAW TIMES, No. 34, Essex Street, Strand, on Saturday, the 28th day of May, 1878.

For Sale.

WARWICKSHIRE.—To be SOLD by Private Contract, STUDLEY CASTLE, with the Park and Home Farm, together with the contiguous Estates of Moreton Baggot and Great Alne, producing a rental of 4,000l. per annum, the whole of which may be purchased with the Castle, or only such a portion of it as the purchaser may desire. The Castle is a stone edifice in the Norman style, erected about 10 years since, containing every convenience, and perfectly adapted to the residence of any nobleman's or gentleman's family, and capable of accommodating a considerable number of visitors. There are pleasure and kitchen gardens, conservatories and hothouses, very extensive stabling, and a complete brewery. The shooting is extensive and excellent, and there are two lakes filled with fish, and a trout stream running through the domain. The Castle is completely and splendidly furnished with furniture of the best description, which may be taken by the purchaser at a valuation. The Castle, buildings, and the farm-house are in good order, and the whole will be found worthy of consideration either as a residence or investment.—For further particulars apply to Mr. W. Murray, solicitor, London-street, Fenchurch-street; and Mr. Samuel Beasley, architect, Soho-square, London; and to Messrs. Lea, Gibbs, and Couchman, solicitors, Henly-in-Arden, Warwickshire.

TO be SOLD, or LET, all that truly desirable FREEHOLD MANSION and ESTATE, called THE STAPLETON GROVE, situate at STAPLETON, in the County of Gloucester, about two miles from Bristol, for some years past in the occupation of the late Proprietor, Michael Hinton Castle, Esq. deceased.

The mansion is approached by a rustic entrance lodge, through ornamental grounds, finely timbered, skirted by the demences of his Grace the Duke of Beaufort and Sir John Smyth, Bart. and divided by the turnpike road from the palace and grounds of the Lord Bishop of Gloucester and Bristol, with a lawn tastefully laid out, flower gardens, and plantations; two large and well-stocked kitchen gardens, with hot-house, grape-house, pinery, &c. and three closes of very rich Meadow Land adjoining, the whole comprising about thirty acres.

For particulars apply to Mr BROOKE SMITH, Solicitor, Small-street, Bristol.

FREEHOLD RESIDENCE.—Coast of DORSET.—By railway in course of construction, three and a-half hours from London, three hours from Taunton and Bridgwater. One of the most beautiful marine Villas in the vicinity of Bournemouth, with conservatory, lawn, shrubberies, &c. and various building sites for sale.

To be SOLD or LET. The much admired and beautifully situated Villa Residence, called BELMONT VILLA, contiguous to that unequalled watering-place Bournemouth. The house is placed in a Southern aspect, on an elevated spot commanding very extensive and beautiful land and sea views, with lawn, garden, and pleasure grounds, comprising altogether about fourteen acres. This unique residence, with an approach of more than a quarter of a mile, must be seen to be duly appreciated, and is within two miles of a railway station. To save trouble, the purchase-money required is 2,500l. Rates and taxes about 12l. per annum.

Tickets for viewing the premises, and further particulars may be obtained on application at the office of M. K. WELCH, Solicitor, Poole, Dorset.

Periodical Sale of Reversions, Life Interests, Annuities, Life Policies, Advowsons, Next Presentations, and all descriptions of Securities dependent upon human life, Ground and Improved Rents, Post Obit Bonds, Shares in Railways, Mines, Insurance Companies, and all other public undertakings.

MR. MARSH (late Fuller and Marsh) respectfully informs the Public, that his PERIODICAL SALES BY AUCTION of the above description of PROPERTY will be continued throughout the present year as follows:—

Thursday, July 2.
Thursday, August 6.

Thursday, September 3.

This Society grants Insurances upon the lives of persons in every profession and station wherever resident. Four-fifths of the profits are divided among the assured. The rates are calculated on the lowest scale consistent with security from the Government returns. The payments may be made, yearly, half-yearly, and quarterly, during life, or for a limited period.

Assurances for the whole Term of Life may also be effected upon an Increasing Scale, commencing at a rate much below the ordinary Premiums, and exempt from any augmentation for a period of seven years.

The Board meets every Wednesday, at half-past Three o'clock, to receive proposals and transact other business; but any assurance for which immediate despatch is required may be effected on the same day that it is proposed.

In cases where a life assured by another has gone beyond the limits prescribed by the policy, without the knowledge of the party interested, the Society will, upon his application, and proof of the life being then in a satisfactory state of health (but subject to their medical officers' approval of the risk as applicable to such life), renew the policy upon the same terms as they would have required for its continuance had their consent been previously obtained.

The usual commission allowed to all solicitors.

Sales by Auction.

Glazenwood, near Witham, Essex.—A remarkably unique Freehold Property, land-tax redeemed, comprising the celebrated Horticultural, Orchard, Nursery, Australian and American Gardens, containing upwards of 50 acres (with a capital mansion-house in the centre, in the occupation of the Rev. Sir John Page Wood, bart.); also a genteel newly-erected mansions and buildings for horticultural and floricultural purposes; the whole property constituting one of the Lions of that part of the county, and admirably adapted either for occupation or investment.

MESSRS. DRIVER have received instructions to OFFER to PUBLIC COMPETITION, at the Auction Mart, London, on TUESDAY, the 9th day of JUNE, at Twelve o'clock, in two lots, the above valuable PROPERTY, freehold, and land-tax redeemed, comprising the celebrated Glazenwood Estate, in the parish of Bradwell, next Coggeshall, consisting of above 50 acres of orchard, nursery, and American gardens, a considerable portion of which is well stocked with the choicest fruit trees of the most approved sorts in full bearing, and the remainder planted with a fine and rare collection of American and Australian shrubs and plants, in the most luxuriant and flourishing condition; the whole ornamentally disposed with the greatest taste, and intersected with delightful gravel walks, extensive conservatories, and sundry pits, with a capital mansion-house in the centre of the property (the residence of the Rev. Sir John Page Wood, bart.). Also a genteel newly-erected villa, replete with every accommodation for any respectable family; besides another residence and all requisite buildings for horticultural or floricultural purposes, the whole constituting a remarkably eligible property, either for occupation in its present lucrative trade, or as an investment. It is only about five miles from the Witham Station on the Eastern Counties Railway, surrounded with excellent roads, and resorted to by all persons fond of admiring horticultural or floricultural pursuits as quite the lion of that part of the county. The entire property is in the hands of the proprietor (excepting the Mansion House, occupied by the Rev. Sir J. P. Wood, bart.), and will be divided into Two Lots. The principal lot, comprising the Mansion House, &c. and upwards of thirty-eight acres. Lot 2 consists of the Villa and the other residence, with Conservatories and Buildings, and twelve acres of Nursery and Orchard Ground attached thereto.

To be viewed, on application to Mr. Curtis, at Glazenwood, of whom printed specifications, with plans annexed, may be had. Specifications may also be had at the Hotel at Chipping-hill, close to the Witham Station; the Saracen's Head, Chelmsford; the Three Cups, Colchester; of E. G. Craig, Esq. Solicitor, Braintree; of W. W. Oldershaw, Esq. of Tockenhouse-yard, London; at the Auction Mart, near the Bank of England; and of Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors and Land Agents, 8, Richmond-terrace, Whitehall, London.

PROSPECTUS.

This Society is now completely registered, and prepared to transact all the usual business of Life Assurance.

It is based upon a principle which will combine the benefits of Mutual Assurance with the guarantee of a Subscribed Capital of ONE MILLION STERLING.

Whilst perfect security is thus given, the number and character of the Shareholders (consisting of nearly 500 Members of the Legal Profession), will command a large amount of business, and consequent advantages will arise to the Assured.

Tables of Premiums have been prepared expressly for this Office, by F. G. P. NEISON, Esq. F.L.S., calculated on the nearest approximation to the real law of mortality.

These Tables will be found to afford peculiar encouragement to the assurance of young lives. They embrace participating and non-participating scales.

In the participating class, the Assured will be entitled to have four-fifths of the profits divided amongst them periodically, either by way of addition to the amount assured, or in diminution of premium, as the parties may elect. No deduction will be made from such profits for interest of capital, or for a guarantee fund.

The Premiums may be paid half-yearly or annually, or by a single payment.

Assurances may be effected through any respectable Solicitor, or by writing to the Secretary.

The Directors meet on Thursdays at Two o'clock; but Assurances may be effected on any day, by applying between the hours of Ten and Four, at the Offices of the Society, where Prospectuses and all other requisite information may be obtained.

CHARLES JOHN GILL, Secretary.

Edw. Boyd, esq. Resident.
E. Lennox Boyd, esq. Asst. Resident.
Charles Downes, esq.

Surgeon—F. Hale Thomson, esq. 48, Berners-street.

This Company, established by Act of Parliament, affords the most perfect security in a large paid-up Capital, and in the great success which has attended it since its commencement in 1834.

Its Annual Income being upwards of £82,000.

In 1841 the Company added a Bonus of 2l. per cent. per annum on the sum insured to all policies of the participating class from the time they were effected.

The Bonus added to policies from March, 1834, to the 31st Dec. 1840, is as follows:—

Sum Assured.	Time Assured.	Sum added to Policy
£5,000	6 Yrs. 10 Months.	£683 6s. 8d.
5,000	6 Years	600 0 0
5,000	4 Years	400 0 0
5,000	2 Years	200 0 0

The Premiums nevertheless are on the most moderate scale, and only one-half need be paid for the first Five Years, where the Insurance is for Life.

Every information will be afforded on application to the Resident Directors, EDWARD BOYD, Esq. and E. LENNOX BOYD, Esq. of No. 8, Waterloo-place, Palm-mall, London.

Miscellaneous.

CHUBB'S PATENT FIRE-PROOF AND WROUGHT-IRON SAFES AND CHESTS.—Caution.—As several imitations of the above are now offered for sale by different persons, bankers, merchants, and others, the public are respectfully informed that the only genuine and reliable fireproof safes and chests are those made by CHUBB and SON, the patentees, 57, St. Paul's Churchyard, London.

SCHIEDAM HOLLANDS.—Owing to the late enormous duty on this beautiful and wholesome Spirit, comparatively very little has been used or known in this country. The Public have, therefore, had no opportunity of testing its merits. VINCENT and PUGH, after innumerable experiments and immense outlay in the most length, have at length arrived at the means of distillation which has enabled them to produce an ARTICLE equal in every respect to the finest Foreign. Vincent and Pugh introduce this splendid maltless spirit to the public for their opinion and approbation, which they trust it merits, not only for quality but price, being enabled to offer it at (VINCENT & PUGH), and sealed for security as to its genuineness.

To be had of all the respectable retail dealers in and about the metropolis, or of their agent, Mr. Charles Hodder, Castle, Moorgate-street, City, and wholesale Vincent and Pugh, Distillery, 16, New Park-street, Bowdoin, and 10, Wood-lane, City.

The public attention is particularly called to their Pale Brown British Brandy, which is allowed to be matchless.

PERVILLE pretio vendere negotiari tutissime, et globis avails perinde emulare procurant; or in other words, who sell the cheapest, trade safely, and like the snowball, gather as they go. Acting ever faithfully on this favourite axiom, the East India Tea Company can secure to the Public teas in 6lb. bags at 2s. 6d. 2s. 10d., 3s. 6d. and 3s. 10d. per pound; and Coffee at 9d., 1s., 1s. 2d., and 1s. 4d., at the Old Warehouse, No. 9, Great St. Helen's Church-yard, City.

YACHTING, DRIVING, AND ANGLING.—The NEW BREASTNIGHT JACKETS and WRAPPERS will be found by Sailors and Sportsmen to be the best articles ever made up for their use. They will resist the heaviest rain and the fiercest tropical heat for any time, and their durability is equal to their water-proof qualities. Trowsers, leggings, sou-westers, caps, and gloves, of the same material, Officers and others going to the colonies will find these articles invaluable. Gentlemen who drive should use CORBING'S new water-proof driving aprons and coats, the most serviceable and complete things of the kind, and approved by all who have tried them. Ladies' riding caps, and gloves, and gloves, CORBING'S improved short India rubber boots are superior to any thing hitherto made for the comfort of anglers and snipe-shooters. They are light, pliable, and never crack; impervious to water for any length of time, and require no dressing to keep them in condition. Patterns and prices on application. Any description of article made to order. London: J. C. CORBING, 231, Strand, five doors west of Temple Bar.

FURNITURE.—WANTED TO PURCHASE, from £200 to £500 worth of SECOND-HAND FURNITURE, in large or small quantities, for which a fair price will be given in cash, without any deduction for valuation, and removed at the purchaser's expense; Lamps, China, Glass, Books, Pictures, and Musical Instruments, included, if required. Any description of article made to order. Apply to Mr. J. CHAPMAN, 6, Great Russell-street, Covent Garden. Valuations made for the Legacy Duty, Hents collected, &c.

NERVOUSNESS: CURE for the MILLION.

Mr. HEYD NEWTON (late Chemist to the Rev. Dr. Willis Mosely) has made arrangements to extend to every member of the community the benefit of the great discovery for the CURE of NERVOUS COMPLAINTS, which hitherto has been enjoyed by the upper and wealthier classes exclusively. Persons suffering from groundless fear, delusion, melancholy, inquietude, disinclination for society, study, business, &c. confusion, blood to the head, giddiness, failure of memory, irascibility, and every other form of nervous disease, are invited to avail themselves of this never-failing remedy. The most deeply-rooted symptoms are effectually and permanently removed. Hours for consultation daily, from Eleven to Five, and in the evening from Seven to Nine, at Mr. Newton's residence, 7, Northumberland-street, Trafalgar-square.

Letters, with a concise statement of cases, promptly attended to, and the means of cure sent to all parts.

A NEW DISCOVERY.—Mr. HOWARD, Surgeon-Dentist, 63, Fleet-street, begs to introduce an ENTIRELY NEW DESCRIPTION of ARTIFICIAL TEETH, fixed without springs, wires, or ligatures. They so perfectly resemble the natural Teeth that they are not to be distinguished from the original. They are fixed by a new and never-failing COLOUR or DECA, and will be found very useful in any Teeth ever before used. This method does not require the extraction of roots or any painful operation, and will give support and preserve teeth that are loose, and is guaranteed to restore action and maintain the teeth in the most economical, he has fixed his charges at the lowest scale possible. Decayed teeth rendered sound and useful in mastication.—63, Fleet-street. At home from Ten till Five.

Sent free by post, on application to their establishment, the largest in London, exclusively for the manufacture and sale of bedding (no bedsteads or other furniture being kept).—HEAL and SON, Feather Dressers and Bedding Manufacturers, 196, opposite the Chapel, Tottenham-court-road.

THE NEW TOOTH-BRUSH, made on the most scientific principles, thoroughly cleansing between the teeth, when used up and down, and polishing the surface when used crossways. This brush so entirely enters between the teeth, that the inventor has decided upon naming it the TOOTH-PICK BRUSH; therefore ask for it under that name, marked and numbered as under—viz., full-sized Brushes, marked T. F. W. No. 1, hard; No. 2, less hard; No. 3, middling; No. 4, soft. The narrow Brushes, marked T. P. N. No. 5, hard; No. 6, less hard; No. 7, middling; No. 8, soft. These brushes are only to be had of HEAL and SON, and they warrant the hair never to come out, at 1s. each, or 10s. per dozen, in bone; or 2s. each, or 21s. per dozen, in ivory.

THE ATTRACTION, or LIQUID HAIR DYE.—The only Dye that really answers for all colours, and does not require red-dyeing, but as the hair grows, as it never fades or acquires that unsightly red or purple tint common to all other dyes. ROSS and SON'S can, with the greatest confidence, recommend the above Dye as infallible, if done at their establishment; and ladies or gentlemen requiring it, may be requested to bring a friend or servant with them to see how it is used, which will enable them to do it afterwards without the chance of failure. Several private apartments devoted entirely to the above purpose, and some of their establishments having used it, the effect produced can be at once testified. They think it necessary to add, that by attending strictly to the instructions given with each bottle of the Dye, numerous persons have succeeded equally well without coming to them.

Address ROSS and SON, 119 and 120, Bishopsgate-street, London, the celebrated Perfumers, Perfumers, Hair-cutters, and Hair-dressers. N.B. Parties attended at their own residence, whatever the distance.

BY COMMAND of HER MAJESTY'S GOVERNMENT, in consequence of the many cures achieved by the constant use of GRIMSTONE'S EYE-SNUFF, manufactured of choice British Herbs. Government having ascertained the above fact, has commanded W. GRIMSTONE, of 434, Oxford-street, to affix a medicine stamp on all canisters bearing the label as sanctioned by the Lords of the Treasury in 1835, and approved by the Stamp Solicitor in 1837. That this celebrated Grimstone's Eye-Snuff will be sold by all Chemists and Medicine Vendors, in canisters at 9d. 1s. 6d. 2s. 7d. 4s. 6d. and 9s. each, stamp included; and forwarded through the post. Upon receipt of a Money Order for 3s. 7d. a 2s. 7d. canister will be forwarded from W. GRIMSTONE, Merchant, 434, Oxford-street, London.

GROWTH of the HAIR.—No great change can be permanently brought about without going to the root of the evil. The root of the evil in defects of the hair, as in other cases, lies beneath the surface; mere unguents may gloss over, but will not remove the cause. The only preparation that acts vigorously, because it penetrates to the roots of the hair, is OLD BRIDGE'S BALM of COLUMBIA, which produces Whiskers and Eyebrows, prevents the hair from turning grey, and the first application causes it to curl beautifully, frees it from sear, and stops it from falling off. Price 2s. 6d., 6s., and 11s. per bottle. No other prices are genuine. Ask for OLD BRIDGE'S BALM, 1, Wellington-street, Strand. Sold by all respectable chemists, perfumers, and stationers.

LAW.—WANTED, a confidential ENGAGEMENT, in Town or Country, by a gentleman who has been 20 years in the Profession, and is able to take the entire management of the Conveyancing department. His references will be of the most satisfactory kind, and a salary will be expected of from 2000 to 2500 a year. Apply to Mr. S. HARRIS, Law Agent, 6, Carey-street, Lincoln's Inn.

TRY GUNTER'S PRESERVED HONDURAS—TURTLE SOUP, made from Turtle killed in a healthy state. Sold by all Confectioners, Italian Warehousemen, and Grocers, at 7s. 6d. per quart; usually charged 21s. Undressed Turtle sufficient to make four quarts, 15s. Gunter's Turtle for Invalids, 3s. per tin, sufficient for two meals. Sold wholesale at BY. GUNTER'S, Corbet Court, Gracechurch-street, London.

DIAMOND DUST, direct from the Mines.—Genuine DIAMOND DUST, for giving instantaneously the keenest edge to the bluntest razor or knife, is now regularly imported direct from the mines of Golconda, the Brazil, and the Arabian Mountains, and may be had at the wholesale depot, 1, Angel-court, opposite Somerset-house, Strand, London, in rosewood boxes (with instructions) at 1s., 2s. 6d., 5s., and 10s. 6d. each; and at the various agents throughout the world. Diamond dust, it is well known, has been used for many years amongst the nobles of the Russian Court as an indispensable adjunct to the comfort of their toilets. His late Majesty George IV. and His Royal Highness the Duke of Sussex were well acquainted with the peculiar properties and application of the diamond dust, having used it for sharpening their razors for upwards of 20 years. Parties using the diamond dust will never require to have their razors set or ground, the use of the bone being rendered perfectly unnecessary. Shippers and country agents supplied on liberal terms. Either of the boxes will be transmitted free to any part of the country.

CARSON'S ORIGINAL ANTI-CORROSION PAINT, specially patronized by the British and other Governments, the Hon. East-India Company, the principal Dock Companies, and other public bodies, &c. is particularly recommended to the Nobility, Gentry, Agriculturists, Manufacturers, West-India Proprietors, and others, and has been proved, by the practical test of nearly sixty years, to surpass all other Paints as an out-door preservative. It is extensively used for the preservation of wooden houses, farms and other out-buildings, farming implements, conservatories; park paling, gates, iron railings, iron bridges, copper, zinc, lead, and stone, old cast-iron, and structures from rust and decay. The superiority of the ANTI-CORROSION over every other paint, for out-door purposes, may be easily inferred from the simple fact that its use has been always most strenuously approved by the noblest and most distinguished personages, and others, and has been proved, by the practical test of nearly sixty years, to surpass all other Paints as an out-door preservative. It is also very economical, any labourer being able to lay it on. Colours—light stone, drab or Portland ditto, Bath ditto, light and dark yellow ditto, light and dark oak, light and dark lead, light and dark green, 50s. 1b. bright ditto, 60s.; deep green, 60s. per cwt.; in casks, 25lb., 50lb., and 112lb. each. Oil and Brushes. More detailed particulars will be sent, free of postage. The original ANTI-CORROSION PAINT is only to be obtained of W. CARLSON (successor to the late Mr. W. C. Carlson, of the Bank of England, who will show nearly 360 Testimonials received from the Nobility, Gentry, and Clergy, who have used the Anti-Corrosion for many years in their country seats. W. C. Carlson is reluctantly compelled to caution the Public against the spurious imitations of his original ANTI-CORROSION PAINT, now offered for sale. He has no agents whatever. All orders are particularly requested to be sent direct.

WHAT TO EAT, DRINK, AND AVOID;

With Diet Tables, for all Complaints.

By R. J. CULVERWELL, M.D. M.R.C.S., L.A.C. &c.

CONTENTS: How to secure perfect digestion, tranquil feelings, a good night's rest, a clear head, and a contented mind. By an observance of the instructions herein contained, the feeble, the nervously delicate, even to the most shattered constitution, may acquire the greatest amount of physical happiness, and reach in health the full period of life allotted to man.

To be had of Sherwood, 23, Paternoster-row; Carvalho, 147, Fleet-street; Hannay, 63, Oxford-street; Mann, 39, Cornhill; and all Booksellers; or direct, by post or otherwise, from the Author, 21, Arundel-street, Strand.

NERVOUSNESS: A Pamphlet containing novel Observations on the Rev. Dr. Willis Mosely's great Original Discoveries, by which, for thirty years, after curing himself of a deep-rooted nervous complaint of fourteen years' standing, he has had not less than 14,000 applications, and knows not twenty-five uncured who have followed his advice. From noblemen to menials he has for thirty years cured persons of all classes and ages of groundless fear, mental depression, wretchedness, confusion, delusions, involuntary blushing, despair, indecision, dislike of society, blood to the head, sleeplessness, restlessness, thoughts of self-destruction, and insanity itself. This pamphlet is cheerfully sent to every address free of charge, and franked home if but one stamp is inclosed. The original means of cure are sent in a pure and effective state to all parts. At home from Eleven to Three. 16, Bloomsbury-street, Bedford-square.

Sales by Auction.

Very important and valuable Freehold Estate, embracing the entire parish of Addington, free of tithes and land-tax, and almost of poor-rates, with its spacious Mansion, excellent Manor for Game, the Adwoson, and several first-rate and Grazing and Dairy Farms (let at about 2,500*l.* per annum, extending nearly to the town of Winslow, and only five miles from the county and borough town of Buckingham, distinguished as the family seat and domain of the late Hon. General Vere Poole, forming a singularly eligible and solid investment for capital in a proverbially rich and sporting country.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON are commissioned to announce that the above remarkably valuable and truly important FREEHOLD ESTATE will be SOLD BY AUCTION IN SEPTEMBER next, unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by private treaty. It comprises the spacious and substantial mansion of Addington, with walled garden, capital stabling, &c. placed on a gentle elevation, nearly in the centre of one of the most fertile domains in the county, embracing the entire parish, nearly encircled by a fine brook, and chiefly rich grazing and dairy land, the whole title free, and let to old respectable tenants at rents amounting to about 2,500*l.* per annum. The perpetual advowson, with its parsonage and glebe, and the manor, which is well stocked with game, appertain to the estate. The timber is nearly all elm—a certain proof of the fertility of the soil. The high turnpike road from Aylesbury to Buckingham passes through the property close to the town of Winslow, and it is within a very easy distance of the market towns of Buckingham, Bicester, Stony Stratford, &c. This description of grass land is unlikely to be affected by any change as to corn laws and tariffs, and the property therefore presents, with its peculiar and great local advantages, an indisputably fine and choice property for the investment of money, with a most enjoyable domain for residence, being in a perfectly rural district, and in the centre of several packs of hounds. A station on the Buckinghamshire Railway will be very near. Descriptive particulars, with plans, will be published when the day of sale is fixed; and in the interim the property may be viewed by application to Mr. King, surveyor, Winslow; and every information obtained of Messrs. DANIEL SMITH and SON, Land Agents and Surveyors, in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall.

FREEHOLD VILLA at OLD WINDSOR, between Windsor and Egham, with its beautiful Grounds, Conservatory, and rich Paddock, commanding a fine view of the Castle, and skirting the picturesque bank of the Thames.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON are directed by the Executors of the late proprietor to SELL BY AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, JUNE 23, at 12, (unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by private contract), the above desirable FREEHOLD FAMILY RESIDENCE, comprising three or four reception rooms, with conservatory, and the usual appendages for a moderate establishment, beautiful and well-timbered pleasure grounds, and a rich paddock of pasture land adjoining, containing altogether above 13 acres, most desirably situated within a pleasant walk of the town and parks of Windsor, of Englefield-green, and Egham, and close to the Thames. Immediate possession may be had.—The estate may be viewed, and particulars had at the inns at Egham and Staines; upon the premises; at the Mart; of Messrs. C. and E. J. JENNINGS, Solicitors, Mitre-court, Temple; or of DANIEL SMITH and SON, Waterloo-place, Pall-mall, and Windsor.

MAER-HALL, in Staffordshire, bordering on Cheshire and Shropshire, near Newcastle-under-Lyme, many years the residence and property of the late Josiah Wedgwood, Esq. with its splendid Lake or Mere, surrounded by rich park-like pastures, and a bold broken chain of wooded hills, intersected by romantic drives and walks, of several miles in extent, forming one of the most beautiful and desirable domains of its size (about 1,100 acres) in the county; the soil being remarkably sound and healthy, the lands nearly title-free, and the farm homesteads of a very superior description; also the Advowson and Manor of Maer, and a romantic residence, known as Camp-hill, adjoining; midway between Birmingham, Manchester, and Liverpool, with a first-class station within a mile of the estate, bringing it within about seven hours' journey of London, and two miles and a half from those important towns.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON are directed by the Executors of the late Josiah Wedgwood, Esq. to SELL BY AUCTION, at the Mart, near the Bank of England, on TUESDAY, JUNE 23, at Twelve o'clock, in Five Lots (unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by private contract), the above important and singularly beautiful FREEHOLD PROPERTY, delightfully situated in a remarkably healthy and picturesque part of the country, between the towns of Newcastle-under-Lyme, Stafford, Drayton, and Ecclehall, and on the Shrewsbury-road. It comprises the Mansion of Maer Hall, possessing every comfort for a moderate establishment, capital newly-built stabling, gardens, and park-like pastures, refreshed by a lake of nearly twenty-three acres, stored with fish, amidst remarkably thriving plantations, chiefly of larch and oaks, clothing and crowning the brows and wooded hills of this highly picturesque domain, commanding very extensive and romantic scenery, and forming excellent preserves for game. The farms are let to respectable yearly tenants at low rents, and the two principal farmhouses and homesteads have been entirely newly built in the most substantial manner, and of a superior character. The Manor and Advowson of the living (a perpetual curacy), with its Parsonage, Glebe, &c., appertain to the estate, as also the small old established inn, the Swan with Two Necks, and several cottages. Camp-hill is a modern compact residence, with twenty-seven acres of romantic wooded grounds on the northward side of the property, about one mile from the railway station.—The estates may be viewed by parties sending their addresses. Descriptive particulars, with lithographic plans, may be had on the premises; at the chief hotels at Birmingham, Liverpool, Manchester, Stafford, &c.; of Messrs. KEARY and SHEPPARD, solicitors, Stoke-upon-Trent; of R. S. Ford, Esq. Swinerton, near Stone; at the Auction Mart, London; and of DANIEL SMITH and SON, Land Agents, in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall, to whom only applications to treat are to be made.

HANTS.—Capital Freehold Farms, the greater part title free, offering one important or several Good Landed Investments, with an excellent Manor for Game, remarkably thriving Woodlands, Trout Fishery, and two valuable Corn Mills, in a picturesque part of the county, with some fine sites for the erection of a mansion.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON are commissioned to offer for SALE BY AUCTION, in lots, by direction of the Trustees under the will of the late Francis Bailey, Esq. V.P.R.S. several capital FREEHOLD FARMS, comprising excellent arable and pasture land, with some upland and water meadows, with suitable homesteads, some remarkably fine woods, thickly stored with the most thrifty oak, and intersected by a good trout stream, on which are two valuable corn-mills, situated between Winchester, Stockbridge, Romsey, and Salisbury, within an easy distance of Southampton and Portsmouth, with a railway through the parish. The manor is attached to the property, and the whole estate comprises about 1,500 acres, but will be divided into eligible lots for investments of various amounts, unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made for the whole, which may be bought to pay a clear three and a half per cent.—Particulars and plans may be seen at their offices in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall; or at Mr. BAILY'S, Solicitor, 37, Threadneedle-street, London; and when the day of sale is fixed, may be had at all the neighbouring towns.

The Sedgehill Estate and Farm in Wilts, on the Borders of Dorsetshire, altogether about 310 acres, in the rich vale between Shaftesbury and Fonthill, in a famous sporting country.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON are directed to OFFER for PUBLIC SALE, at the end of JUNE inst. (unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by private contract), in Two lots, a very desirable FREEHOLD GENTLEMAN'S RESIDENCE, on a moderate scale, though capable of accommodation for a good establishment. It is a modern house of a handsome uniform elevation, with all suitable offices, stabling, walled garden, farm buildings, lodge, &c. surrounded by a very rich little park, studded with fine oak and other timber, commanding some highly picturesque scenery, embracing the finely varied range of hills and domain of Fitt House, the seat of John Benett, Esq. and portions of the Fonthill Estate, together with a valuable farm adjoining, with all requisite buildings, labourers' cottages, &c. Also, in a separate lot, a highly-conditioned and compact farm of about 170 acres, a great part pasture, in the parish of Sedgehill, with a neat farm-house and homestead, all recently put into substantial repair, and let to a highly respectable tenant.—The estates may be viewed by application on the premises, and descriptive particulars with plans may be had, when the day of sale is fixed, at the inns at Shaftesbury, Salisbury, &c.; of J. BATTEN, Esq. Solicitor, Yeovil; and of DANIEL SMITH and SON, Land Agents, in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall, London.

DESIRABLE FREEHOLD ESTATE, with a very superior FARM RESIDENCE, known as STARK CASTLE, bounded by a bold reach of the River Medway, only three miles from the City of Rochester, and about seven from Maidstone, amidst grand and beautiful scenery.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON will offer for SALE BY AUCTION, at the Mart, near the Bank of England, on TUESDAY, JUNE 16, at Twelve (unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by Private Contract), the above very compact and valuable FREEHOLD PROPERTY, comprising a superior Farm Residence, embracing a portion of the old Castle, with its fine Gothic windows, capital buildings of the most substantial description, and above 30 acres of arable, pasture, hop, and marsh land, in a fine fence, and in a high state of cultivation, being on lease to Mr. John Pearce, a highly respectable tenant, for an unexpired term of five years, at a low rent, offering a safe and superior investment for capital, as also a desirable property for future occupation, being in a beautiful part of the country.—The estate may be viewed by application to the tenant, and particulars, with plans, may be had on the premises; at the chief inns at Rochester, Maidstone, Canterbury, &c.; at the Auction Mart; and of DANIEL SMITH and SON, Land Agents, in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall.

Situations Wanted.

A GENTLEMAN, who has been carrying on a small Practice for about Five Years, is desirous of obtaining the situation of MANAGING CLERK in a respectable Office, either in Town or Country,—the latter would be preferred. The best references as to ability and respectability will be given.

Apply by letter, pre-paid, to A.B. 71, Mark lane.

LAW.—WANTED, a confidential ENGAGEMENT, in Town or Country, by a Gentleman who has been twenty years in the Profession, and is able to take the entire management of the conveyancing department. His references will be of the most satisfactory kind, and a salary will be expected of from 200*l.* to 250*l.* a year.

Apply to Mr. S. HARRIS, Law Agent, 6, Carey-street, Lincoln's-inn.

LAW.—The Advertiser, who is unmarried, of strictly steady and industrious habits, writes neatly and expeditiously, and is experienced in the usual routine of a Country Office, is wanting an ENGAGEMENT. Most satisfactory references will be given.

Address, T. S. LAW TIMES Office.

TO SOLICITORS.—A Gentleman just admitted, who is well acquainted with the Conveyancing and ordinary routine of a Country Practice, and has passed some time in a large London Agency Office, wishes for an ENGAGEMENT in an office of extensive practice, town or country.

Address, J. G. Messrs. DAWSON and SONS, 74, Cannon-street, London.

LAW.—A Gentleman who has served his articles in the Country, and was one year in an office in London prior to passing his examination on his being admitted a Solicitor last Hilary Term, is desirous of obtaining a SITUATION as CLERK in an office of general practice in the Country.

Address to J. H. K. care of T. BLEKNERN, Law Bookseller, 19, Chancery-lane, London.

LAW.—WANTED by a Gentleman (who has been admitted), a SITUATION as CLERK in a respectable Solicitor's office, where he would undertake the management of the Miscellaneous or Conveyancing department, under the occasional superintendence of the principal.

Address, W. P. LAW TIMES Office, 20, Essex-street, Strand.

LAW.—A MANAGING CLERK, who is a good Conveyancer and Common Law Clerk, and likewise versed in Magisterial, Assize, and Session Practice, Four Law Accounts, and Bills of Costs, wants a respectable PERMANENT SITUATION in the Country. Advertiser has been in the habit of attending on Clients, and managing in the absence of the Principal. From his experience and knowledge of business he would be found a valuable assistant to any Gentleman having a general practice. Age 28, and of good address. Salary 100*l.* per annum. Can have good testimonials from present employer.

Address, C. D. Post-office, Lancaster.

LAW.—A Gentleman of some experience in the Profession wishes for an Engagement with a Solicitor, as MANAGING CLERK for a limited period, with a view to a Partnership. Either London or country will suit, as the Advertiser has had an opportunity of seeing the practice both in town and in the country, north and south.

The most unexceptionable references will be given and required. Address, A. B. at Mr. LAIDMAN'S, Law-stationer, Chancery-lane.

LAW.—A Gentleman (some time since admitted) is desirous of obtaining a SITUATION to MANAGE a COUNTRY BUSINESS, for which, by education and experience, he is well qualified.

The Advertiser will concur (if required) not to practise in the neighbourhood, after the termination of his engagement.

Address, Y. Z., Messrs. MCGILSON, PRINGLE, and Co. 3, King's-road, Bedford-row.

LAW.—The Advertiser (aged 40 years), who is acquainted with the general routine of business of a Country Solicitor, is desirous of procuring an Engagement in either a Town or Country Office as CASHIER, COPYIST, or GENERAL CLERK, and, having an independency, would require only a moderate salary, his principal object being permanent employment.

Address (post paid) L. E. X. Post-office, Ware, Herts.

DEEDS FOR EXECUTION ABROAD.—Messrs. J. and R. MCCRACKEN, Foreign Agents, No. 7, Old Jewry, beg to inform the Legal Profession, that they undertake to forward Deeds for Execution by Parties abroad, through their correspondents on the Continent, for the costs of transmission, and a simple commission.

List of Correspondents, and for further information, apply as above.

Partnerships Wanted.

LAW PARTNERSHIP.—A Gentleman of the highest connections, and of moderate but increasing practice in a Western county, is willing to treat with any gentleman of persevering and steady habits, who is desirous of entering into PARTNERSHIP. Unexceptionable references will be given and required. No agents need apply.

For particulars apply to Z. A. at Mr. BOYLE'S, Stationer, Carey-street, Lincoln's-Inn.

Practice Wanted.

LAW.—WANTED A SHARE in a good PRACTICE, in Town or Country, by a Married Gentleman, admitted three years. It is confidently anticipated that the Advertiser's family and other connection with the county of Devon, and more particularly with the Northern Division of that county, will insure the future establishment of a permanent Practice; and this advertisement is inserted more with the desire of obtaining active occupation and practical experience than present emolument. The Advertiser having been educated and employed in offices of the highest repute in London, trusts that no one will answer this advertisement whose business or character is in any way exceptionable.

Address K. L. M. LAW TIMES Office, Essex-street, Strand, London.

ADVOWSON.—To be SOLD, the ADVOWSON of a RECTORY, in the County. The principal part of the income of the Rectory is derived from stock in the public funds. There is an excellent house of residence. Population, manufacturing.

For particulars, apply to Messrs. KEEN and HAND, Solicitors, Stafford.

WANTED TO PURCHASE, a FREEHOLD ESTATE, containing from 800 to 1,000 Acres of Land, divided into five or six Farms. The purchase-money not to exceed 35,000*l.*

Address, TILSLEY and TRAVERS, Solicitors, Chipping Campden, Gloucestershire.

PROSPECTUS.
 This Society is now completely registered, and prepared to transact all the usual business of Life Assurance.
 It is based upon a principle which will combine the benefits of Mutual Assurance with the guarantee of a Subscribed Capital of ONE MILLION STERLING.
 Whilst perfect security is thus given, the number and character of the Shareholders (consisting of nearly 500 Members of the Legal Profession), will command a large amount of business, and consequent advantages will arise to the Assured.

Tables of Premiums have been prepared expressly for this Office, by F. G. P. NISSEN, Esq. F.L.S., calculated on the nearest approximation to the real law of mortality.
 These Tables will be found to afford peculiar encouragement to the assurance of young lives. They embrace participating and non-participating scales.

In the participating class, the Assured will be entitled to have four-fifths of the profits divided amongst them periodically, either by way of addition to the amount assured, or in diminution of premium, as the parties may elect. No deduction will be made from such profits for interest of capital, or for a guarantee fund.

The Premiums may be paid half-yearly or annually, or by a single payment.
 Assurances may be effected through any respectable Solicitor, or by writing to the Secretary.

The Directors meet on Thursdays at Two o'clock; but Assurances may be effected on any day, by applying between the hours of Ten and Four, at the Offices of the Society, where Prospectuses and all other requisite information may be obtained.
CHARLES JOHN GILL,
 57, Chancery-lane.
 Secretary.

UNITED KINGDOM LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY,
 8, WATERLOO-PLACE, PALM-MALL, LONDON.
 Established by Act of Parliament in 1834.

DIVISION OF PROFITS AMONG THE ASSURED

DIRECTORS.
James Stuart, esq. Chairman.
Hamel De Castro, esq. Deputy Chairman.
Samuel Anderson, esq.
Hamilton Blair Avarne, esq.
Edw. Boyd, esq. Resident.
E. Lennox Boyd, esq. Asst. Resident.
Charles Downes, esq.
Surgeon—F. Hale Thomson, esq. 48, Berners-street.
 This Company, established by Act of Parliament, affords the most perfect security in a large paid-up Capital, and in the great success which has attended it since its commencement in 1834.

Its Annual Income being upwards of £22,000.
 In 1841 the Company added a Bonus of 2½ per cent. per annum on the sum insured to all policies of the participating class from the time they were effected.
 The Bonus added to policies from March, 1834, to the 31st Dec. 1840, is as follows:—

Sum Assured.	Time Assured.	Sum added to Policy
£5,000	6 Yrs. 10 Months.	£683 6s. 6d.
5,000	6 Years	600 0 0
5,000	4 Years	400 0 0
5,000	3 Years	200 0 0

The Premiums nevertheless are on the most moderate scale, and only one-half need be paid for the first Five Years, where the Insurance is for Life.

Every information will be afforded on application to the Resident Directors, EDWARD BOYD, Esq. and E. LENNOX BOYD, Esq. of No. 8, Waterloo-place, Palm-mall, London.

FREEMASONS' AND GENERAL LIFE ASSURANCE, LOAN, ANNUITY, AND REVERSIONARY INTEREST COMPANY.

George Henry Lewes, esq.
Sir Thomas Usher, R.N. C.B. and K.C.H.

THIS Office unites the Benefit of a Mutual Association with the Security of a Proprietary Company, and offers to the Assured the following advantages:—

1. Credit until death, with privileges of payment at any time previously, for one-half of the premiums for the first five years, upon Assurances for the whole of Life,—a plan peculiarly advantageous for securing Loans.
2. In Loan transactions the lender secured against the risk of the borrower going out of Europe.
3. Sums assured to become payable AT GIVEN AGES OF DEATH, if previous.
4. Policies indefeasible; fraud alone, not error, vitiating them; and in case the Renewal Premium remain unpaid, the Assurance may be revived at any time within six months, upon satisfactory proof of health, and payment of a trifling fine.
5. Officers in the Army and Navy, and persons residing abroad, or proceeding to any part of the world, assured at low rates.
6. Immediate, Survivorship, and Deferred Annuities granted; and Endowments for Children, and every mode of provision for Families arranged.

Information and Prospectuses furnished, on application at the office.

FIRE-PROOF SAFE MANUFACTORY, 125, Aldersgate street, City.—J. LEADBEATER, since sole manufacturer for Chubb, of St. Paul's Churchyard, begs most respectfully to announce to the Public that he has discontinued manufacturing for the above firm, and solicits attention to his present stock of Fire-proof Book-Safes and Chests, Wrought Iron-proof Doors for strong rooms, Fire-proof Jewellery Cases, Cash and Deed Boxes, Fire-proof Plate Chests, &c. &c. every article of which is got up in the most superior manner as regards materials and workmanship, all secured by "Leadbeater's Improved Detector Locks," throwing from three to twenty bolts, and sold at prices 40 per cent. under the charges usually made by that firm. J. L. having accomplished many substantial improvements in iron safe-proof articles, which obtained for the Messrs. Chubb an unequalled degree of celebrity, and offering to the Public advantages which cannot be obtained elsewhere—namely, the very best security for property against fire and thieves—at prices so much reduced, he feels compelled to solicit for the support of the business. J. L. can refer to the testimonials of several bankers, merchants, and private gentlemen, in London and elsewhere, for whom he has erected fire-proof works.—Manufactory, 125, Aldersgate street, London.

SCHIEDAM HOLLANDS.—Owing to the late enormous duty has been on this beautiful and wholesome Spirit, comparatively very little has been used or known in this country. The Public have, therefore, had no opportunity of testing its merits. VINCENT and PUGH, after innumerable experiments and immense outlay in machinery, have at length succeeded in procuring the best of the finest Foreign. Vincent and Pugh introduce this splendid matchless spirit to the public for their opinion and approbation, which they trust if made, not only for quality but price, being enabled to offer it at 2s. 6d. per bottle, in square Dutch bottles, with the cork braded. (VINCENT & PUGH), and sealed for security as to its genuineness. To be had of all the respectable retail dealers in and about the metropolis, or of their agent, Mr. Charles Hodder, Castle, Moorgate street, City, and wholesale, Vincent and Pugh, Distillers, 15, New Park street, Borough, and 10, Road Lane, City. The public attention is particularly called to their Pale Brown British Brandy, which is allowed to be matchless.

DIAMOND DUST, direct from the Mines.—Genuine DIAMOND DUST, for giving instantaneously the keenest edge to the bluntest razor or knife, is now regularly imported direct from the mines of Golconda, the Brasils, and the Uralian Mountains, and may be had at the wholesale depot, 1, Angel court, opposite Somerset street, Strand, London, in rosewood boxes (with instructions) at 1s., 2s., 5s., 10s., and 20s. each, and at the various agents throughout the world. Diamond dust, it is well known, has been used for many years amongst the nobles of the Russian Court as an indispensable adjunct to the comfort of their toilets. His late Majesty George IV. and His Royal Highness the Duke of Sussex were well acquainted with the peculiar properties and application of the diamond dust, having used it for sharpening their razors for upwards of 20 years. Parties using the diamond dust will never require to have their razors set or ground, the use of the latter being rendered perfectly unnecessary. Shippers and country agents supplied on liberal terms. Either of the boxes will be transmitted free to any part of the country.

TO DRUGGISTS, CHEMISTS, and COLOUR-MEN.—TO BE DISPOSED OF, a long-established, first-rate wholesale and retail business, situate in one of the most populous Towns in England, within a short distance of London, by all the present offers a most favorable opportunity for a party wishing to commence business having a moderate amount of capital at command. IMPORTANT NOTICE.—GENTLEMEN'S DRESS, in great variety, the newest fashions, and remarkably low in price, at SHARD'S, 166, Strand, the only real maker and inventor of the NEW SUMMER PALLETOT—those comfortable and gentlemanly coats, in all colours, ready made, or made to measure, at 3s. 6d. and 4s. 6d. Also the elegant and comfortable summer frocks and waistcoats in London. Every article marked the price per yard, also the price of each garment when completed, giving an opportunity to those who are desirous of purchasing, the great advantage of selecting from a stock of superior goods (in woollens, doerings, and fancy waistcoats), the quality and price of which cannot fail to please the most fastidious. Wool dyed Dress Coats, to measure, 2l. 2s.; Doenkin Trowsers, 14s. 6d.; Summer Vests, 7s. 6d. each; Garden and Fishing Coats, 12s. 6d.—made by the best workmen. Note the ADDRESS.—SHARD, Tailor and Woollen-dresser, 166, Strand. Three doors from the New Strand Theatre.

COCONA-NUT FIBRE.—This substance envelopes the shell of the milky cocoa-nut, around which it forms a strong protecting net-work. Man's ingenuity has turned the fibre to account by manufacturing it into many useful articles, as carpets, for stairs and passages, matting for churches, public buildings, office nurseries, and kitchens, hearth-rugs, door-mats, ropes, netting for sheep folds, &c.; but among the applications there is not any to which it is better adapted than for stuffing mattresses and cushions, as a substitute for unbreast, wool, and flock. It is very elastic, and affords great ease and support to the body, whether used with or without a feather bed. It has also the additional recommendation of being so obnoxious to vermin that they will not live in it whilst it is a fact well known that wool, flock, tow, and even horse-hair, will engender animals. Possessing peculiar chemical properties that render it a non-absorbent, the fibre is particularly suitable for children's beds, for use of schools, in all large dormitories, and at sea. Cocoa-nut fibre mattresses are only about one-half the price of those made from horse-hair. Priced lists may be had on application at the warehouse, or will be sent free by post.

SOMERSETSHIRE.—Torweston Castle, and most important Freehold Estate of 657 Acres, at Sampford Brett, near Williton and Watchill.

MESSRS. DRIVER have been favoured with instructions to submit to PUBLIC COMPETITION at AUCTION, in 23 Lots, some time in the month of JULY next, all the above most desirable and valuable FREEHOLD PROPERTY, comprising the ancient celebrated domain called Torweston Castle, a most commanding situation, the principal farm containing 390 acres, lying within a ring fence, is now in the occupation of the Executors of the late Mr. Corner, highly responsible and respectable yearly tenants, who have received notice to quit at Michaelmas 1846; the remainder is also in the occupation of most responsible yearly tenants, with the exception of about 150 acres, which have been long since granted out upon leases for lives, most of which have now only one remaining life, so that the expectation of early possession within a few years may be most reasonably anticipated. Nearly the whole of the parish of Sampford Brett is comprised in this estate; the remainder extends into Stogumber and St. Decumans parishes.

The property is surrounded by capital roads, and is distant from Bridgewater and Taunton about seventeen miles, Watchill two miles, Minehead nine miles, and Dunster about three miles.

Printed specifications are in preparation, and a future advertisement will shortly appear, announcing the day of sale. In the mean time any further information may be had from Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors and Land Agents, 8, Richmond-terrace, Parliament-street, London.

WOODFORD, Essex.—Higham Hills Mansion House, Park, and Domain, of about 327 acres, and a desirable Farm adjoining, of about 72 acres.

MESSRS. DRIVER are favoured with instructions to OFFER to PUBLIC COMPETITION, at the Auction Mart, near the Bank of England, on FRIDAY, the 10th day of JULY, at Twelve o'clock, in two lots, the above important and valuable FREEHOLD PROPERTY, containing together about 400 acres, most eligibly situated in the parishes of Woodford and Walthamstow, in the county of Essex, and only about eight miles from London.

Lot One will comprise the Manor of Higham Hills, otherwise Higham Bempstead, and the Improvements Tithes of about 60 acres, together with Higham Hills Mansion House (the distinguished residence of the late Jeremiah Harman, esq.), delightfully situated in a splendid Park of about one hundred and fifty acres, beautifully undulating, and enriched with unusually ornamental stately oak timber, and extensive sheets of water, commanding delightful panoramic prospects of the surrounding forest and other scenery. The mansion is of very prepossessing character, and of correct and handsome elevation, upon a scale of accommodation and elegance adapted for any nobleman or gentleman of the first distinction. It contains a noble suite of living apartments, comprising two elegant drawing-rooms, billiard-room, a capital dining-room, and library, numerous principal and secondary bed-chambers, and all requisite domestic offices, excellent coach-houses and stabling, and abundance of out-offices, and a well of the purest water, with complete ample machinery for supplying the residence, stabling, and other premises. The lawns and pleasure-grounds surround the mansion, and are most tastefully displayed, and beautifully ornamented with choice shrubs and American plants in the height of luxuriance, with wide dry gravel walks. There is also a magnificent conservatory opening from the dining-room. The kitchen garden contains an area of about two acres, entirely inclosed with lofty brick walls fully stocked and clothed with choice fruit-trees in full bearing, in which are two vineries and several succession-pits. The park comprises about 93 acres of rich meadow land, ornamented with a spacious lake of about 11 acres, and surrounding the park are about 54 acres of rich forest scenery and highly ornamental timber, with delightful carriage-drives through the same.

Lot Two will consist of a very desirable small freehold Farm, of 72 acres, surrounding the Park, with comfortable Farm-house, and all requisite agricultural buildings, together with the lease of about 16 years (held at a low rent) of a small Farm containing about sixty acres, occupied with and adjoining the park; and a Leasehold Residence, containing every accommodation for a respectable family, with above 30 acres of productive land, held for an unexpired term of about 7 years, at a very moderate rent; the whole forming a most enviable property either for occupation or investment. Immediate possession may be had on completion of the purchases.

To be viewed, with cards only, from 12 to 6 every day (Sunday excepted), which, with printed specifications and plans annexed, may be had of Messrs. TATHAM and SON, Land Agents and Surveyors, Bedford-place, Russell-square; of Messrs. MABERLY and SON, Solicitors, King's-road, Bedford-row, and of Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors and Land Agents, 8, Richmond-terrace, Parliament-street. Printed specifications may also be had at the Auction Mart, Bartholomew-lane.

Three valuable perpetual Advowsons and the rights of presentation to the very desirable Rectory of Iden, near Rye, and the two consolidated Rectories of East Guilford, with Playden, adjoining thereto, in the county of Sussex and diocese of Chichester, subject to the present incumbent's life, aged 65 years.

MESSRS. DRIVER are instructed to submit the above valuable PERPETUAL ADVOWSONS and RIGHTS OF PRESENTATION to PUBLIC COMPETITION, at the Auction Mart, Bartholomew-lane, London, on FRIDAY, the 10th day of JULY next, at Twelve o'clock, in Two Lots:—Lot 1 will comprise the Rectory of Iden, situated at the extreme east of the county of Sussex, and immediately on the border of Kent, two miles from the market-town of Rye, twelve miles from the fashionable watering-place of Hastings, and six miles from the metropolis, with which, as well as with Dover to the east and Brighton to the west, there will shortly be a direct railroad communication from Rye. The house is ancient, but, with its extensive modern additions, is in complete repair, and capable of accommodating a large family, and forms a most enviable and capital residence. It is surrounded by its small Pleasure-ground and Garden, and stands perfectly retired about a quarter of a mile from the church, in the midst of the glebe, beautifully timbered. The clear annual income of the Rectory of Iden may be fairly calculated to produce upwards of 800*l.* after making all deductions for allowances to a curate, and payment of all parochial rates. Lot 2 will comprise the consolidated Rectories of East Guilford, with Playden, situated adjoining to Iden, and are now, and have for a very long time, been held therewith. The clear annual income of these consolidated rectories, after making all deductions for allowances to curates, and payment of all parochial rates, may be fairly estimated to produce about 430*l.* The present incumbent is aged 65 years. Printed specifications may be had at the Angel and Star Hotels, Oxford; the Hoop, Cambridge; of Messrs. SMITH and SON, Solicitors, 16, Southampton-street, Bloomsbury square; at the Auction Mart, Bartholomew-lane; and of Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors and Land Agents, 8, Richmond-terrace, Parliament-street, London.

This Society grants Insurances upon the lives of persons in every profession and station where resident.

Four-fifths of the profits are divided among the assured. The rates are calculated on the lowest scale consistent with security from the Government returns. The payments may be made, yearly, half-yearly, and quarterly, during life, or for a limited period.

Assurances for the whole Term of Life may also be effected upon an Increasing Scale, commencing at a rate much below the ordinary Premiums, and exempt from any augmentation for a period of seven years.

The Board meets every Wednesday, at half-past Three o'clock, to receive proposals and transact other business; but any assurance for which immediate despatch is required may be effected on the same day that it is proposed.

In cases where a life assured by another has gone beyond the limits prescribed by the policy, without the knowledge of the party interested, the Society will, upon his application, and proof of the life being then in a satisfactory state of health (but subject to their medical officers' approval of the risk as applicable to such life), renew the policy upon the same terms as they would have required for its continuance had their consent been previously obtained.

The usual commission allowed to all solicitors.

SOLICITORS.

Messrs. Palmer, France, and Palmer, Bedford-row.

By the Act of Parliament obtained by the Company, it is expressly conditioned that the liability of the shareholders under the policies shall not be restricted by special contract or otherwise.

In the Deed of Constitution it is provided, that until a reserved fund of 100,000l. be accumulated, and unless it be kept up, no greater dividend than 5 per cent. shall be paid to the proprietors in any one year.

At the commencement of the present year, the reserved fund amounted to 117,805l.; and, in addition, the sum of 31,504l. 11s. 6d. was retained out of the fire premiums of the year, as a guarantee, or re-insurance fund, against current risks. The premiums received in the life department form no portion of either of those two funds.

The Directors having thus succeeded in establishing a substantial and highly-flourishing institution, with a steadily increasing business, have been induced to form a junction with the London, Edinburgh, and Dublin Life Assurance Company, by the assistance to be derived from those connections and proprietors they hope to acquire a firmer and more extensive hold on the metropolis and the country generally.

Proposals for the Insurance of Property against Fire in the United Kingdom, the British Colonies, and in Foreign Countries, and for the Assurance of Lives, the Purchase of Annuities, and the Sale of Reversionary Interests, will be received at the offices as above, or by any of the Company's Agents. ALEX. ROBERTSON, Resident Secretary.

Persons insured by this society are not liable to be called upon to contribute towards losses.

Agricultural produce and farming stock (live and dead), and implements and utensils of husbandry, may be insured on one farm, in one sum, without the average clause, at three shillings per cent. per annum free of duty.

In order to meet covenants requiring continuance of rent, notwithstanding destruction of buildings by fire, the Society will grant insurances on rent, the amount being specified in the policy.

Losses occasioned by fire from lightning will be made good.

Insurances may be made for more years than one by a single payment; and in such cases a liberal discount will be allowed on both premium and duty: for instance, insurance effected for seven years will be charged the premium and duty for six years only.

Insurances may be made for a less term than one year at a reduced premium, and the proportionate part only of the annual duty.

Insurances granted for a year or any longer term may be renewed within fifteen days after the expiration thereof.

Persons insured with this Society, and who may suffer loss, will receive their indemnity without deduction or discount.

No charge will be made for the policy where the sum insured amounts to 500l.

Attendance given at the Office of the Society daily from Nine till Four, where parties may obtain any further information respecting the terms on which insurances may be effected. E. BLAKE BEAL, Secretary.

Surgeon—F. Hale Thomson, esq. 48, Berners-street.

This Company, established by Act of Parliament, affords the most perfect security in a large paid-up Capital, and in the great success which has attended it since its commencement in 1834.

Its Annual Income being upwards of £82,000.

In 1841 the Company added a Bonus of 2l. per cent. per annum on the sum insured to all policies of the participating class from the time they were effected.

The Bonus added to policies from March, 1834, to the 31st Dec. 1840, is as follows:—

Sum Assured.	Time Assured.	Sum added to Policy
£5,000	6 Yrs. 10 Months.	£683 6s. 8d.
5,000	6 Years	600 0 0
5,000	4 Years	400 0 0
5,000	2 Years	200 0 0

The Premiums nevertheless are on the most moderate scale, and only one-half need be paid for the first Five Years, where the Insurances are for Life.

Every information will be afforded on application to the Resident Directors, EDWARD BOYD, Esq. and E. LENNOX BOYD, Esq. of No. 8, Waterloo-place, Pall-mall, London.

Miscellaneous.

CHUBB'S PATENT FIRE-PROOF and WROUGHT-IRON SAFES and CHESTS.—As several limitations of the above are offered by different makers, bankers, merchants, and the public generally are respectfully informed that no ironmongers, smiths, or furniture brokers are supplied with the above safes or chests, and that they can only be obtained direct from C. CHUBB and SON, the patentees, 57, St. Paul's-churchyard, London.

IMPORTANT TO SOLICITORS, &c.
FIRE-PROOF SAFE MANUFACTORY, 125, Aldersgate street, City.—J. LEADBEATER, nine years sole manufacturer for Chubb's, of 57, St. Paul's-churchyard, begs most respectfully to announce to the Public that he has continued manufacturing for the above firm, and solicits attention to his present stock of Fire-proof Book-Safes and Chests, Wrought Iron-Proof Doors for strong rooms, Fire-proof Jewell Cases, Cash and Deed Boxes, Fire-proof Plate Chests, &c. &c. every article of which is got up in the most superior manner as regards materials and workmanship, all secured by "Leadbeater's Improved Detector Locks," throwing from three to twenty bolts, and sold at prices 40 per cent. under the charges usually made by that firm. J. L. having accomplished many substantial improvements in iron fire-proof articles, which obtained the Messrs. Chubb's unequalled degree of celebrity, and offering to the Public advantages which cannot be obtained elsewhere—namely, the very best security for property against fire and thieves—at prices so much reduced, he looks forward with confidence for the support of the Public. J. L. can refer to the testimonials of several bankers, merchants, and private gentlemen, in London and elsewhere, for whom he has erected fire-proof works.—Manufactory, 125, Aldersgate-street, London.

SCHIEDAM HOLLANDS.—Owing to the late enormous duty on this beautiful and wholesome Spirit, comparatively very little has been used in this country. The Public have, therefore, had no opportunity of testing its merits. VINCENT and PUGH, after innumerable experiments and immense outlay in machinery, have at length arrived at that state of distillation which has enabled them to produce an ARTICLE equal in every respect to the finest Foreign. Vincent and Pugh introduce this splendid malted spirit to the public for their opinion and approbation, which they trust it merits, not only for quality but price, being enabled to offer it at 2s. 6d. per bottle, in square Dutch bottles, with the cork branded (VINCENT & PUGH), and sealed for security as to its genuineness. To be had of all the respectable retail dealers in and about the metropolis, or of their agent, Mr. Charles Hodder, Castle, Moorgate-street, City, and wholesale, Vincent and Pugh, Distillers, 16, New Park-street, Borough, and 10, Road-lane, City.

The public attention is particularly called to their Pale Brown British Brandy, which is allowed to be matched.

SUPERIOR FOREIGN WINES ON SALE.—142, Strand.—Old Ports, Sherries, Madraas, &c. &c., several years in bottle. Private families may be supplied with any of the above wines, at the lowest prices, and with the greatest care, by J. WRIGHT, late of Mark-lane, comprising many thousand bottles. Finest old Ports, from three to five years in bottle 42s. 48s. 50s. Sherries, various, ditto, ditto 36s. to 48s. Very old India Madraas, ditto 42s. to 56s. Superb old East India 50s. to 72s. Very old Malmsey, in plants 50s. Brandy, ditto, and of the best quality 24s. Brandy of the above may be had in plants, delivered free within five miles of the metropolis.

YACHTING, DRIVING, and ANGLING.—The NEW DREADNOUGHT JACKETS and WRAPPERS will be found by Sailors and Sportsmen to be the best articles ever made up for their use. They will resist the heaviest rain and the fiercest tropical heat for any time, and their durability is equal to their water proof qualities. They are made of the best materials, and are of the same proofing. Officers and others going on board of ships and yachts, and these articles invaluable. Gentlemen who drive should use CORDBING'S new waterproof driving aprons and coats, the most serviceable and complete things of the kind, and approved by all who have tried them. Ladies' light riding capes, with hoods and sleeves. CORDBING'S improved sheet India rubber boots are superior to any thing hitherto made for the comfort of anglers and snipe-shooters. They are light, pliable, do not crack, and impervious to water for any length of time, and require no dressing to keep them in the condition of new, and prices sent on application. Any description of article made to order. London: J. C. CORDBING, 331, Strand, five doors west of Temple Bar.

FURNITURE.—WANTED TO PURCHASE, from £200 to £500 worth of SECOND-HAND FURNITURE, in large or small quantities, for which a fair price will be given in cash, without any deduction for variation, and removed at the purchaser's expense; Linen, China, Glass, Books, Pictures, and Musical Instruments, included, if required. Apply to Mr. J. CHAPMAN, 6, Great Russell-street, Covent Garden. Valuations made for the Legacy Duty, Rents collected, &c.

GENUINE HAVANNAH CIGARS.
EDWIN WOOD, 69, King William-street, City, begs to inform the admirers of a FIRST-RATE HAVANNAH CIGAR, that they will find at this establishment the largest and choicest assortment in Havana, selected with great care by an experienced Manufacturer in Havana, and consigned direct to the advertiser. The Stock comprises the first qualities from the manufactories of SILVA & CO, Cabana, Woodville, Norridge, La Union, Regalia, &c.; some very superior Old Principles, Government Manillas, and Planchadas; Bengal and Porto Rico Cigars, with every other description now in demand. A large and select stock is always kept in hand, from which Gentlemen going abroad can at all times make their selection.

Annexed is a list of the present prices for cash—

THE DELIGHTFUL COOLNESS of the GOLDEN FLAX CRAVAT COLLAR, together with its perfect fit, however loosely tied on, recommend it especially during this weather. It needs no additional cravat—in one article is combined both collar and cravat. To be had of all hosiers, outfitters, &c. either in pure white for full dress, or printed in neat patterns suitable for morning dress. N.B. Each Cravat-Collar is stamped "John Paterson, London Registered."
Merchants and shippers supplied by any of the wholesale houses in London.

A NEW DISCOVERY.—Mr. HOWARD, Surgeon-Dentist, 52, Fleet-street, begs to introduce an ENTIRELY NEW DESCRIPTION of ARTIFICIAL TEETH, free from springs, wires, or ligatures. They so perfectly resemble the natural Teeth as not to be distinguished from the original by the closest observer; they will NEVER CHANGE COLOUR or DECAY, and will be found very superior to any Teeth ever before used. This method does not require the extraction of roots, nor any painful operation, and will give support and preserve teeth that are loose, and is guaranteed to restore articulation and mastication; and that Mr. Howard's improvements may be within the reach of the most economical, he has fixed his charges at the lowest scale possible. Decayed teeth rendered sound and useful in mastication.—52, Fleet-street. At home from Ten till Five.

SCHWEPPE'S AERATED LIME WATER, an excellent anti-acid, when taken under medical direction; but the Public are cautioned against an indiscriminate use of this water (under whatever fanciful or disguised name it may be pressed upon their notice), as it is well known to produce in some constitutions the most distressing and even fatal effects. It is a very good SOLE POTASS, and MAGNESIA WATERS, manufactured as usual upon the largest scale, at their several Establishments in London, Liverpool, Bristol, and Derby. Each bottle is protected with a red label over the cork bearing their name. German Sellers direct from the Springs at Nassau.—51, Berners-street, London.

LITHOGRAPHY in all its Branches, Writing, Drawing, and Printing, executed in the first style, and on the most moderate terms, at DEAN and CO.'S LITHOGRAPHIC PRINTING OFFICES, 35, 36, to 40, Threadneedle-street, City, where Merchants, Traders, and the Public may be supplied with all the Stationery and Transfer Paper, French Chalks, and Inks; and with their improved Lithographic Press, so excellent in principle and construction, that it is warranted to do the finest work with perfect ease and certainty.

DEAN and Co. have devoted the premises, No. 36, to the Stationery Business, where Companies and Merchants may be supplied on advantageous terms.

DIAMOND DUST, direct from the Mines.—Genuine DIAMOND DUST, for giving instantaneously the keenest edge to the bluntest razor or knife, is now regularly imported direct from the mines of Golconda, the principal, and the Oriental Mountains, and may be had at the wholesale depot, 1, Angel-court, opposite Somerset-house, Strand, London, in rosewood boxes (with instructions) at 1s., 2s., 6d., 8s., and 10s. 6d. each; and at the various agents throughout the world. Diamond dust, it is well known, has been used for many years amongst the nobles of the Russian Court as an indispensable adjunct to the comfort of their toilets. His late Majesty George IV. and His Royal Highness the Duke of Sussex were well acquainted with the peculiar properties and application of the diamond dust, having expended for sharpening their razors for upwards of 20 years. Parties using the diamond dust will never require to have their razors set or ground, the use of the hone being rendered perfectly unnecessary. Shippers and country agents supplied on liberal terms. Either of the boxes will be transmitted free to any part of the country.

COCOA-NUT FIBRE.—This substance envelops the shell of the milky cocoa-nut, around which it forms a strong protuberant ring. Man's ingenuity has turned the fibre to account by manufacturing it into many useful articles—such as carpets for stairs and passages, matting for churches, public buildings, offices, nurseries, and kitchens, heating-rugs, door-mats, ropes, netting for sheep folds, &c.; but among the applications there is not any to which it is better suited than for the manufacture of mattresses, as a substitute for horsehair, wool, and flock. It is very elastic, and affords great ease and support to the body, whether used with or without a feather bed. It has also the additional recommendation of being so obnoxious to vermin that they will not live in it; whilst it is a fact well known that about half the price of mattresses made of horsehair, wool, and flock, may be had of those made of cocoa-nut fibre. Possessing peculiar chemical properties that render it a non-absorbent, the fibre is particularly suitable for children's beds, for use of schools, in all large dormitories, and at sea. Cocoa-nut fibre mattresses are only about one-half the price of those made from horse-hair. Priced lists may be had on application at the warehouse, or will be sent free by post.

TRELOAR, 42, Ludgate-hill, seven doors from Farringdon-street, and five below Bell Savage Inn.

THE NEW TOOTH-BRUSH, made on the most scientific principles, thoroughly cleansing between the teeth, when used up and down, and polishing the surface when used crossways. This Brush so entirely enters between the closest teeth, that it does not require the aid of any other article, and the TOOTH-PICK BRUSH; therefore ask for it under name marked and numbered as under—viz., full-sized brushes, marked T. P. W. No. 1, hard; No. 2, less hard; No. 3, middling; No. 4, soft. The narrow Brushes, marked T. P. N. No. 5, hard; No. 6, less hard; No. 7, middling; No. 8, soft. These brushes are only to be had of ROSS and SONS, who sell by retail, and they warrant the hair never to come out, at 1s. each, or 10s. per dozen, in boxes; or 2s. each, or 21s. per dozen, in ivory.

THE ATRAPATORY, or LIQUID HAIR DYE.—The only Dye that really answers for all colours, and does not require re-dyeing, but as the hair grows, it never fades or acquires that unnatural red or purple tint common to all other dyes. ROSS and SONS can, with the greatest confidence, recommend the above Dye as infallible, if done at their establishment; and ladies or gentlemen requiring it are requested to bring a friend or servant with them to see how it is used, which will enable them to do it afterwards without the chance of failure. Several private apartments devoted entirely to the above purpose, and some of their establishments having used it, the effect produced can be at once seen. They think it necessary to add, that by attending strictly to the instructions given with each bottle of the Dye, numerous persons have succeeded equally well without coming to them.

Address ROSS and SONS, 119 and 120, Bishopsgate-street, London, the celebrated Perriers, Perfumers, Hair-cutters, and Hair-dyers. N.B. Parties attended at their own residences, whatever the distance.

BY COMMAND OF HER MAJESTY'S GOVERNMENT.—In consequence of the many cases achieved by the constant use of GRIMSTONE'S EYE-SNUFF, manufactured of choice British Herbs, Government having ascertained the above fact, has commanded W. GRIMSTONE, of 434, Oxford-street, to affix a medicine stamp on all canisters bearing the label as sanctioned by the Lords of the Treasury in 1825, and approved by the Stamp Solicitor in 1827. This celebrated Grimsone's Eye-Snuff is sold by all Chemists and Medicine Vendors, in canisters at 9d. 1s. 6d., 2s., 3s., 4s., 6s., and 9s. each, stamp included, and forwarded through the post. Upon receipt of a Money Order for 3s., 4s., 2s., 7d. canister will be forwarded from W. GRIMSTONE, Merchant, 434, Oxford-street, London.

CARSON'S ORIGINAL ANTI-CORROSION PAINT, specially patronized by the British and other Governments, the Hon. East-India Company, the principal Dock Companies, and other public bodies, &c. is particularly recommended to the Nobility, Gentry, Agriculturists, Manufacturers, West-India Proprietors, and others, it having been proved, by the practical test of nearly fifty years, to surpass all other Paints as an anti-corrosive. It is extensively used for the preservation of wooden houses, farm and other out-buildings, farming implements, conservatories; park paling, gates, iron railings, iron barries, copper, zinc, lead, brick, stone, old copper and stucco fronts, and tiles to represent slate. The superiority of the ANTI-CORROSION over every other paint, for its own purposes, may be easily inferred from the simple fact that its use has been always most strenuously opposed by colour manufacturers, and the sale of colourmen, and others interested in the sale of common paints. It is also very economical, any labourer being able to lay it on. Colours—light stone, drab or Portland ditto, Bath ditto, light and dark yellow ditto, light and dark oak, light and dark lead, light and dark chocolate, bright and dark red, and black, 3s. per cwt.; invisible green, 50s.; bright ditto, 60s.; deep green, 60s. per cwt.; in casks, 25 lb., 50 lb., and 112 lb. each. Oil and Brushes. More detailed particulars will be sent, free of postage. The original ANTI-CORROSION PAINT is only to be obtained of WALTER CARSON (successor to the inventory), 15, Ten-henhouse-yard, back of the Bank of England, who will show nearly 300 Testimonials received from the Nobility, Gentry, and Clergy, who have used the Anti-Corrosion for many years at their country seats. W. C. is reluctantly compelled to caution the Public against the spurious imitations of his Original ANTI-CORROSION PAINT, now offered for sale. He has no agents whatever. All orders are particularly requested to be sent direct.

SEA and RIVER BATHING.—Wilson's Patent Life Preserving Coats, Jackets, and Waistcoats.—All about to visit the Sea-Side will do well to provide themselves with the invention. Many a valuable life has been lost whilst bathing. By the aid of these waistcoats the art of swimming is soon accomplished, and all risk of drowning prevented. They may also be used for rowing. Youths, 18s. full-sized, 21s. Life Coats and Jackets for Yachting, Boating, Voyaging, and for all Watersports. R. WILSON, Tailor and Habit Maker, 30, Edward-street, Portman-square.

THE WEST-END MINERAL WATER DEPOT, 22, Henrietta-street, Cavendish-square, London.

W. BEST begs respectfully to solicit the attention of the Faculty and the Public to his stock of the most celebrated and efficacious MINERAL WATERS, consisting of Carlsbad, Ems, Marienbad, Pollna, Kissingen, Ragotz, Homberg, Seitz, Fachingen, La Grande Grille, Les Celestins, and Hospital of Vichy. The high testimonials of the first physicians on the continent, and indeed some of the most eminent in this country, respecting the important results attending the use of the above Mineral Waters, has induced W. B. regardless of expense, to make arrangements with the proprietors of the above Springs, so that the Mineral Waters can be obtained from his Establishment without any of its essential properties (especially the proto-carbonate of iron) being the least deteriorated. For further particulars see prospectus, which may be obtained at the Depot. Schweppe's Aerated, and Naugah's Carrawa Waters, may be had in any quantity. Agent by appointment to Sturte's German Spa, Brighton.

COMFORT FOR TENDER FEET, &c. WELLINGTON-STREET, STRAND, LONDON.

HALL and Co. PATENTEES of the PANNUS CORIUM, or LEATHER CLOTH BOOTS and SHOES, for Ladies and Gentlemen. These articles have borne the test, and received the approbation of all who have worn them. Such as are troubled with Corns, Bunions, Gout, Chills, or Tenderness of Feet from any other cause, will find them the softest and most comfortable ever invented—they never draw the feet or get hard, are very durable, adapted for every climate; they resemble the finest Leather, and are cleaned with common blacking.

The PATENT INDIA RUBBER GOLOSHES are light, durable, elastic, and waterproof; they thoroughly protect the feet from damp or cold; are excellent preservatives against Gout, Chills, &c.; and when worn over a boot or shoe, no sensible addition is felt to the weight. Ladies and Gentlemen may be fitted with either of the above by sending a boot or shoe.

Hall and Co.'s Portable WATERPROOF DRESSES for Ladies and Gentlemen. This desirable article claims the attention of all who are exposed to the wet. Ladies' Cardinal Cloaks, with Hoods, 18s. Gentlemen's Dresses, comprising Cape, Overall, and Hoods, 21s. The whole can be carried with convenience in the pocket.
* * * HALL and Co. particularly invite attention to their ELASTIC BOOTS, which are much approved; they supersede lacing or buttoning, are drawn on in an instant, and are a great support to the ankle.

PROSPECTUS.
This Society is now completely registered, and prepared to transact all the usual business of Life Assurance.

It is based upon a principle which will combine the benefits of Mutual Assurance with the guarantee of a Subscribed Capital of ONE MILLION STERLING.

Whilst perfect security is thus given, the number and character of the Shareholders (consisting of nearly 500 Members of the Legal Profession), will command a large amount of business, and consequent advantages will arise to the Assured.

Tables of Premiums have been prepared expressly for this Office, by F. G. P. NISBET, Esq. F.L.S., calculated on the nearest approximation to the real law of mortality.

These Tables will be found to afford peculiar encouragement to the assurance of young lives. They embrace participating and non-participating scales.

In the participating class, the Assured will be entitled to have four-fifths of the profits divided amongst them periodically, either by way of addition to the amount assured, or in diminution of premium, as the parties may elect. No deduction will be made from such profits for interest of capital, or for a guarantee fund.

The Premiums may be paid half-yearly or annually, or by a single payment.
Assurances may be effected through any respectable Solicitor, or by writing to the Secretary.
The Directors meet on Thursdays at Two o'clock; but Assurances may be effected on any day, by applying between the hours of Ten and Four, at the Office of the Society, where Prospectuses and all other requisite information may be obtained.
CHARLES JOHN GILL, Secretary.

Sales by Auction.

WHITE KNIGHT'S PARK, near Reading, Berks. Freehold, the greater part Land-Tax Redeemed, and nearly all Tithe-free.

NOTICE OF SALE of this UNRIVALED ESTATE, sub-divided into plots for the erection of an assemblage of MANSIONS and VILLAS, agreeably to a plan which will insure its becoming a nucleus for the residence of families of the highest respectability: affording to capitalists, builders, and gentlemen desirous of erecting their own private residences, an opportunity for investment rarely to be obtained; and for the sale of the whole estate in one lot, previously.

MR. FREDERICK CHINNOCK begs to announce that he has been honoured with instructions from the Proprietors to SUBMIT for PUBLIC COMPETITION, at the Great Western Railway Hotel, Reading, Berks., on THURSDAY, July 2, this exceedingly valuable and highly picturesque ESTATE, unless the whole estate, which will be previously offered in One Lot, comprising the beautifully undulating park, the well-known and much-admired botanical and American gardens, the charming and romantic wilderness, the splendid lake of water abounding with fish, the noble avenue of trees through which it is approached, with the rich pasture and park land, embracing together upwards of 294 acres, shall be sold. The greatest possible care has been taken in apportioning and lotting this truly interesting and picturesque property for sale, so as not only to preserve and retain the natural beauties of the particular spot so lotted, but also to afford that extent of ground necessary to surround the villas or houses which may be erected on its site; and at the same time to preserve intact the leading features of the estate, by offering in one lot the site of the old mansion, the lake of water, the botanical and kitchen gardens, the avenue of trees, and the home park, containing together about 100 acres, and thus afford an opportunity for erecting a mansion on the old foundation of a spot already formed by nature and art to give every characteristic of an ancient family mansion, and render it one of the most compact, delightful, and inexpensive seats in the county of Berks. The Wilderness, containing about 36 acres, will be offered in one lot, together with about 30 acres of park land, in the hope that there will be found, in the town of Reading or the county, a purchaser, who will erect a house on its site, and keep up this romantic and charming retreat in the same state of order and cultivation in which it is at present stands. Detached villa residences are much needed in this locality, and there are few spots in England presenting such attractions and affording such facilities for this object, whether from the new church, which has lately been erected close to the estate, from its contiguity to the town of Reading, from its easy access from London, and shortly will be by railway communication from every part of the kingdom (which must materially enhance the value of land in the neighbourhood, and of this estate in particular), from the known salubrity of the air, from the delightful drives in the neighbourhood, but above all from the natural and artificial beauties of the estate, which are so well known and highly appreciated by all who have had the good fortune to see it, and which ought but a bold and noble conception, combined with the most refined taste, alone could produce. In order to afford facilities and encouragement to purchasers, arrangements have been made whereby the conveyance of each purchase shall be fixed at a definite and low sum.

Descriptive particulars, with lithographic plans of the estate, are now ready, and may be obtained at the Great Western Railway Hotel; of T. ROGERS, Esq. Solicitor, Friar-street, Reading; of Messrs. SMITH and ALLSTONS, Solicitors, Warford-court, City; of Messrs. HILLIER, LEWIS, and HILLIER, 6, Raymond's-buildings, Gray's-inn; at the White Hart, Bath; of Messrs. FOWLER, Clifton, near Bristol; and at Mr. CHINNOCK'S Offices, 28, Regent-street, Waterloo-place.

Freehold Residence and Premises, St. Peter's-hill, City, for Perpetual Sale.

MR. FREDERICK CHINNOCK is instructed to SELL by AUCTION, at the Auction Mart, City, on WEDNESDAY, JULY 1, at Twelve, a substantially-built and commanding FAMILY RESIDENCE and PREMISES, situate and being No. 19, St. Peter's-hill, Doctors'-commons, having large hall and vestibule, noble reception rooms, and numerous best and secondary bed-chambers, with conservatory behind.—May be viewed any time prior to the sale; and particulars obtained of JAS. TAYLOR, Esq. Solicitor, 15, Furnival's-inn; at the Mart; and at Mr. CHINNOCK'S Offices, 28, Regent-street, Waterloo-place.

Three Freehold Houses, Westminster, producing 59l. 10s. per Annum.

MR. FREDERICK CHINNOCK will SELL by AUCTION, at the Auction Mart, City, on WEDNESDAY, JULY 1, at Twelve, a capital brick-built DWELLING-HOUSE, being No. 2, New Pye-street, Westminster, let to a tenant of long standing, at 27l. 10s. per annum; and two Freehold Houses, being Nos. 17 and 18, Castle-lane, with large gardens in the rear, 70 feet in length, extending to the grounds of Lady Dacre's Charity, and let at rents amounting to 32l. per annum; they occupy a very eligible site of ground in the direct line of the intended new improvements.—Particulars may be obtained of Messrs. HILL and HEALD, Solicitors, 23, Throgmorton-street, City; at the Mart; and at Mr. CHINNOCK'S Offices, 28, Regent-street, Waterloo-place.

Valuable Reversion and Life Policies—without reserve.
MR. FREDERICK CHINNOCK will SELL by AUCTION at the Mart, on WEDNESDAY, JULY 1, at Twelve, a CONTINGENT REVERSION to the Annual Sum of 2000l. after the death of a lady aged 69 years, during the life of a gentleman aged 53, charged upon a competent fund standing in the name of the Accountant-General of the Court of Chancery. Also, a Policy of Assurance in the Law Life Assurance Society, for 3000l. on the same life. And a Policy in the Clerical, Medical, and General Life Assurance Society, for 4000l. on the same life.—Particulars may be obtained of JAMES TAYLOR, Esq. Solicitor, 15, Furnival's-inn; of Mr. Brown, 2, Hinde-street, Manchester-square; at the Mart; and at Mr. CHINNOCK'S Offices, 28, Regent-street, Waterloo-place.

Valuable Long Leasehold Estate in Houses Let on Lease, and Ground-rents well secured, producing a rental of 649l. per annum.

MR. FREDERICK CHINNOCK is instructed to SELL by AUCTION, at the Auction Mart, City, on WEDNESDAY, JULY 1, at Twelve, in Lots, a valuable LEASEHOLD ESTATE, situate on the summit of Notting-hill, constituting the eastern portion of Ladbroke-terrace, comprising four modern Italian villas, each with large gardens, fitted up and finished in a superior style, and let on leases to highly respectable tenants, at rents amounting to 295l. per annum, and two first class semi-detached family residences, with large gardens, producing a rental of 205l. per annum. Also valuable Leasehold Ground-rents, arising from 13 villa residences, situate in Ladbroke-terrace, in the rear of the Uxbridge-road, amounting to 149l. 8s. per annum. The whole held for an unexpired term of 76 years.—May be viewed by permission of C. BERKELEY, Esq. Solicitor, 52, Lincoln's-inn-fields; and at Mr. CHINNOCK'S Auction and Estate Offices, 28, Regent-street, Waterloo-place.

SOMERSETSHIRE.—Torweston Castle, and most important Freehold Estate of 657 Acres, at Sampford Brett, near Williton and Waterhill.

MESSRS. DRIVER have been favoured with instructions to submit to PUBLIC COMPETITION at AUCTION, in 22 Lots, some time in the month of JULY next, all the above most desirable and valuable FREEHOLD PROPERTY, comprising the ancient celebrated domain called Torweston Castle, a most commanding situation, the principal farm containing 390 acres, lying within a ring fence, is now in the occupation of the Executors of the late Mr. Corner, highly responsible and respectable yearly tenants, who have received notice to quit at Michaelmas 1846; the remainder is also in the occupation of most responsible yearly tenants, with the exception of about 150 acres, which have been long since granted out upon leases for lives, most of which have now only one remaining life, so that the expectation of early possession within a few years may be most reasonably anticipated. Nearly the whole of the parish of Sampford Brett is comprised in this estate; the remainder extends into Stogumber and St. Decuman parishes.

The property is surrounded by capital roads, and is distant from Bridgewater and Taunton about seventeen miles, Wat-chill two miles, Minehead nine miles, and Dunster about three miles.

Printed specifications are in preparation, and a future advertisement will shortly appear, announcing the day of sale. In the mean time any further information may be had from Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors and Land Agents, 8, Richmond-terrace, Parliament-street, London.

Three valuable perpetual Advowsons and the rights of presentation to the very desirable Rectory of Iden, near Rye, and the two consolidated Rectories of East Guilford, with Playden, adjoining thereto, in the county of Sussex and diocese of Chichester, subject to the present incumbent's life, aged 65 years.

MESSRS. DRIVER are instructed to submit the above valuable PERPETUAL ADVOWSONS and RIGHTS OF PRESENTATION to PUBLIC COMPETITION, at the Auction Mart, Bartholomew-lane, London, on FRIDAY, the 10th day of JULY next, at Twelve o'clock, in Two Lots:—Lot 1 will comprise the Rectory of Iden, situate at the extreme east of the county of Sussex, and immediately on the border of Kent, two miles from the market-town of Rye, twelve miles from the fashionable watering-place of Hastings, and sixty-one from the metropolis, with which, as well as with Dover to the east and Brighton to the west, there will shortly be a direct railroad communication from Rye. The house is ancient, but, with its extensive modern additions, is in complete repair, and capable of accommodating a large family, and forms a most enviable and capital residence. It is surrounded by its small Pleasure-ground and Garden, and stands perfectly retired about a quarter of a mile from the church, in the midst of the glebe, beautifully timbered. The clear annual income of the Rectory of Iden may be fairly calculated to produce upwards of 800l. after making all deductions for allowance to a curate, and payment of all parochial rates. Lot 2 will comprise the consolidated Rectories of East Guilford, with Playden, situate adjoining to Iden, and are now, and have for a very long time, been held therewith. The clear annual income of these consolidated rectories, after making all deductions for allowances to curates, and payment of all parochial rates, may be fairly estimated to produce about 430l. The present incumbent is aged 65 years.—Printed specifications may be had at the Angel and Star Hotels, Oxford; the Hoop, Cambridge; of Messrs. SMITH and SON, Solicitors, 16, Southampton-street, Bloomsbury-square; at the Auction Mart, Bartholomew-lane; and of Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors and Land Agents, 8, Richmond-terrace, Parliament-street, London.

OATLANDS MANSION HOUSE and few remaining unsold lots for immediate and absolute Sale by Auction.

MESSRS. DRIVER beg to announce to the Public that the above Mansion House and Grounds, comprising lot 1 at the recent auction, containing 97 acres; the adjoining lots 40 and 41, containing together 56a. 2r. 30p.; lot 2, containing 27a. 0r. 20p.; and the smaller lots, 28, 29, 36, 37, and 61, being the only unsold lots at the recent auction, are now upon SALE by PRIVATE CONTRACT; and unless an acceptable offer shall be made for the Mansion House lot previously to the 15th of July next, it will be then subdivided into lots varying from 10 to 20 acres each, and will be submitted for unreserved SALE by AUCTION, together with the lots above enumerated, at the Auction Mart, on TUESDAY, the 4th day of AUGUST, at Twelve o'clock; together with the extensive Manors of Byfleet and Weybridge, and Walton Leigh; and the valuable Building Materials of the mansion-house, grotto, extensive stabling, offices, and premises, will be advertised for sale in lots, in the first or second week in August, thus affording a most favourable opportunity for any of the purchasers of the beautiful sites of this magnificent Oatlands Estate for purchasing these building materials, and thereby saving great expense of carriage of other materials.—In the meantime further information may be had of Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors and Land Agents, 8, Richmond-terrace, Parliament-street.

WOODFORD, Essex.—Higham Hills Mansion House, Park, and Domain, of about 327 acres, and a desirable Farm adjoining, of about 72 acres.

MESSRS. DRIVER are favoured with instructions to OFFER to PUBLIC COMPETITION, at the Auction Mart, near the Bank of England, on FRIDAY, the 10th day of JULY, at Twelve o'clock, in two lots, the above important and valuable FREEHOLD PROPERTY, containing together about 400 acres, most elegantly situate in the parishes of Woodford and Walthamstow, in the county of Essex, and only about eight miles from London.

Lot One will comprise the Manor of Higham Hills, otherwise Higham Bempstead, and the Impropritate Tithes of about 60 acres, together with Higham Hills Mansion House (the distinguished residence of the late Jeremiah Harman, Esq.), delightfully situate in a splendid Park of about one hundred and fifty acres, beautifully undulating, and enriched with unusually ornamental stately oak timber, and extensive sheets of water, commanding delightful panoramic prospects of the surrounding forest and other scenery. The mansion is of very prepossessing character, and of correct and handsome elevation, upon a scale of accommodation and elegance adapted for any nobleman or gentleman of the first distinction. It contains a noble suite of living apartments, comprising two elegant drawing-rooms, brilliant rooms, a capital dining-room, and library, numerous principal and secondary bed-chambers, and all requisite domestic offices, excellent coach-houses and stabling, and abundance of out-offices, and a well of the purest water, with complete ample machinery for supplying the residence, stabling, and other premises. The lawns and pleasure-grounds surround the mansion, and are most tastefully displayed, and beautifully ornamented with choice shrubs and American plants in the height of luxuriance, with wide dry gravel walks. There is also a magnificent conservatory opening from the dining-room. The kitchen garden contains an area of about two acres, entirely inclosed with lofty brick walls fully staked and clothed with choice fruit-trees in full bearing, in which are two vineries and several succession-pits. The park comprises about 93 acres of rich meadow land, ornamented with a spacious lake of about 11 acres, and surrounding the park are about 54 acres of rich forest scenery and highly ornamental timber, with delightful carriage-drives through the same.

Lot Two will consist of a very desirable small freehold Farm, of 72 acres, surrounding the Park, with comfortable Farm-house, and all requisite agricultural buildings, together with the lease of about 16 years (held at a low rent) of a small Farm containing about sixty acres, occupied with and adjoining the park; and a Leasehold Residence, containing every accommodation for a respectable family, with about 30 acres of productive land, held for an unexpired term of about 7 years, at a very moderate rent; the whole forming a most enviable property either for occupation or investment. Immediate possession may be had on completion of the purchases.

To be viewed, with cards only, from 12 to 6 every day (Sunday excepted), which, with printed specifications and plans annexed, may be had of Messrs. TATAMAN and SON, Land Agents and Surveyors, Bedford-place, Russell-square; of Messrs. MABERLY and SON, Solicitors, Bedford-row, and of Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors and Land Agents, 8, Richmond-terrace, Parliament-street. Printed specifications may also be had at the Auction Mart, Bartholomew-lane.

Exceedingly valuable Freehold Property, Storey-lane, Tooley-street.

MR. ROBERTS (of Old Jewry) will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on FRIDAY, JUNE 26, at Twelve, in one lot, an exceedingly valuable FREEHOLD ESTATE, situate on the West side of Surrey-lane, Tooley-street, convenient to the water-side, adjoining Messrs. Scovell's Wharf, and near to Messrs. Baily's the eminent brewers. It comprises extensive premises, with spacious gateway entrance, now subdivided into a warehouse and pottery; the warehouse is let to Messrs. Shurt, at a low rental of 22l. and the pottery to Mr. J. Malt, at the inadequate rental of 20l. Also ten Freehold Houses, adjoining the above, forming a very compact property, let to good tenants at rents amounting to 123l. per annum. The whole of this estate is very substantially built, is surrounded by large establishments, and is in every respect eligible for safe investment.—Particulars may be had of JAMES IVES, Esq. 44, Cannon-street, City; at the Mart; and of the Auctioneer, 7, Old Jewry.

CHURCH-ROAD, EDMONTON.—Freehold Residence and numerous Plots of Building Ground.

MR. ROBERTS (of Old Jewry) will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on FRIDAY, JUNE 26, at Twelve, in lots, a commodious FAMILY RESIDENCE, with portico entrance, and the offices and coach attached thereto, advantageously situate in Church-road, Edmonton, suitable for a Boarding Establishment or private Institution; and a neat Cottage Residence, with large garden, let to Mrs. Legater, who has been in possession many years; also 30 plots of exceedingly valuable Building Ground, adjoining. The whole of the above property is freehold—the building ground is seated high and dry, within a few paces of the High-street, possessing a rich loamy soil, well stocked with fruit and other trees, and efficient drainage, and divided into plots of various sizes, presenting excellent frontages for shops and cottage residences, part having delightful views over the extensive part of F. Snell, Esq. thereby offering eligible investments to builders and capitalists.—Particulars and plans may be had at the Bell, Edmonton; Swan, Tottenham; Three Crowns, Newington; of J. Scarborough, Esq. 19, Tokenhouse-yard; St. Lambert, Surveyor, Coleman-street; at the Mart; and of the Auctioneer, 7, Old Jewry.

NEXT of KIN of the late Reverend JOHN PEDDLE, clerk, vicar of Charlton Horethorne, in the county of Somerset, deceased.—As the solicitors to the Executor of the will of the said Reverend John Peddle, we hereby give notice, that this estate is now fully got in, and the accounts thereof wound up and finally adjusted, and that a sum exceeding 7,000*l.* being the lapsed legacy to Mr. Edward Genge, is payable to the NEXT of KIN of the said JOHN PEDDLE; and that Mr. William Genge, Mrs. Symes, Mr. Thomas Barrington, and Mrs. Elworthy, claim to be such next of kin, as being the only surviving children of the brothers and sisters of the said John Peddle, all of whom are supposed to have died, in his lifetime, and as being the only nephews and nieces who survived the said John Peddle, who died on the 14th day of December, 1839. Any other person claiming to be of the same degree of relationship is hereby requested to give, within one month from the date hereof, notice to Mr. Bowerman, solicitor, of Uffculme, Devon, or to us, in writing, of such claim, accompanied by a form of pedigree and certificates and declarations necessary to corroborate the same. But in order to save trouble and expense, it may be observed that a child of a nephew or niece of the said John Peddle, deceased, whose parent or grand-parent did not survive the said John Peddle, is not entitled to participate with any nephew or niece living at his decease. The object of this notice is to enable the executor to pay over the money without the delay or expense of recourse to the Court of Chancery, if possible, though advised by counsel not to do so.

UNITED KINGDOM LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY.
8, WATERLOO-PLACE, PALM-MALL, LONDON.
Established by Act of Parliament in 1834.

DIVISION OF PROFITS AMONG THE ASSURED

DIRECTORS.
James Stuart, esq. Chairman.
Hananel De Castro, esq. Deputy Chairman.
Samuel Anderson, esq.
Hamilton Blair Avarne, esq.
Edw. Boyd, esq. Resident.
E. Lennox Boyd, esq. Asst. Resident.
Charles Downes, esq.

Surgeon—F. Hale Thomson, esq. 48, Berners-street.
This Company, established by Act of Parliament, affords the most perfect security in a large paid-up Capital, and in the great success which has attended it since its commencement in 1834.

Its Annual Income being upwards of £32,000.

In 1841 the Company added a Bonus of 2*l.* per cent. per annum on the sum insured to all policies of the participating class from the time they were effected.

The Bonus added to policies from March, 1844, to the 31st Dec. 1846, is as follows:—

Sum Assured.	Time Assured.	Sum added to Policy
£5,000	6 Yrs. 10 Months.	£683 6s. 8d.
5,000	6 Years	600 0 0
5,000	4 Years	400 0 0
5,000	3 Years	300 0 0

The Premiums nevertheless are on the most moderate scale, and only one-half need be paid for the first Five Years, where the Insurance is for Life.

Every information will be afforded on application to the Resident Directors, EDWARD BOYD, Esq. and E. LENNOX BOYD, Esq. of No. 8, Waterloo-place, Pall-mall, London.

THIS Office unites the Benefit of a Mutual Association with the Security of a Proprietary Company, and offers to the Assured the following advantages:—

1. Credit until death, with privileges of payment at any time previously, for one-half of the premiums for the first five years, upon Assurances for the whole of Life, a plan peculiarly advantageous for securing Loans.
2. In Loan transactions the lender secured against the risk of the borrower going out of Europe.
3. Sums assured to become payable AT GIVEN AGES or DEATH, if previous.
4. Policies indefeasible; fraud alone, not error, vitiating them; and in case the Renewal Premium remain unpaid, the Assurance may be revived at any time within six MONTHS, upon satisfactory proof of health, and payment of a trifling fine.
5. Officers in the Army and Navy, and persons residing abroad, or proceeding to any part of the world, assured at low rates.
6. Immediate Survivorship, and Deferred Annuities granted; and Endowments for Children, and every mode of provision for Families arranged.

Information and Prospectuses furnished, on application at the office.

Persons insured by this society are not liable to be called upon to contribute towards losses.

Agricultural produce and farming stock (live and dead), and implements and utensils of husbandry, may be insured on one farm, in one sum, without the average clause, at three shillings per cent. per annum free of duty.

In order to meet covenants requiring continuance of rent, notwithstanding destruction of buildings by fire, the Society will grant insurances on rent, the amount being specified in the policy.

Losses occasioned by fire from lightning will be made good.

Insurances may be made for more years than one by a single payment; and in such cases a liberal discount will be allowed on both premium and duty: for instance, insurance effected for seven years will be charged the premium and duty for six years only.

Insurances may be made for a less term than one year at a reduced premium, and the proportionate part only of the annual duty.

Insurances granted for a year or any longer term may be renewed within fifteen days after the expiration thereof.

Persons insured with this Society, and who may suffer loss, will receive their indemnity without deduction or discount.

No charge will be made for the policy where the sum insured amounts to 300*l.*

Attendance given at the Office of the Society daily from Nine till Four, where parties may obtain any further information respecting the terms on which insurances may be effected.

E. BLAKE BEAL, Secretary.

DISEASED & HEALTHY LIVES ASSURED.

MEDICAL, INVALID, & GENERAL LIFE OFFICE,
25, Pall Mall, London, and 23, Nassau Street, Dublin.

Subscribed Capital £50,000,000.

THIS OFFICE WAS ESTABLISHED

in 1841, and possesses tables formed on a scientific basis for the assurance of diseased lives. The urgent necessity for an institution like the present may be estimated by the statement that two-thirds of the population are not assurable as healthy lives, and that about one in five of the applicants to other offices is declined on examination. Of the proposals accepted by this Society during the last three years, nearly 300 had been rejected among upwards of 80 other offices. These cases came under the class of the most prevalent diseases, and the various parties could not have participated in the advantages of life assurance had not this Society been in existence, as it is the only one possessing tabulated rates of premium deduced from extensive data.

Premiums have been determined for the assurance of persons at every age, among those afflicted with consumption, asthma, bronchitis, pneumonia, disease of the heart, apoplexy, paralysis, epilepsy, insanity, disease of the liver, dropsy, scrofula, gout, rheumatism, &c.

These circumstances induce the Directors to believe that by the establishment of this office they have conferred an important benefit upon those whose condition made such a provision as insurance necessary, and they are therefore led to expect a powerful support from the public. Increased annuities are granted on sound lives. Healthy lives are assured at lower rates than at most other offices, and a capital of half a million sterling, fully subscribed, affords a complete guarantee for the fulfilment of the Society's engagements.

SCHIEDAM HOLLANDS.—Owing to the late enormous duty on this beautiful and wholesome Spirit, comparatively very little has been used or known in this country. The Public are, therefore, had no opportunity of testing its merits. VINCENT PUGH, after innumerable experiments and immense outlay in machinery, have at length arrived at that acute distillation which has enabled them to produce a pure and sparkling spirit in every respect to the best Foreign. Vincent and Pugh introduce this splendid matchless spirit to the public for their opinion and approbation, which they trust it merits, not only for quality but price, being enabled to offer it at 4s. per bottle in square Dutch bottles, and 5s. per bottle in the branded VINCENT PUGH'S seal for security as to its genuineness. To be had of all the respectable retail dealers in and about the metropolis, or of their agent, Mr. Charles Hodder, Castle, Moorgate-street, City, and wholesale, Vincent and Pugh, Distillery, 16, New Park-street, Borough, and 10, Rood-lane, City.

The public attention is particularly called to their Pale Brown Brandy, which is allowed to be matchless.

SUPERIOR FOREIGN WINES ON SALE.—142, Strand.—Old Ports, Sherries, Madras, &c. &c., several years in bottle. Private families may be supplied with any of the above wines, selected from the best vineyards and bottled with great care, by J. WRIGHT, late of Mark-lane, comprising many thousand dozens. Finest Old Ports, from three to five years in bottle .. 42s. 48s. 50s. Sherries, various, ditto, ditto .. 38s. to 50s. West India, ditto, ditto .. 30s. to 40s. Superb Old East India .. 60s. to 72s. Very Old Malaise, in plums .. 50s. Brandy ditto, and of the best quality .. 34s. Most of the above may be had in plums, delivered free within five miles of the metropolis.

THE DELIGHTFUL COOLNESS of the GOLDEN FLAX CRAVAT COLLAR, together with its perfect fit, however loosely tied on, recommend it especially to the wearers of the collar. It needs no commendation in one article is combined both collar and cravat. To be had of all hosiers, outstuffs, &c. either in pure white for full dress, or printed in neat patterns suitable for morning dress. N.B. Each Cravat-Collar is stamped "John Paterson, London, Regent-street."

INVENTION OF 1870.

TO avoid piracy and disappointment, ask for HOCKIN'S PREPARATION OF SEDLITZ POWDER in One Bottle, which keeps in every situation. The dose can be apportioned to form a medicine, refreshing beverage, or saline draught, so as to suit all ages and constitutions. It is the FASTESTLY Sold of a natural Spring, and is the best family medicine, as it feeds the blood and system with the necessary saline to prevent cholera, and other bowel affections; it instantly stops sickness in adults and children, from whatever cause arising. A bottle of twelve to thirty doses, 2s. 6d. C. HOCKIN, 39, Duke-street, Minster-square, and 1, Bishopsgate-street Within, London.

SCHWEPPE'S AERATED LIME WATER, an excellent acid, when taken under medical direction; but the Public are cautioned against an indiscriminate use of this water (under whatever name it is sold), as it is not presented upon their notice, as LIME is well known to produce in some constitutions the most distressing and even fatal disorders. SCHWEPPE'S SODA, POTASS, and MAGNESIA WATERS, manufactured as usual upon the largest scale, at their several Establishments in London, Liverpool, Bristol, &c. Each Bottle is protected with a red label over the cork bearing their name. German Sellers direct from the Springs at Naas, 21, Berners-street, London.

THE WEST-END MINERAL WATER DEPOT, 22, Henrietta-street, Cavendish-square, London.

W. BEST begs respectfully to solicit the attention of the Faculty and the Public to his stock of the most celebrated and efficacious MEDICAL PREPARATIONS, as well as to announce to the Public that he has discontinued manufacturing for the above firm, and solicits attention to his present stock of Fire-proof Book-Safes and Chests, Wrought-iron Proof Doors for strong rooms, Fire-proof Jewels Cases, Cash and Steel Trunks, Fire-proof Plate Chests for the safe deposit of all valuables, and in the most superior manner as regards materials and workmanship, all secured by "Leadbeater's Improved Detector Locks," throwing from three to twenty bolts, and sold at prices 40 per cent. under the charges usually made by that firm. J. L. has also completed many substantial improvements in his iron fire-proof articles, which he obtained for the Messrs. Chubb an unequalled degree of celebrity, and offering to the Public advantages which cannot be obtained elsewhere—namely, the very best security for property against fire and thieves—at prices so much reduced, he looks forward with confidence for the support of the Public. J. L. can refer to the testimonials of several bankers, merchants, and private gentlemen, in London and elsewhere, for whom he has erected fire-proof works.—Manufacture, 125, Aldersgate-street, London.

CHUBB'S PATENT FIRE-PROOF and WROUGHT-IRON SAFES and CHESTS.—Attention. As the various institutions of the country are now being fitted up by different makers, bankers, merchants, and the public generally are respectfully informed that no ironmongers, smiths, or furniture brokers are supplied with the above safes or chests, and that they can only be obtained direct from C. CHUBB and SON, the patentees, 57, St. Paul's-churchyard, London.

IMPORTANT TO SOLICITORS, &c.
FIRE-PROOF SAFE MANUFACTORY, 125, Aldersgate-street, City.—J. LEADBEATER, nine years sole manufacturer for Chubb, & Sons, of the above safes and chests, respectfully to announce to the Public that he has discontinued manufacturing for the above firm, and solicits attention to his present stock of Fire-proof Book-Safes and Chests, Wrought-iron Proof Doors for strong rooms, Fire-proof Jewels Cases, Cash and Steel Trunks, Fire-proof Plate Chests for the safe deposit of all valuables, and in the most superior manner as regards materials and workmanship, all secured by "Leadbeater's Improved Detector Locks," throwing from three to twenty bolts, and sold at prices 40 per cent. under the charges usually made by that firm. Chubb an unequalled degree of celebrity, and offering to the Public advantages which cannot be obtained elsewhere—namely, the very best security for property against fire and thieves—at prices so much reduced, he looks forward with confidence for the support of the Public. J. L. can refer to the testimonials of several bankers, merchants, and private gentlemen, in London and elsewhere, for whom he has erected fire-proof works.—Manufacture, 125, Aldersgate-street, London.

YACHTING, DRIVING, and ANGLING.—THE NEW DREADNOUGHT JACKETS and WAFFERS were made up for their use. They will resist the heaviest rain and the fiercest tropical heat for any time, and their durability is equal to their water proof qualities. Trousers, leggings, sun-westers, caps, and gloves, of the same proof, Officers and Gentlemen going to the colonies will find these articles indispensable. Gentlemen who drive should use CORDING'S new waterproof driving aprons and coats, the most serviceable and complete things of the kind, and approved by all who have tried them. Ladies' light riding capes, with hoods and sleeves. Cording's improved sheet and rubber boots are superior to all and find hitherto made for the comfort of anglers and snipe-shooters. They are light, pliable, and never crack; impervious to water for any length of time, and require no dressing to keep them in condition. Patterns and prices sent on application. Any description made by the workmen. London: J. C. CORDING, 21, Strand, five doors west of Temple Bar.

A NEW DISCOVERY.—Mr. HOWARD, Surgeon-Dentist, 52, Fleet-street, begs to announce an ENTIRELY NEW DESCRIPTION of ARTIFICIAL TEETH, fixed without springs, or wires, or ligatures. They so perfectly resemble the natural Teeth as not to be distinguished from the original by the closest observer; they will NEVER CHANGE COLOUR or DECAY, and will be found very superior to any Teeth ever before used. This method does not require the extraction of roots, or any painful operation, and will give support to the teeth that are loose, and is guaranteed to restore articulation and mastication; and that Mr. Howard's improvements may be within the reach of the most economical, he has fixed his charges at the lowest scale possible. Decayed teeth restored, and useful in mastication.—52, Fleet-street. At home from Ten till Five.

LITHOGRAPHY in all its Branches, Writing, Drawing, and Printing, executed in the first style, and on the most moderate terms, at DEAN and CO.'S LITHOGRAPHIC PRINTING OFFICES, 35, 36, to 40, Turell-street, City, where Merchants and the Trade may be supplied with the best German Stones and Transfer Paper, French Chalks, and Inks; and with their improved Lithographic Press, so excellent in principle and construction, that it is warranted to do the finest work with perfect ease and certainty.

DEAN and Co. have devoted the premises, No. 36, to the Stationery Business, where Companies and Merchants may be supplied on advantageous terms.

DIAMOND DUST, direct from the Mines.—Genuine DIAMOND DUST, for giving instantaneously the blindest razor or knife, is now regularly imported direct from the mines of Golconda, the Brasia, and the Uralian Mountains, and may be had at the wholesale depot, 1, Angel-court, opposite Somerset-house, Strand, London, in rosewood boxes (with silver cases) at 1s. 6d. each, and 10s. 6d. each, and at the various agents throughout the world. Diamond dust, it is well known, has been used for many years amongst the nobles of the Russian Court as an indispensable adjunct to the comfort of their toilet. His late Majesty George IV. and His Royal Highness the Duke of Sussex were well acquainted with the peculiar properties and application of the diamond dust, having used it for sharpening their razors for upwards of 20 years. Parties using the diamond dust will never require to have their razors set or ground, the use of the home being rendered perfectly unnecessary. Shippers and country agents supplied on liberal terms. Either of the boxes will be transmitted free to any part of the country.

COCOA-NUT FIBRE.—This substance envelopes the shell of the cocoa-nut, around which it forms a strong protecting work. Man's ingenuity has turned the fibre to account by manufacturing it into many useful articles—such as carpets for stairs and passages, matting for churches, public buildings, offices, nurseries, and kitchens, hearth-rugs, door-mats, ropes, netting for sheep folds, &c. &c. but among the applications the most useful to which it is better adapted than for stuffing mattresses and cushions, as a substitute for horsehair, wool, and flock. It is very elastic, and affords great ease and support to the body, whether used with or without a feather bed. It has also the additional recommendation of being so obnoxious to vermin that they will not live in it; whilst it is a fact well known that wool, flock, tow, and even horsehair, will engender animalcules. Possessing peculiar chemical properties that render it a non-absorbent, the fibre is particularly suitable for those who are fond of cool, and all other domestic, and sea use. Cocoa-nut fibre mattresses are only about one-half the price of those made from horse-hair. Priced lists may be had on application at the warehouse, or will be sent free by post.

TRELOAR, 42, Lodgegate-hill, seven doors from Farringdon-street, and five below Belle Sauvage Inn.

SEA and RIVER BATHING.—Wilson's Patent Life Preserving Coats, Jackets, and Waistcoats. All about to visit the Sea-side will do well to provide themselves with the invention. Many a valuable life has been lost whilst bathing. By the aid of these waistcoats the art of swimming is soon accomplished, and all risk of drowning prevented. They may also be used for rowing. Youths, life full-sized, 21s. Life Coats and Jackets for Yachting, Boating, Voyaging, &c. &c. Wilson, Tailor and Habit Maker, 30, Edward-street, Portman-square.

TO JUDGES OF GOOD COFFEE.
FRENCH COFFEE POTS, now admitted by the New Tariff, are so clever, simple and economical, that they must shortly supersede all others not made on the same principle. By means of these machines a cup of French Coffee is made instantly, hot, brilliant and delicious, the colour of brandy, as Coffee ought to be. There are twelve sizes, commencing at 2s. advancing 4d. per cup, and just as good as if they cost a Guinea.

H. BARKER and Co. Importers, 47, Stamford-street.
COFFEE AS IN FRANCE.—It is a fact beyond dispute, that in order to obtain really fine Coffee, there must be a combination of the various kinds; and to produce strength and flavour, certain proportions should be mixed according to their different properties. Thus it is the astonishment and delight of all who have tasted it, being the produce of four countries, selected and mixed by rule peculiar to our establishment, in proportions not known to any other house.

From experiments we have made on the various kinds of Coffee, we have arrived at the fact, that no one kind possesses strength and flavour. If we select a very strong Coffee it is wanting in flavour; by the same rule we find the finest and most flavoured Coffee are generally wanting in strength; and as they are usually mixed each kind separately, quite regardless of the various properties, the consumer is not able to obtain really fine coffee at any price. There is also another peculiar advantage we possess over other houses—our roasting apparatus being constructed on decidedly scientific principles, whereby the strong aromatic flavour of the Coffee is preserved, which in the ordinary process of roasting, is entirely destroyed; and as we are coffee roasters, we are enabled to keep a full supply of fresh roasted Coffee continually, after the Parisian and Continental method.

The rapid and still increasing demand for this Coffee has caused great excitement in the trade, and several unprincipled houses have copied our papers and profess to sell a similar article. We, therefore, think it right to CAUTION the public, and to state that our superior mixture of four countries is a discovery of our own, and therefore the proportion of each kind is preserved, which is at any other house. In future we shall distinguish it from all others as SPARROW'S CONTINENTAL COFFEE, at 1s. 8d. per lb. Packed in tins of all sizes perfectly air-tight for the country. We have also strong and useful Coffees, from 1s. 1s. 6d. to 1s. 10s. 6d. The Establishments, in Regent-street, adjoining Day and Martin's, leading through into 22, Dean-street.

PURE NERVOUS OR MENTAL COMPLAINTS, CURED ONLY BY REV. DR. WILLIS MOSELEY.

PURE NERVOUS OR MENTAL COMPLAINTS were never cured by any with certainty till the Rev. Dr. Willis Moseley cured himself, and he is the only person now who understands or can cure mental disease as certainly as bodily complaints are cured by other persons. Dr. W. M. has been in the habit of doing this for thirty years, and out of 12,000 applicants in the last twelve years knows not twenty uncurd who have followed his advice. Depression of spirit, inquietude, sleeplessness, involuntary blushing, dislike of society, uneasiness for study, thoughts of self-destruction, and insanity itself are most speedily cured by the EXTRA MEANS of cure at his house, and with no less certainty, but not as soon, at their own. The means of cure are sent to all parts. A NEW PAMPHLET for NOTHING, with cases, testimonials, symptoms, cures, &c. will be sent to any address, and franked home, if one stamp is enclosed. At home from 11 to 3, 18, Bloomsbury-street, Bedford-square.

This Society transacts all the usual business of Life Assurance.

It is based upon a principle which will combine the benefits of Mutual Assurance with the guarantee of a Subscribed Capital of ONE MILLION STERLING.

Whilst perfect security is thus given, the number and character of the Shareholders (consisting of nearly 500 Members of the Legal Profession), will command a large amount of business, and consequent advantages will arise to the Assured.

Tables of Premiums have been prepared expressly for this Office, by F. G. P. NERSON, Esq. F.L.S., calculated on the nearest approximation to the real law of mortality.

These Tables will be found to afford peculiar encouragement to the assurance of young lives. They embrace participating and non-participating scales.

In the participating class, the Assured will be entitled to have four-fifths of the profits divided amongst them periodically, either by way of addition to the amount assured, or in diminution of premium, as the parties may elect. No deduction will be made from such profits for interest of capital, or for a guarantee fund.

The Premiums may be paid half-yearly or annually, or by a single payment.

Assurances may be effected through any respectable Solicitor, or by writing to the Secretary.

The Directors meet on Thursdays at Two o'clock; but Assurances may be effected on any day, by applying between the hours of Ten and Four, at the Offices of the Society, where Prospectuses and all other requisite information may be obtained.
CHARLES JOHN GILL, Secretary.

To Building Societies.—Valuable Leasehold Houses and Shops.

MR. MELVIN will SELL BY AUCTION, at the Mart, on MONDAY, JUNE 29, at One o'clock, in one lot, TWO neat HOUSES and SHOPS, with yards, situate 43 and 45, Kenton-street, Brunswick-square, held for 38 years, at 17l. 10s. each house, let to responsible tenants for three years at 90l. per annum. May be viewed by permission.—Particulars had of S. W. JOHN-SON, Esq., 8, Gray's-inn-square; at the Mart; and at the Auctioneers, Hunter-street, Brunswick-square.

Mile-end-road, Old-Kent-road, Pentonville, Vauxhall, Brixton, Lambeth, Hackney, Walworth, St. John's-wood, and Notting-hill.—Freeholds and Leaseholds, many in single-house lots, for occupation, offering the most favourable opportunity of securing a freehold or leasehold residence; also of purchasing for investment.—To Members of Building Societies, and small capitalists generally, this sale presents itself as every way worthy of the best attention.

MESSRS. BECKWITH and SALMON are favoured with instructions to OFFER TO PUBLIC COMPETITION, at the Auction Mart, on TUESDAY, JUNE 30, at Twelve, in Twenty-five Lots, a compact LEASEHOLD ESTATE, consisting of eleven brick-built houses, forming an entire court, called Swan-place, opposite the Jews' Hospital, Mile-end-road; containing two rooms each, with yards, &c. let to excellent weekly tenants, at rents amounting to about 93l. per annum, and held on lease for about sixty years, at a ground-rent of 24l. This very compact little estate, which is in good repair, and in an undeniable situation for letting, will form a very profitable investment.—A well-built Double-fronted Cottage Residence, with stuccoed front, being No. 1, Byron's-place, St. James's-street, Old-Kent-road; it contains eight rooms and offices, with garden, now on hand, but of the estimated value of, per annum, thirty guineas, and held direct from the freeholder, for seventy years, at a ground rent of six guineas.—An extremely well-built and finished freehold residence, No. 8, Minerva-pl. Old Kent-road, containing ten rooms, offices, and garden, with back entrance; it is in the most perfect order, and its conveniences are such, that to a person of moderate pretensions it offers itself as all they can wish or desire. It is placed in the most cheerful part of the road, facing Hatcham Park, of which it commands a view, as it also does of the beautiful Surrey hills, seen immediately behind the New Cross turnpike, which is but a few yards from the house. The New Cross Station, on the Croydon and Dover Railway, is within a quarter of a mile.—Six very pleasantly and desirably situate freehold brick-built houses, containing each six rooms, and large garden, being Nos. 1 to 6, Grove-place, St. James's-street, New Hatcham, Old Kent-road, of the annual value of 34l. each. This property presents to persons desirous of purchasing a freehold residence an opportunity that rarely occurs, and to members of building societies and others is deserving of attention. Three neatly finished and pleasantly situate residences, Nos. 39, 31, and 32, Brighton-terrace, North Brixton, of the yearly value of 36l. each, two are let, and one is on hand, held for 74 years from 1835, at 4l. each.—Three cheerfully situate and well-built residences, Nos. 9, 10, and 12, Melbourne-square, North Brixton; two of the yearly value of 26l. each, and one of 30l.; two are let and one on hand; held for 57 years from 1844, at 5l. each.—A double-fronted cottage residence, No. 36, Lambeth-terrace, facing Lambeth Chapel, let at 26l. and held for 21 years, from 1836, at 6l.—A dwelling-house and established grocer's shop, No. 46, Vauxhall-walk, let at 30l. and held for 66 years, from 1810, at 5l. 5s.—A capital brick-built dwelling-house, No. 68, White Lion-street, Pentonville, let at 39l. and held for 47 years, from 1837, at 2l. 15s.—An improved ground-rent of 45l. per annum, secured upon ten houses at Cambridge-heath, the rack rental of which is about 170l. per annum, let on lease for the whole term at 55l. 10s. subject to the payment of 10l. 10s.—Twelve very excellent brick-built houses, desirably situate, Nos. 3 to 10 inclusive, CANCEL-street, and Nos. 3, 4, 5, and 6, Doctor-street, Elizabeth-street, near the Pilgrim Tavern, Walworth. They are very conveniently fitted up, and contain each six rooms, with suitable domestic requirements, fore-court, and good garden, let to very respectable tenants, who pay all taxes, at 20l. per annum; held for about 60 years, at a ground rent of 4l. each. This property is well worthy the attention of the capitalist who may wish to invest his capital in a profitable manner, being in a locality that must at all times command respectable tenants.—An exceedingly well-built and handsome detached villa residence, containing nine rooms (the principal ones of noble dimensions), and all suitable accommodation, very delightfully situate, 21, Abbey-road, nearly facing Blenheim-terrace, St. John's-wood, surrounded by its own gardens, inclosed with walls, approached from the road by a gate opening into an extensive fore-court, and commands most beautiful views of the Hampstead meadows. This part of St. John's-wood is studded with villas of various designs, and the one now offered is in every way suitable for a highly respectable family; at present on hand, but of the estimated value of 70 guineas per annum; held for 50 years from 1845, the first year at a peppercorn; the second at 6l. and the remainder at 12l. ground-rent. Two extremely well-built and handsome semi-detached villa residences, situate in Blenheim-road, at the corner of the Abbey-road, in all other respects the same as the preceding, but on a somewhat smaller scale, at present on hand, but of the estimated value of 65 guineas per annum, each held for 50 years from 1845, the first year at a peppercorn, the second at 6l. and the remainder at 12l. each ground-rent. Two brick-built Gothic cottages, Nos. 1 and 3, Queen's-place, Queen's-road, Notting-hill, both let for a term to a respectable tenant, at 40l. per annum, and held for 99 years from 1843, at a ground-rent of 5l. This lot will form a very pretty little investment. May be viewed by permission of the tenants, and particulars had of John Townshend, esq. solicitor, 17, Howland-street, Fitzroy-square; of Messrs. Coots and Son, solicitors, 20, Austin-friars; of Messrs. Smith and Taylor, solicitors, 3, Basinghall-street; of H. Harpur, esq. solicitor, Kennington-cross; of Messrs. Holmes, Loftus, and Young, solicitors, New-inn; of Messrs. Vennings, Naylor, and Robins, solicitors, 9, Tokenhouse-yard; of George Selby, jun. esq. solicitor, St. John-street-road; and at the Bricklayer's Arms, Old Kent-road; Pilgrim Tavern, Walworth; Elephant and Castle, Newington Causeway; Angel Inn, Islington; at the Auction Mart; and of the Auctioneers, 26, Bucklersbury.

ST. JOHN'S WOOD.—A desirable Leasehold Residence, within a few Minutes' Walk of the Regent's-park, for Investment or Occupation.

MESSRS. DAVIS and VIGERS are directed by the Mortgagees, under a power contained in the mortgage-deed, to SELL BY AUCTION, at the Mart, on THURSDAY, JULY 2, at Twelve for One, a COTTAGE RESIDENCE, of neat and uniform elevation, situate and being No. 7, Wellington-road, St. John's Wood; containing five bed-rooms, three reception-rooms, and good domestic offices. It has hitherto been let at 75l. per annum, but is now on hand. The property is held by lease for about 74 years, at 30l. per annum.—To be viewed, and particulars of sale to be had on the premises; of Messrs. STONE and TURNER, Solicitors, Jernyn-street, St. James's; at the Mart; and at the Auctioneers' Offices, 3, Frederick's-place, Old Jewry.

MILE-END.—Very desirable Leasehold Estate, producing a net income of 77l. per annum.

MESSRS. DAVIS and VIGERS are instructed to SELL BY AUCTION, at the Mart, opposite the Bank of England, on THURSDAY, JULY 2, at Twelve for One, in One Lot, a valuable long LEASEHOLD ESTATE, comprising three brick-built houses, with shops, newly and substantially erected, situate and being Nos. 9, 10, and 11, Gloucester-terrace, New-road, Whitechapel, and a large residence adjoining, with extensive range of buildings in the rear, now and for many years past used as a soap manufactory, all in the parish of St. Dunstan's, Stepney; let on lease at very low rentals, amounting to 95l. per annum, and held for an unexpired term of forty-one years, at a ground-rent of 18l. per annum. This property presents itself as a secure investment for capital, the under-lessees paying most punctually, and the rents reserved being little more than improved ground-rents.—To be viewed by permission of the occupiers. Particulars and conditions of sale to be had at the Duke of Gloucester Tavern, New-road, Whitechapel; of Messrs. J. C. and H. FRESHFIELD, New Bank-buildings; the Mart; and Auctioneers' Offices, 3, Frederick's-place, Old Jewry.

WORCESTERSHIRE.—Freehold and Copyhold Farm of 257 Acres, producing 470l. per annum; most desirable for Investment of Money, or for profitable and pleasant occupation.

MESSRS. DAVIS and VIGERS are directed to SELL BY AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, JULY 28, at Twelve for One, that very fertile and superior FARM, called Alstone, pleasantly situated on the eastern slope of the Oxenton hills, in the parishes of Overbury and Bangrove, on the borders of Gloucestershire and Worcestershire, only seven miles from Cheltenham or Tewkesbury, five from Winchcombe, and nine from Evesham, commanding those excellent markets, and within four miles of the Ashchurch station on the Bristol and Birmingham Railway, consisting of 250s. 3r. 13p. of productive arable, meadow, pasture, and orchards, with a roomy farm-house, dairy, cheese-room, six cottages, and other suitable agricultural buildings, now in the occupation of Mr. John Shipway, under a yearly tenancy, determinable at Michaelmas next, at 470l. per annum; and 6s. 1r. 3pp. of woodland in hand; the whole title free, and lying together within a ring fence, and approached by excellent roads. The soil is superior, the situation very good, and the climate unusually mild and favourable to vegetation; indeed, nothing is wanting but skill and capital to immensely improve the returns, and make this a very productive and attractive farm.—May be viewed by leave of the tenant. Particulars and conditions of sale will shortly be ready; to be had of Mr. Vizard, solicitor, Dursley, Gloucestershire; at the Star and Garter, Worcester; York-house, Bath; White Lion, Bristol; Bell, Gloucester; Plough, Cheltenham; Swan, Tewkesbury; Railway Hotel, Birmingham; Messrs. Blower, Vizard, and Parson, solicitors, 61, Lincoln's-inn-fields, London; at the Mart; and of Messrs. HEWITT, DAVIS, and FRANCIS VIGERS, Land Agents and Auctioneers, 3, Frederick's-place, Old Jewry, London.

Three valuable perpetual Advowsons and the rights of presentation to the very desirable Rectory of Idon, near Rye, and the two consolidated Rectories of East Guilford, with Playden, adjoining thereto, in the county of Sussex and diocese of Chichester, subject to the present incumbent's life, aged 65 years.

MESSRS. DRIVER are instructed to submit the above valuable PERPETUAL ADVOWSONS and RIGHTS of PRESENTATION to PUBLIC COMPETITION, at the Auction Mart, Bartholomew-lane, London, on FRIDAY, the 10th day of JULY next, at Twelve o'clock, in Two Lots:—Lot 1 will comprise the Rectory of Idon, situate at the extreme east of the county of Sussex, and immediately on the border of Kent, two miles from the market-town of Rye, twelve miles from the fashionable watering-place of Hastings, and sixty-one from the metropolis, with which, as well as with Dover to the east and Brighton to the west, there will shortly be a direct railroad communication from Rye. The house is ancient, but, with its extensive modern additions, is in complete repair, and capable of accommodating a large family, and forms a most enviable and capital residence. It is surrounded by its small Pleasure-ground and Garden, and stands perfectly retired about a quarter of a mile from the church, in the midst of the glebe, beautifully timbered. The clear annual income of the Rectory of Idon may be fairly calculated to produce upwards of 800l. after making all deductions for allowance to a curate, and payment of all parochial rates. Lot 2 will comprise the consolidated Rectories of East Guilford, with Playden, situate adjoining to Idon, and are now, and have for a very long time, been held therewith. The clear annual income of these consolidated rectories, after making all deductions for allowances to curates, and payment of all parochial rates, may be fairly estimated to produce about 430l. The present incumbent is aged 65 years.—Printed specifications may be had at the Angel and Star Hotels, Oxford; the Hoop, Cambridge; of Messrs. SMITH and SON, Solicitors, 16, Southampton-street, Bloomsbury-square; at the Auction Mart, Bartholomew-lane; and of Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors and Land Agents, 3, Richmond-terrace, Parliament-street, London.

OATLANDS MANSION HOUSE and few remaining unsold lots for immediate and absolute Sale by Auction.

MESSRS. DRIVER beg to announce to the Public that the above Mansion House and Grounds, comprising lot 1 at the recent auction, containing 97 acres; the adjoining lots 40 and 41, containing together 66s. 2r. 39p.; lot 2, containing 37s. 0r. 39p.; and the smaller lots, 23, 29, 36, 37, and 61, being the only unsold lots at the recent auction, are now upon SALE by PRIVATE CONTRACT; and unless an acceptable offer shall be made for the Mansion House lot previously to the 15th of July next, it will be then subdivided into lots varying from 10 to 30 acres each, and will be submitted for unsold lots by AUCTION, together with the lots above enumerated, at the Auction Mart, on TUESDAY, the 4th day of AUGUST, at Twelve o'clock; together with the extensive Manor of Byfleet and Weybridge, and Walton Leigh; and the valuable Building Materials of the mansion-house, pretty extensive stabling, offices, and premises, will be offered for sale in lots, in the first or second week in August, thus affording a most favourable opportunity for any of the purchasers of the beautiful sites of this magnificent Oatlands Estate for purchasing these building materials, and thereby saving great expense of carriage of other materials.—In the meantime further information may be had of Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors and Land Agents, 3, Richmond-terrace, Parliament-street.

WOODFORD, Essex.—Higham Hills Mansion House, Park, and Domain, of about 327 acres, and a desirable Farm adjoining, of about 73 acres.

MESSRS. DRIVER are favoured with instructions to OFFER TO PUBLIC COMPETITION, at the Auction Mart, near the Bank of England, on FRIDAY, the 10th day of JULY, at Twelve o'clock, in two lots, the above important and valuable FREEHOLD PROPERTY, containing together about 400 acres, most desirably situate in the parishes of Woodford and Walthamstow, in the county of Essex, and only about eight miles from London.

Lot One will comprise the Manor of Higham Hills, otherwise Higham Bempstead, and the Improvements Thence about 60 acres, together with Higham Hills Mansion House (the distinguished residence of the late Jeremiah Harman, esq.), delightfully situate in a splendid Park of about one hundred and fifty acres, beautifully undulating, and encircled with unusually ornamental stately oak timber, and extensive sheets of water, commanding delightful panoramic prospects of the surrounding forest and other scenery. The mansion is of very prepossessing character, and of classic and handsome elevation, upon a scale of accommodation and elegance adapted for any nobleman or gentleman of the first distinction. It contains a noble suite of living apartments, comprising two elegant drawing-rooms, billiard-room, a capital dining-room, and library, numerous principal and secondary bed-chambers, and all requisite domestic offices, excellent coach-houses and stabling, and abundance of offices, and a well of the purest water, with complete machinery for supplying the residence, stabling, and other premises. The lawns and pleasure-grounds surround the mansion, and are most tastefully displayed, and the beautiful ornamental with choice shrubs and American plants in its height of luxuriance, with wide dry gravel walks. There is also a magnificent conservatory opening from the dining-room. The kitchen garden contains an area of about two acres, entirely inclosed with lofty brick walls fully studded and clothed with choice fruit-trees in full bearing, in which are two vineries and several succession-pits. The park comprises about 93 acres of rich meadow land, and surrounding a spacious lake of about 11 acres, and surrounding the park are about 54 acres of rich forest scenery and highly ornamental timber, with delightful carriage-drives through the same.

Lot Two will consist of a very desirable small freehold Farm, of 72 acres, surrounding the Park, with comfortable Farm-house, and all requisite agricultural buildings, together with the lease of about 16 years (held at a low rent) of a small Farm containing about sixty acres, occupied with and adjoining the park; and a Leasehold Residence, containing every accommodation for a respectable family, with above 30 acres of productive land, held for an unexpired term of about 7 years, at a very moderate rent; the whole forming a most enviable property either for occupation or investment. Immediate possession may be had on completion of the purchases.

To be viewed, with cards only, from 12 to 6 every day (Sunday excepted), which, with printed specifications and plans annexed, may be had of Messrs. TATHAM and SON, Land Agents and Surveyors, Bedford-place, Russell-square; of Messrs. MABERLY and SON, Solicitors, King's-road, Bedford-row, and of Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors and Land Agents, 3, Richmond-terrace, Parliament-street. Printed specifications may also be had at the Auction Mart, Bartholomew-lane.

Sales by Auction.

Valuable long Leasehold Estate, near Sloane-street, Chelsea, producing a rental of 533l. per annum.

MESSRS. BROOKS and GREEN will SELL by AUCTION, at Garraway's, on MONDAY, JULY 6, at One o'clock precisely, a capital long LEASEHOLD ESTATE; consisting of twelve well-built eight-roomed houses, in Anderson-street, King's-road, Chelsea; held direct from the freeholder under separate leases, for an unexpired term of 97 years, at a low ground-rent, and producing a rental of 533l. per annum. This property presents a first-rate opportunity for the investment of large or small capital, and will be sold in lots. Printed particulars and conditions of sale may be had at the Colville Arms, Colville-terrace, King's-road, Chelsea; Messrs. NATION and NEATE, Solicitors, 4, Orchard-street, Portman-square; and of Messrs. BROOKS and GREEN, Estate Agents and Auctioneers, 28, Old Bond-street.

Isle of Wight, near St. Catherine's, commanding extensive views of the Needles, and the opposite coast to the Isle of Portland.

MESSRS. BROOKS and GREEN have instructions to SELL by AUCTION, at Garraway's, Change-alley, on THURSDAY, JULY 30, at One, (unless in the meantime disposed of by private contract) an elegant and substantially stone built GOTHIC RESIDENCE, with a small Gothic Cottage, and six acres of land, including three excellent kitchen gardens, partially walled. The residence is most romantically situated under the cliff, and has been formed at a considerable cost with judicious taste into pleasure grounds, undulating lawns, ornamented with beds of flowers, clumps of evergreens, native and indigenous flowering and other shrubs, and bordered by young plantations now luxuriantly growing; terrace walks gradually winding up the cliff lead to the caves and hermitage excavated in the rocks, whence most extensive and romantic views are obtained. The residence, erected regardless of expense, is replete with comfort: it has a south-west aspect, and contains porch entrance, stone hall, principal and secondary staircases, three elegant sitting rooms, bath room, five best bed rooms, two dressing rooms, three bed rooms for servants, every requisite domestic office, most extensive stabling with rooms over, and other out-buildings.—Printed particulars may be had at the Fountain Hotel, West Cowes; the inns at Newport and Ryde; and of Messrs. BROOKS and GREEN, estate agents, surveyors, and auctioneers, 28, Old Bond-street.

This Society grants Insurances upon the lives of persons in every profession and station wherever resident.

Four-fifths of the profits are divided among the assured. The rates are calculated on the lowest scale consistent with security, from the Government returns. The payments may be made, yearly, half-yearly, and quarterly, during life, or for a limited period.

Assurances for the whole Term of Life may also be effected upon an Increasing Scale, commencing at a rate much below the ordinary Premiums, and exempt from any augmentation for a period of seven years.

The Board meets every Wednesday, at half-past Three o'clock, to receive proposals and transact other business; but any assurance for which immediate despatch is required may be effected on the same day that it is proposed.

In cases where a life assured by another has gone beyond the limits prescribed by the policy, without the knowledge of the party interested, the Society will, upon its application, and proof of the life being then in a satisfactory state of health (but subject to their medical officers' approval of the risk as applicable to such life), renew the policy upon the same terms as they would have required for its continuance had they consent been previously obtained.

The usual commission allowed to all solicitors.

Surgeon—F. Hale Thomson, esq. 48, Berners-street.
This Company, established by Act of Parliament, affords the most perfect security in a large paid-up Capital, and in the great success which has attended it since its commencement in 1834.

Its Annual Income being upwards of £22,000.

In 1841 the Company added a Bonus of 21. per cent. per annum on the sum insured to all policies of the participating class from the time they were effected.

The Bonus added to policies from March, 1834, to the 31st Dec. 1840, is as follows:—

Sum Assured.	Time Assured.	Sum added to Policy
£5,000	6 Yrs. 10 Months.	£683 6s. 8d.
5,000	6 Years	600 0 0
5,000	4 Years	400 0 0
5,000	2 Years	300 0 0

The Premiums nevertheless are on the most moderate scale, and only one-half need be paid for the first Five Years, where the Insurance is for Life.

Every information will be afforded on application to the Resident Directors, EDWARD BOYD, Esq. and E. LENNOX BOYD, Esq. of No. 8, Waterloo-place, Pall-mall, London.

NERVOUSNESS.—IMPORTANT AND ORIGINAL DISCOVERY.—GIVEN AWAY, a work on the History, Physiology, Treatment, and Cure of NERVOUS COMPLAINTS. Groundless fear, mental depression, wretchedness, confusion, delusions, involuntary blushing, despair, blood to the head, dislike of society, thoughts of self-destruction, restlessness, languor, morbid irritability, and insanity itself, are curable by this important discovery.

Apply to Mr. HENRY NEWTON, 7, Northumberland-street, Trafalgar-square, London, inclosing one postage stamp, for which the book will be forwarded free to every address. At home daily from 11 to 4, and in the evening from 7 to 9. No consultation fee. The remedies sent to all parts of the world. References are permitted to numerous patients of the highest respectability who have been effectually and permanently cured by Mr. Newton's treatment after trying all other means in vain. The remedies are chiefly external, and will not interfere with habits of business or pleasure, or injure the most delicate constitution.

Persons insured by this society are not liable to be called upon to contribute towards losses.

Agricultural produce and farming stock (live and dead), and implements and utensils of husbandry, may be insured on one farm, in one sum, without the average clause, at three shillings per cent. per annum free of duty.

In order to meet covenants requiring continuance of rent, notwithstanding destruction of buildings by fire, the Society will grant insurances on rent, the amount being specified in the policy.

Losses occasioned by fire from lightning will be made good.

Insurances may be made for more years than one by a single payment; and in such cases a liberal discount will be allowed on both premium and duty: for instance, insurance effected for seven years will be charged the premium and duty for six years only.

Insurances may be made for a less term than one year at a reduced premium, and the proportionate part only of the annual duty.

Insurances granted for a year or any longer term may be renewed within fifteen days after the expiration thereof.

Persons insured with this Society, and who may suffer loss, will receive their indemnity without deduction or discount.

No charge will be made for the policy where the sum insured amounts to 300l.

Attendances given at the Office of the Society daily from Nine till Four, where parties may obtain any further information respecting the terms on which insurances may be effected.

SCHIEDAM HOLLANDS.—Owing to the late enormous duty on this beautiful and wholesome Spirit, comparatively very little has been used or known in this country. The Public has, therefore, no opportunity of testing its merits. VINCENT and PUGH, after innumerable experiments and immense outlay in machinery, have at length arrived at that scale of distillation which has enabled them to produce an ARTICLE equal in every respect to the finest Foreign. Vincent has introduced this splendid matchless spirit to the public for their opinion and approbation, which they trust it merits, not only for quality but price, being enabled to offer it at 2s. 6d. per bottle, in square Dutch bottles, with the cork branded (VINCENT & PUGH), and sealed for security as to its genuineness. To be had of all the respectable retail dealers in and about the metropolis, or of their agent, Mr. Charles Hodder, Castle, Moorgate-street, City, and wholesale, Vincent and Pugh, Distillery, 16, New Park-street, Borough, and 10, Rood-lane, City.

The public attention is particularly called to their Pale Brown British Brandy, which is allowed to be matchless.

SUPERIOR FOREIGN WINES ON SALE.—142, Strand.—Old Ports, Sherries, Madeiras, &c. &c., several years in bottle. Private families may be supplied with any of the above wines, selected from the best vineyards and bottled with great care, by J. WRIGHT, late of the celebrated Champagne House of Reims. Finest old Port, from three to five years in bottle . . . 42s. 4d. per bottle. Sherries, various, ditto, ditto . . . 36s. to 48s. West India Madeira . . . 42s. to 56s. Best old East India . . . 60s. to 72s. Very old Malaga, in glass of twelve to thirty dozen . . . 24s. Brandy ditto, and of the best quality . . . 24s. Most of the above may be had in plate, delivered free within five miles of the metropolis.

THE DELIGHTFUL COOLNESS OF THE GOLDEN FLAX CRAVAT COLLAR, which with its perfect fit, however loosely tied on, recommends it especially during the summer. It needs no additional cravat—in one article is combined both collar and cravat. To be had of all hosiers, outfitters, &c. either in pure dress or for full dress, or printed in neat patterns suitable for morning dress. N.B. Each Cravat-Collar is stamped "John Paterson, London, Registered."

Merchants and shippers supplied by any of the wholesale houses in London.

INVENTION OF 1829.
TO avoid piracy and disappointment, ask for HOCKIN'S PREPARATION OF SEIDLITZ POWDER in One Bottle, which keeps in every situation. The Dose can be apportioned to a medicine, refreshing beverage, or for the relief of the most acute ailments and constitutions. It is the TASTEFUL SODA of a Natural Spring, and is the best family Medicine, as it feeds the blood and system with the necessary saline to prevent cholera, and other bowel affections; it instantly stops sickness in adults and children, from whatever cause arising. A bottle of twelve to thirty dozen, from C. HOCKIN, 33, Duke-street, Manchester-square, and 1, Bishopsgate-street Within, London.

THE WEST-END MINERAL WATER DEPOT.
21, Henrietta-street, Cavendish-square, London.
WEST BEST respectfully to solicit the attention of the Faculty and the Public to his stock of the most celebrated and efficacious MINERAL WATERS, consisting of Chablis, Remy, Ribonised, Pulna, Kissingen, Ragatz, Homburg, Seltzer, Fachingen, La Fraze, Grail, and several others. The high testimonials of the first physicians on the continent, and indeed some of the most eminent in this country, respecting the important results attending the use of the above Mineral Waters, has induced W. B. to regard it as his duty to make arrangements with the proprietors of the above Springs, so that Mineral Waters can be obtained from his Establishment without any of the essential properties (especially the proto-carbonate of iron) being the least deteriorated. For further particulars, and for prospectus, which may be obtained at the Depot, Schaeffer's Aerated and Mineral Waters, may be had in any quantity. Agent by appointment to Struve's German Spa, Brighton.

CHUBB'S PATENT FIRE-PROOF AND WROUGHT-IRON SAFES AND CHESTS.—Caution.—As several impostors, in the absence of the name, have been endeavouring to imitate the Chubb's Patent, and the public generally are respectfully informed, that no ironmongers, smiths, or furniture brokers are supplied with the above safes or chests, and that they can only be obtained direct from C. CHUBB and SON, the patentees, 57, St. Paul's churchyard, London.

IMPORTANT TO SOLICITORS, &c.
FIRE-PROOF SAFE MANUFACTORY, 125, Aldersgate street, City.—J. LEADBEATER, nine years sole manufacturer for Chubb's, of St. Paul's Church-yard, begs most respectfully to call attention to his establishment, which is the most extensive and complete for the above firm, and solicits attention to his present stock of Fire-proof Book-Safes and Chests, Wrought Iron-proof Doors for strong rooms, Fire-proof Jewel Cases, Cash and Deed Boxes, Fire-proof Plate Chests, &c. every article of which is got up in the most superior manner, as regards materials and workmanship, all secured by "Leadbeater's Improved Detector Locks," throwing from three to twenty bolts, and sold at prices 40 per cent. under the charges usually made by that firm. J. L. having accomplished many substantial improvements in fire-proof safes, which he has obtained from the Nobility, Gentry, and the Public, and offering to the Public advantages which cannot be obtained elsewhere—namely, the very best security for property against fire and thieves—at prices so much reduced, he looks forward with confidence for the support of the Public. J. L. can refer to the testimonials of several nobles, merchants, and private gentlemen, in London and elsewhere, for whom he has erected fire-proof works.—Manufactory, 125, Aldersgate-street, London.

YACHTING, DRIVING, AND ANGLING.—THE NEW DREADNOUGHT JACKETS and WRAPPERS will be found by Sailors and Sportsmen to be the best articles ever made up for the use. They afford the greatest and the most perfect tropical heat for any time, and their durability is equal to their proof qualities. Trousers, leggings, sand-waters, caps, and gloves, of the same proofing. Officers and others going to the colonies will find these articles invaluable. Gentlemen who drive should use CORDING'S new waterproof driving aprons and coats, the most serviceable and complete things of the kind, and approved by all who have tried them. Ladies' light riding capes, with hoods and sleeves. CORDING'S improved sheet India rubber boots are superior to any thing hitherto made for the comfort of anglers and snipe-shooters. They are light, pliable, and never crack; impervious to water for any length of time, and require no dressing to keep them in condition. Patterns and prices sent on application. Any description of article made to order. London: J. C. CORDING, 231, Strand, five doors west of Temple Bar.

CARSON'S ORIGINAL ANTI-CORROSION PAINT, specially patronized by the British and other Government, the Hon. East-India Company, the principal Dock Companies, and other public bodies, &c. is particularly recommended to the Nobility, Gentry, Agriculturists, Manufacturers, West-India Proprietors, and others, it having been proved, by the practical test of nearly thirty years, to surpass all other Paints as an out-door preservative. Its extensive use for the preservation of wooden houses, farm and other out-buildings, farming implements, park paling gates, iron railings, iron hurdles, copper, zinc, lead, brick, stone, old copper and stucco fronts, and tiles to represent slate. The superiority of the ANTI-CORROSION over every other paint, for out-door purposes, may be easily inferred from the simple fact, that light and dark colours, most strenuously opposed by colour manufacturers, painters, oil and colourmen, and others interested in the sale of common paints. It is also very economical, any labourer being able to lay it on. Colours—light stone, drab or Portland ditto, Bath ditto, light and dark yellow ditto, light and dark green ditto, light and dark blue ditto, black, bright and dark red, and black, 30s. per cwt.; invariable green, 50s.; bright ditto, 60s.; deep green, 60s. per cwt.; in casks, 25 lb., 16 lb., and 12 lb. each. Oil and brushes. More detailed particulars will be sent, free of postage. The ANTI-CORROSION PAINT is only to be obtained of WALTER CARSON (successor to the inventor), 3, Totham-lane, back of the Bank of England, who will show nearly 300 Testimonials received from the Nobility, Gentry, and Clergy, who have used the Anti-Corrosion for many years at their country seats. W. C. is reluctantly compelled to call on the Public against the spurious imitations of his ORIGINAL ANTI-CORROSION PAINT, and to request for sale. He has no agents whatever. All orders are particularly requested to be sent direct.

FURNITURE.—WANTED TO PURCHASE
from 2000 to 5000, worth of SECOND-HAND FURNITURE, in large or small quantities, for which a fair price will be given in cash, without any deduction for valuation and removed at the purchaser's expense. Linen, china, glass, books, pictures, and musical instruments included, if required.
Apply to Mr. J. CHAPMAN, No. 6, Great Russell-street, Covent-garden.—Valuations.

LITHOGRAPHY.—Mr. COON, 15, Cheap-side, begs to inform Solicitors, Auctioneers, Surveyors, &c. that he has commodious offices as above, where he can execute any orders for plans of estates, buildings, elevations, views, &c. with the greatest dispatch and economy. Mr. Coon will be happy to wait upon any gentleman with specimens of his improved style of Lithographing in all its branches.
N.B. Estimates supplied gratis.

THE NEW TOOTH-BRUSH, made on the most scientific principles, thoroughly cleansing between the teeth, when used up and down, and polishing the surface when used crossways. This Brush so entirely enters between the closest teeth, that the inventors have decided upon naming it the TOOTHBRICK BRUSH; therefore ask for it under that name, marked and numbered as under—viz., full-sized Brushes, marked T.P.W. No. 1, hard; No. 2, less hard; No. 3, middling; No. 4, soft. The narrow Brushes, marked T.P.N. No. 5, hard; No. 6, less hard; No. 7, middling; No. 8, soft. These imitable Brushes are only to be had at ROSS and SONS, and they warrant the hair never to come out, at 1s. each, or 10s. per dozen, in leather or 31s. each, or 31s. per dozen, in ivory.

THE ATOMIZATOR, or LIQUID HAIR DYE.—The only Dye that really answers for all colours, and does not require re-doing, but as the hair grows, as it never fades or acquires that unnatural red or purple tint common to all other dyes. Ross and SONS, 119 and 121, Bishopsgate-street, London, the celebrated Perfumers, Perfumers, Hair-cutters, and Hair-dyers. N.B. Parties attended at their own residences, whatever the distance.

BY COMMAND OF HER MAJESTY'S GOVERNMENT, in consequence of the many cures achieved by the constant use of GRIMSTONE'S EYE-SNUFF, manufactured of choice British Herbs. Government having ascertained the above fact, has commanded W. GRIMSTONE, of 434, Oxford-street, to affix a medicinal stamp on all containers bearing the label as sanctioned by the Lord of the Treasury, and approved by the Stamp Solicitor in 1837. That this celebrated Grimstone's Eye-Snuff will be sold by all Chemists and Medicine Vendors, in casks at 9d. 1s. 6d., 2s. 7d., 4s. 6d., and 9s. each, stamp included, and forwarded through the post. Upon receipt of a Letter Order for 7s. 7d., W. GRIMSTONE will be forwarded from W. GRIMSTONE, Merchant, 434, Oxford-street, London.

COMFORT FOR TENDER FEET, &c.
WELLINGTON-STREET, STRAND, LONDON.

HALL and Co. PATENTEES OF THE PANNUS CORIUM, or LEATHER CLOTH BOOTS and SHOES, for Ladies and Gentlemen. These articles have borne the test, and received the approbation of all who have worn them. Such as are supplied with Corns, Bunions, Gout, Chilblains, or Tenderness of Feet from any other cause, will find them the softest and most comfortable ever invented—they never draw the feet or get hard, are very durable, adapted for every climate; they resemble the finest Leather, and are cleaned with common blacking.

The PATENT INDIA RUBBER GLOVES are light, durable, elastic, and waterproof; they thoroughly protect the feet from damp or cold; are excellent preservatives against Gout, Chilblains, &c.; and when worn over boots or shoes, no sensible addition is felt to their weight. Ladies and Gentlemen may be fitted with either of the above by sending a boot or shoe.

Hall and Co.'s Portable WATERPROOF DRESSES for Ladies and Gentlemen. This desirable article claims the attention of all who are exposed to the wet. Ladies' Capasul Cloths with Hoods, 15s. Gentlemen's Dresses, comprising Cape, Overall, and Hood, 21s. The whole can be carried with convenience in the pocket.

HALL and Co. particularly invite attention to their ELASTIC BOOTS, which are much approved; they supersede lacing or buttoning, are drawn on in an instant, and are a great support to the ankle.

COFFEE AS IN FRANCE.—It is a fact beyond dispute, that in order to obtain really fine Coffee, there must be a combination of the various kinds; and to produce strength and flavour, certain proportions should be mixed according to their different properties. Thus it is we have become celebrated for our delicious Coffee at 1s. 8d. which is the establishment and delight of all who have tasted it, being the produce of four countries, selected and mixed by rule peculiar to our establishment, in proportions not known to any other house.

From experiments we have made on the various kinds of Coffee, we have arrived at the fact, that no one kind possesses strength and flavour. If we select a very strong Coffee it is wanting in flavour; by the same rule we find the finest and most flavoursome Coffees are generally wanting in strength; and as they are usually sold at a high price, and are regarded of their various properties, the consumer is not able to obtain really fine coffee at any price. There is also another peculiar advantage we possess over other houses—our roasting apparatus being constructed on decidedly scientific principles, whereby the strong aromatic flavour of the Coffee is preserved, which in the ordinary process of roasting is entirely destroyed; and as we are coffee roasters, we are enabled to keep a full supply of fresh roasted Coffee continually, after the Parisian and Continental method.

The rapid and still increasing demand for this Coffee has caused great excitement in the trade, and several unprincipled houses have copied our papers and profess to sell a similar article. We, therefore, think it right to CAUTION the public, and to state that our superior mixture of four countries is a discovery of our own, and therefore the proprietors of the Coffee are preserved, which in the ordinary process of roasting we shall distinguish it from all others.

SPARROW'S CONTINENTAL COFFEE, at 1s. 8d. per lb. Packed in tins of all sizes perfectly air-tight for the country. We have also strong and useful Coffees, from 1s. to 1s. 4d. The Coffee is preserved in 56, High Holborn, adjoining Dax and Martin's, we shall distinguish it from all others.

HENRY SPARROW, Proprietor.

GENUINE HAVANNAH CIGARS.
EDWIN WOOD, 69, King William-street, City,

A NEW DISCOVERY.—Mr. HOWARD, Surgeon-Dentist, 52, Fleet-street, begs to introduce an ENTIRELY NEW DESCRIPTION OF ARTIFICIAL TEETH, fixed without springs, wires, or ligatures. They so perfectly resemble the natural Teeth as not to be distinguished from the original by the closest observer; they will NEVER CHANGE COLOUR or DECAY, and will be found very superior to any teeth ever before used. This method does not require the extraction of roots or any painful operation, and will give support and preserve teeth that are loose, and is guaranteed to restore articulation and mastication; and that Mr. Howard's improvements may be the means of reaching the most economical mode of procuring them at the lowest scale possible. Decayed teeth rendered sound and useful in mastication.—52, Fleet-street. As home from Ten till Five.

LITHOGRAPHY in all its Branches, Writing, Drawing, and Printing, executed in the first style, and on the most moderate terms, at DEAN and CO.'S LITHOGRAPHIC PRINTING OFFICES, 38, 39, to 40, Threadneedle-street, City, where Merchants and the Trade may be supplied with the best German Stones and Transfer Paper, French Chalks, and Ink; and with their improved Lithographic Press, so excellent in principle and construction, that it is warranted to do the finest work with perfect ease and certainty.

DEAN and Co. have devoted the premises, No. 36, to the Stationery Business, where Companies and Merchants may be supplied on advantageous terms.

DIAMOND DUST, direct from the Mines.—Genuine DIAMOND DUST, for giving instantaneous to the keenest edge to the bluntest razor or knife, is now regularly imported direct from the mines of Golconda, the Brazil, and the Uralian Mountains, and may be had at the wholesale depot, 1, Angel-court, opposite Somerset-house, Strand, London, in rosewood boxes (with instructions) at 2s., 3s., 6d., each; and at the various agents throughout the world. Diamond dust, it is well known, has been used for many years amongst the nobles of the Russian Court as an indispensable adjunct to the comfort of their toilets. His late Majesty George IV. and His Royal Highness the Duke of Sussex were well acquainted with the peculiar properties and application of the diamond dust, having used it for sharpening their razors for upwards of 20 years. Parties using the diamond dust will never require to have their razors set or ground, the use of the hone being rendered perfectly unnecessary. Wholesalers and country agents supplied on liberal terms. Either of the boxes will be transmitted free to any part of the country.

COCOA-NUT FIBRE.—This substance envelops the shell of the milky cocoa-nut, around which it forms a strong protecting net-work. Man's ingenuity has turned the fibre to account by manufacturing it into many useful articles—such as carpets for stairs and passages, country for churches, public buildings, offices, nurseries, and kitchens, heart-rugs, door-mats, ropes, netting for sheep folds, &c.; but among the applications there is not any to which it is better adapted than for stuffing mattresses and cushions, as a substitute for down, hair, wool, and flock. It is very elastic, and affords great ease and support to the body, whether used with or without a feather bed. It has also the additional recommendation of being so obnoxious to vermin that they will not live in it! whilst it is a fact well known that wool, flock, tow, and even horsehair, will engender animals. Possessed of peculiar properties that render it a non-absorbent, and fireproof fibre is particularly suitable for children's beds, for use of schools, in all large dormitories, and at sea. Cocoa-nut fibre mattresses are only about one-half the price of those made from horse-hair. Priced lists may be had on application at the warehouse, or will be sent free by post.

TRELBOAR, 42, Ladgate-hill, seven doors from Farringdon-street, and five below Belle Sauvage Inn.

SEA and RIVER BATHING.—Wilson's Patent Life Preserving Coats, Jackets, and Waistcoats. All who visit the Sea-Side will do well to provide themselves with this invention. Many a valuable life has been lost whilst bathing. By the aid of these waistcoats the art of swimming is soon accomplished, and all risk of drowning prevented. They may be used for rowing, Yachting, Life-saving, &c. Life Coats and Jackets for Yachting, Boating, Voyaging, &c. Life Spancers for Ladies.
R. WILSON, Tailor and Habit Maker, 30, Edward-street, Portman-square.

PURE NERVOUS OR MENTAL COMPLAINTS, CURED ONLY BY REV. DR. WILLIS MOSELEY.

PURE NERVOUS OR MENTAL COMPLAINTS were never cured by any with certainty till the Rev. Dr. Willis Moseley cured himself, and he is the only person now who understands and can cure mental diseases. Dr. Moseley's mode of curing is cured by others persons. Dr. W. M. has been in the habit of doing this for thirty years, and out of 12,000 applicants in the last twelve years knows not twenty uncured who have followed his advice. Depression of spirits, inquietude, sleeplessness, involuntary blushing, dislike of society, thoughts of self-destruction, and many other symptoms, which are most speedily cured by the EXTRA MEANS of cure at his house, and with no less certainty, but not so soon, at their own. The means of cure are sent to all parts. A NEW PAMPHLET for NOTHING, with cases, testimonials, symptoms, &c. will be sent to any address, and franked home, if one stamp is enclosed. At home from 11 to 3, 18, Bloomsbury-street, Bedford-square.

Friday, August 7 Friday, November 6
Friday, September 4 Friday, December 4

Particulars may be had Ten days previous to each sale, at the Royal Hotel, Manchester; the Adelphi Hotel, Liverpool; Dea's Royal Hotel, Birmingham; the Angel, Oxford; the Eagle and Child, Cambridge; at the Auction Mart; and of Messrs. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS, 39, Poultry.

he Sedgell Estate and Farm in Wilts, on the Borders of Dorsetshire, altogether about 310 Acres, in the rich Vale between Shaftesbury and Fonthill, in a famous Sporting Country.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON are directed to OFFER for PUBLIC SALE, at the Mart, in JULY (unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by Private Contract), in two lots, a very desirable FREEHOLD Gentleman's RESIDENCE, on a moderate scale, though capable of accommodating a good establishment. It is a modern house, of a handsome uniform elevation, with all suitable offices, stabling, well laid garden, farm buildings, lodge, &c. surrounded by a very rich little park, studded with fine oak and other timber, commanding some highly picturesque scenery, embracing the finely varied range of hills and domain of Pitt House, the seat of John Benett, Esq. and portions of the Fonthill Estate, together with a valuable Farm adjoining, with all requisite buildings, labourers' cottages, &c. Also (in a separate lot), a highly conditioned and compact Farm, of about 170 acres, in the parish of Sedgell, with a neat farm-house and homestead, all recently put into substantial repair, and let to a highly respectable tenant.—The estates may be viewed by application on the premises; and descriptive particulars, with plans, may be had when the day of sale is fixed, at the inns at Shaftesbury, Salisbury, &c.; of J. BATTEN, Esq. Solicitor, Yeovil; and of DANIEL SMITH and SON, Land Agents, in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall, London.

KENT.—Valuable Freehold Farms in the picturesque and healthy parish of Wrotham, about 23 miles from town, and 11 from Maidstone.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON are instructed by the Devises in Trust under the will of the late Rev. George Moore, to SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, near the Bank of England, about the middle of AUGUST, FIVE very desirable FREEHOLD FARMS, with suitable buildings, cottages, &c. in the beautiful, healthy, and fertile parish of Wrotham, the whole in very high condition, having been for some time past in the hands of the late proprietor, rendering them particularly desirable little properties for occupation or investment. Mr. Harrison, the bailiff, will show the farms; and particulars, with plans, may be had when the day of sale is fixed, at the neighbouring inns; at the Mart; of R. LAMBERT, Esq. 32, John-street, Bedford-row; and of DANIEL SMITH and SON, Land Agents, Waterloo-place, Pall-mall.

Barnet, Herts.—The Remaining Estates of the late Right Hon. Sir William Garrow.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON respectfully announce that they are directed by the Trustees under the will of the late Right Hon. Sir William Garrow, to offer for SALE by AUCTION, at the Mart, in JULY, in lots, several very eligible FREEHOLD and COPYHOLD ESTATES, in and near the town of Barnet; comprising a freehold residence, with gardens and paddocks, &c. in the best part of the town; some very valuable meadows close to the town, and a small farm about a mile distant, in the parish of Shenley, parts on lease at very moderate rents, rendering them safe and desirable objects for investment.—Further particulars will be published with the day of sale, and in the interim every information may be obtained and plans inspected at their offices in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall; or of Mr. H. LEWIN, solicitor, 8, St. Martin's-place, Charing-cross.

NOTICE as to the Great ESTATE of WHITTLESEA.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON are commissioned by the noble Proprietors to announce that the SALE of this very important and valuable FREEHOLD PROPERTY, which was withdrawn last year, will positively take place at the Auction Mart, in September next (unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made). The Estate of Whittlesea lies near the city of Peterborough, and comprises the vast manors of Whittlesea, embracing nearly 25,000 acres, and in which are nearly 200 or 300 copyholders, paying quit rents and fines, the greater part of the flourishing town of Whittlesea, the bank premises, several private residences, inns, shops, &c. being held of the said manor. Also, above 3,100 acres of most fertile land, divided into compact farms, and let at low rents, to a highly respectable and intelligent tenantry, with some very valuable dispersed parcels of land adjoining, and contiguous to the town, portions eligible for building. Also, the Advowson of the Vicarage of St. Mary, and the Freehold Rent Charges in lieu of tithes, extending over nearly 18,000 acres. There is a navigable river and canal through the estate, and the railway from Peterborough to Ely, &c. passes through Whittlesea.—Particulars will be published when the day and arrangements of sale are fixed; and in the interim information may be had of Messrs. JONES, BATEMAN, and BENNETT, Solicitors, Lincoln's-inn; of Mr. JOHN WADDELOW, of Whittlesea, who will show the estates; and of Messrs. DANIEL SMITH and SON, Land Agents, in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall, who are authorised to receive offers for the whole property by Private Contract.

OATLANDS MANSION HOUSE and few remaining unsold lots for immediate and absolute Sale by Auction.

MESSRS. DRIVER beg to announce to the Public that the above Mansion House and Grounds, comprising lot 1 at the recent auction, containing 97 acres; the adjoining lots 40 and 41, containing together 88a. 3r. 30p.; lot 2, containing 27a. 0r. 20p.; and the smaller lots, 29, 29, 36, 37, and 61, being the only unsold lots at the recent auction, are now upon SALE by PRIVATE CONTRACT; and unless an acceptable offer shall be made for the Mansion House lot previously to the 15th of July next, it will be then subdivided into lots varying from 10 to 20 acres each, and will be submitted for unreserved SALE by AUCTION, together with the lots above enumerated, at the Auction Mart, on TUESDAY, the 4th day of AUGUST, at Twelve o'clock; together with the extensive Manors of Byfleet and Weybridge, and Walton Leigh; and the valuable Building Materials of the mansion-house, grotto, extensive stabling, offices, and premises, will be advertised for sale in lots, in the first or second week in August, thus affording a most favourable opportunity for any of the purchasers of the beautiful sites of this magnificent Oatlands Estate for purchasing these building materials, and thereby saving great expense of carriage of other materials.—In the meantime further information may be had of Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors and Land Agents, 8, Richmond-terrace, Parliament-street.

WOODFORD, Essex.—Higham Hills Mansion House, Park, and Domain, of about 327 acres, and a desirable Farm adjoining, of about 73 acres.

MESSRS. DRIVER are favoured with instructions to OFFER to PUBLIC COMPETITION, at the Auction Mart, near the Bank of England, on FRIDAY, the 10th day of JULY, at Twelve o'clock, in two lots, the above important and valuable FREEHOLD PROPERTY, containing together about 400 acres, most eligibly situated in the parishes of Woodford and Walthamstow, in the county of Essex, and only about eight miles from London.

Lot One will comprise the Manor of Higham Hills, otherwise Higham Bempstead, and the Improprate Tithes of about 60 acres, together with Higham Hills Mansion House (the distinguished residence of the late Jeremiah Harman, Esq.), delightfully situated in a splendid Park of about one hundred and fifty acres, beautifully undulating, and enriched with unusually ornamental stately oak timber, and extensive sheets of water, commanding delightful panoramic prospects of the surrounding forest and other scenery. The mansion is of very prepossessing character, and of correct and handsome elevation, upon a scale of accommodation and elegance adapted for any nobleman or gentleman of the first distinction. It contains a noble suite of living apartments, comprising two elegant drawing-rooms, billiard-room, a capital dining-room, and library, numerous principal and secondary bed-chambers, and all requisite domestic offices, excellent coach-houses and stabling, and abundance of out-offices, and a well of the purest water, with complete ample machinery for supplying the residence, stabling, and other premises. The lawns and pleasure-grounds surround the mansion, and are most tastefully displayed, and beautifully ornamented with choice shrubs and American plants in the height of luxuriance, with wide dry gravel walks. There is also a magnificent conservatory opening from the dining-room. The kitchen garden contains an area of about two acres, entirely inclosed with lofty brick walls fully stocked and clothed with choice fruit-trees in full bearing, in which are two vinerias and several succession-pits. The park comprises about 93 acres of rich meadow land, ornamented with a spacious lake of about 11 acres, and surrounding the park are about 54 acres of rich forest scenery and highly ornamental timber, with delightful carriage-drives through the same.

Lot Two will consist of a very desirable small freehold Farm, of 72 acres, surrounding the Park, with comfortable Farm-house, and all requisite agricultural buildings, together with the lease of about 16 acres (held at a low rent) of a small Farm containing about sixty acres, occupied with and adjoining the park; and a Leasehold Residence, containing every accommodation for a respectable family, with above 30 acres of productive land, held for an unexpired term of about 7 years, at a very moderate rent; the whole forming a most enviable property either for occupation or investment. Immediate possession may be had on completion of the purchases.

To be viewed, with cards only, from 12 to 6 every day (Sunday excepted), which, with printed specifications and plans annexed, may be had of Messrs. TATHAM and SON, Land Agents and Surveyors, Bedford-place, Russell-square; of Messrs. MABERLY and SON, Solicitors, King's-road, Bedford-row, and of Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors and Land Agents, 8, Richmond-terrace, Parliament-street. Printed specifications may also be had at the Auction Mart, Bartholomew-lane.

Three valuable perpetual Advowsons and the rights of presentation to the very desirable Rectory of Iden, near Rye, and the two consolidated Rectories of East Guilford, with Playden, adjoining thereto, in the county of Sussex and diocese of Chichester, subject to the present incumbent's life, aged 65 years.

MESSRS. DRIVER are instructed to submit the above valuable PERPETUAL ADVOWSONS and RIGHTS OF PRESENTATION to PUBLIC COMPETITION, at the Auction Mart, Bartholomew-lane, London, on FRIDAY, the 10th day of JULY next, at Twelve o'clock, in Two Lots.—Lot 1 will comprise the Rectory of Iden, situate at the extreme east of the county of Sussex, and immediately on the border of Kent, two miles from the market-town of Rye, twelve miles from the fashionable watering-place of Hastings, and sixty-one from the metropolis, with which, as well as with Dover to the east and Brighton to the west, there will shortly be a direct railroad communication from Rye. The house is ancient, but, with its extensive modern additions, is in complete repair, and capable of accommodating a large family, and forms a most enviable and capital residence. It is surrounded by its small pleasure-ground and garden, and stands perfectly retired about a quarter of a mile from the church, in the midst of the globe, beautifully timbered. The clear annual income of the Rectory of Iden may be fairly calculated to produce upwards of 900*l.* after making all deductions for allowance to a curate, and payment of all parochial rates. Lot 2 will comprise the consolidated Rectories of East Guilford, with Playden, situate adjoining to Iden, and are now, and have for a very long time, been held therewith. The clear annual income of these consolidated rectories, after making all deductions for allowances to curates, and payment of all parochial rates, may be fairly estimated to produce about 150*l.* The present incumbent is aged 65 years.—Printed specifications may be had at the Angel and Star Hotels, Oxford; the Hoop, Cambridge; of Messrs. SMITH and SON, Solicitors, 16, Southampton-street, Bloomsbury-square; at the Auction Mart, Bartholomew-lane; and of Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors and Land Agents, 8, Richmond-terrace, Parliament-street, London.

This day is published, price 5s. 6d. boards; half-bound, law calf, 7s. 6d.; or half-bound and interleaved, 8s. 6d.

Valuable Estates for Sale, in the Isle of Ely and County of Cambridge.

TO be SOLD by AUCTION, by Messrs. CROSS and SON, at the University Arms Hotel, Cambridge, on THURSDAY, the 30th day of July, 1846, at Four o'clock in the afternoon, subject to such Conditions of Sale as will be then and there produced, unless sooner disposed of by Private Contract, a valuable Estate, the property of John Hodson, Esq. situate in Well Fen, in the Isle of Ely aforesaid, and consists of a Mansion, erected within the last few years, lodge, with coach-house, stables, out-offices and buildings, a well arranged garden, sloping down from the Mansion to a rivulet, well supplied with fish, plantations, shrubberies; also a farm-house, barns, stables, &c. all other requisite buildings, cottages for labourers, draining mill; also Five Hundred acres of excellent arable and rich pasture land of the finest quality. The estate lies in a ring fence, and is most advantageously situated, being within eleven miles of Wisbech, seven miles of Downham, and fourteen miles of Ely, and two miles of the projected line of Railway from Ely to Peterborough, and within half a mile is the sixteen feet river, which is navigable into the river Nene, and from thence to Lynn, Cambridge, Peterborough, and other places. The Estate is now occupied by a most respectable and responsible tenant, at the annual rent of 1,120*l.* The excellent productive quality of the land, together with the many other advantages attached to it from its situation and otherwise, will insure to a purchaser a capital investment. The estate will be offered in one lot, and if not then sold, will be offered in the following Lots.

Lot 1 will comprise a building formerly used as a farm-house, and now divided into tenements, barn, suitable out-buildings, stables, and thirteen cottages, and 22a. 2r. 30p. (more or less) of land, of which 207a. 1r. 5p. are arable, and 15a. 1r. 30p. are pasture, and the rest plantation. The property comprised in the above is held under lease from the Bishop of Ely for twenty-one years from 25th of March last, renewable every seven years.

Lot 2 will comprise 25a. 0r. 6p. (more or less) of land, of which 17a. 0r. 17p. are arable, and the rest pasture. The land contained in this lot is copyhold of the manor of Maney.

Lot 3 will comprise the mansion, with the lodge, coach-house, stables, and farm-buildings, and 251a. 0r. 15p. (more or less) of land, of which 183a. 3r. 37p. are arable, and 69a. 1r. 34p. are pasture, and the residue plantation. The property comprised in this lot is also held under lease from the Bishop of Ely for twenty-one years from the 25th day of March last, renewable every seven years.

Lot 4 will comprise two tenements, with out-buildings, and 1a. 2r. 22p. (more or less) of garden ground. This lot is copyhold of the manor of Wisbech Barton.

Printed descriptive particulars may be obtained, ten days previous to the day of sale, at the Offices of Mr. J. G. A. Hamblin, Solicitor, King's Lynn; and Mr. St. Barbe Staden, Solicitor, 14, Parliament-street, London; and of Mr. John Hodson, or the Auctioneers, Wisbech.

This Society transacts all the usual business of Life Assurance.

It is based upon a principle which will combine the benefits of Mutual Assurance with the guarantee of a Subscribed Capital of ONE MILLION STERLING.

Whilst perfect security is thus given, the number and character of the Shareholders (consisting of nearly 500 Members of the Legal Profession), will command a large amount of business, and consequent advantages will arise to the Assured.

Tables of Premiums have been prepared expressly for this Office, by F. G. P. NEISON, Esq. F.L.S., calculated on the nearest approximation to the real law of mortality.

These Tables will be found to afford peculiar encouragement to the assurance of young lives. They embrace participating and non-participating classes.

In the participating class, the Assured will be entitled to have four-fifths of the profits divided amongst them periodically, either by way of addition to the amount assured, or in diminution of premium, as the parties may elect. No deduction will be made from such profits for interest of capital, or for a guarantee fund.

The Premiums may be paid half-yearly or annually, or by a single payment.

Assurances may be effected through any respectable Solicitor, or by writing to the Secretary.

The Directors meet on Thursdays at Two o'clock; but Assurances may be effected on any day, by applying between the hours of Ten and Four, at the Offices of the Society, where Prospectuses and all other requisite information may be obtained.

CHARLES JOHN GILL,
Secretary.

NORTH BRITISH INSURANCE COMPANY, 4, New Bank Buildings, and 10, Pall-Mall East.

Tables of increasing premiums have been formed on a plan peculiar to this company, whereby assurance may be effected for the whole of life, the premium commencing very low, and gradually increasing during the first five years, after which a uniform premium is paid during the remainder of life.

SPECIMEN OF THE TABLES.
Premium for Assuring £100.

Age	First Year.	Second Year.	Third Year.	Fourth Year.	Fifth Year.	Remainder of life
	£ s. d.	£ s. d.	£ s. d.	£ s. d.	£ s. d.	£ s. d.
30	1 3 9	1 5 2	1 6 8	1 8 4	1 10 0	2 10 5
40	1 11 0	1 13 9	1 15 10	1 18 1	1 20 0	2 8 3

This table is not only suitable to those who, from the prospect of an increasing income, or other circumstances, prefer paying a smaller sum during the first few years, but is also decidedly the best mode of insuring with the view of securing the repayment of temporary loans. It is preferable to a period policy, as it may be continued to the end of life, without requiring new certificates of health, or incurring a higher rate of premium.

A Prospectus may be obtained of the Secretary, Henry T. Thompson, esq. 4, New Bank-buildings, or of the Actuary, 10, Pall Mall East.

THIS Office unites the Benefit of a Mutual Association with the Security of a Proprietary Company, and offers to the Assured the following advantages:—

1. Credit until death, with privileges of payment at any time previously, for one-half of the premiums for the first five years, upon Assurances for the whole of Life,—a plan peculiarly advantageous for securing Loans.
2. In Loan transactions the lender secured against the risk of the borrower going out of Europe.
3. Sums assured to become payable AT GIVEN AGES OR DEATH, if previous.
4. Policies indefeasible; fraud alone, not error, vitiating them; and in case the Renewal Premium remain unpaid, the Assurance may be revived at any time within six months, upon satisfactory proof of health, and payment of a trifling fine.
5. Officers in the Army and Navy, and persons residing abroad, or proceeding to any part of the world, assured at low rates.
6. Immediate, Survivorship, and Deferred Annuities granted; and Endowments for Children, and every mode of provision for Families arranged.

Information and Prospectuses furnished, on application at the office. JOSEPH BERRIDGE, Secretary.

DISEASED & HEALTHY LIVES ASSURED.

MEDICAL, INVALID, & GENERAL LIFE OFFICE, 25, Pall Mall, London, and 23, Nassau Street, Dublin.

Subscribed Capital £50,000.

THIS OFFICE HAS BEEN ESTABLISHED

in 1841, and possesses tables formed on a scientific basis for the assurance of diseased lives. The urgent necessity for an institution like the present may be estimated by the statement that two-thirds of the population are not insurable as healthy lives, and that about one in five of the applicants to other offices is declined on examination. Of the proposals accepted by this Society during the last three years, nearly 300 had been rejected among upwards of 80 other offices. These cases came under the class of the most prevalent diseases, and the various parties could not have participated in the advantages of life assurance had not this Society been in existence, as it is the only one possessing tabulated rates of premium deduced from extensive data.

Premiums have been determined for the assurance of persons at every age, among those afflicted with consumption, asthma, bronchitis, pneumonia, disease of the heart, apoplexy, paralysis, epilepsy, insanity, disease of the liver, dropsy, scrofula, gout, rheumatism, &c.

These circumstances induce the Directors to believe that by the establishment of this office they have conferred an important benefit upon those whose condition made such a provision as assurance necessary, and they are therefore led to expect a powerful support from the public. Increased annuities are granted on unsound lives. Healthy lives are assured at lower rates than at most other offices, and a capital of half a million sterling, fully subscribed, affords a complete guarantee for the fulfilment of the Society's engagements.

Hamilton Blair Ayrton, esq.
Edw. Boyd, esq. Resident.
E. Lennox Boyd, esq. Asst. Resident.
Charles Downes, esq.
Surgeon—F. Hale Thomson, esq. 48, Berners-street.

This Company, established by Act of Parliament, affords the most perfect security in a large paid-up Capital, and in the great success which has attended it since its commencement in 1834.

Its Annual Income being upwards of £52,000.

In 1841 the Company added a Bonus of 21. per cent. per annum on the sum insured to all policies of the participating class from the time they were effected.

The Bonus added to policies from March, 1834, to the 31st Dec. 1840, is as follows:—

Sum Assured.	Time Assured.	Sum added to Policy
£5,000	6 Yrs. 10 Months.	£683 6s. 8d.
5,000	6 Years	000 0 0
5,000	4 Years	400 0 0
5,000	2 Years	300 0 0

The Premiums nevertheless are on the most moderate scale, and only one-half need be paid for the first five years, where the Insurance is for Life.

Every information will be afforded on application to the Resident Directors, EDWARD BOYD, Esq. and E. LENNOX BOYD, Esq. of No. 8, Waterloo-place, Pall-mall, London.

CARVING IN WOOD.—The important reduction in the price of carving in wood, and the excellent process enables the proprietors to encourage the prevailing taste by supplying the most exquisite specimens of genius in the Gothic, Elizabethan, French, and Italian styles, adapted to all architectural purposes, picture frames, and every possible variety of elaborate decoration. The proprietors solicit an inspection of the specimens executed by this simple and beautiful process, at their offices, 44, West Strand, or at their works, Ranelagh-road, Thames-bank. Published by J. Weale, 59, Holborn, Parts I., II., III., and IV. price 3s. each (to be continued), containing specimens drawings of elaborate Carvings in Wood, produced by the Patent Wood Carving Company, 44, West Strand.

TONIC MILK OF ORANGE.—A Delicious Cordial, and sweetener of the breath. Patented by the Royal Family and Nobility, and recommended by the faculty. The Milk of Orange (warmed to be extracted from fruit), warms the stomach, creates an appetite, digests the food, strengthens the lungs, clears and improves the Voice for Singing, cures the asthma, dispels nervous debility, and purifies and sweetens the breath. It is particularly recommended to gentlemen on leaving home in the morning or after smoking a cigar, while on its way it will be equally grateful on going to a party or ball, for its invigorating influence on the mind and spirits, and its refreshing effect on the organs of health. It may be added, that as a lively but gentle stimulant wholly unmixing with spirituous ingredients, it will prove extremely grateful to that numerous class of persons who, on principles of abstinence refrain from all intoxicating drinks.
 Prepared by A. ROWLAND and SON, 20, Hutton-garden, London. Bottles, 2s. 9d., 1s. 4d., 6d., Quarts, 9s. Sold by them, and by chemists and perfumers.

SCHIEDAM HOLLANDS.—Owing to the late enormous sale of this beautiful and wholesome Spirit, comparatively very little has been used or known in this country. VINCENT and PUGLI, after innumerable experiments and immense outlay in machinery, have at length arrived at that state of distillation which has enabled them to produce a spirit of the purest quality, and the most perfect in its nature. Vincent and PUGLI introduce this splendid matchless spirit to the public for their opinion and approbation, which they trust it merits, not only for quality but price, being enabled to offer it at 2s. 6d. per bottle, in square Dutch bottles, with the cork branded "VINCENT & PUGLI," and sealed for security by its genuine seal. To be had of all the respectable retail dealers in and about the metropolis, or of their agent, Mr. Charles Hodder, Castle, Moorgate-street, City, and wholesale, Vincent and PUGLI, Distillers, 16, New Park-street, Borough-lane, City.
 The public attention is particularly called to their Pale Brown British Brandy, which is allowed to be matchless.

YACHTING, DRIVING, AND ANGLING.—THE NEW DREADNOUGHT COATS AND CAPES, made by J. C. CORDING, will be found by Sailors and Sportsmen to be the best articles ever made up for their use. They will resist the heaviest rain and the fiercest tropical heat for any time, and their durability is equal to their waterproof qualities. Trousers, leggings, sou'-westers, caps, and gloves, of the same proofing. Officers and others going to the colonies will find these articles invaluable. Gentlemen who drive should use CORDING'S new waterproof driving aprons and boots, the most sensible and complete things of the kind, and approved by all who have tried them. Ladies' light riding caps, with hoods and sleeves. CORDING'S improved sheet India rubber boots are superior to any thing hitherto made for the comfort of the rider and the horse. They are light, pliable, and never crack; impervious to water, and of great length of time, and require no dressing to keep them in condition. Patterns and prices sent on application. Any description of article made to order. London: J. C. CORDING, 231, Strand, five doors west of Temple Bar.

COFFEE AS IN FRANCE.—It is a fact beyond dispute, that in order to obtain really fine Coffee, there must be a combination of the various kinds; and to produce strength and flavor, certain proportions should be mixed according to their different properties. This it is we have become convinced, for our selections of Coffee at 1s. 8d. which is the astonishment and delight of all who have tasted it, being the produce of four countries, selected and mixed by rule peculiar to our establishment, in proportions not known to any other house.

From experiments we have made in the various kinds of Coffee, we have arrived at the fact, that no one kind possesses strength and flavor. If we select a very strong Coffee it is wanting in flavor; by the same rule we find the finest and most flavoured Coffees are generally wanting in strength; and as they are usually sold each separately, quite regardless of their various properties, the consumer is not able to obtain really fine coffee at any price. There is also another peculiar advantage we possess over other houses—our roasting apparatus being constructed on decidedly scientific principles, whereby the strong aromatic flavor of Coffee is preserved, and the oil, and the means of roasting, is entirely destroyed; and as we are coffee roasters, we are enabled to keep a full supply of fresh roasted Coffee continually, after the Parisian and Continental method.

The increasing demand for this Coffee has caused great excitement in the trade, and several unprincipled houses have copied our papers and profess to sell a similar article. We, therefore, think it right to CAUTION the public, and to state that our superior mixture of four countries is a discovery of our own, and therefore the proportions are not known, and can be had at any other house. In future we shall distinguish it from all others as SPARROW'S CONTINENTAL COFFEE, at 1s. 8d. per lb. Packed in this of all sizes perfectly air-tight for the country. We also sell a strong Coffee at 1s. 4d. per lb. Tea Establishment, 56, High Holborn, adjoining Day and Martin's, leading through into 22, Dean-street.
 HENRY SPARROW, Proprietor.

HATCHAM GROVE.—A capital MANSION, and about 17 Acres of Ornamental Land, only about Three Miles from London-bridge.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, opposite the Bank, on TUESDAY, JULY 21, at Twelve for One, in Three Lots; a most valuable and beautiful ESTATE, comprising a capital mansion, and about 17 acres of valuable and ornamental land, known as Hatcham-grove, situate about three miles from London-bridge, upon the high road, at the junction of the Queen's-road (late Deptford-lane) and the Old Kent-road, near the New-cross station on the Croydon Railway. The residence is approached by a lodge entrance and carriage drive-through an avenue of fine trees, which give an interesting tone to the spot. The ornamental grounds that encircle the dwelling, the beautiful foliage that secluded it from the road, and the peculiar charm that pervades the whole place, lead the mind, at once, far distant from the "busy hum" of London life. The mansion is commanding, spacious, and built in a superior manner, sufficiently modern to secure all the ornamental decoration and comfort which good taste can desire, and not too new to present to the eye that sombre beauty and interesting tone which no seat can possess but in its mature years. There is stabling for seven horses, and standings for four carriages. The dining and drawing rooms open behind on to a lawn and very large and beautiful grounds, ornamentally laid out and adorned with choice shrubberies, which afford that coolness in summer, and warmth of appearance in winter, so congenial with good taste. The close contiguity of the property to New-cross Station, its distance of only three miles from London Bridge, the high respectability of the neighbourhood, the country-like scenery and beauty of the spot, together with the healthfulness of the locality, would infuse constantly unspeakable delight into the mind of the pursuer who might choose to reside there, even should he be one whose professional engagements tend to harass him, or whose mercantile transactions absorb his mind, and tend to deaden the sensibility of his heart; or a member of Parliament, too much concerned in the affairs of his country, too intent upon posthumous fame to spare time to feel that serene quiet which is the real enjoyment of life, and which can be daily experienced in a high degree only through the facilities of quick transition from the excitement of London life to such a delightful home as Hatcham Grove.—Particulars will be ready in due time, and may be obtained of AMBROSE CLARE, Esq. Solicitor, 5, Sise-lane, City, and at the Offices of Mr. SINGLE, Land Agent, 34, Colman-street, City.

Twelve Acres Freehold, near Lee and Lewisham, in Lots.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, JULY 21, at Twelve for One, about TWELVE ACRES OF FREEHOLD BUILDING LAND, delightfully situate on an inclined plane, with an extensive frontage on the public road; at Further-green, Lewisham, about a mile from Lee, and near to where an intended railway is likely to have a station. The estate will be divided into small and large lots, presenting valuable frontages on serpentine roads and groves, which will be desirable for residences. Lee and Lewisham and the neighbourhood are most improving places; and when some of this land is built upon, the rest will be worth more than double its present value. Particulars may be obtained of Mr. GROVES, Solicitor, Charlotte-street, Bedford-square; at the Inns in the neighbourhood; and at the office of Mr. SINGLE, Land Agent, 34, Coleman-street, City.

IN THE COUNTY OF DURHAM.—The Wolsingham Park Estate, Freehold, comprising about 2,400 acres of Arable, Meadow, Pasture, and beautiful Wood and Moor Land, with invaluable Freestone, and perhaps Ironstone; and a river and a railway passing through it.

MR. SINGLE will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, JULY 21, at One precisely, the valuable and highly improvable FREEHOLD ESTATE, known as the Wolsingham Park Estate, comprising about 2,400 acres of arable, meadow, pasture, wood, and moor land, situate only about three quarters of a mile from the Hexham and Corbridge turnpike-road, and two and a half or three from Wolsingham, and four from Stanhope, both excellent market towns, about seventeen miles from the city of Durham, and eighteen from Newcastle-on-Tyne, possessing the advantages of a railway through it. There are but two tenants on the estate, and they hold yearly at trifling rentals. The rental from the property at present is only about 440*l. per annum, which gives no idea of its estimated rental; and a large portion of the estate is in hand. The whole lies within a ring fence on either side of the "Waskerley," a river having its rise at one end of, and winding in meandering beauty through the estate, and discharging itself into the river Wear. On one side of the river are beautiful hanging woods and improvable land, on the other good old pasture and arable land, capable of great improvement, lying principally on an inclined plane towards the river, presenting therefore peculiar facilities for drainage, by which the estate might in a short time be made by ordinary good management to produce double the present annual rental with only a trifling outlay, as there is an invaluable slate or stone quarry on the estate, affording materials for drainage at but little cost, as well as valuable stone for other purposes. There are nearly 400 acres of thriving wood land, and the railway which passes through the estate has two stations on the property; there are three farm-houses with homesteads, all stone-built, and a residence capable of being made a snug sporting-box, lying open to the warm south, and to one of those delightfully picturesque views peculiar to some of the most favoured parts of the county of Durham. There is famous trout-fishing in the river, first-rate grouse and other shooting on the estate, and fox-hunting in the neighbourhood. The property has for many years been in the hands of a London gentleman, who has neither advantageously let it, or in any way attempted to it; it offers, therefore, to capitalists an opportunity which seldom occurs for investing money in an improving property. It is believed that a few thousand pounds might be made by improving the land, &c. and a few hundred thousands by the minerals. The tenants on the estate will point out the property, and full particulars, with maps of the estate, will be ready in due time, and may be obtained of AMBROSE CLARE, Esq. Solicitor, 5, Sise-lane, City, London; of JOHN T. HOYLE, Esq. Solicitor, Newcastle-on-Tyne; and of Mr. SINGLE, Land Agent, 34, Coleman-street, City.

WORCESTERSHIRE.—Freehold and Copyhold Farm of 257 Acres, producing 470*l.* per annum; most desirable for Investment, or for profitable and pleasant occupation.

MESSRS. DAVIS and VIGERS are directed to SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, JULY 28, at Twelve for One, that very fertile and superior FARM, called Alstone, pleasantly situated on the eastern slope of the Oxenton hills, in the parishes of Overbury and Bangrove, on the borders of Gloucestershire and Worcester, only seven miles from Cheltenham and Tewkesbury, five from Winchcombe, and nine from Evesham, commanding those excellent markets, and within four miles of the Ashchurch station of the Bristol and Birmingham Railway, consisting of 350a. 3r. 13p. of productive arable, meadow, and pasture land, and orchards, with a roomy farm-house, dairy, cheese-room, eight cottages, and other suitable agricultural buildings, now in the occupation, of Mr. John Shipway, under a yearly tenancy, determinable at Michaelmas next, at 47*l.* per annum; and 6a. 1r. 29p. of freehold woodland in hand; the whole tithe free, lying together, and approached by excellent roads. The soil is superior, the situation very good, and the climate unusually mild and favourable; indeed, nothing is wanting but skill and capital to immensely improve the returns, and to make this a very productive and attractive farm.—May be viewed by leave of the tenant. Particulars and conditions of sale may be had of Mr. VIZARD, Solicitor, Dursley, Gloucestershire; at the Star and Garter, Worcester; York-house, Bath; White Lion, Bristol; Bell, Gloucester Plough, Cheltenham; Swan, Tewkesbury; Railway Hotel, Birmingham; Messrs. BLOWER, VIZARD, and PARSON, Solicitors, 61, Lincoln's-inn-fields, London; at the Mart; and of Messrs. HEWITT, DAVIS, and FRANCIS, VIGERS, Land Agents and Auctioneers, 3, Frederick's-place, Old Jewry, London.

Periodical Sale of Reversions, Life Interests, Annuities, Life Policies, Advowsons, Next Presentations, and all descriptions of Securities dependent upon human life, Ground and Improved Rents, Post Obit Bonds, Shares in Railways, Mines, Insurance Companies, and all other public undertakings.

MR. MARSH (late Fuller and Marsh) respectfully informs the Public, that his PERIODICAL SALES by AUCTION of the above description of PROPERTY will be continued throughout the present year as follows:—

Thursday, August 6. Thursday, October 1.
Thursday, September 3. Thursday, November 5.
Thursday, December 3.

Notice of sales intended to be effected by the above means should be forwarded to Mr. MARSH 14 days prior to each date.—No. 27, Bucklersbury, corner of Charlotte-row, Mansion-house, London.

CLAREMONT, near SOUTHAMPTON.—A delightfully situate and modern spacious Villa, with beautifully planted grounds, &c. the whole being freehold, and within two miles of the town, and commanding grand views of the river, Isle of Wight, and the New Forest, with immediate possession.

MESSERS. DANIEL SMITH and SON are directed to OFFER for PUBLIC SALE, at the Mart, near the Bank of England, on — AUGUST, at Two, unless previously disposed of by private contract, the above very desirable and beautifully situated FREEHOLD RESIDENCE, on a commanding elevated part of Millbrook, within a short distance of the church, and only two miles from Southampton. The mansion is modern, and contains rooms of very handsome dimensions, and ample large airy bedrooms, with dressing-rooms, water-closets, two staircases, all finished with excellent taste and in a superior manner. The domestic offices are very convenient; the grounds, comprising about nine acres, are well laid out, and ornamentally planted. There is a productive walled garden, good stabling, and various out-offices, and the whole very complete, with excellent fixtures, &c. and in the most perfect order both as to repairs and decoration, and fit for instant possession. The estate may be viewed by application to Mr. Perkins, upholder, Southampton, of whom particulars may be had; also at the chief hotels at Southampton; at the Auction Mart; of Messrs. Coombs and Son, Solicitors, Dorchester; of Messrs. Walker and Grant, Solicitors, King's-road, Gray's-inn-lane; and of Messrs. DANIEL SMITH and SON, Waterloo-place, Pall-mall, who are fully authorized to treat for the sale.

The Estate of New Place, with its Mansion and famous Trout Fishery, close to Alresford, Hants, about eight miles from Winchester and 18 from Southampton.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON are commissioned to SELL by AUCTION: at the Mart, in AUGUST next, the above valuable FREEHOLD PROPERTY; comprising the mansion of New Place, the prominent feature amidst the picturesque scenery on approaching the town of Alresford from Winchester, at present occupied by Lady Paxton, who will give early planted grounds, having an extensive and important view upon the high road, from which it is screened by ornamental plantations. The estate comprises, in a most perfect and compact ring fence, about 1000 acres, of which there are some 200 in the lower or north side for a mile, including some of the best trout fishing in the county. It is remarkably healthy and a famous sporting part of the country. — It may be viewed with cards, which, with particulars and lithographic plans, may be had at Messrs. Jacob and Johnson's Library, Winchester; at the hotels, Southampton; at the Mart; of Messrs. DUNN, HOPKINS, and CARTER, Solicitors, Alresford; and of Messrs. DANIEL SMITH and SON, Land Agents, in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall.

SURREY.—TO be SOLD a most excellent and gentlemanly FREEHOLD MANSION, about 11 miles from London, near a railroad, upon a dry grassy site with about 60 acres of land, very fine ornamental timber, and a handsome sheet of water, good gardens, grape-houses, ice-house, warm and cold baths, and every luxury and comfort that can be desired. The house is in perfect repair, and contains handsome drawing and dining rooms, library, billiard and morning rooms, all of good proportion, and averaging about 30 feet by 20 each. The situation is dry, healthy, and airy, and there is a constant and ample supply of the finest water. The handsome furniture may be had with the house.—Apply to Messrs. DANIEL SMITH and SON, Land Agents, in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall.

The beautiful and important Estate of MAER, in Staffordshire.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON
respectfully apprise the public that the late negotiation for this very valuable and beautiful property having terminated by the trustees rejecting the offer made, the Estate is now fully open to Treaty. It comprises a comfortable mansion, and a singularly compact and richly diversified domain of about 1,100 acres, embellished by a splendid lake, and beautiful woodlands and plantations, affording delightful and extensive drives and rides amidst grand and highly picturesque scenery. The manor well stocked with game. The advowson and great portion of the tithes ap-pertain to the property.—Particulars and plans may be seen, and every information obtained, at their offices, in Washington-place, Pall-mall.

CAMBRIDGESHIRE.—To be SOLD, by PRIVATE CONTRACT, a valuable FREEHOLD ESTATE, comprising a capital Farm-house and Offices, with walled-in Gardens and Paddocks, and upwards of 400 acres of rich arable and pasture Land of very superior quality. The agricultural buildings are most substantial and replete with every convenience for an extensive concern. There is also a good malling of twenty-five cows, and with ample barley and malt chambers, and a newly erected wind corn-mill driving two pair of stones, a Scotch mill, and a miller's cottage and garden, and a blacksmith's shop, and a large barn, with a walk for eighteen scores, and also a right of sheep-walk, which, in the east, of an extensive open field, which, in the east, of an extensive open field, would entitle the proprietor to a large and valuable allotment. The estate has for many years been in the hands of the proprietors; and, from its excellent condition, and very superior quality of soil, forms an investment for the capitalist rarely to be met with.—For price and further particulars, apply to Mr. READ, Solicitor, Middle-mall, South, or to Messrs. JONES, BRINDER, JUDWAY, and STUBBS, Solicitors, 1, John-street, Bedford-row, London.

Valuable Estates for Sale, in the Isle of Ely and County of Cambridge.

TO BE SOLD BY AUCTION, by Messrs.

CROSS and SON, at the University Arms Hotel, Cambridge, on THURSDAY, the 30th day of July, 1846, at Four o'clock in the afternoon, subject to such Conditions of Sale as will be then and there produced, unless sooner disposed of by Private Contract, a valuable Estate, the property of John Hodson, Esq. situate in Well Fen, in the Isle of Ely aforesaid, and consists of a Mansion, erected within the last few years, lodge, with coach-house, stables, out-offices and buildings, a well arranged garden, sloping down from the Mansion to a rivulet, well supplied with fish, plantations, shrubberies; also a farm-house, barns, stables, and all other requisite buildings, cottages for labourers, draining mill; also Five Hundred acres of excellent arable and rich pasture land of the finest quality. The estate lies in a ring fence, and is most advantageously situated, being within eleven miles of Wisbech, seven miles of Downham, and fourteen miles of Ely, and two miles of the projected line of Railway from Ely to Peterborough, and within half a mile is the sixteen feet river, which is navigable into the river Nene, and from thence to Lynn, Cambridge, Peterborough, and other places. The Estate is now occupied by a most respectable and responsible tenant, at the annual rent of 1,120*l*. The excellent productive quality of the land, together with the many other advantages attached to it from its situation and otherwise, will insure to a purchaser a capital investment. The estate will be offered in one lot, and if not then sold, will be offered in the following Lots.

Lot 1 will comprise a building formerly used as a farm-house, and now divided into tenements, barn, suitable out-buildings, stables, and thirteen cottages, and 224*l*. 3s. 3d. (more or less) of land, of which 207*l*. 1s. 6d. are arable, and 15*l*. 1s. 3d. are pasture, and the rest plantation. The property comprised in the above is holden under lease from the Bishop of Ely for twenty-one years from 25th of March last, renewable every seven years.

Lot 2 will comprise 25*l*. 0*l*. 6d. (more or less) of land, of which 17*l*. 0*l*. 17d. are arable, and the rest pasture. The land contained in this lot is copyhold of the manor of Maney.

Lot 3 will comprise the mansion, with the lodge, coach-house, stables, and farm-buildings, and 251*l*. 0*l*. 16d. (more or less) of land, of which 188*l*. 3*l*. 3d. are arable, and 59*l*. 1*l*. 3d. are pasture, and the residue plantation. The property comprised in this lot is also holden under lease from the Bishop of Ely for twenty-one years from the 25th day of March last, renewable every seven years.

Lot 4 will comprise two tenements, with out-buildings, and 1*l*. 2*l*. 22d. (more or less) of garden ground. This lot is copyhold of the manor of Wisbech Barton.

Printed descriptive particulars may be obtained, ten days previous to the day of sale, at the Offices of Mr. J. O. Smeatham, Solicitor, King's Lynn; and Mr. St. Barbe Sladen, Solicitor, 14, Parliament-street, London; and of Mr. John Hodson, or the Auctioneers, Wisbech.

This Society grants Insurances upon the lives of persons in every profession and station wherever resident.

Four-fifths of the profits are divided among the assured. The rates are calculated on the lowest scale consistent with security from the Government returns. The payments may be made, yearly, half-yearly, and quarterly, during life, or for a limited period.

Assurances for the whole Term of Life may also be effected upon an Increasing Scale, commencing at a rate much below the ordinary Premiums, and exempt from any augmentation for a period of seven years.

The Board meets every Wednesday, at half-past Three o'clock, to receive proposals and transact other business; but any assurance for which immediate despatch is required may be effected on the same day that it is proposed.

In cases where a life assured by another has gone beyond the limits prescribed by the policy, without the knowledge of the party interested, the Society will, upon his application, and proof of the life being then in a satisfactory state of health (but subject to their medical officers' approval of the risk as applicable to such life), renew the policy upon the same terms as they would have required for its continuance had their consent been previously obtained.

The usual commission allowed to all solicitors.

UNITED KINGDOM LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY.

8, WATERLOO-PLACE, PALL-MALL, LONDON.

Established by Act of Parliament in 1834.

DIVISION OF PROFITS AMONG THE ASSURED

DIRECTORS.

James Stuart, esq. Chairman.
Hananel De Castro, esq. Deputy Chairman.
Samuel Anderson, esq.
Hamilton Blair Avarne, esq.
Edw. Boyd, esq. Resident.
E. Lennox Boyd, esq. Asst. Resident.
Charles Downes, esq.

Surgeon—F. Hale Thomson, esq. 48, Berners-street.

This Company, established by Act of Parliament, affords the most perfect security in a large paid-up Capital, and in the great success which has attended it since its commencement in 1834.

Its Annual Income being upwards of £82,000.

In 1841 the Company added a Bonus of 2l. per cent. per annum on the sum insured to all policies of the participating class from the time they were effected.

The Bonus added to policies from March, 1834, to the 31st Dec. 1840, is as follows:—

Sum Assured.	Time Assured.	Sum added to Policy
£5,000	6 Yrs. 10 Months.	£683 6s. 8d.
5,000	6 Years	600 0 0
5,000	4 Years	400 0 0
5,000	2 Years	200 0 0

The Premiums nevertheless are on the most moderate scale, and only one-half need be paid for the first Five Years, where the Insurance is for Life.

Every information will be afforded on application to the Resident Directors, EDWARD BOYD, Esq. and E. LENNOX BOYD, Esq. of No. 8, Waterloo-place, Pall-mall, London.

This Society transacts all the usual business of Life Assurance.

It is based upon a principle which will combine the benefits of Mutual Assurance with the guarantee of a Subscribed Capital of ONE MILLION STERLING.

Whilst perfect security is thus given, the number and character of the Shareholders (consisting of nearly 500 Members of the Legal Profession), will command a large amount of business, and consequent advantages will arise to the Assured.

Tables of Premiums have been prepared expressly for this Office, by F. G. P. NEISON, Esq. F.L.S., calculated on the nearest approximation to the real law of mortality.

These Tables will be found to afford peculiar encouragement to the assurance of young lives. They embrace participating and non-participating scales.

In the participating class, the Assured will be entitled to have four-fifths of the profits divided amongst them periodically, either by way of addition to the amount assured, or in diminution of premium, as the parties may elect. No deduction will be made from such profits for interest of capital, or for a guarantee fund.

The Premiums may be paid half-yearly or annually, or by a single payment.

Assurances may be effected through any respectable Solicitor, or by writing to the Secretary.

The Directors meet on Thursdays at Two o'clock; but Assurances may be effected on any day, by applying between the hours of Ten and Four, at the Offices of the Society, where Prospectuses and all other requisite information may be obtained.

CHARLES JOHN GILL, Secretary.

AN INFALLIBLE HAIR DYE.

ROWLAND'S MELACOMIA, the most successful Liquid Preparation, ever known in this or any other country for Dyeing the Hair of the Whiskers, Mustaches, and Eyebrows a natural and permanent brown or black, so exactly resembling the natural colour of the hair as to defy detection. It is perfectly innocent in its nature, is free from any unpleasant smell, and can be used by any lady or gentleman with the greatest ease and security. Its effect is so permanent that neither wash nor perspiration will influence it; and it is entirely free from those properties (usual in hair-dyes) which give an unnatural red or purple tint to the hair. Price, 4s. Prepared by A. ROWLAND and SON, 20, Hatton Garden, London. Sold by them and by Chemists and Perfumers.

A LITTLE ADDITION TO COMFORT.

IN WALKING, RIDING, and HUNTING, almost every man who wears drawers is bothered to keep them in the right place. The new Compro Braces (registered) Nos. 6 and 7 (Vict.), supports at once both drawers and trousers. This simple contrivance keeps the drawers well up in their place, which is essential to the full sitting of the trousers, and comfort of the wearer. Prices, 2s. 3s. 4s. 5s. 6s. 7s. 8s. 9s. 10s. 11s. 12s. A great variety at the outlying Warehouse of the Inventor, Henry Powell, 102, New Bond-street, where can be seen a large assortment of the new registered Templar Caps for sleeping, travelling, or soles. The immense sale of which is the strongest proof of the comfort they afford to the many thousands who have tested them. "Night-caps 1s. to 4s. Travelling, 5s. 6s. to 12s. Either sent to any part of the Kingdom for post-office orders with threepence added to price of each.

The finest German Eau de Cologne, 17s. per case of 6 bottles, 2s. per bottle.

CARVING IN WOOD.—The important reduction in the price of carving in wood as executed by the patent process enables the proprietors to encourage the prevailing taste by supplying the most exquisite specimens of genius in the Gothic, Elizabethan, French, and Italian styles, and in architectural purposes, picture frames, and every possible variety of elaborate decoration. The proprietors solicit an inspection of the specimens executed by this simple and beautiful process, at their offices, 444, West Strand, or at their works, Ranelagh-road, Thames-bank. Published by J. W. Reid, 50, Holborn, Part I., II., III., and IV. price 2s. each (to be continued), containing specimen drawings of elaborate Carvings in Wood, produced by the Patent Wood Carving Company, 444, West Strand.

LITHOGRAPHY.—Mr. COON, 15, Cheapside, begs to inform Solicitors, Auctioneers, Surveyors, &c. that he has commodious offices as above, where he can execute any orders for plans of estates, buildings, elevations, views, &c. with the greatest dispatch and economy. Mr. Coon will be happy to wait upon any gentleman with specimens of his improved style of Lithographing in all its branches.

N.B. Estimates supplied gratis.

SCHIEDAM HOLLANDS.—Owing to the late enormous duty on this beautiful and wholesome Spirit, comparatively very little has been known in this country. The Public have, therefore, had no opportunity of testing its merits. VINCENT and PUGH, after innumerable experiments and immense outlay in machinery, have at length arrived at that same of distillation which has enabled them to produce an ARTICLE equal in every respect to the best "Fine Lot" of Schiedam Brandy, and which they offer to the public for their opinion and approbation, which they trust it merits, not only for quality but price, being enabled to offer it at 2s. 6d. per bottle, in square Dutch bottles, with the cork branded (VINCENT PUGH), and sealed for security as to its genuineness. To be had of all the respectable Grocers and Dealers in the metropolis, or of their agent, Mr. Charles Hodder, Castle, Moorgate-street, City, and wholesale, Vincent and Pugh, Distillery, 16, Park-street, 10, Wood-lane, City.

The public attention is particularly called to their Pale Brown British Brandy, which is allowed to be matchless.

SUPERIOR FOREIGN WINES ON SALE.—142, Strand.—Old Ports, Sherries, Madeiras, &c. &c., several years in bottle. Private families may be supplied with any of the above wines, selected from the best vineyards and cellars, to be had, by J. WRIGHT, late of Mark-lane, comprising many thousands of the finest old Port, from three to five years in bottle. 4s. 4s. 6s. 6s. 8s. 8s. 10s. 10s. 12s. 12s. 14s. 14s. 16s. 16s. 18s. 18s. 20s. 20s. This Society transacts all the usual business of Life Assurance.

It is based upon a principle which will combine the benefits of Mutual Assurance with the guarantee of a Subscribed Capital of ONE MILLION STERLING.

Whilst perfect security is thus given, the number and character of the Shareholders (consisting of nearly 500 Members of the Legal Profession), will command a large amount of business, and consequent advantages will arise to the Assured.

Tables of Premiums have been prepared expressly for this Office, by F. G. P. NEISON, Esq. F.L.S., calculated on the nearest approximation to the real law of mortality.

These Tables will be found to afford peculiar encouragement to the assurance of young lives. They embrace participating and non-participating scales.

In the participating class, the Assured will be entitled to have four-fifths of the profits divided amongst them periodically, either by way of addition to the amount assured, or in diminution of premium, as the parties may elect. No deduction will be made from such profits for interest of capital, or for a guarantee fund.

The Premiums may be paid half-yearly or annually, or by a single payment.

Assurances may be effected through any respectable Solicitor, or by writing to the Secretary.

The Directors meet on Thursdays at Two o'clock; but Assurances may be effected on any day, by applying between the hours of Ten and Four, at the Office of the Society, where Prospectuses and all other requisite information may be obtained.

THIS Office unites the Benefit of a Mutual Association with the Security of a Proprietary Company, and offers to the Assured the following advantages:—

1. Credit until death, with privileges of payment at any time previously, for one-half of the premiums for the first five years, upon Assurances for the whole of Life,—a plan peculiarly advantageous for securing Loans.
2. In Loan transactions the lender secured against the risk of the borrower going out of Europe.
3. Sums assured to become payable AT GIVEN AGES OR DEATH, if previous.
4. Policies indefeasible; fraud alone, not error, vitiating them; and in case the Renewal Premium remain unpaid, the Assurance may be revived at any time within six MONTHS, upon satisfactory proof of health, and payment of a trifling fine.
5. Officers in the Army and Navy, and persons residing abroad, or proceeding to any part of the world, assured at low rates.
6. Immediate, Survivorship, and Deferred Annuities granted; and Endowments for Children, and every mode of provision for Families arranged.

Information and Prospectuses furnished, on application at the office. JOSEPH BERRIDGE, Secretary.

DISEASED & HEALTHY LIVES ASSURED.

MEDICAL, INVALID, & GENERAL LIFE OFFICE, 25, Pall Mall, London, and 22, Nassau Street, Dublin.
Subscribed Capital £50,000.

THIS OFFICE HAS BEEN ESTABLISHED

in 1841, and possesses tables formed on a scientific basis for the assurance of diseased lives. The urgent necessity for an institution like the present may be estimated by the statement that two-thirds of the population are not assured as healthy lives, and that about one in five of the applicants to other offices is declined on examination. Of the proposals accepted by this Society during the last three years, nearly 300 had been rejected among upwards of 80 other offices. These cases came under the class of the most prevalent diseases, and the various parties could not have participated in the advantages of life assurance had not this Society been in existence, as it is the only one possessing tabulated rates of premium deduced from extensive data.

Premiums have been determined for the assurance of persons at every age, among those afflicted with consumption, asthma, bronchitis, pneumonia, disease of the heart, apoplexy, paralysis, epilepsy, insanity, disease of the liver, dropsy, scrofula, gout, rheumatism, &c.

These circumstances induce the Directors to believe that by the establishment of this office they have conferred an important benefit upon those whose condition made such a provision as assurance necessary, and they are therefore led to expect a powerful support from the public. Increased annuities are granted on unsound lives. Healthy lives are assured at lower rates than at most other offices, and a capital of half a million sterling, fully subscribed, affords a complete guarantee for the fulfilment of the Society's engagements.

F. G. P. NEISON, Actuary.

NORTH BRITISH INSURANCE COMPANY, 4, New Bank Buildings, and 10, Pall Mall East.

Tables of increasing premiums have been formed on a plan peculiar to this company, whereby assurance may be effected for the whole of life, the premium commencing very low, and gradually increasing during the first five years, after which a uniform premium is paid during the remainder of life.

SPECIMEN OF THE TABLES.
 Premium for Assuring £100.

Age	First Year.	Second Year.	Third Year.	Fourth Year.	Fifth Year.	Remainder of life
£ s. d.	£ s. d.	£ s. d.	£ s. d.	£ s. d.	£ s. d.	£ s. d.
30	1 3 9	1 5 2	1 6 8	1 8 4	1 10 0	2 19 5
40	1 11 10	1 13 9	1 15 10	1 18 1	2 0 6	3 8 3

This Table is not only suitable to those who, from the prospect of an increasing income, or other circumstances, prefer paying a smaller sum during the first few years, but is also decidedly the best mode of insuring with the view of securing the repayment of temporary loans. It is preferable to a period policy, as it may be continued to the end of life, without requiring new certificates of health, or incurring a higher rate of premium.

A Prospectus may be obtained of the Secretary, Henry T. Thompson, esq. 4, New Bank-buildings, or of the Actuary, 10, Pall Mall East. JOHN KING, Actuary.

NERVOUS MENTAL COMPLAINTS.

The Nervous are invited to send to Mr. ADAMS for his pamphlet on the symptoms, treatment, and cure of nervous complaints, which pamphlet he will return post-paid on receipt of two stamps. Persons suffering from groundless fear, delusion and melancholy, inquietude, disinclination for society, study, business, the overflow of blood to the head, head ache, giddiness, failure of memory, irresolution, and every other form of nervous disease, are invited to avail themselves of his never-failing remedy. The most deeply rooted symptoms are effectually and permanently removed without bleeding, blistering, or purging, and without hindrance to habits of business or pleasure.

Letters will be replied to without delay.—The remedies forwarded to all parts.—At home for consultation from 11 to 4.—23, DOUGHTY-STREET, MECKLENSBURGH-SQUARE, LONDON.

Sales by Auction.

Important and valuable Copyhold Estates (in tenure equal to freehold). Kentish-town, Middlesex, near to Highgate.

MR. R. A. WITTHALL is directed to SELL by AUCTION, at Garraway's, on THURSDAY, AUGUST 6, at Twelve, very valuable COPYHOLD ESTATES, most desirably and pleasantly situated at Kentish-town, near to Grove-terrace, on the high road from Highgate to London, to which it has a capital frontage of above 300 feet. The property will be apportioned in convenient lots, and comprehends the substantial and commodious Family Residence, known as Woodland House, with all necessary offices and outbuildings, garden, &c. The Ground Rents arising from (with the important reversion to) four extremely well-built modern dwelling-houses, erected within the last two years. Also a range of lively stables, coach houses, stable-yard, &c. complete, known as Lyall's lively stables; and small dwelling-house, with mason's shop, &c. The whole at present realizing an inadequate rental of 134l. per annum. This property claims the attention of builders and capitalists from the extensive frontage to a pretty part of the Highgate road, and the picturesque open prospect over the hilly country at the back. The tenure is unexceptionable, equal in effect to freehold. It is copyhold of the manor of Cantlowes, at quit rents, and fines little more than nominal in amount. The property will have the advantage of being sold with almost immediate possession, being (with one exception) in the occupation of yearly tenants.—Printed particulars and conditions of sale, with lithographed plans, will be issued ten days prior to sale, and may be obtained of the respective tenants, who will shew the premises; also of Mr. BABER, House Agent, 6, Montague-place, Kentish-town; of Mr. WITHALL, Solicitor, 7, Parliament-street; at GARRAWAY'S; and at the OFFICES of the AUCTIONEER, 80, Cheapside.

Over Wyersdale, Bolton-by-the-Sands, Farleton, Cloughton and Halton, Lancashire.

TO be SOLD by AUCTION, by Mr. HODGSON, at the King's Arms Hotel, in Lancaster, on THURSDAY, the 27th day of AUGUST next, at Five o'clock in the afternoon (unless previously disposed of by private contract, of which due notice will be given), the valuable and highly desirable FREEHOLD ESTATES, situate in the townships of Over Wyersdale, Bolton-by-the-Sands, Farleton, Cloughton, and Halton, all in the county of Lancaster, late the property of J. Stout, Esq. dec.; containing together 1300 statute acres, or thereabouts, namely, 814 of inclosed lands, and 486 of uninclosed lands, which will be offered in the following or such other lots as may be agreed upon at the time of sale, and subject to such conditions as will be then and there produced, consisting of—

LOT 1. IN OVER WYERDALE.—All that substantial and commodious Messuage or Farm-house, with the outbuildings, garden, homestead, and the several closes of arable, meadow, pasture, and wood land thereto belonging, situate and being at Over Wyersdale, in the county of Lancaster, and known as the "Catashaw Estate," and containing altogether 373a. 3r. 32p. Catashaw Fell, an excellent moor land pasture, 486a. 0r. 0p. This estate is tithe free, distant from the county town of Lancaster nine miles, and from the market town of Garstang five miles, and is now in lease to Mr. William Rhodes, of which three years will be unexpired on the 14th day of February next. The Farm-buildings are substantial and commodious, and replete with every convenience. The land (which is principally in meadow and pasture) has recently been improved at a very considerable expense, and is of excellent quality as a stock farm. In lease with the farm, are 310 sheep, of different kinds, as specified in the lease, which the lessee is bound to leave upon the property at the end of the term. The Wood upon this estate, which extends over about fifteen acres, is to be taken by the purchaser at a valuation, which will be produced at the time of sale.

LOT 2. IN BOLTON-BY-THE-SANDS.—All those two messuages or farm-houses, with the outbuildings, folds, gardens, and orchards, and the several closes or parcels of land thereto belonging, and occupied therewith, known by the name of the "Bolton Holme Estate," situate at Bolton-by-the-Sands, in the county of Lancaster, and containing altogether 82a. 1r. 0p.

This estate, which is in the occupation of Mr. Christopher Heaton, as yearly tenant, is most delightfully situated on the shores of Morecambe Bay, commands extensive views of the Westmoreland and Cumberland mountains, and possesses building sites rarely equalled for beauty and extensive prospect. The dwelling-houses and farm buildings are suitable and commodious, and in complete repair. The land is in excellent condition, and of superior quality, and conveniently situated within a mile of the picturesque village of Bolton-by-the-Sands, and about four miles from the market town of Lancaster. The Lancaster and Carlisle Railway, about to be opened, passes through a portion of the estate, and will bring the property within three hours of both Manchester and Liverpool. Annexed to this estate is a pew, on the north side of the parish church.

LOT 3. IN FARLETON.—All that messuage or dwelling-house and farm buildings, with the several closes, inclosures, or parcels of arable, meadow, and pasture land, occupied therewith, situate in the township of Farleton, in the county of Lancaster, now in the occupation of Mr. Robert Burrow, as yearly tenant, and containing 50a. 1r. 4p.

All that allotment or parcel of land situate in Cloughton, occupied with the last described premises, and containing 6a. 2r. 10p.—62a. 3r. 30p.

This estate is situate about two miles from the town of Hornby (where a market for cattle is held every fortnight), and seven miles from the market-town of Lancaster.

LOT 4. IN CLAUGHTON.—All those four closes or parcels of land, situate in the township of Cloughton, in the county of Lancaster, in the occupation of Mr. Robert Burrow, as yearly tenant, and containing together 5a. 3r. 20p.

LOT 5. IN HALTON.—All that messuage or farm-house, with the outbuildings, garden, and orchard, and the several closes of rich meadow, pasture, and arable land thereto belonging, situate at Halton, in the county of Lancaster, and known by the name of the "Mansion House Estate," and containing in the whole 82a. 0r. 35p.

This estate, which comprises some of the best land in the neighbourhood, is well adapted for separate lots, and may be offered for sale in portions to suit the wishes of purchasers. With the exception of a small parcel of land, called "Bank and Croft," containing 2a. 0r. 35p. it is in the occupation of Mr. Thos. Cornthwaite, under a lease for a term of seven years, from Candlemas and May Day, 1841.

LOT 6.—Also, all that messuage or farm-house, with the outbuildings, garden, and several closes or parcels of meadow, pasture, and arable land, thereto belonging, situate at Halton aforesaid, and containing altogether 47a. 3r. 29p.

This farm is in the occupation of Mr. George Shuttleworth, as yearly tenant.

LOT 7. Also, also all that Messuage or Farm-house, with the garden and outbuildings, and the several closes or parcels of excellent meadow, pasture, and arable land, occupied therewith, situate at Halton aforesaid, and containing 91a. 2r. 11p. This farm is also in the occupation of Mr. George Shuttleworth, as yearly tenant.

LOT 8. Also, all those four closes or parcels of excellent meadow and pasture land, situate at Halton aforesaid, and known by the names, and containing the respective quantities following; that is to say,—Broad Meadow, 5a. 0r. 25p.; Back Arrows Meadow, 1a. 0r. 21p.; Do. do. 2a. 0r. 19p.; Back Arrows Top, 3a. 1r. 36p.; total, 11a. 3r. 21p.

LOT 9. Also, all that close of land, situate in Halton aforesaid, and known by the name of "Nittinghaugh," containing 2a. 1r. 27p.

LOT 10. Also, all that close of Land, situate in Halton aforesaid, and known by the name of "Mill Flat," containing 3a. 0r. 4p.

The above lots, 8, 9, and 10, are in the occupation of Mr. Owen Garnett, as yearly tenant.

LOT 11. And also these four closes, inclosures, or parcels of Land, situate at Halton aforesaid, called the "Oakhead Allotments," and containing together 50a. 1r. 13p. These allotments are in the occupation of Mr. George Presow, as yearly tenant.

The respective tenants will shew the property; and for further information application may be made to HIGGIN and MAXTED, Solicitors, Lancaster, at whose office plans and descriptive particulars of the estates may be obtained. Lancaster, 14th July, 1846.

Valuable Estates for Sale, in the Isle of Ely and County of Cambridge.

TO be SOLD by AUCTION, by Messrs.

CROSS and SON, at the University Arms Hotel, Cambridge, on THURSDAY, the 30th day of July, 1846, at Four o'clock in the afternoon, subject to such Conditions of Sale as will be then and there produced, unless sooner disposed of by Private Contract, a valuable Estate, the property of John Hodson, Esq. situate in Well Fen, in the Isle of Ely aforesaid, and consists of a Mansion, erected within the last few years, lodge, with coach-house, stables, out-offices and buildings, a well arranged garden, sloping down from the Mansion to a rivulet, well supplied with fish, plantations, shrubberies; also a farm-house, barns, stables, and all other requisite buildings, cottages for labourers, draining mill; also Five Hundred acres of excellent arable and rich pasture land of the finest quality. The estate lies in a ring fence, and is most advantageously situated, being within eleven miles of Wisbech, seven miles of Downham, and fourteen miles of Ely, and two miles of the projected line of Railway from Ely to Peterborough, and within half a mile is the sixteen feet river, which is navigable into the river Nene, and from thence to Lynn, Cambridge, Peterborough, and other places. The Estate is now occupied by a most respectable and responsible tenant, and the annual rent of 1,120l. The excellent productive quality of the land, together with the many other advantages attached to it from its situation and otherwise, will insure to a purchaser a capital investment. The estate will be offered in one lot, and if not then sold, will be offered in the following Lots.

LOT 1 will comprise a building formerly used as a farm-house, and now divided into tenements, barn, suitable out-buildings, stables, and thirteen cottages, and 234a. 2r. 36p. (more or less) of land, of which 207a. 1r. 5p. are arable, and 18a. 1r. 39p. are pasture, and the rest plantation. The property comprised in the above is held under lease from the Bishop of Ely for twenty-one years from 25th of March last, renewable every seven years.

LOT 2 will comprise 25a. 0r. 6p. (more or less) of land, of which 17a. 0r. 17p. are arable, and the rest pasture. The land contained in this lot is copyhold of the manor of Maney.

LOT 3 will comprise the mansion, with the lodge, coach-house, stables, and farm-buildings, and 251a. 0r. 16p. (more or less) of land, of which 188a. 3r. 87p. are arable, and 59a. 1r. 34p. are pasture, and the residue plantation. The property comprised in this lot is also held under lease from the Bishop of Ely for twenty-one years from the 25th day of March last, renewable every seven years.

LOT 4 will comprise two tenements, with out-buildings, and 1a. 3r. 23p. (more or less) of garden ground. This lot is copyhold of the manor of Wisbech Barton.

Printed descriptive particulars may be obtained, ten days previous to the day of sale, at the Offices of Mr. J. O. Smeatham, Solicitor, King's Lynn; and Mr. St. Barbe Sladen, Solicitor, 14, Parliament-street, London; and of Mr. John Hodson, or the Auctioneers, Wisbech.

King's Lynn, June 30, 1846.

Oatlands Pleasure Grounds and Park, Surrey, containing 236 acres, now divided into building lots, with immediate possession, within one mile of the Weybridge and Walton stations on the South-Western Railway, and half an hour's ride of the terminus in London.

MESSRS. DRIVER have been favoured with instructions to OFFER to PUBLIC COMPETITION, at the Auction Mart, near the Bank of England, on TUESDAY, the 4th of AUGUST, in 16 lots, the remaining portion of the above renowned and highly-admired DOMAIN, formerly the property of his late Royal Highness the Duke of York, together with the valuable Freehold Manors of Byfleet, Weybridge, and Walton-upon-Leigh. The whole of the above property is Freehold, and the lots varying in quantity to 20 acres and upwards, from their available terrace of table land extending down to the magnificent Broadwater Lake, and commanding highly picturesque, and extensive rich views of the surrounding country and the river Thames, and from their inviting character and soil, are so disposed as to form peculiarly eligible sites for the erection of Villa Residences, with the advantage, from the stately and ornamental timber on the several lots, of securing a place already formed. The present gravel road, so long the acknowledged and highly admired drive through the park, leading from Walton to Weybridge, affording, at all points, fine prospects, is preserved as a public road, and forms the approach and frontage to the various lots. There is also a Villa Residence and land, and a farm of 48 acres, with cottage, &c. thereon. The far-famed Grotto, which is divided into four compartments, with its admirable arrangement of, and justly celebrated, fine and costly collection of rare conchs and other valuable shells, large and various specimens of coral, minerals, and petrefactions, &c. will also be included in this sale. The materials of Oatlands Mansion and offices, &c. and the homestead will be sold by auction, in lots, about fourteen days after this sale.—Printed particulars, with plans annexed, may be had of Mr. Haynes, at the Farm at Oatlands; at the White Hart, Windsor; Griffin, Kingston; Swan, Chertsey; of Messrs. FERE, FORSTER, and CO. Solicitors, Lincoln's-inn; at the Auction Mart, near the Bank of England; and of Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors and Land Agents, 8, Richmond-terrace, Parliament-street, London.

Freehold Ground Rents, Building Land, and Residence, Bermondsey, Surrey.

MESSRS. DRIVER have been favoured with instructions to offer to PUBLIC COMPETITION, at the Auction Mart, near the Bank of England, on FRIDAY, the 14th day of AUGUST, at Twelve o'clock, nine lots, sundry very valuable FREEHOLD ESTATES, principally exonerated from land-tax, situate in the Grange-road, Bermondsey, comprising ground rents amounting to about 134l. per annum, well and amply secured on numerous dwelling-houses, large yards, and premises, of the estimated annual value of 620l. with the valuable reversion, in 22 years, to the fee thereof.

Likewise, a FREEHOLD DWELLING-HOUSE, adjoining the above, in the occupation of the Rev. Mr. Armstrong, at the low annual clear rent of 42l.

Also, a valuable PLOT of FREEHOLD BUILDING GROUND, containing about half an acre, situate at the rear thereof.

Printed specifications, with plans annexed, may be had at the place of sale; of Robert Thomas Scarles, Esq. Kent-road; of Messrs. POWELL, F. and W. BRODERIP, and WILDE, Solicitors, 9, Lincoln's-inn New-square; and of Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors and Land Agents, Parliament-street, London.

Valuable Freehold Ground Rents, an excellent Freehold Dwelling-House and Premises, and Two Freehold Houses in the rear (the whole land-tax redeemed) in the High Camberwell-road, Surrey.

MESSRS. DRIVER are favoured with instructions to OFFER to PUBLIC COMPETITION, at the Auction Mart, Bartholomew-lane, on FRIDAY, the 14th of AUGUST, at Twelve o'clock, in Four lots, sundry valuable FREEHOLD ESTATES, exonerated from land-tax, very eligible situate on the high Camberwell-road, comprising a Freehold Ground Rent, of 55l. per annum, most amply secured upon six private Dwelling-Houses, being Nos. 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, and 26, Grosvenor-place, of the annual value of 350l., with the valuable Reversion to the Fee thereof; another Freehold Ground Rent of 5l. per annum, well secured upon a pair of Houses in the rear, of the value of 70l. per annum, also with the valuable Reversion to the Fee thereof; a Freehold Dwelling, No. 29, Grosvenor-place, and extensive Premises behind on lease, to and in the occupation of Mr. Freeman, miller and corn-dealer, at the very moderate clear annual rent of 50l. free from all deductions (property-tax excepted); likewise Two Freehold Houses in Windmill-lane, immediately adjoining the above, in the respective occupations of Mr. Rutland and Miss Cressy, at rents amounting together to about 50l. per annum.—To be viewed by permission of the respective tenants, and printed specifications may be had of Messrs. DESBOROUGH and YOUNG, Solicitors, 6, Sise-lane, Bucklersbury; at the Auction Mart, near the Bank of England; and of Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors and Land Agents, 8, Richmond-terrace, Whitehall.

Legal Notices.

LANCASHIRE INTERMEDIATE SESSIONS. Notice is hereby given, that a GENERAL SESSION of the Peace for the County Palatine of LANCASTER, for the trial of persons committed and held to bail on charges of felony and misdemeanor, will be held at the Court House in Preston, on FRIDAY, the Twenty-eighth day of August next, at Ten o'clock in the Forenoon; and at the New Bailey Court House in Salford, on MONDAY, the Thirty-first day of August, next, at Ten o'clock in the Forenoon.

GORST and BIRCHALL, Deputy Clerks of the Peace. Clerk of the Peace Office, Preston, July 20, 1846.

ATTORNEYS OF LONDON.—Some of you will lose 500*l.* per annum, some 300*l.*, some 200*l.*, some 100*l.* more or less "for life" by the passing of the proposed Small Debts Act. Surely this is an incentive on behalf of yourselves and families to arouse you to a sense of duty.

A meeting is proposed by a few members of the Profession on TUESDAY EVENING next, at Seven o'clock precisely, at the Gray's-inn Coffee-house, which you are earnestly solicited to attend—not to oppose the passing of the Small Debts Act (because that would be folly and madness), but to struggle to obtain the insertion of a saving optional clause with our clients to sue unrestrictedly in the Superior Courts, if they choose. This is all we can hope for; this is our last struggle. Lend a hand and come forward like men!

E. CLARKE, Hon Sec. pro tem.

N.B.—Nothing to pay.

CAPTAIN, otherwise MAJOR BARNES.

A REWARD of TWO SOVEREIGNS will be paid by a post-office order, or in cash, to any person who will, by letter or otherwise, inform either of the under-named References the residence of the above-named gentleman, whose description is as follows:—He has had the misfortune to lose his right arm; he appears to be from 35 to 36 years of age, about 5 feet 7½ in. high, stout made, and looks rather weather-beaten, and is now, or was lately, an officer in the East India Military Service, with a pension. He some ten or twelve years ago resided at Spalding, in Lincolnshire; afterwards (about four years since) at Tenby, in Pembrokeshire; and about three months ago at Leamington, in Warwickshire, under the name of Johnson.

Letters of information to EDWARD JOHN HORTON, No. 11, Fumival's Inn, London; or Mr. D. BAYNTON, of Bristol, will meet immediate attention.

Sales by Auction.

CADELEIGH, DEVON.—Eligible Investment. TO BE SOLD BY AUCTION, by Mr.

HUSSEY, at the New London Inn, Exeter, on TUESDAY, the 25th day of AUGUST next, at One o'clock (subject to such conditions as will then and there be produced), the undermentioned valuable FREEHOLD ESTATES, situate in the parish of Cadeleigh, in the county of Devon, in Two Lots:—

Lot 1. EAST COURT ESTATE, comprising a newly-erected farm-house and out-buildings, and 166 acres, or thereabouts, of orchard, meadow, pasture, and arable land, formerly parts and parcels of the messuage, barton, and farm, called Cadeleigh Court Barton, situate in the parish of Cadeleigh aforesaid. The whole is within a ring fence, and a large proportion is orchard and meadow land. The above valuable estate is tithe-free. It is now let to Mr. Whiddon, a respectable tenant (except eleven acres of wood and coppice which are in hand), for a term of ten years from Lady-day last, at a yearly rent of 30*l.* subject to an allowance of 2*l.* per annum for the first three years. There is a large quantity of thriving timber upon this lot.

Lot 2.—LOWER COMB ESTATE, consisting of an excellent farm-house with convenient farm-buildings in complete repair, and about 102 acres of arable, pasture, and wood land, within a ring fence, situate in the parish of Cadeleigh aforesaid. This estate is near to Lot 1, and, with the exception of the plantation, 4*ac.* 3*r.* 7*p.* which is in hand, is now in the occupation of Mr. Samuel Daw, as tenant thereof, for a term of ten years from Lady-day, 1844, at the yearly rent of 90*l.* The plantation upon this property, 4*ac.* 3*r.* 7*p.* is about twenty years' growth. The above estates are situate four miles from the excellent market-town of Tiverton, and ten miles from Exeter, near the turnpike-road connecting these towns.

The respective tenants will shew the premises, and printed particulars may be had of the AUCTIONEER, at the place of sale; of Mr. WILLIAM PARTRIDGE, Solicitor, Tiverton; or Mr. B. T. HEAD, Solicitor, Exeter.

This Society grants Insurances upon the lives of persons in every profession and station wherever resident.

Four-fifths of the profits are divided among the assured. The rates are calculated on the lowest scale consistent with security from the Government returns. The payments may be made, yearly, half-yearly, and quarterly, during life, or for a limited period.

Assurances for the whole Term of Life may also be effected upon an increasing Scale, commencing at a rate much below the ordinary Premiums, and exempt from any augmentation for a period of seven years.

The Board meets every Wednesday, at half-past Three o'clock, to receive proposals and transact other business; but any assurance for which immediate despatch is required may be effected on the same day that it is proposed.

In cases where a life assured by another has gone beyond the limits prescribed by the policy, without the knowledge of the party interested, the Society will, upon his application, and proof of the life being then in a satisfactory state of health (but subject to their medical officers' approval of the risk as applicable to such life), renew the policy upon the same terms as they would have required for its continuance had their consent been previously obtained.

The usual commission allowed to all solicitors.

Surgeon—F. Hale Thomson, esq. 48, Berners-street.
This Company, established by Act of Parliament, affords the most perfect security in a large paid-up Capital, and in the great success which has attended it since its commencement in 1834.

Its Annual Income being upwards of £82,000.

In 1841 the Company added a Bonus of 21. per cent. per annum on the sum insured to all policies of the participating class from the time they were effected.

The Bonus added to policies from March, 1834, to the 31st Dec. 1840, is as follows:—

Sum Assured.	Time Assured.	Sum added to Policy
£5,000	6 Yrs. 10 Months.	£683 6s. 8d.
5,000	6 Years	600 0 0
5,000	4 Years	400 0 0
5,000	2 Years	200 0 0

The Premiums nevertheless are on the most moderate scale, and only one-half need be paid for the first Five Years, where the Insurance is for Life.

Every information will be afforded on application to the Resident Directors, EDWARD BOYD, Esq. and E. LENNOX BOYD, Esq. of No. 8, Waterloo-place, Pall-mall, London.

SOLICITORS.

This Society transacts all the usual business of Life Assurance.

It is based upon a principle which will combine the benefits of Mutual Assurance with the guarantee of a Subscribed Capital of ONE MILLION STERLING.

Whilst perfect security is thus given, the number and character of the Shareholders (consisting of nearly 500 Members of the Legal Profession), will command a large amount of business, and consequent advantages will arise to the Assured.

Tables of Premiums have been prepared expressly for this Office, by F. G. P. NIXON, Esq. F.L.S., calculated on the nearest approximation to the real law of mortality.

These Tables will be found to afford peculiar encouragement to the assurance of young lives. They embrace participating and non-participating scales.

In the participating class, the Assured will be entitled to have four-fifths of the profits divided amongst them periodically, either by way of addition to the amount assured, or in diminution of premium, as the parties may elect. No deduction will be made from such profits for interest of capital, or for a guarantee fund.

The Premiums may be paid half-yearly or annually, or by a single payment.

Assurances may be effected through any respectable Solicitor, or by writing to the Secretary.

The Directors meet on Thursdays at Two o'clock; but Assurances may be effected on any day, by applying between the hours of Ten and Four, at the Offices of the Society, where Prospectuses and all other requisite information may be obtained. CHARLES JOHN GILL, Secretary.

A NEW DISCOVERY.—Mr. HOWARD, Sur-
NEW geon, Dental & Prosthetic, begs to introduce an ENTIRELY DESCRIPTION OF ARTIFICIAL TEETH, sized without springs, wires, or ligatures. They so perfectly resemble the natural Teeth as to be mistaken for the real thing. They are made of a material which will NEVER CHANGE COLOUR or DECAY, and will be found very convenient to any Teeth ever before used. This method does not require the extraction of roots or any painful operation, and will give support to the remaining Teeth, and prevent the necessity of any further extraction and mutilation; and that Mr. Howard's improvements may be within the reach of the most economical, he has fixed his charges at and lower rates than any other establishment in the city. He is located in mutilation.—to Fleet-street. At home from Ten till Five.

FURNITURE.—WANTED to PURCHASE from £200. to £500. worth of SECOND-HAND FURNITURE, in large or small quantities, for which a fair price will be given to cash, without any deduction for valuation, and removed at the purchaser's expense. dispute, that in order to obtain really fine Coffee, there must be a combination of the various kinds; and to produce strength and flavour, certain proportions should be mixed according to their different properties. Thus it is we have become celebrated for our delicious Coffee at ls. 8d. which is the astonishment and delight of all who have tasted it, being the produce of four countries, selected and mixed by rule peculiar to our establishment, in proportions not known to any other house.

we have arrived at the fact, that no one kind possesses strength and flavour; if we select a very strong Coffee it is wanting in flavour; by the same rule, if we find the finest and most flavoured Coffee is generally wanting in strength; and as they are usually sold each kind separately, quite regardless of their various properties, it is not to be obtained. There is also another peculiar advantage in our system, which is, that we possess over other houses—our roasting apparatus being constructed on decidedly scientific principles, whereby the strong aromatic flavouring of the Coffee is preserved, which, in the ordinary process of roasting, is entirely destroyed; and as we are coffee roasters, we are enabled to roast Coffee continually, after the Parisian method, and, consequently, fresh.

The Republic had been sending these circulars to the various principal newspapers have copied our papers and profess to sell a similar article. We, therefore, think it right to CAUTION the public, and to state that our superior manufacture of four countries is a discovery of our own, and therefore the proprieties are not known, nor can it be had at any other house. In future we shall be obliged to you to inform us of any such attempt.

THE LAW DIGEST.—A complete Index

"The object of this Digest is to enable the Practitioner to find in a moment what has been the law decided on any subject, with reference to the authorities.

During the half-year ending on the 1st of January, and it is in this way that it is successful, to be continued half-yearly. The plan is simple and convenient. All the cases reported during the half year are arranged under their proper subjects, and then are placed alphabetically. If, therefore, the practitioner wants to ascertain what cases have been decided, say on the law of "Executors," he turns to that title, and under it he will find every case, whenever reported, briefly digested with reference to the report or reports, if more than one, where it appears. Besides this, there is an index to the names of cases, and to the names both of defendants and plaintiffs, so that if one be forgotten the case may still be traced by means of the other. The peculiarity of this work is, and that in which it differs from any other digest, is that it includes all the reports, whereas all the other digests exclude some, being guided in their selection, not by the

The amount of excision from the other digests may be judged by this, that the Digest before us, although embracing the reports only for half-a-year, contains more cases than does either of the others for a whole year, and the material index of the names of the cases digested occupies no less than twenty-four closely printed columns. There is also a table of the statutes cited, arranged in chronological order.

Over Wyersdale, Bolton-by-the-Sands, Farleton, Cloughton and Halton, Lancashire.

TO be SOLD by AUCTION, by Mr. HODGSON, at the King's Arms Hotel, in Lancaster, on THURSDAY, the 27th day of AUGUST next, at Five o'clock in the afternoon (unless previously disposed of by private contract, of which due notice will be given), the valuable and highly desirable FREEHOLD ESTATES, situate in the townships of Over Wyersdale, Bolton-by-the-Sands, Farleton, Cloughton, and Halton, all in the county of Lancaster, late the property of J. Stout, Esq. dec.; containing together 1300 statute acres, or thereabouts, namely, 814 of inclosed lands, and 486 of uninclosed lands, which will be offered in the following or such other lots as may be agreed upon at the time of sale, and subject to such conditions as will be then and there produced, consisting of

LOT 1. IN OVER WYERDALE.—All that substantial and commodious Messuage or Farm-house, with the outbuildings, garden, homestead, and the several closes of arable, meadow, pasture, and wood land thereto belonging, situate and being at Over Wyersdale, in the county of Lancaster, and known as the "Catchaw Estate," and containing altogether 373a. 3r. 22p. Catshaw Fell, an excellent moor land pasture, 486a. 0r. 0p. This estate is tithe free, distant from the county town of Lancaster nine miles, and from the market town of Garstang five miles, and is now in lease to Mr. William Rhodes, of which three years will be unexpired on the 14th day of February next. The Farm-buildings are substantial and commodious, and replete with every convenience. The land (which is principally in meadow and pasture) has recently been improved at a very considerable expense, and is of excellent quality as a stock farm. In lease with the farm, are 310 sheep, of different kinds, as specified in the lease, which the lessee is bound to leave upon the property at the end of the term. The Wood upon this estate, which extends over about 15 acres, is to be taken by the purchaser at a valuation, which will be produced at the time of sale.

LOT 2. IN BOLTON-BY-THE-SANDS.—All those two messuages or farm-houses, with the outbuildings, folds, gardens, and orchards, and the several closes or parcels of land thereto belonging, and occupied therewith, known by the name of the "Bolton Holme Estate," situate at Bolton-by-the-Sands, in the county of Lancaster, and containing altogether 82a. 1r. 0p.

This estate, which is in the occupation of Mr. Christopher Heaton, as yearly tenant, is most delightfully situated on the shores of Morecambe Bay, commands extensive views of the Westmoreland and Cumberland mountains, and possesses building sites rarely equalled for beauty and extensive prospect. The dwelling-houses and farm buildings are suitable and commodious, and in complete repair. The land is in excellent condition, and of superior quality, and conveniently situated within a mile of the picturesque village of Bolton-by-the-Sands, and about four miles from the market town of Lancaster. The Lancaster and Carlisle Railway, about to be opened, passes through a portion of the estate, and will bring the property within three hours of both Manchester and Liverpool. Annexed to this estate is a pew, on the north side of the parish church.

LOT 3. IN FARLETON.—All that messuage or dwelling-house and farm buildings, with the several closes, inclosures, or parcels of arable, meadow, and pasture land, occupied therewith, situate in the township of Farleton, in the county of Lancaster, now in the occupation of Mr. Robert Burrow, as yearly tenant, and containing 56a. 1r. 4p.

All that allotment or parcel of land situate in Cloughton, occupied with the last described premises, and containing 6a. 2r. 16p.—62a. 3r. 20p.

This estate is situate about two miles from the town of Hornby (where a market for cattle is held every fortnight), and seven miles from the market-town of Lancaster.

LOT 4. IN CLAUGHTON.—All those four closes or parcels of land, situate in the township of Cloughton, in the county of Lancaster, in the occupation of Mr. Robert Burrow, as yearly tenant, and containing together 5a. 3r. 26p.

LOT 5. IN HALTON.—All that messuage or farm-house, with the outbuildings, garden, and orchard, and the several closes of rich meadow, pasture, and arable land thereto belonging, situate at Halton, in the county of Lancaster, and known by the name of the "Mansion House Estate," and containing in the whole 82a. 0r. 35p.

This estate, which comprises some of the best land in the neighbourhood, is well adapted for separate lots, and may be offered for sale in portions to suit the wishes of purchasers. With the exception of a small parcel of land, called "Bank and Croft," containing 2a. 0r. 35p. it is in the occupation of Mr. Thos. Cornthwaite, under a lease for a term of seven years, from Candlemas and May Day, 1841.

LOT 6.—Also, all that messuage or farm-house, with the outbuildings, garden, and several closes or parcels of meadow, pasture, and arable land, thereto belonging, situate at Halton aforesaid, and containing altogether 47a. 2r. 29p.

This farm is in the occupation of Mr. George Shuttleworth, as yearly tenant.

LOT 7. Also, also all that Messuage or Farm-house, with the garden and outbuildings, and the several closes or parcels of excellent meadow, pasture, and arable land, occupied therewith, situate at Halton aforesaid, and containing 91a. 2r. 11p. This farm is also in the occupation of Mr. George Shuttleworth, as yearly tenant.

LOT 8. Also, all those four closes or parcels of excellent meadow and pasture land, situate at Halton aforesaid, and known by the names, and containing the respective quantities following; that is to say,—Broad Meadow, 5a. 0r. 25p.; Back Arrows Meadow, 1a. 0r. 21p.; Do. do. 2a. 0r. 19p.; Back Arrows Top, 3a. 1r. 36p.; total, 11a. 3r. 21p.

LOT 9. Also, all that close of land, situate in Halton aforesaid, and known by the name of "Nithinghaugh," containing 2a. 1r. 27p.

LOT 10. Also, all that close of Land, situate in Halton aforesaid, and known by the name of "Mill Flat," containing 3a. 0r. 4p.

The above lots, 8, 9, and 10, are in the occupation of Mr. Owen Garnett, as yearly tenant.

LOT 11. And also these four closes, inclosures, or parcels of land, situate at Halton aforesaid, called the "Oakenhead Allotments," and containing together 50a. 1r. 12p. These allotments are in the occupation of Mr. George Presow, as yearly tenant.

The respective tenants will shew the property; and for further information application may be made to HIGGIN and MAXTED, Solicitors, Lancaster, at whose office plans and descriptive particulars of the estates may be obtained.

Lancaster, 14th July, 1846.

The DELL, one of the most admired Bijoux of Windsor Park, and long distinguished for its unrivalled and unsurpassingly magnificent View of the Castle.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON respectfully announce that the late sale of this estate having been abandoned, they are commissioned by the noble proprietor to SUBMIT to PUBLIC SALE, at the Auction Mart, on TUESDAY, AUGUST 18, at Twelve (unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by private contract), the above delightful and highly distinguished FREEHOLD VILLA, at Bishops-gate, a remarkably dry and healthy spot, overlooking one of the most romantic portions of the park, through which is its beautiful drive of only three miles to Windsor. It contains an elegant and spacious suite of reception rooms and carved oak library, and altogether accommodation for a large family, with handsome conservatories, partly surrounding the house, capital stabling and coach-houses, &c. walled garden, complete farm-yard and cottage, entrance lodge, beautiful pleasure grounds, lawn and paddocks, in all about 17 acres, abundantly supplied with spring and soft water. A cottage and about seven acres, a little detached, might be a separate lot. The whole is in the most perfect order, and the purchaser may treat for the elegant and useful fittings and furniture with the estate, so as to have immediate possession.

This enviable retreat can only be viewed with cards, which, with particulars, may be had at their offices in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall; or of Messrs. PEMBERTON, CRAWLEY, and GARDINER, Solicitors, Whitehall-place.

NOTICE as to the GREAT ESTATE of WHITTLESEA.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON are commissioned by the noble Proprietors to announce that the SALE of this very important and valuable FREEHOLD PROPERTY, which was withdrawn last year, will positively take place at the Auction Mart, in September next (unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made). The Estate of Whittlesea lies near the city of Peterborough, and comprises the vast manors of Whittlesea, embracing nearly 25,000 acres, and in which are nearly 200 or 300 copyholders, paying quit-rents and fines, the greater part of the flourishing town of Whittlesea, the bank premises, several private residences, inns, shops, &c. being held of the said manor. Also, above 2,100 acres of most fertile land, divided into compact farms, and let at low rents, to a highly respectable and intelligent tenantry, with some very valuable dispersed parcels of land adjoining, and contiguous to the town, portions eligible for building. Also, the Advowson of the Vicarage of St. Mary, and the Freehold Rent Charges in lieu of tithes, extending over nearly 18,000 acres. There is a navigable river and canal through the estate, and the railway from Peterborough to Ely, &c. passes through Whittlesea.—Particulars will be published when the day and arrangements of sale are fixed; and in the interim information may be had of Messrs. JONES, BATEMAN, and BENNETT, Solicitors, Lincoln's-inn; of Mr. John Waddelow, of Whittlesea, who will shew the estates; and of Messrs. DANIEL SMITH and SON, Land Agents, in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall, who are authorized to receive offers for the whole property by private contract.

Surrey.—A Capital Mansion, and Sixty Acres of Land, about Ten Miles from London.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON respectfully announce that they will shortly offer for SALE by AUCTION (unless previously disposed of by Private Contract), a most excellent and gentlemanly FREEHOLD MANSION, near a railroad, upon a dry gravelly soil, with about sixty acres of land, very fine ornamental timber, and a handsome sheet of water, good gardens, grape-houses, icehouse, warm and cold baths, and every luxury and comfort that can be desired. The house is in perfect repair, and contains handsome drawing and dining-rooms, library, billiard and morning rooms, all of good proportions, and averaging about thirty by twenty feet each. The situation is dry, healthy, and airy, and there is a constant and ample supply of the finest water. The handsome furniture may be had with the house.—For further particulars, with cards to view, apply at their offices in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall.

St. Leonard's, in Windsor Park.—The splendid seat of the late William Dawson, Esq. for the last four years occupied by Lord Haddo, delightfully situated adjoining St. Leonard's Hill (the noble seat of Colonel Harcourt), amidst the most romantic and elevated portions of the Royal Park, with a magnificent view of the Castle, the Thames, and rich surrounding country; also a former portion of the forest adjoining, studded with venerable timber, offering a choice site for building.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON have the honour to announce to the nobility and others seeking a capital and beautifully-situated residence, that they are instructed to SUBMIT to PUBLIC SALE, at the Auction Mart, on TUESDAY, AUGUST 18, at Twelve (unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by private contract), in two Lots, the above most justly-admired and elegant noble MANSION, admitted to stand unrivalled (except, perhaps, by its princely neighbour St. Leonard's-hill) in the whole circle of the court. The mansion is modern and of an elegant and chaste style of architecture, placed on the verge of a romantic and finely-wooded eminence, perfectly secluded, overlooking a lovely vale and a great breadth of the Royal park, with the magnificent Castle towering in the back ground, with the rich banks of the Thames, Eton College, and other interesting objects. The house contains a splendid suite of rooms with east and south aspects, a beautiful conservatory, paved terrace, &c. surrounded by a rich small park of nearly 100 acres, adorned with handsome timber, noble avenue of elms, a sheet of water, with extensive terrace and other walks. About 20 acres adjoining will be offered in a separate lot, extending from St. Leonard's-hill to the Winkfield-road, opposite Forest-hill, presenting a fine and romantic building site, bounded on one side by Lot 1, and on the other by some of the private drives and plantations of the Royal Park, through which, and the beautiful grounds of Colonel Harcourt, are the approaches to this delightful domain.—The estate can be viewed only with cards, which may be had at Messrs. DANIEL SMITH and SON'S Offices, in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall, and Windsor; or of THOMAS WEBSTER, Esq. Solicitor, Queen-street, Cheapside.

The Estate of New Place, with its Mansion and famous Trout Fishery, close to Alresford, Hants, about eight miles from Winchester and 18 from Southampton.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON are commissioned to SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, near the Bank of England, in AUGUST next (unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by Private Contract), the above valuable FREEHOLD PROPERTY, comprising the mansion of New Place, the prominent feature amidst the picturesque scenery on approaching the town of Alresford from Winchester, at present occupied by Lady Paxton, who will give early possession. The house stands elevated, surrounded by well-planted grounds, having an extensive and important frontage upon the high road, from which it is screened by ornamental plantations. The estate comprises, in a most perfect and compact ring fence, about 105 acres, part very valuable water meadows, extending to and embracing the river, which bounds it on the lower or north side for a mile, affording some of the best trout fishing in the county. It is a remarkably healthy and a famous sporting part of the country. It may be viewed with cards, which, with particulars and lithographic plans, may be had at Messrs. Jacob and Johnson's library, Winchester; at the hotels, Southampton; at the Auction Mart, of Messrs. DUNN, CARTER, and HOPKINS, Solicitors, Alresford; and of Messrs. DANIEL SMITH and SON, Land Agents, in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall.

The Sedgehill Estate and Farm in Wilts, on the Borders of Dorsetshire, altogether about 310 Acres, in the rich Vale between Shaftesbury and Ponthill, in a famous Sporting Country.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON are directed to OFFER for PUBLIC SALE, at the Mart, near the Bank of England, on FRIDAY, AUGUST 7, at Twelve (unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by Private Contract), in two lots, a very desirable FREEHOLD Gentleman's RESIDENCE, on a moderate scale, though capable of accommodating a good establishment. It is a modern house, of a handsome uniform elevation, with all suitable offices, stabling, walled garden, farm buildings, lodge, &c. surrounded by a very rich little park, studded with fine oak and other timber, commanding some highly picturesque scenery, embracing the finely varied range of hills and domain of Pitt House, the seat of John Bennett, Esq. and portions of the Ponthill Estate, together with a valuable Farm adjoining, with all requisite buildings, labourers' cottages, &c. Also (in a separate lot), a highly conditioned and compact Farm, of about 170 acres, in the parish of Sedgehill, with a neat farm-house and homestead, all recently put into substantial repair, and let to a highly respectable tenant.—The estates may be viewed by application on the premises; and descriptive particulars, with plans, may be had at the inns at Shaftesbury, Salisbury, &c.; of J. BATTEN, Esq. Solicitor, Yeovil; and of DANIEL SMITH and SON, Land Agents, in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall, London.

HANTS.—Borough of Petersfield, near Southampton, Portsmouth, and the Isle of Wight, and within about two miles of the intended direct London and Portsmouth Railway; Delightful Gentleman's Residence, &c.

MR MINCHIN is instructed to SELL by AUCTION, at the Red Lion Hotel, Petersfield, on THURSDAY, the 13th day of AUGUST, 1846, at Twelve o'clock at noon, one of the most pleasantly diversified Estates in the county, entirely Freehold, and free from Land Tax and Rectorial Tithes. It is situate in the parishes of Steep and Froxfield, and comprises a VILLA RESIDENCE, several FARMS, a RENT-CHARGE of 300*l.* per annum, in lieu of Rectorial Tithes, and a MANOR. Also a Molesey of a COPYHOLD WATER CORN-MILL; the whole of which will be sold in 26 Lots, so that purchasers may buy either to a large or small extent, and either for occupation or investment.

The Villa, with about 100 acres of Land, forms the first lot, and it is called Ashford Lodge, and is unquestionably a most delightful spot. The house contains dining, drawing, and morning rooms, and all necessary domestic apartments; the pleasure grounds are tastefully laid out, and contain a beautiful sheet of water; the stables, coach-houses, and other outbuildings are sufficiently large; there are good gardens, with gardener's cottage, &c. The Villa is embosomed in hills of great height, and the scenery from it is of the most pleasing and majestic character; but within the limits of an advertisement it is impossible better to describe it than as a situation singularly adapted for a gentleman's country residence. The present tenant is Admiral Hawks.

Lots 2, 3, 4, 6, 7, 9, 11, and 12, comprise Farms of various sizes, completely surrounding the villa.

Lots 5, 8, 10, 13, 14, 15, 19, 21, and 23, consist of several Messuages and Cottages, abutting on the estate, with small quantities of Land attached thereto.

Lots 16, 18, and 22, are plots of Meadow Land.

Lots 17 and 20 comprise nearly 50 acres of Land, principally covered with fine thriving oak timber.

Lot 24 consists of a moiety of a Water Corn-mill.

Lot 25, comprises the rent charge of 300*l.* per annum, in lieu of rectorial tithes of the parish of Steep; and

Lot 26, 10-13ths of the Manor of Ashford. Upon the estate (which abounds with rock stone, &c.) are splendid sites for the erection of buildings, and the entire property being within the borough of Petersfield, will confer a right to vote therein.

Full descriptive particulars, with lithographic plans and conditions of sale, may be had on application to the Auctioneer, at Petersfield; at the various inns in the neighbourhood; of Messrs. Osborne and Garret, Estate Agents, Fareham; Messrs. SOUTHWELL, Solicitors, Southampton, Suffolk; and Messrs. JENINGS, Solicitors, 1, Mincing-court Buildings, Temple, London.

The dormitories consist of 13 best bed-rooms and servants' rooms, making up nine beds. The offices are judiciously planned, of large dimensions, and comprise every requisite for a first-rate establishment. The grounds are of great beauty, in a high state of order, and diversified with parterres, shrubberies, arbutum, roses, &c. excellent kitchen garden, with greenhouse, hothouse, pinery, &c. The premises are held at the low rent of 240*l.* per annum, including 25 acres of land, and all rates, tithes, and taxes, and repairs of every description, together with the right of shooting over 370 acres, and fishing in the trout stream.—May be viewed by cards only, which may be obtained at Mr. F. CHINNOCK'S Auction and Estate Offices, 28, Regent-street, Waterloo-place.

Freehold Ground-rents on the Latimer Estate, amounting to 601*l.* per annum.

MR. FREDERICK CHINNOCK begs to announce that he has been honoured with instructions to SUBMIT for PEREMPTORY SALE by PUBLIC COMPETITION, at the Auction Mart, on WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 26, at Twelve, the above valuable FREEHOLD GROUND-RENTS, which are most abundantly secured upon newly-erected shops, public-houses, and streets of private houses, all well let, and the leases of which are all executed. The property upon which these ground-rents are secured forms the leading portion of the Latimer Estate, which is situate in the parish of Hammersmith, and is bounded on the west by the West London Railway. They will be offered in lots under the different leases, so as not only to meet the wishes of the small as well as the large capitalists to invest, but also to enable the lessees to make their leaseholds freeholds.—Descriptive particulars, with plans of the estate, will be published early, and may be obtained of Messrs. TILSON, SQUANCE, CLARKE, and MORRICE, Solicitors, 29, Coleman-street, City; at the Auction Mart; and at Mr. FREDERICK CHINNOCK'S Auction and Estate Offices, 28, Regent-street, Waterloo-place.

Freehold and Leasehold Estates at Wapping, Mile-End, and Dalston, producing 360*l.* per annum, and giving votes for Middlesex; eligible for investment, in eight lots.

MR. MOORE will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on FRIDAY, AUGUST 14, at Twelve, in three lots, FREEHOLD PREMISES, with bakehouse and 14-bushel oven, at the corner of Bostock and Broadstreets, Old Gravel-lane; a Freehold six-roomed House adjoining, and a Freehold Ground-rent of 13*l.* per annum, secured on four houses in Broad-street. The land-tax is redeemed, and the estate may be much improved. Also, in four lots, eleven brick-built five-roomed houses, with gardens, in Robert and Richardson-streets, Jubilee-street, Mile-End, all well tenanted, at 170*l.* per annum, held for 54 years to come, at the low ground-rent of 3*l.* each; and, in one lot, four compact houses, pleasantly situate 10 to 19, Holly-street, Dalston, well let at a clear rent of 72*l.*; held for 72 years at 7*l.* 10*s.* each ground-rent.—May be viewed, and particulars had of S. Tripp, Esq., 2, Adelaide-place, London Bridge; A. K. Scarborough, Esq., Crown-court, Threadneedle-street; J. Scarborough, Esq., 19, Token-house-yard, City; at the Mart; and at the Auctioneer's Offices, Mile-End-road.

DEEDS FOR EXECUTION ABROAD.

—Messrs. J. and B. M'CRACKEN, Foreign Agents, No. 7, Old Jewry, beg to inform the Legal Profession, that they undertake to forward Deeds for Execution by Parties abroad, through their correspondents on the Continent, for the costs of transmission, and a simple commission.

List of Correspondents, and for further information, apply as above.

Sales by Auction.

HANTS.—Borough of Petersfield, near Southampton, Portsmouth, and the Isle of Wight, and within about two miles of the intended direct London and Portsmouth Railway; Delightful Gentleman's Residence, &c.

MR. MINCHIN is instructed to SELL by AUCTION, at the Red Lion Hotel, Petersfield, on THURSDAY, the 13th day of AUGUST, 1846, at Twelve o'clock at noon, one of the most pleasantly diversified Estates in the county, entirely Freehold, and free from Land Tax and Rectorial Tithes. It is situate in the parishes of Steep and Fordingfield, and comprises a VILLA RESIDENCE, several FARMS, a RENT-CHARGE of 300*l.* per annum, in lieu of Rectorial Tithes, and a MANOR. Also a Moiety of a COPYHOLD WATER CORN-MILL; the whole of which will be sold in 26 Lots, so that purchasers may buy either to a large or small extent, and either for occupation or investment.

The Villa, with about 100 acres of Land, forms the first lot, and it is called Ashford Lodge, and is unquestionably a most delightful spot. The house contains dining, drawing, and morning rooms, and all necessary domestic apartments; the pleasure grounds are tastefully laid out, and contain a beautiful sheet of water; the stables, coach-houses, and other outbuildings are sufficiently large; there are good gardens, with gardener's cottage, &c. The Villa is embosomed in hills of great height, and the scenery from it is of the most pleasing and majestic character; but within the limits of an advertisement it is impossible better to describe it than as a situation singularly adapted for a gentleman's country residence. The present tenant is Admiral Hawker.

Lots 2, 3, 4, 6, 7, 9, 11, and 12, comprise Farms of various sizes, completely surrounding the villa.

Lots 5, 8, 10, 13, 14, 15, 19, 21, and 23, consist of several Messuages and Cottages, abutting on the estate, with small quantities of Land attached thereto.

Lots 16, 18, and 22, are plots of Meadow Land.

Lots 17 and 20 comprise nearly 50 acres of Land, principally covered with fine thriving oak timber.

Lot 24 consists of a moiety of a Water Corn-mill.

Lot 25, comprises the rent charge of 300*l.* per annum, in lieu of rectorial tithes of the parish of Steep; and

Lot 26, 10-13ths of the Manor of Ashford. Upon the estate (which abounds with rock stone, &c.) are splendid sites for the erection of buildings, and the entire property being within the borough of Petersfield, will confer a right to vote therein.

Full descriptive particulars, with lithographed plans and conditions of sale, may be had on application to the Auctioneer, at Petersfield; at the various inns in the neighbourhood; of Messrs. Osborne and Garret, Estate Agents, Fareham; Messrs. SOUTHWELL, Solicitors, Sarumundham, Suffolk; and Messrs. JENINGS, Solicitors, 1, Mitre-court Buildings, Temple, London.

TO be Peremptorily SOLD, pursuant to a Decree of the High Court of Chancery, made in a cause Morris v. Morris, with the approbation of John Edmund Dowdeswell, Esquire, one of the Masters of the said Court, at the Red Horse Inn, in Stratford-upon-Avon, in the county of Warwick, on FRIDAY, the 4th day of SEPTEMBER next, at Five o'clock in the afternoon, in distinct lots, certain FREEHOLD ESTATES, late the property of John Morris, Esquire, the testator in the pleadings of the said cause, situate at Marston Sicea, otherwise Long Marston, in the county of Gloucester, consisting of a convenient Messuage, Agricultural Buildings and Cottages, and about 215 Acres of Land; printed particulars whereof may be had (gratis), at the said Master's office, in Southampton Buildings, Chancery-lane, and of Mr. CHARLES BELL, Solicitor, 36, Bedford-row, London; of Mr. OSWALD CHEEK, Solicitor, Evesham; and of Mr. GEORGE AGG, Auctioneer, Hazelor, near Evesham, Worcestershire.

NERVOUS MENTAL COMPLAINTS.

The Nervous are invited to send to Mr. ADAMS for his pamphlet on the symptoms, treatment, and cure of nervous complaints, which pamphlet he will return post-paid on receipt of two stamps. Persons suffering from groundless fear, delusion and melancholy, inquietude, disinclination for society, study, business, the overflow of blood to the head, head-ache, giddiness, failure of memory, irascibility, and every other form of nervous disease, are invited to avail themselves of his never-failing remedy. The most deeply rooted symptoms are effectually and permanently removed without bleeding, blistering, or purging, and without hindrance to habits of business or pleasure.

Letters will be replied to without delay.—The remedies forwarded to all parts.—At home for consultation from 11 to 4.—23, DOUGHTY-STREET, MECKLENBURGH-SQUARE, LONDON.

This Society transacts all the usual business of Life Assurance.

It is based upon a principle which will combine the benefits of Mutual Assurance with the guarantee of a Subscribed Capital of ONE MILLION STERLING.

Whilst perfect security is thus given, the number and character of the Shareholders (consisting of nearly 500 Members of the Legal Profession), will command a large amount of business, and consequent advantages will arise to the Assured.

Tables of Premiums have been prepared expressly for this Office, by F. G. P. NIXON, Esq. F.L.S., calculated on the nearest approximation to the real law of mortality.

These Tables will be found to afford peculiar encouragement to the assurance of young lives. They embrace participating and non-participating scales.

In the participating class, the Assured will be entitled to have four-fifths of the profits divided amongst them periodically, either by way of addition to the amount assured, or in diminution of premium, as the parties may elect. No deduction will be made from such profits for interest of capital, or for a guarantee fund.

The Premiums may be paid half-yearly or annually, or by a single payment.

Assurances may be effected through any respectable Solicitor, or by writing to the Secretary.

The Directors meet on Thursdays at Two o'clock; but Assurances may be effected on any day, by applying between the hours of Ten and Four, at the Offices of the Society, where Prospectuses and all other requisite information may be obtained.

Secretary.

This Company, established by Act of Parliament, affords the most perfect security in a large paid-up Capital, and in the great success which has attended it since its commencement in 1834.

Its Annual Income being upwards of £22,000.

In 1841 the Company added a Bonus of 2*l.* per cent. per annum on the sum insured to all policies of the participating class from the time they were effected.

The Bonus added to policies from March, 1834, to the 31st Dec. 1840, is as follows:—

Sum Assured.	Time Assured.	Sum added to Policy
£5,000	6 Yrs. 10 Months.	£698 6 s. 6 d.
5,000	6 Years	600 0 0
5,000	4 Years	400 0 0
5,000	2 Years	200 0 0

The Premiums nevertheless are on the most moderate scale, and only one-half need be paid for the first Five Years, where the Insurance is for Life.

Every information will be afforded on application to the Resident Directors, EDWARD BOYD, Esq. and E. LENNOX BOYD, Esq. of No. 8, Waterloo-place, Pall-mall, London.

Miscellaneous.

SHOOTING SEASON.—The Oldest GUN and PISTOL REPOSITORY in London (established 1770), No. 224, Strand, near Temple Bar. B. COGWELL (late Kates), begs to inform Gentlemen his Stock for the Season is large, and comprises every London Maker of excellence, which B. C. respectfully requests gentlemen to inspect before purchasing; reference may be had to the makers, and a trial allowed; and to those gentlemen who prefer a less expensive gun, B. C. is enabled to offer sound double Guns, from £35.00 in cases complete, from 5 guineas; Single Guns, from 21s. each; Pocket Pistols, from 14s.; Holster Pistols, from 27s. per pair and upwards; six barrels, self-ejecting Pistols in cases complete, from 5 guineas each. Every article in shooting apparatus, of the best quality at the lowest prices; a large assortment of Sykes's Improved Travelling Bottles in leather, wicker, and metal; Joyce's anti-corrosive Persuasion Caps, chemically prepared. Gun Waddings and Wire Cartridges. Repairs executed with the greatest attention and dispatch.

SCHIEDAM HOLLANDS.—Owing to the late enormous duty on this beautiful and wholesome Spirit, comparatively very little has been used or known in this country. The Public have, therefore, had no opportunity of testing its merits. VINCENT and PUGH, after innumerable experiments and immense outlay in machinery, have at length arrived at that state of distillation which has enabled them to produce an ARTICLE equal in every respect to the finest Foreign. Vincent and Pugh introduce this splendid matchless spirit to the public for their opinion and approbation, which they trust it merits, not only for quality but price, being enabled to offer it at 2s. 6d. per bottle square and round, the cork branded (VINCENT & PUGH), and sealed for security as to its genuineness. To be had of all the respectable retail dealers in and about the metropolis, or of their agent, Mr. Charles Hodder, Castle, Moorgate-street, City, and wholesale, Vincent and Pugh, Distillery, 16, New Park-street, Borough, and 10, Old-street, City.

The public attention is particularly called to their Pale Brown British Brandy, which is allowed to be matchless.

SUPERIOR FOREIGN WINES ON SALE.—142, Strand.—Old Ports, Sherries, Madeiras, &c. &c., several years in bottle. Private families may be supplied with any of the above wine selected from the best vineyards and bottled with great care, by J. WRIGHT, late of Mark-lane, conveying many thousands of dozens. Finest old Ports, from three to five years in bottle 42s. 48s. 50s. Sherries, various, ditto, ditto 36s. to 48s. West India Madeiras 42s. to 55s. Superb old East India 40s. to 75s. Very old Malmsiey, in pipes 50s. Brandy ditto, and of the best quality 24s. Most of the above may be had in pipes, delivered free within five miles of the metropolis.

VICKERS'S CURACAO PUNCH.—This DELIGHTFUL LIQUOR stands pre-eminent as a finished specimen of what Punch should be. It is in a high state of concentration; and when diluted, presents to the connoisseur the tangible reality, that which before existed but in imagination. That truly valuable stomachic JAMAICA GINGER, is also most successfully combined with other wholesome ingredients; and introduced as a delicious Liqueur, known as ORANGE GINGERETTE, and in a stronger form (as an anti-spa-modic), under the style of GINGER BRANDY. These, as well as the exquisite IMPERIAL LIQUOR, &c. &c. may be obtained of all the first Merchants in the Kingdom. In more effectually to protect the quality, and to present them to the consumer in a convenient form, these Liqueurs are bottled, sealed, and labelled by the distillers, JOSEPH and JOHN VICKERS and CO. LONDON. N.B. The Curacao Punch and Orange Gingerette will be found admirable adjuncts to Soda Water. Distillery: Stoney-street, Borough Market, London.

LITHOGRAPHY in all its Branches, Mapping, &c.—Writing, Planning, Drawing, and Printing, executed in the first style, and on the most improved Brass (registered) COLOURED LITHOGRAPHIC PRINTING OFFICES, 25, 26, to 40, Threadneedle-street, City, where Merchants and the Trade may be supplied with Stationery, the best German Stones and Transfer Paper, French Chalks, and Inks; and with their improved Lithographic Press, so excellent in principle and construction, that it is warranted to do the finest work with perfect ease and certainty. Solicitors, Auctioneers, and Surveyors, entrusting their Drawings to DEAN and CO. will find them executed with accuracy and great dispatch. Their artists and workmen in the different branches of printing are employed on the premises.

LITHOGRAPHY.—Mr. COON, 15, Cheap-side, begs to inform Solicitors, Auctioneers, Surveyors, &c. that he has commodious offices as above, where he can execute any orders for plans of estates, buildings, elevations, views, &c. with the greatest dispatch and economy. Mr. Coon will be happy to wait upon any gentleman with specimens of his improved style of Lithography in all its branches. N.B. Estimates supplied gratis.

FLOOR-CLOTH WAREHOUSE, No. 253, Strand, near Temple Bar. Established 1815. JOHN WILSON begs respectfully to remind the Public that he continues to supply the most extensive and lowest priced at which the best article can be manufactured. He begs an inspection of his present stock, which for soundness of quality, and variety of patterns, cannot be surpassed.

A LITTLE ADDITION TO COMFORT.—IN WALKING, RIDING, AND HUNTING, almost every man who wears drawers is bothered to keep them in the right place. The simple contrivance known as the "Vici" supports at once both drawers and trousers. This simple contrivance keeps the drawers well up in their place, which is essential to the well fitting of the trousers, and comfort of the wearer. Prices, 2s. 2s. 6d., 3s. 6d., 4s. 6d., to 10s. 6d. A great variety at the outlying warehouse of Mr. J. W. Wilson, 142, Strand, near Temple Bar, where there can be seen a large assortment of the new registered Temper Caps for sleeping, travelling, or sores. The immense sale of which is the strongest proof of the comfort they afford to the many thousands who have tested them. Night-caps, 1s. to 4s.; Travelling, 3s. 6d. to 12s. Either sent to any part of the Kingdom for post-office orders with threepence added to price of each. The finest German Eau de Cologne, 17s. per case of 6 bottles, 3s. per bottle.

CARVING IN WOOD.—The important reduction in the price of carving in wood as executed by the patent process enables the proprietors to encourage the prevailing taste by supplying the most exquisite specimens of genius in the Gothic, Elizabethan, French, and Italian styles, adapted to all architectural purposes, picture frames, and every possible variety of elaborate decoration. The proprietors solicit an inspection of the specimens executed by this simple and beautiful process, at their offices, 44, West Strand, or at their works, Ranelagh, Thames-bank, Published by J. W. Wilson, 59, Mothorn, Parts I., II., III., and IV. price 3s. each (to be continued), containing specimen drawings of elaborate Carvings in Wood, produced by the Patent Wood Carving Company, 44, West Strand.

YACHTING, DRIVING, AND ANGLING.—THE NEW DREADNOUGHT COATS AND CAPES, made by J. C. CORDING, will be found by Sailors and Sportsmen to be the best articles ever made up for their use. They will retain the heaviest rain and the fiercest tropical heat for any time, and their durability is equal to their waterproof qualities. Trousers, leggings, son'-westers, caps, and gloves, of the same proofing. Officers and others going to the colonies will find these articles the most comfortable and useful. They are made of CORDING'S new waterproof driving aprons and coats, three serviceable and complete things of the kind, and approved by all who have tried them. Ladies' light riding caps, with hoods and sleeves. CORDING'S improved best India rubber boots are superior to any thing hitherto made. They are made of the best India rubber, and are light, pliable, and never crack; impervious to water for any length of time, and require no dressing to keep them in condition. Patterns and prices sent on application. Any description of article made to order. London: J. C. CORDING, 351, Strand, five doors west of Temple Bar.

THE SUMMER RIDE OR PROMENADE.—

The peculiar virtues of C. and A. OLDRIE'S BALM of COLUMBIA, remove the difficulty experienced by ladies in preserving their ringlets after exercise; it is so invigorating the hair, that tresses, previously the straightest and most destitute of curl, rapidly acquire a vigour, which maintains in permanent ringlets the head-dress of the most persevering votary of the Ball-room, the Bide, or the Promenade. After the minerals and vegetables of Old World have been compounded in all imaginable ways in fruitless attempts to discover so important a desideratum, we are indebted to the Western Hemisphere for furnishing the basis of Oldrie's Balm of Columbia, the efficacy of which in preserving, strengthening, and renewing the hair, has become a matter of notoriety among all civilized nations.

COFFEE AS IN FRANCE.—It is a fact beyond dispute, that in order to obtain really fine Coffee, there must be a combination of the various kinds; and to produce strength and flavour, certain proportions should be mixed according to their different properties. Thus it is we have become celebrated for our delicious Coffee at 1s. 6d. which is the satisfaction and delight of all who have tasted it, being the produce of four countries, selected and mixed by rule peculiar to our establishment, in proportions not known to any other house.

From experiments we have made on the various kinds of Coffee, we have arrived at the fact, that no one kind possesses strength and flavour. If we select a very strong Coffee it is wanting in flavour; by the same rule we find the finest and most flavoured Coffee are generally wanting in strength; and as they are usually sold each kind separately, quite regardless of their various properties, the consumer is not able to obtain really fine coffee at any price. There is also another peculiar advantage we possess over other houses—our roasting apparatus being constructed on decidedly scientific principles, whereby the strong aromatic flavour of the Coffee is preserved, which, in the ordinary process of roasting, is entirely destroyed; and as we are coffee roasters, we are enabled to keep a full supply of fresh roasted Coffee continually, after the Puritan and Continental method.

The rapid and still increasing demand for this Coffee has caused great excitement in the trade, and several unprincipled houses have copied our papers and professed to sell a similar article. We, therefore, think it right to CAUTION the public, and to state that our superior mixture of four countries is a discovery of our own, and therefore the proportions are not known, nor can it be had at any other house. In future we shall distinguish from all others as follows:—

SPARROW'S CONTINENTAL COFFEE, at 1s. 6d. per lb. Packed in tins of all sizes perfectly airtight for the country. We have also strong and useful Coffees, from 1s. to 1s. 4d. Tea Establishment, 56, High Holborn, adjoining Day and Martin's, leading through into 22, Dean-street.

HENRY SPARROW, Proprietor.

EYE BROWS, MOUSTACHES, AND WHISKERS, produced in a few weeks by GRIMSTONE'S AROMATIC REGENERATOR, an Essential Spirit, drawn by the Inventor from choice Aromatic Herbs. The Regenerator will produce new hair on bald places caused by weakness of constitution, &c. and is a certain preventive of Headache and Falling-out. TONIC MILK OF ORANGE, a Delicious Cordial, and sweetener of the breath. Patented by the Royal Family and Nobility, and recommended by the Faculty. The Milk of Orange (warranted to be extracted from fruit) warms the stomach, creates an appetite, digests the food, strengthens the lungs, clears the voice, improves the voice for singing, relieves the asthma, dispels colds, and purifies and sweetens the breath. It is particularly recommended to gentlemen on leaving home in the morning or after smoking a cigar, while to ladies it will be equally grateful on going to a party or ball, for its invigorating influence on the mind and spirits, and its refreshing effect on the organs of health. It may be added, that as a lively but gentle stimulant wholly unadmixed with spirituous ingredients, it will prove extremely grateful to that numerous class of persons, who, on principles of sobriety refrain from all intoxicating drinks.

Prepared by A. ROWLAND and SON, 20, Hatton-garden, London. Half-pint, 2s. 6d., Pint, 4s. 6d., Quart, 7s. Sold by them, and by chemists and perfumers.

AN INDEX TO THE LAW. Just published. THE LAW DIGEST.—A complete Index to all the Reports that appeared during the Half-year ending the 1st of January last. Price 5s. 6d. in a stout wrapper. To be continued half-yearly.

"The object of this Digest is to enable the Practitioner to find in a moment what has been the law decided on any subject, with reference to the authorities.

"This laborious undertaking is intended to supply the practitioner with a ready reference to all the law decided during the half-year ending on the 1st of January, and it is, if successful, to be continued half-yearly. The plan is simple and convenient. All the cases reported during the half year are arranged under their proper subjects, and these are placed alphabetically. If, therefore, the practitioner wants to ascertain what cases have been decided, say on the law of "Executors," he turns to that title, and under it he will find every case, whereover reported, briefly digested with reference to the report or reports, if more than one, where it appears. Besides this, there is an index to the names of cases, and to the names both of defendants and plaintiffs, so that if one be forgotten the case may still be traced by means of the other. The peculiarity of this work, and thus in which it differs from any other digest, is, that it includes all the reports, whereas all the other digests exclude some, being guided in their selection, not by the wants of the practitioner, but according to the rivalries of publishers. The plan of this digest is to omit none, and its consequent completeness gives it a peculiar value and utility. The amount of abridgement from the other digests may be judged by this, that the Digest before us, although embracing the reports only for half-a-year, contains more cases than does either of the others for a whole year, and the mere index of the names of the cases digested occupies no less than twenty-four closely printed columns. There is also a table of the statutes cited, arranged in chronological order.

"It will not become us to express an opinion upon the merits of this publication. We can only give a description of it, leaving it to the reader from that description to determine whether it is likely to be an acquisition to his office."

DISEASED & HEALTHY LIVES ASSURED.

MEDICAL, INVALID, & GENERAL LIFE OFFICE, 25, Pall Mall, London, and 22, Nassau Street, Dublin. Subscribed Capital £50,000.

THIS OFFICE WAS ESTABLISHED

in 1841, and possesses tables formed on a scientific basis for the assurance of diseased lives. The urgent necessity for an institution like the present may be estimated by the statement that two-thirds of the population are not insurable as healthy lives, and that about one in five of the applicants to other offices is declined on examination. Of the proposals accepted by this Society during the last three years, nearly 260 had been rejected among upwards of 60 other offices. These cases came under the class of the most prevalent diseases, and the various parties could not have participated in the advantages of life assurance had not this Society been in existence, as it is the only one possessing tabulated rates of premium deduced from extensive data.

Premiums have been determined for the assurance of persons at every age, among those afflicted with consumption, asthma, bronchitis, pneumonia, disease of the heart, apoplexy, paralysis, epilepsy, insanity, disease of the liver, dropsy, scrofula, gout, rheumatism, &c.

These circumstances induce the Directors to believe that by the establishment of this office they have conferred an important benefit upon those whose condition made such a provision as assurance necessary, and they are therefore led to expect a powerful support from the public. Increased annuities are granted on unexpired lives. Healthy lives are assured at lower rates than at most other offices, and a capital of half a million sterling, fully subscribed, affords a complete guarantee for the fulfilment of the Society's engagements. F. G. P. NEISON, Actuary.

NORTH BRITISH INSURANCE COMPANY, 4, New Bank Buildings, and 10, Pall Mall East.

Tables of increasing premiums have been formed on a plan peculiar to this company, whereby assurance may be effected for the whole of life, the premium commencing very low, and gradually increasing during the first five years, after which a uniform premium is paid during the remainder of life.

SPECIMEN OF THE TABLES. Premium for Assuring £100.

Age	First Year.	Second Year.	Third Year.	Fourth Year.	Fifth Year.	Remainder of life
	s. d.	s. d.	s. d.	s. d.	s. d.	s. d.
30	1 3 9	1 5 3	1 6 8	1 8 4	1 10 0	2 10 5
40	1 11 10	1 13 9	1 15 10	1 18 1	1 20 0	2 6 3 8

This table is not only suitable to those who, from the prospect of an increasing income, or other circumstances, prefer paying a smaller sum during the first few years, but is also decidedly the best mode of insuring with the view of securing the repayment of temporary loans. It is preferable to a period policy, as it may be continued to the end of life, without requiring new certificates of health, or incurring a higher rate of premium.

A Prospectus may be obtained of the Secretary, Henry T. Thompson, esq., 4, New Bank-buildings, or of the Actuary, 10, Pall Mall East. JOHN KING, Actuary.

Sales by Auction.

BERKSHIRE.—Valuable and Important FREEHOLD and LEASEHOLD PROPERTY, in the County of Berks, consisting of sundry Farms, large and small, near to the Faringdon-road Station, and the Town of Wantage, in the parishes of East Hanney, Wantage, Goosey, Stanford, Faringdon, Lambourne, and Great Coxwell, containing together about 1,670 Acres of Land.—By Messrs. HOGGART and NORTON, at the Bear Inn, Wantage, on THURSDAY, 17th, and FRIDAY, 18th, of SEPTEMBER, at Twelve for One o'clock precisely, in 41 Lots, by order of the Devises in Trust of the late E. P. Bastard, esq.

THESE ESTATES are situate in the several parishes of East Hanney, Wantage, Stanford, Lambourne, Great Coxwell, Goosey, and Faringdon, comprising altogether about 1,670 acres of fine arable and rich dairy land, part in the rich Vale of White Horse, celebrated for the productiveness of its soil, and highly esteemed by agriculturists. The estates offer first-rate investments for large or small capitalists, and will be sub-divided into lots as follows:—

East Hanney Farm, in the parish of East Hanney, with farm-house, farm buildings, and 270a. 1r. 7p. of arable and pasture land, in the occupation of Mrs. Dormer.

Furzewick Farm, comprising a most desirable property for residence or investment, in a beautiful sporting part of the county, within a mile of the town of Wantage, comprising 306 acres of arable and pasture land, possessing a fine covert for game, and on the margin of a splendid coursing country, adapted for a sportsman, with a good farm-house and all other requisite outbuildings. In the occupation of Mr. James Fereman.

Also, the following valuable Properties, situate in Charlton Upper Field, Charlton Common Meadow, land called Kingsgrove and Bradfield, a Dairy and Arable Farm, near the Great Western Railway, all which estates are near to the town of Wantage, consisting of fine rich pastures, containing together about 140 acres. In the occupation of Mrs. Dormer, Messrs. Barnes, Wiblin, Fereman, Palmer, and others.

Millaway Farm, in the parish of Goosey, with farm-house, farm-buildings, and 30a. 0r. 4p. of arable and meadow land, in the occupation of Mr. A. Barnes.

Stanford Farm, in the parish of Stanford, in the Vale of White Horse, with a fine old manor-house near the church, farm-buildings, and 110a. 1r. 28p. of arable and pasture land, in the occupation of Mr. William Farrant.

Stanford Park Farm, in the parish of Stanford, in the Vale of White Horse, a capital dairy farm, with a good house, farm-buildings, and 310a. 1r. 1p. of arable, pasture, and meadow land, in the occupation of Mr. William Tarrant, Mr. Charles Hunter, and others.

An excellent house, in the village of Great Coxwell, with barn, stable, &c. and 79a. 2r. 15p. of arable, meadow, and pasture land, in the occupation of Mr. James Forman.

66a. 2r. 19p. of arable and pasture land, in Eastbury-field, in the parish of Lambourne, in the occupation of Mr. Spicer.

Bockhampton Farm, in the parish of Lambourne, with farm-house, farm-buildings, and 92a. 2r. 9p. of arable and pasture land, in the occupation of Mr. Spicer.

Hill's Farm, in the parish of Lambourne, with farmhouse, farm buildings, 111a. 3r. 28p. of arable, pasture, and wood land, in the occupation of Mr. Mildenhall.

The remaining lots will consist of accommodation plots of fine productive arable, meadow, and pasture land, in Bradfield, near the village of East Hanney, Goosey Green, in the parish of Great Coxwell, Lambourne, and in Eastbury-field, in quantities varying from 1 to 20 acres.

These estates may be viewed, and particulars with plans had, twenty days prior to the sale, of Messrs. KARSLAKE and CREALOCK, Solicitors, 4, Regent-street; Mr. Ormond, solicitor, Wantage; of Charles Bailey, esq. 5, Stratford-place; and Messrs. Phillips and Westbury, Andover; particulars also at the King's Head, Abingdon; Inn at Faringdon; Bear, Reading; at the Mart; and of Messrs. HOGGART and NORTON, 62, Old Broad-street, Royal Exchange.

N.B. The estates in East Hanney and Wantage only will be in the first day's sale.

The Freehold Manors of Byfleet and Weybridge, and Walton Leigh, Surrey.

MESSRS. DRIVER beg to inform the Public, the SALE of the above MANORS will take place at the Auction Mart, near the Bank of England, on FRIDAY, the 14th instant, at Twelve o'clock, in one lot. Descriptive printed Particulars are now ready, and may be had, on application to Messrs. FRERE, FOSTER, and CO. Solicitors, 6, New-square, Lincoln's-inn; at the Auction Mart, Bartholomew-lane; and of Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors and Land Agents, 8, Richmond-terrace, Parliament-street, London.

Freehold Ground Rents, Building Land, and Residence, Bernondsey, Surrey.

MESSRS. DRIVER have been favoured with instructions to offer to PUBLIC COMPETITION, at the Auction Mart, near the Bank of England, on FRIDAY, the 14th day of AUGUST, at Twelve o'clock, in nine lots, sundry very valuable FREEHOLD ESTATES, principally exonerated from land-tax, eligibly situate in the Grange-road, Bernondsey, comprising ground rents amounting to about 135l. per annum, well and amply secured on numerous dwelling-houses, tan-yards, and premises, of the estimated annual value of 930l. with the valuable reversion, in 22 years, to the fee thereof.

Likewise, a FREEHOLD DWELLING-HOUSE, adjoining the above, in the occupation of the Rev. Mr. Armstrong, at the low annual clear rent of 42l.

Also, a valuable PLOT of FREEHOLD BUILDING GROUND, containing about half an acre, situate at the rear thereof.

Printed specifications, with plans annexed, may be had at the place of sale; of Robert Thomas Searles, esq. Kent-road; of Messrs. POWELL, F. and W. BRODERIP, and WILDE, Solicitors, 9, Lincoln's-inn New-square; and of Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors and Land Agents, Parliament-street, London.

Valuable Freehold Ground Rents, an excellent Freehold Dwelling-House and Premises, and Two Freehold Houses in the rear (the whole land-tax redeemed) in the high Camberwell-road, Surrey.

MESSRS. DRIVER are favoured with instructions to OFFER to PUBLIC COMPETITION, at the Auction Mart, Bartholomew-lane, on FRIDAY, the 14th of AUGUST, at Twelve o'clock, in Four lots, sundry valuable FREEHOLD ESTATES, exonerated from land-tax, very eligibly situate on the high Camberwell-road, comprising a Freehold Ground Rent, of 55l. per annum, most amply secured upon six private Dwelling-Houses, being Nos. 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, and 26, Grosvenor-place, of the annual value of 350l., with the valuable Reversion to the Fee thereof; another Freehold Ground Rent of 5l. per annum, well secured upon a pair of Houses in the rear, of the value of 70l. per annum, also with the valuable Reversion to the Fee thereof; a Freehold Dwelling, No. 20, Grosvenor-place, and extensive Premises behind on lease, to and in the occupation of Mr. Freeman, miller and corn-dealer, at the very moderate clear annual rent of 50l. free from all deductions (property-tax excepted); likewise Two Freehold Houses in Windmill-lane, immediately adjoining the above, in the respective occupations of Mr. Rutland and Miss Creasy, at rents amounting together to about 50l. per annum.—To be viewed by permission of the respective tenants, and printed specifications may be had of Messrs. DESBOROUGH and YOUNG, Solicitors, 6, Sise-lane, Bucklersbury; at the Auction Mart, near the Bank of England; and of Messrs. DRIVER, Surveyors and Land Agents, 8, Richmond-terrace, Whitehall.

Very important and valuable Freehold Estate, embracing the entire Parish of Addington, free of Tithes and Land-tax, and almost of Poor-rates, with its spacious Mansion, excellent Manor for Game, the Advowson, and several first-rate Grazing and Dairy Farms (let at about 2,500l. per annum), extending nearly to the town of Winslow, only five miles from the county and borough town of Buckingham, distinguished as the family seat and domain of the late Honourable General Vere Poulett, forming a singularly eligible and solid investment for capital in a proverbially rich and fine sporting country.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON are commissioned to announce that the above remarkably valuable and truly important FREEHOLD ESTATE will be SOLD by AUCTION, in SEPTEMBER next, unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by private treaty. It comprises the spacious and substantial mansion of Addington, with walled garden, capital stabling, &c. placed on a gentle elevation, nearly in the centre of one of the most fertile domains in the county, embracing the entire parish, nearly encircled by a fine brook, and chiefly rich grazing and dairy land, the whole tithe free, and let to old respectable tenants, at rents amounting to about 2,500l. per annum; the perpetual advowson, with its parsonage and glebe, and the manor, which is well stocked with game, appertain to the estate. The timber is nearly all elm, a certain proof of the fertility of the soil. The high turnpike-road from Aylesbury to Buckingham passes through the property close to the town of Winslow, and it is within a very easy distance of the several markets of Buckingham, Bicester, Stony Stratford, &c. This description of grass land is unlikely to be affected by any change as to corn laws or tariffs, and the property, therefore, presents, with its peculiar and great local advantages, an indisputably fine and choice property for the investment of money, with a most enjoyable domain for residence, being in a perfectly rural district, and in the centre of several packs of hounds. A station on the Buckinghamshire Railway will be very near.—Descriptive particulars, with plans, will be published when the day of sale is fixed, and in the interim the property may be viewed by application to Mr. King, Surveyor, Winslow; and every information obtained of Messrs. DANIEL SMITH and SON, Land Agents and Surveyors, in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall; or of Messrs. KARSLAKE and CREALOCK, Solicitors, Carlton Chambers, Regent-street.

BOGNOR, SUSSEX.—Valuable Land for Building Purposes.

MESSRS. WINSTANLEY respectfully acquaint the public that they have received instructions from the mortgagees to SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, in London, on THURSDAY, the 27th August, in one lot, about 45 acres of Freehold Building Land, having a considerable frontage to the sea, and situated at Bognor, in the county of Sussex, a delightful, healthy, and improving watering-place, within easy distance of Chichester, Brighton, and Worthing, now possessing the advantage of railway communication with the metropolis. This property offers an eligible opportunity for the employment of capital, and securing an excellent return for letting it off on building leases, at ground-rents.—Printed particulars may be had in London, of Mr. Hodgson, 32, Broad-street Buildings; of Messrs. WINSTANLEY, Paternoster-row; and at the place of sale. Also of Mr. J. M. OGDEN, Solicitor, Sunderland; Mr. Weller and Mr. Wright, at Chichester; the Norfolk Arms, at Little Hampton, and Arundel; the Hotels at Worthing and Bognor; and of Mr. Creasy, Auctioneer, Brighton.

Periodical Sale of Reversions, Life Interests, Annuities, Life Policies, Advowsons, Next Presentations, and all descriptions of Securities dependent upon human life, Ground and Improved Rents, Post Obit Bonds, Shares in Railways, Mines, Insurance Companies, and all other public undertakings.

MR. MARSH (late Fuller and Marsh) respectfully informs the Public, that his PERIODICAL SALES by AUCTION of the above description of PROPERTY will be continued throughout the present year as follows:—

Thursday, August 6. Thursday, October 1.
Thursday, September 3. Thursday, November 5.
Thursday, December 3.

Notice of sales intended to be effected by the above means should be forwarded to Mr. MARSH 14 days prior to each date.—No. 27, Bucklersbury, corner of Charlotte-row, Mansion-house, London.

Periodical Sales (established in the year 1803) of Reversions, Life Interests, Annuities, Policies of Assurance, Advowsons, Next Presentations, Rent Charges in lieu of Tithes, Post-obit Bonds, Tontines, Debentures, Ground Rents, Improved Rents, Shares in Docks, Canals, Mines, Railways, Insurance Companies, and all Public Undertakings.

MESSRS. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS respectfully inform the public, that upwards of 40 years' experience having proved the classification of this species of property to be extremely advantageous and economical to vendors, and equally satisfactory and convenient to purchasers, the PERIODICAL SALES of reversionary interests, policies of insurance, tontines, debentures, advowsons, next presentations, and securities dependent upon human life, shares in docks, canals, mines, railways, and all public undertakings, will be continued through 1846, as follows:—

Friday, September 4. Friday, November 6.
Friday, October 2. Friday, December 4.

Particulars may be had Ten days previous to each sale, at the Auction Mart; and of Messrs. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS, 25, Poultry.

The noble Town Mansion of the late Right Hon. Lord Cary, in Belgrave-square.

MESSRS. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS are honoured with instructions from the Executors, to SELL by AUCTION, on the premises, on MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, at Two in the afternoon, the noble TOWN RESIDENCE of the late Right Hon. Lord Cary, situate No. 3, on the north side of Belgrave-square, most elegantly fitted up, and in excellent order, containing numerous principal and secondary bed-chambers, with dressing-rooms, a magnificent suite of reception-rooms, comprising two very spacious lofty drawing-rooms communicating with French windows glazed with plate glass and opening upon balconies, the walls decorated with elegant white stucco and gold paper in compartments, the wood-work and ceiling painted white and enriched with gold mouldings and ornaments to correspond, and a lobby leading to a boudoir, the walls tastefully finished with oak paper and gilt mouldings, a spacious dining-room, with plate glass windows, neatly painted and finished with enriched compo cornice, and communicating, through folding doors, with an ante-room or breakfast parlour, a library with painted walls and compo cornice, water-closet, and an imposing entrance-hall and vestibule paved with stone, principal and secondary stone staircase to the second story. The domestic offices are complete in every department, with extensive cellaring of all descriptions. In the rear of and communicating with the mansion in Belgrave-mews is capital stabling for seven horses, standing for four carriages, with lofty and separate apartments over, and a washhouse with a laundry and sleeping-room over. The property is leasehold, under the Marquis of Westminster, for a term of 50 years unexpired, at a ground rent of only 135l. per annum.—May be viewed by cards only between the hours of Twelve and Four, which, with particulars, may be had of Messrs. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS, 25, Poultry. Particulars may also be obtained of Messrs. BAKENDALE, TATHAM, UPTON, JOHN-SON, UPTON, and JOHNSON, Solicitors, Great Winchester-street, Broad-street, and Lincoln's-inn-fields.

The celebrated Streatham Spa, Cottages, Gardens, and Orchard.

MESSRS. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS will SELL by AUCTION, at the Auction Mart, on FRIDAY, AUGUST 28, at 12, in one lot, a valuable FREEHOLD ESTATE, comprising the Streatham Mineral Springs, well known for nearly 200 years, for their medicinal qualities assimilating to those of Cheltenham, with a convenient cottage residence, divided into two for letting during the summer season, pump-room, well-house, sheds, and buildings, with well-stocked flower-garden and productive orchard, comprising altogether about two acres, pleasantly situate on rising ground, half a mile from the White Lion, Streatham, and only six miles from London on the high Croydon-road, in the county of Surrey, and offering to an enterprising proprietor with a moderate capital, a profitable investment.—Particulars may be had in due time of Messrs. LAW and TINDAL, Solicitors, New-square, Lincoln's-inn; at the Auction Mart; and of Messrs. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS, 25, Poultry.

Sales by Auction.

WINDSOR PARK, ST. LEONARD'S.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON respectfully apprise the public that the particulars and plans of this beautiful property are now ready; but the SALE will take place on TUESDAY, 25th of AUGUST, instead of the 18th, as before advertised.

Waterloo-place.

The Estate of New Place, with its Mansion and famous Trout Fishery, close to Alresford, Hants, about eight miles from Winchester and 15 from Southampton.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON

are commissioned to SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, near the Bank of England, on FRIDAY, the 18th day of SEPTEMBER next, at Twelve o'clock, (unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by Private Contract), the above valuable FREEHOLD PROPERTY, comprising the mansion of New Place, the prominent feature amidst the picturesque scenery on approaching the town of Alresford from Winchester, at present occupied by Lady Paxton, who will give early possession.

The house stands elevated, surrounded by well-planted grounds, having an extensive and important frontage upon the high road, from which it is screened by ornamental plantations. The estate comprises, in a most perfect and compact ring fence, about 105 acres, part very valuable water meadows, extending to and embracing the river, which bounds it on the lower or north side for a mile, affording some of the best trout fishing in the country. It is a remarkably healthy and a famous sporting part of the country.—It may be viewed with cards, which, with particulars and lithographic plans, may be had at Messrs. Jacob and Johnson's Library, Winchester; at the hotels, Southampton; at the Auction Mart; of Messrs. DUNN, CARTER, and HOPKINS, Solicitors, Alresford; and of Messrs. DANIEL SMITH and SON, Land Agents, in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall.

KENT.—Valuable Freehold Farms in the picturesque and healthy parish of Wrotham, about 23 miles from town, and 11 from Maidstone.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON are instructed by the Devises in Trust under the will of the late Rev. George Moore, to SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, AUGUST 25, at Twelve, in lots (unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by private contract), FIVE very desirable FREEHOLD FARMS, with suitable buildings, cottages, &c. in the beautiful, healthy, and fertile parish of Wrotham, the whole in very high condition, having been for some time past in the hands of the late proprietor, rendering them particularly desirable little properties for occupation or investment. Mr. Harrison, the bailiff, will shew the farms; and particulars, with plans, may be had at the neighbouring inns; at the Mart; of R. LAMBERT, esq. 32, John-street, Bedford-row; and of DANIEL SMITH and SON, land agents, Waterloo-place, Pall-mall.

The Great and Valuable ESTATE of WHITTLESEA, extending to within two miles of the city of Peterborough.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON

are commissioned by the noble proprietors to SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, near the Bank of England, in SEPTEMBER (unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by Private Contract), the above truly valuable and important FREEHOLD ESTATE, between Peterborough and Wisbeach, in Cambridgeshire, comprising the vast manors of Whittlesea, embracing nearly 24,000 acres, and in which are 200 or 300 copyholders, paying quit-rents and fines, the greater part of the flourishing town of Whittlesea, the bank premises, several private residences, inn, shops, &c. being held of the said manor.

Also above 2,100 ACRES of most FERTILE LAND, divided into COMPACT FARMS, and let at low rents to a highly respectable and intelligent tenantry with some very valuable dispersed parcels of land adjoining and contiguous to the town, portions eligible for building.

Also, the ADVOWSON of the Vicarage of St. Mary, and the FREEHOLD RENT-CHARGES, in lieu of tithes, extending over nearly 18,000 ACRES, of the annual value together of upwards of 3,000*l*. exclusive of the valuable manors and living; offering, with its many advantages, a fine industrial and solid property for the investment of capital. There is a navigable river and canal through the estate, and the railway from Peterborough to Ely, &c. passes through Whittlesea.

The estate and manors will form one lot, the freehold rent-charges another, and the advowson a third lot.

Particulars may be obtained of Messrs. JONES, BATEMAN, and BENNETT, Solicitors, Lincoln's-Inn-fields, at the Auction Mart; of Mr. JOHN WADDELOW, Whittlesea, who will shew the estates; and of Messrs. DANIEL SMITH and SON, Land Agents, in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall.

BOGNOR, SUSSEX.—Valuable Land for Building Purposes.

MESSRS. WINSTANLEY respectfully acquaint the public that they have received instructions from the mortgagees to SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, in London, on THURSDAY, the 27th August, in one lot, about 45 acres of Freehold Building Land, having a considerable frontage to the sea, and situated at Bognor, in the county of Sussex, a delightful, healthy, and improving watering-place, within easy distance of Chichester, Brighton, and Worthing, now possessing the advantage of railway communication with the metropolis. This property offers an eligible opportunity for the employment of capital, and securing an excellent return for letting it off on building leases, at ground-rents.—Printed particulars may be had in London, of Mr. Hodgson, 32, Broad-street Buildings; of Messrs. WINSTANLEY, Paternoster-row; and at the place of sale, Also of Mr. J. M. OGDEN, Solicitor, Sunderland; Mr. Weller and Mr. Wright, at Chichester; the Norfolk Arms, at Little Hampton, and Arundel; the Hotels at Worthing and Bognor; and of Mr. Creasy, Auctioneer, Brighton.

Periodical Sales (established in the year 1803) of Reversions, Life Interests, Annuities, Policies of Assurance, Advowsons, Next Presentations, Rent Charges in lieu of Tithes, Post-obit Bonds, Tontines, Debentures, Ground Rents, Improved Rents, Shares in Docks, Canals, Mines, Railways, Insurance Companies, and all Public Undertakings.

MESSRS. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS

respectfully inform the public, that upwards of 40 years' experience having proved the classification of this species of property to be extremely advantageous and economical to vendors, and equally satisfactory and convenient to purchasers, the PERIODICAL SALES of reversionary interests, policies of insurance, tontines, debentures, advowsons, next presentations, and securities dependent upon human life, shares in docks, canals, mines, railways, and all public undertakings, will be continued through 1846, as follows:

Friday, September 4 Friday, November 6
Friday, October 2 Friday, December 4.

Particulars may be had Ten days previous to each sale, at the Auction Mart; and of Messrs. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS, 28, Foultry.

This Society grants Insurances upon the lives of persons in every profession and station wherever resident.

Four-fifths of the profits are divided among the assured. The rates are calculated on the lowest scale consistent with security, from the Government returns. The payments may be made, yearly, half-yearly, and quarterly, during life, or for a limited period.

Assurances for the whole Term of Life may also be effected upon an Increasing Scale, commencing at a rate much below the ordinary Premiums, and exempt from any augmentation for a period of seven years.

The Board meets every Wednesday, at half-past Three o'clock, to receive proposals and transact other business; but any assurance for which immediate despatch is required may be effected on the same day that it is proposed.

In cases where a life assured by another has gone beyond the limits prescribed by the policy, without the knowledge of the party interested, the Society will, upon its application, and proof of the life being then in a satisfactory state of health (but subject to their medical officers' approval of the risk as applicable to such life), renew the policy upon the same terms as they would have required for its continuance had their consent been previously obtained.

The usual commission allowed to all solicitors.

Bills in Progress.

OPENING OF THE COURT OF COMMON PLEAS.

This Bill recites that it would tend to the more equal distribution and to the consequent despatch of business in the superior courts of common law at Westminster, and would at the same time be greatly for the benefit of the public, if the right of Barristers-at-Law to practise, plead, and to be heard, extended equally to all the said courts; but by reason of the exclusive privilege of Serjeants-at-Law to practise, plead, and have audience in the Court of Common Pleas at Westminster during Term time, such object cannot be effected without the authority of Parliament; it is therefore to be enacted,

"That from and after the passing of this Act, all Barristers-at-Law, according to their respective rank and seniority, shall and may have and exercise equal rights and privilege of practising, pleading, and audience in the said Court of Common Pleas at Westminster with the said Serjeants-at-Law; and it shall be lawful for the Justices of the said court, or any three of them, of whom the Lord Chief Justice of the said court shall be one, to make rules and orders, and to do all other things necessary for giving effect to this enactment."

GAUGE OF RAILWAYS.—The Bill which has passed the House of Lords, entitled "An Act for Regulating the Gauge of Railways," has been printed. There are nine clauses in the measure following the preamble, "Whereas it is expedient to define the gauge on which railways shall be constructed." After the passing of the Act it is not to be lawful, except in cases mentioned, to construct any railway for the conveyance of passengers on any gauge other than 4 feet 8 inches and half an inch in Great Britain, and 5 feet three inches in Ireland. The exceptions are set forth, and on certain railways the broad gauge is to be used. By the 4th provision it is declared that after the passing of the Act the gauge of any railway used for the conveyance of passengers is not to be altered. Railways constructed contrary to this Act may be abated. There is a provision for the recovery of penalties.

PARLIAMENTARY PAPERS.

ECCLESIASTICAL COMMISSION, IRELAND.—Report of the Commissioners to the Lord-Lieutenant for the year ending August 1, 1845.—The Report states that, for the augmentation of small livings, the commissioners set apart out of the moneys accruing from tithes and glebes disappropriated by orders of the Lord-Lieutenant and Privy Council, 200l. per annum in 1841 and 612l. 14s. 11d. in 1843, less by the charges incident for poor-rates and other necessary expenses. An increased annual amount of 270l. 3s. 5d. has been insured to the fund by the dropping of leases which the commissioners had refused to renew. They state that within the past year they had been enabled to apply the moneys thus set apart to the augmentation of forty-one benefices, the greater part being livings of very small value, which have been raised to 100l. a year. To beneficiaries of this class they state that their attention had hitherto been solely confined. Lists of such applications for augmentation as the commissioners had received from incumbents in the several dioceses, were sent to the respective dioceses, and their opinion requested as to the merits of these or any other cases which they wished to bring under the notice of the commissioners. The augmentative salaries paid to the clergy from Primate Boulter's Fund within the year amounted to 4,366l. 15s.; and, under the powers vested in the commissioners by the Church Temporalities Acts, 6,409l. 15s. 4d. was paid in the way of stipends to the city of Dublin, and to other curates, and also to diocesan schoolmasters. After providing for various charges, the commissioners within the year appropriated to church works 24,000l. of which 18,460l. 16s. was allocated to repairs, and 5,539l. 4s. to rebuildings, aided by private subscriptions, amounting to 2,359l. 0s. 7d. The repairs undertaken by the commissioners were, they state, only such as appeared absolutely necessary, but in this category they place about three-fourths of the churches in Ireland.

POOR LAW COMMISSIONERS' REPORT.—An account of the money received as poor-rate and expended for the relief of the poor in England and Wales for the parochial year ending Lady-day, 1845. The receipts were 7,009,511l.; the expenditure 6,857,402l. Both amounts corresponded nearly with those of the preceding year. As respects, however, the different counties there were extensive variations: In the six following counties there was a decrease as compared with 1844; Nottingham 12 per cent.; York West Riding 11; Lancaster 9; Chester 5; Durham 5; Stafford 5. In the 8 following counties there was an increase, Huntingdon 12 per cent.; Warwick 9; Anglesey 7; Cambridge 7; Brecon 6; Suffolk 6; Oxford 6; Norfolk 6. It appears that the diminution has chiefly occurred in the manufacturing, and the increase in the agricultural districts. The commissioners attribute this to the extensive and constant demand for manufacturing labour during the year 1845 on the one hand, and on the other hand to the interruption in the employment of the agricultural labourers occasioned by the drought in the summer of 1844, and the length and severity of the cold during the year 1844-5. The total number of paupers relieved during the year 1845 was 1,470,970, being a decrease of 0.1 per cent. upon the number relieved in 1844. In the number of able-bodied paupers relieved in the workhouse during the year 1845 there was a diminution of 10 per cent. as compared with the previous year. In the number of able-bodied paupers who received outdoor relief on account of temporary sickness or accident there was an increase of more than 5 per cent.; but in the number of the same class who received out-door relief on account of all other causes, including vagrants, there was a decrease of nearly six per cent. In the total number of able-bodied persons relieved in 1845, there was a diminution of two 7-16ths per cent. The commissioners state that though they had not then received complete returns of the receipt and expenditure of the poor-rate for the year ending Lady-day, 1846, they were of opinion, that throughout England and Wales, the working classes had, during this period, been steadily employed at wages rather above than below the average rates, as well in the agricultural as the manufacturing parts of the country. The demand for hands in the manufacturing districts, they add, was constant, and the employment of agricultural labourers was much facilitated by the unusual mildness of the winter. During last winter scarcely any workhouse in a rural union was so full as to necessitate the allowance of out-door relief to the able-bodied. Referring to the partial failure of the potato crop for 1845, they state that it had not then in England produced any important influence on the food of the people. Under the head of medical relief, it is stated that in 1845, the number of persons successfully vaccinated was to the number of births as 100 to 140. It appears that during last year, the emigration of poor persons was not so extensive as in former periods, doubtless, in consequence of the greater demand for labour in this country. While the favourable report applies to England, a very different account is applicable to Ireland. There the total number of inmates in workhouses had increased from 41,118 during the week ending December 20, 1845 (being 2,022 more than in the corresponding week of 1844), to 50,717 during the week ending March 28, 1846, being 8,483 more than during the corresponding week of 1845.

EXECUTIONS.—By a return lately printed, obtained by Mr. Ewart (Dumfries), a list is given of the number of persons executed for all crimes, and committed for murder, in England and Wales, from 1813 to 1833, as also the number of persons executed in London and Middlesex from 1825 to 1845 inclusive. In 1813 as many as 120 persons were executed for all crimes, of which 20 were executed at York and 17 in Middlesex (including London). In that year 30 were hung for murder: the number committed for murder was 87. For the three following years the executions (for all crimes) were under 100. In 1817 they numbered 115, in 1819 they were 108, and in the year following 107. In 1821 the number was 114, and from that year to the end of 1833 the number executed in England and Wales for all crimes were under 100 in each year. In 1833 (the last year mentioned), it appears that 25 were executed for all crimes. 52 were committed for murder, in 5 of which there was no prosecution; 30 were acquitted, 4 found to be insane, 9 were convicted, 5 were executed, and 3 committed or pardoned. With respect to the executions in London for the last 21 years (1825 to 1845 inclusive), it appears that the executions in London and Middlesex for all crimes numbered 129, of which 24 were for murder. In the same period 158 were committed for murder, and 71 convicted of the crime. The only trial period in which no execution occurred in London, was 1830, 1835, and 1836. In the seven trial periods embraced in the return respecting London, the following result is given:—In 1825, 1830, and 1837, the number was 53; in the next trial period, 31; in the next, 12; in the next, none; next, 3; next, 4; and the last, 5; so that in the last six years only 12 persons have been executed in London.

DEATH BY ACCIDENTS COMPENSATION.—It gives right of action when death has ensued from an act which, if death had not ensued, would have entitled the injured party to legal redress. Right to bring such action vested in the personal representative of deceased, and damages awarded to go to next of kin according to the canons regulating the distribution of personal estate. proviso, that only one action shall lie in respect to the same subject-matter of complaint.

CORRESPONDENCE.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS ACT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE LAW TIMES.

SIR,—By the 19th sect. of the 5 & 6 Wm. 4, c. 59 (the Cruelty to Animals Prevention Act), all actions, &c. which may be brought or commenced against any person for any thing done in pursuance or under authority of that Act, are to be commenced within one calendar month next after the fact committed, and not afterwards; and fourteen days' notice in writing is to be given of such action. By the 5 & 6 Vict. c. 97, s. 4, it is enacted, "That from and after the passing of this Act, in all cases where notice of action is required, such notice shall be given one calendar month, at least, before any action shall be commenced." From which it would appear, that, as the law now stands, a party aggrieved can have no remedy against any person acting in pursuance or under the authority of the first-mentioned Act, if such person be entitled to notice of action. The point does not appear to have been raised in Layton v. Hurry, 15 Law J. Rep. (n. s.) Q.B. 244; probably that case was considered within the principle of Hopkins v. Crowe, 7 Car. & P. 373, and therefore notice was not required.

I am, Sir, yours, &c.

Truro, Aug. 6, 1846. F. BRAITHWAITE.

POOR PRISONERS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE LAW TIMES.

SIR,—On reading your "Notes upon Circuit," in the LAW TIMES of Saturday last, it struck me,—Why should not prisoners who are acquitted have their costs paid by the county? A man, then, conscious of his innocence, would not be afraid to subpoena or bring up his witnesses, if they were not bound over to appear. It appears to me that this would be quite, if not more reasonable than allowing a prosecutor his expenses where the prosecution fails.

I am, Sir, yours, &c.

RAILWAY BILLS.—Third Report from the Select Committee.—The number of petitions presented are 592; thus:—For railways in England and Wales, 395; Scotland, 120; Ireland, 47.

First Report from the Select Committee on Railways Bills Classification.

COURT OF CHANCERY.—Annual return under the Act 5 & 6 Vict. c. 103, of the state of the several funds standing in the name of the Accountant-General of the Court of Chancery, and the charges upon the same.—On the Sutors' Fund account, the payments for the year ending October 1, 1845, were 99,524l.; leaving a balance in hand, upon the receipts of the year, of 11,933l. On the Fee Fund account, the amount received during the year ending November 24, 1845, for fees, &c. was 134,874l.; the charges, 139,439l.; and the excess of charges, 4,564l.

Miscellaneous.

SCHIEDAM HOLLANDS.—Owing to the late enormous duty on this beautiful and wholesome Spirit, comparatively very little has been used or known in this country. The Public have, therefore, had no opportunity of testing its merits. VINCENT and PUGH, after innumerable experiments and immense outlay in machinery, have at length arrived at that state of perfection which has enabled them to produce an ARTICLE equal in every respect to the finest Foreign. Vincent and Pugh introduce this splendid matchless spirit to the public for their opinion and approbation, which they trust it merits, not only for quality but price, being enabled to offer it at 2s. 6d. per bottle in square Dutch bottles with the cork branded (VINCENT & PUGH), and sealed for security as to its genuineness. To be had of all the respectable retail dealers in and about the metropolis, or of their agent, Mr. Charles Hodder, Castle, Moorgate-street, City, and wholesale, Vincent and Pugh, Distillery, 18, New Park-street, Bowdoin and 10, Good-lane, Old-street, London.

The public attention is particularly called to their Pale Brown British Brandy, which is allowed to be matchless.

LITHOGRAPHY in all its Branches, Mapping, Writing, Planning, Drawing, and Printing, executed in the first style, and on the most moderate terms, at DEAN and CO.'S LITHOGRAPHIC PRINTING OFFICES, 35, 36, to 40, Threadneedle-street, City, where Merchants and the Trade may be supplied with Stationery, the best German Stones and Transfer Paper, Chalks, and Ink, and with their improved Lithographic Press, so excellent in principle and construction, that it is warranted to do the finest work with perfect ease and certainty.

FLOOR-CLOTH WAREHOUSE, No. 253, Strand, near Temple Bar. Established 1816. JOHN WILSON begs respectfully to remind the Public that he continues to supply seasoned Floor-Cloth at the lowest price at which the best article can be manufactured. He has an inspection of his present stock, which for soundness of quality, and variety of pattern, cannot be surpassed.

A LITTLE ADDITION TO COMFORT. IN WALKING, RIDING, AND HUNTING.

Almost every man who wears drawers is bothered to keep them in the right place. The new Compagno Breech (registered Act 4 and 7 Vict.) supports at once both drawers and trousers. This simple contrivance keeps the drawers well up in their place, and is essential to the full sitting of the trousers, and comfort of the wearer. Prices, 2s. 2d., 3s. 6d., 4s. 6d., to 10s. 6d. A great variety at the outfitting warehouse of the inventor, Henry Powell, 102, New Bond-street, where can be seen a large assortment of the new registered Templer Cape for sleeping, travelling, or soiling. The immense sale of which is the strongest proof of the comfort they afford to the many thousands who have tested them. Night-caps, 1s. to 4s.; Travelling, 5s. 6d. to 12s. Either sent to any part of the Kingdom for post-office orders with threepence added to price of each.

The finest German Eau de Cologne, 17s. per case of 6 bottles, 2s. per bottle.

HEAL and SON'S LIST OF BEDDING, containing a full description of weights, sizes, and prices, by which purchasers are enabled to judge the articles that are best suited to make a good set of bedding. Sent free by post, on application to their establishment, the largest in London, exclusively for the manufacture and sale of bedding (no bedsteads or other furniture being kept).—HEAL and SON, Feather Dressers and Bedding Manufacturers, 126, Tottenham-chapel, Tottenham-road.

YACHTING, DRIVING, AND ANGLING.—THE NEW DREADNOUGHT COATS and CAPES, made by J. C. CORDING, will be found by Sailors and Sportsmen to be the best articles ever made up for their use. They will resist the heaviest rain and the fiercest tropical heat for any time, and their durability is equal to that of the articles of the same quality. Officers and others going to the colonies will find these articles invaluable. Gentlemen who drive should use CORDING'S new waterproof driving-aprons and coats, the most serviceable and comfortable things of the kind, and approved by all who have tried them. Ladies' light riding capes, with hoods and sleeves. CORDING'S improved sheet India rubber boots are superior to any thing hitherto made for the comfort of anglers and snipe-shooters. They are light, pliable, and never crack; impervious to water for any length of time, and require no dressing to keep them in condition. Patterns and prices sent on application. Any description of article made to order. London: J. C. CORDING, 231, Strand, five doors west of Temple Bar.

COFFEE AS IN FRANCE.—It is a fact beyond dispute, that in order to obtain really fine Coffee, there must be a certain amount of roast, and the roasting apparatus being constructed in favour, certain proportions should be maintained for their different properties. Thus it is we have become celebrated for our delicious Coffee at 1s. 8d. is the astonishment and delight of all who have tasted it, being the produce of four countries, selected and mixed by rule peculiar to our establishment, in proportions not known to any other house.

From experiments we have made on the various kinds of Coffee, we have arrived at the fact, that no one kind possesses strength and flavour. If we select a very strong Coffee it is wanting in flavour; by the same rule we find the finest and most flavoured Coffee are generally wanting in strength; and as they are usually sold each kind separately, without regard to their various properties, the consumer is not able to obtain really fine Coffee at any price. There is also another peculiar advantage in our Coffee, and that is, that our roasting apparatus being constructed on decidedly scientific principles, whereby the strong aromatic flavour of the Coffee is preserved, which, in the ordinary process of roasting, is entirely destroyed; and as we are coffee roasters, we are enabled to keep a full supply of fresh roasted Coffee continually, after the Turkish and Continental modes.

The rapid and still increasing demand for this Coffee has caused great excitement in the trade, and several unprincipled houses have copied our papers and profess to sell a similar article. We, therefore, think it right to CAUTION the public, and to state that our superior mixture of four countries is a discovery of our own, and therefore the proportions are not known, nor can it be had at any other house. In future we shall distinguish it from all others as SPARROW'S CONTINENTAL COFFEE, at 1s. 8d. per lb.

Packet in this of all sizes perfectly all-right for the colony. We have also strong and useful Coffee, from 1s. to 1s. 4d. Several Tea Establishments, 35, High Holborn, adjoining Day and Martin's, leading through into 22, Dean-street.

HENRY SPARROW, Proprietor.

THE NEW TOOTH-BRUSH, made on the most scientific principles, thoroughly cleansing between the teeth, when used up and down, and polishing the surface when used sideways. This Brush so entirely enters between the closest teeth, that the inventors have decided upon naming it the TOOTHPEICK BRUSH; therefore ask for it under that name, marked and numbered as under:—No. 1, full-sized Brush, marked T.P.W. No. 1, hard; No. 2, less hard; No. 3, middling; No. 4, soft. The narrow Brushes, marked T.P.N. No. 5, hard; No. 6, less hard; No. 7, middling; No. 8, soft. These diminutive Brushes are only to be had at ROSS and SONS, and the wearer of his hair never to come to the hair falling out.

THE ATRIPLATY, or LIQUID HAIR DYE.—The only Dye that really grows for all colours, and does not require re-doing, but as the hair grows, so it naturally fades or changes to a different colour, or perhaps to a different dye. ROSS and SONS can, with the greatest confidence, recommend the above Dye as infallible, if done at their establishment; and ladies or gentlemen requiring it are requested to bring a friend or servant with them to see how it is used, which will enable them to do it afterwards with the greatest success. Several private apartments devoted entirely to the above purpose, and some of their establishments having used it, the effect produced can be at once seen. They think it necessary to add, that by attending strictly to the instructions given with each bottle of the Dye, numerous persons have succeeded without coming to the hair falling out. Address ROSS and SONS, 119 and 120, Bishopsgate-street, London, the celebrated Perruquiers, Perfumers, Hair-cutters, and Hair-dyers. N.B. Parties attended at their own residences, whatever the distance.

BY COMMAND OF HER MAJESTY'S GOVERNMENT.

IN consequence of the many cures achieved by the constant use of GRIMSTONE'S EYE-SNUFF, manufactured by choice British Chemists, Government having ascertained the above fact, has commanded W. GRIMSTONE, of 43, Oxford-street, to affix a medicine stamp on all caskets bearing the label as sanctioned by the Lords of the Treasury in 1836, and approved by the Stamp Solicitor in 1837. That this celebrated Grimstone's Eye-Snuff will be sold by all Choice British Vendors, in caskets, 1s. 6d., 1s. 3d., 1s. 1d., 6d., 4d., 3d., 2d., 1d., and 1/2d. each, stamp included, and forwarded through the post, upon receipt of a Money Order for 2s. 7d. a 2s. 7d. casket will be forwarded from W. GRIMSTONE, Merchant, 484, Oxford-street, London.

CARSON'S ORIGINAL ANTI-CORROSION

PAINT, specially patronized by the British and other Governments, the Hon. East-India Company, the principal Dock Companies, and other public bodies, &c. is particularly recommended to the Nobility, Gentry, Agriculturists, Manufacturers, West-India Proprietors, and others, it having been proved, by the practical test of nearly thirty years, to surpass all other Paints as an out-door preservative. It is extensively used for the preservation of wooden houses, farm and other out-buildings, farming implements, conservatories, park paling, gates, iron railings, iron hurdles, copper, zinc, lead, brick, stone, old copper and stucco fronts, and tiles to represent slating. The superiority of the ANTI-CORROSION over every other paint, for out-door purposes, may be easily inferred from the simple fact that its use has been always most extensively approved by colour manufacturers, painters, oil and colourmen, and others interested in the paint trade. It is also very economical, any labourer being able to lay it on. Colours—light stone, drab or Portland ditto, Bath ditto, light and dark yellow ditto, light and dark oak, light and dark lead, light and dark chocolate, light and dark green, light and dark blue, light and dark red, 60s.; bright ditto, 60s.; deep green, 60s. per cwt.; in casks, 25 lbs., 56 lbs., and 112 lbs. each. Oil and Brushes. More detailed particulars will be sent, free of postage. The original ANTI-CORROSION PAINT is only to be obtained of WALTER CARSON (successor to the inventors), 15, Tottenham-yard, back of the Bank of England, who will show nearly 300 Testimonials received from the Nobility, Gentry, and Clergy, who have used the Anti-Corrosion for many years at their country seats. W. C. is reluctantly compelled to caution the Public against the spurious imitations of his original ANTI-CORROSION PAINT, now offered for sale. He has no agents whatever. All orders are particularly requested to be sent direct.

CARVING IN WOOD.—The important reduction in the price of carving in wood as executed by the patent process enables the proprietors to encourage the prevailing taste by supplying the most exquisite specimens of genius in the Gothic, Elizabethan, French, and Italian styles, adapted to all architectural purposes, and every possible variety of elaborate decoration. The proprietors solicit an inspection of the specimens executed by this simple and beautiful process, at their offices, 444, West Strand, or at their works, Ranelagh-road, Thames-bank. Published by J. Woake, 95, Holborn, Part I., II., III., and IV. price 2s. each (to be continued), containing exceedingly beautiful drawings of elaborate Carving in Wood, produced by the Patent Wood Carving Company, 444, West Strand.

A NEW DISCOVERY.—MR. HOWARD, Surgeon-Dentist, 62, Fleet-street, begs to introduce an ENTIRELY NEW DESCRIPTION OF ARTIFICIAL TEETH, fixed without springs, wires, or ligatures. They so perfectly resemble the natural Teeth as not to be distinguished from the original, and are so constructed, that they will NEVER CHANGE COLOUR OR DECAY, and will be found very superior to any Teeth ever before used. This method does not require the extraction of roots or any painful operation, and will give support and preserve teeth that are loose, and is guaranteed to restore articulation and mastication; and that Mr. Howard's Artificial Teeth are within the reach of the most economical, he has fixed his charges at the lowest scale possible. Decayed teeth rendered sound and useful in mastication.—62, Fleet-street. At home from Ten till Five.

AN INFALLIBLE HAIR DYE.

ROWLAND'S MELACOMIA, the most successful Liquid Preparation, ever known in this or any other country for the cure of the Head, Whiskers, Mustaches, and Eyebrows a natural and permanent brown or black, so exactly resembling the natural colour of the hair as to defy detection. It is perfectly innocent in its nature, is free from any unpleasant smell, and can be used by any lady or gentleman with the greatest ease and secrecy. Its effect is so permanent that it never wears off, and its application will induce it, and it is entirely free from those properties (usual in hair dyes) which give an unnatural red or purple tint to the hair. Price, 5s. Prepared by A. ROWLAND and SON, 20, HATTON GARDEN, London. Sold by them and by Chemists and Perfumers.

F. JOYCE'S ANTI-CORROSION PERCUSSION CAPS.

The Nobility, Gentry, and Sporting World at large, are respectfully informed, that this well-known and successful invention in every respect, which has now stood the test of many years experience, both at home and abroad, may be had as usual of all respectable Gun-makers and dealers in Gunpowder throughout the United Kingdom. To prevent accident and disappointment to purchasers, from the use of spurious imitations, they are requested to observe the name and address of F. JOYCE, ORIGINAL INVENTOR and SOLE MANUFACTURER, on each sealed packet, without which they are not genuine. This precaution is rendered necessary by some unprincipled individuals having imitated the Labels and Wrappers.

COCOA-NUT FIBRE.—This substance envelopes

the shell of the nutty coco-nut, around which it forms a strong protective net-work, and is a substance of great value, and is adapted for manufacturing it into many useful articles—such as carpets for stairs and passages, matting for churches, public buildings, offices, nurseries, and kitchens; heart-rugs, door-mats, ropes, netting for sheep-folds, &c.; but among the applications there is not one to which cotton cannot be substituted. It is a substance of great value, and is adapted for horse-hair, wool, and flock. It is very elastic, and affords great ease and support to the body, whether used with or without a feather-bed. It has also the additional recommendation of being so obnoxious to vermin that they will not live in it; whilst, if used in a bed, it will keep the bed cool, even in the hottest weather, and will engender no animalcules. Possessing peculiar chemical properties that render it a non-absorbent, the fibre is particularly suitable for children's beds, for use of schools, in all large dormitories, and as such. Cocoa-nut fibre mattresses are only about one-third the price of those made of hair, and will last much longer. They may be had on application at the warehouse, or will be sent free by post.

AN INDEX TO THE LAW.

Just published.

THE LAW DIGEST.—A complete Index to all the Reports that appeared during the Half-year ending the 1st of January, last. Price 5s. 6d. in a stout wrapper. To be continued half-yearly.

"The object of this Digest is to enable the Practitioner to find in a moment what has been the law decided on any subject, with reference to the authorities.

"This laborious undertaking is intended to supply the practitioner with a ready reference to all the law decided during the half-year ending on the 1st of January, and it is, if successful, to be continued half-yearly. The plan is simple and convenient. All the cases reported during the half year are arranged under their proper subjects, and these are placed alphabetically. If, therefore, the practitioner wants to ascertain what cases have been decided, say on the law of "Executors," he turns to that title, and under it he will find every case, wheresoever reported, briefly digested with reference to the report or reports, if more than one, where it appears. Besides this, there is an index to the names of cases, and to the names both of defendants and plaintiffs, so that if one be forgotten the case may still be traced by means of the other. The peculiarity of this work, and that in which it differs from any other digest, is, that it includes all the reports, whereas all the other digests exclude some, being guided in their selection, not by the wants of the practitioner, but according to the rivalries of publishers. The plan of this digest is to omit none, and its consequent completeness gives it a peculiar value and utility. The amount of exclusion from the other digests may be judged by this, that the Digest before us, although embracing the reports only for half-a-year, contains more cases than does either of the others for a whole year, and the mere index of the names of the cases digested occupies no less than twenty-four closely printed columns. There is also a table of the statutes cited, arranged in chronological order.

"It will not become us to express an opinion upon the merits of this publication. We can only give a description of it, leaving it to the reader from that description to determine whether it is likely to be an acquisition to his office."

LONDON:—Printed by HENRY MORRELL COX, of 74, Great Queen Street, in the Parish of St. Giles in the Fields, in the County of Middlesex, Printer, at his Printing Office, 74 & 75, Great Queen Street aforesaid, and published by JOHN CROCKFORD, of 29, Essex Street, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the City of Westminster, at the Office of the LAW TIMES, No. 29, Essex Street aforesaid, on Saturday, the 13th day of August, 1846.

TO be SOLD by AUCTION, early in the month of OCTOBER (unless previously disposed of by private contract, of which due notice will be given), in one or various lots, as may be determined at the time of sale, the valuable buildings and premises known by the name of the TANGIER IRON FOUNDRY, situate at Taunton, in the county of Somerset, where for many years past an extensive business has been conducted. The buildings are all extremely substantial, and so erected that they may, at slight cost, be converted into dwelling-houses. The whole adjoins the proposed site for the new church, and will afford admirable opportunity for any person desirous of continuing the business, or to make a street of excellent houses, in a favourite locality, which would yield a large revenue. Any person desirous of continuing the ironfoundry and smithy might have the buildings for a term, at a moderate revenue.

For further particulars, apply to Mr. C. CORFIELD, Architect, Taunton; W. R. HARRIS, Esq. Solicitor, 22, Lincoln's-inn-fields, London; and, for particulars and to view, at Tangier House, Taunton; or at the office of the Somerset County Gazette, Taunton.

N.B.—Should not the above be sold or let by private contract, further advertisements will announce the day and place of sale.

Periodical Sale of Reversions, Life Interests, Annuities, Life Policies, Advowsons, Next Presentations, and all descriptions of Securities dependent upon human life, Ground and Improved Rents, Post Obit Bonds, Shares in Railways, Mines, Insurance Companies, and all other public undertakings.

MR. MARSH (late Fuller and Marsh) respectfully informs the Public, that his PERIODICAL SALES by AUCTION of the above description of PROPERTY will be continued throughout the present year as follows:—

Thursday, September 3. Thursday, November 5.
Thursday, October 1. Thursday, December 3.
Notice of sales intended to be effected by the above means should be forwarded to Mr. MARSH 14 days prior to each date.—No. 27, Bucklersbury, corner of Charlotte-row, Mansion-house, London.

ADDLESTONE, SURREY.—Valuable Freehold and Copyhold Estate, delightfully situated in this much-admired, dry, and healthy village, within a quarter of a mile of the Station on the Egham Branch of the South-Western Railway at Weybridge, one hour's ride from London, and one mile of the capital market-town of Chertsey.

MR. WARREN respectfully announces that he has been favoured with instructions to SELL, at the Crown Inn, Chertsey, on WEDNESDAY, the 26th AUGUST, 1846, at Two, in Eight Lots, FORTY ACRES of LAND, of excellent quality, and in part tithe-free, most desirably situate in the highly respectable and improving village of Addlestone, and possessing the very extensive frontage of 500 yards to the high road leading from Windsor to Guildford and Brighton, and admirably adapted for building purposes; also a comfortable Farm-house, Barn, Yard, and Outbuildings; the whole having been held on lease by the late Mr. Perry and his Widow, whose term expires at Michaelmas next, when (or before) possession may be had.

May be viewed upon application to Mrs. Perry, at the farm-house, opposite the George Inn, Addlestone, where printed particulars, with plans, may be obtained; also of Messrs. BRIDGES, MASON, and BRIDGES, Solicitors, Red Lion-square; at the Griffin, Kingston; White Lion, Staines; Greyhound, Richmond; Bear, Esher; at the place of sale; and of Mr. WARREN, Land and Timber Surveyor and Valuer, Isleworth.

TO BE SOLD by PRIVATE CONTRACT, a FREEHOLD ESTATE, consisting of 100 acres, the greatest part excellent pasture and dairy land, and three fields of arable land, a good farm-house lately built, and suitable outbuildings lying in a ring-fence, in the county of Gloucester, and in the occupation of a most respectable tenant, who has held it for forty years, upon a yearly rent of 160l. per annum, which he pays with punctuality.

Also a Freehold Estate consisting of about sixty-three acres of excellent arable land lying near the above, and let at the rent of 120l. per annum.

The two above-described estates are situate within a few miles of two railway stations, and have the advantage of numerous and excellent roads and market-towns.

They will be sold together or separate, and (if any accommodation) the vendor will allow a portion of the purchase-money to remain on mortgage at 3½ per cent. for a term.

For particulars and orders to view, apply to RICHARDSON, SMITH, and SADLER, 28, Golden-square.

Sales by Auction.

WEST HAM, ESSEX.—Valuable FREEHOLD HOUSES, and large Garden. Land-tax redeemed.

MR. GEORGE TRIST is instructed to SELL by AUCTION, at Garraway's, Change-alley, Cornhill, on WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 26, at Twelve, in one lot, three convenient DWELLING HOUSES, situate Nos. 1, 2, and 3, Prospect-place, close to West Ham church; Nos. 1 and 2 lately let at rents amounting to 47*l.* per annum, and No. 3, at present occupied by a respectable tenant, at the low rent of 16*l.* per annum. The premises occupy a valuable frontage to the Plaistow-road of upwards of 60 feet, and at the rear is a large garden 400 feet deep, offering sufficient space for the erection of numerous small cottages, for which tenants could readily be found, presenting to a purchaser an opportunity of securing a large rental at a comparatively small outlay. The property may be seen, and particulars had of E. SEXTON, Esq. Solicitor, 75, Cornhill; at the Swan Inn, Stratford; at Garraway's; and of Mr. GEORGE TRIST, Auctioneer and Estate Agent, 80, Old Broad-street, Royal Exchange.

Valuable Leasehold Estates, Holloway.

MR. GEORGE TRIST will SELL by AUCTION, at Garraway's, Change-alley, Cornhill, on WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 26, at Twelve, in Six Lots, by direction of the Assignees of Mr. Goodale, and with the consent of the Mortgagees, a VALUABLE and IMPROVABLE PROPERTY, comprising eleven well built dwelling-houses, Nos. 7 to 17, inclusive, Rutland-Terrace, Hornsey-road, held for 97 years unexpired, at low ground-rents, and at present of the estimated value of about 400*l.* per annum, but fairly calculated that, upon the completion of the contemplated new roads through a portion of the estates of Miss Sebbons and Mr. Flowers, leading from the Great Northern Road (opposite the Liverpool-road) to Hornsey, a very large increased rental may with certainty be relied upon.—Particulars may be had of W. Whitmore, esq. Official Assignee, 3, Bevinghall-street; T. D. Keighley, esq. Solicitor, 75, Bevinghall-street; Messrs. Beaumont and Thompson, Solicitors, 19, Lincoln's-inn-fields; of F. W. Remnant, esq. Solicitor, 75, Chancery-lane; of Joseph Wheelock, esq. Solicitor, 18, Chancery-lane; of T. W. Angell, esq. Solicitor, 3, Deane's-court, Doctors'-commons; of Mr. Flowers, Brickmaker, opposite Rutland-terrace (who will show the property, and at whose office a plan of the contemplated improvements may be seen); and of Mr. GEORGE TRIST, Auctioneer and Estate Agent, 80, Old Broad-street, Royal Exchange.

Stepney and Commercial-road.—Small Leasehold Investments.

MR. GEORGE TRIST is instructed by the administratrix of the late Mr. James Sherwood to SELL by AUCTION, at Garraway's, Change Alley, Cornhill, on WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 26, at Twelve, in two lots, SMALL LEASEHOLD HOUSES. Lot 1.—Two substantially-built dwelling-houses, elegantly situated Nos. 2 and 3, Prospect-place, Back-lane, Cannon-street Road, held for a term of about 39 years unexpired, at 4*l.* ground-rent, and occupied by most respectable tenants, at rents amounting to 48*l.* per annum. Lot 2.—A small dwelling, with large yard and frontage of 49 feet, situated in York-place, Stepney, close to the World's End public-house; held for about 37 years unexpired, at 5*l.* 6*s.* per annum, and let at 21*l.* per annum.—May be seen by permission of the tenants, and particulars had of Messrs. MALTBY and GRANT, Solicitors, 10, Broad-street Buildings; at Garraway's; and of Mr. G. TRIST, Auctioneer and Estate Agent, 80, Old Broad-street, Royal Exchange.

Important Investment.—To Capitalists and Others.

TO be SOLD by AUCTION, by Mr. STAFFORD, at his Rooms, in Milcom-street, on SATURDAY, the 5th day of SEPTEMBER, 1846, at Twelve for One o'clock precisely, the REVERSIONARY INTEREST of an individual expectant on the decease of a lady, now in her sixty-third year, of and in One-Seventh Part or Share of the sum of 32,437*l.* 1*s.* 8*d.* now standing with other moneys in the names of trustees, as follows, viz:—16,539*l.* 5*s.* Consols; 7,564*l.* 10*s.* 3*d.* per Cents; 8,333*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* 3 per Cents. Total, 32,437*l.* 1*s.* 8*d.*—For further particulars, apply to R. VINER, esq. Solicitor, 24, Charles-street; or at the Auctioneer's Offices, Milcom-street, Bath. Bath, 18th August, 1846.

Periodical Sale of Reversions, Life Interests, Annuities, Life Policies, Advertisements, Next Presentations, and all descriptions of Securities dependent upon human life, Ground and Improved Rents, Post Office Bonds, Shares in Railways, Mines, Insurance Companies, and all other public undertakings.

MR. MARSH (late Fuller and Marsh) respectfully informs the Public, that his PERIODICAL SALES by AUCTION of the above description of PROPERTY will be continued throughout the present year as follows:—
Thursday, September 3. Thursday, November 5.
Thursday, October 1. Thursday, December 3.
Notice of sales intended to be effected by the above means should be forwarded to Mr. MARSH 14 days prior to each date.—No. 27, Bucklersbury, corner of Charlotte-row, Mansion-house, London.

BOGNOR, SUSSEX.—Valuable Land for Building Purposes.

MESSRS. WINSTANLEY respectfully acquaint the public that they have received instructions from the mortgagees to SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, in London, on THURSDAY, AUGUST 27, in one lot, about 38 acres of Freehold Building Land, having a considerable frontage to the sea, and situated at Bognor, in the county of Sussex, a delightful, healthy, and improving watering-place, within easy distance of Chichester, Brighton, and Worthing, now possessing the advantage of railway communication with the metropolis. This property offers an eligible opportunity for the employment of capital, and securing an excellent return for letting it off on building leases, at ground-rents.—Printed particulars may be had in London, of Mr. Hodgson, 22, Broad-street Buildings; of Messrs. WINSTANLEY, Paternoster-row; and at the place of sale. Also of Mr. J. M. OGDEN, Solicitor, Sunderland; Mr. Weller and Mr. Wright, at Chichester; the Norfolk Arms, at Little Hampton, and Arundel; the Hotels at Worthing and Bognor; and of Mr. Creasy, Auctioneer, Brighton.

Leasehold Property at Norwood for Investment and Occupation.

MESSRS. WINSTANLEY are instructed by the Executors and Executrix to SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on THURSDAY, 27th AUGUST, in one lot, without reserve, FOUR convenient and well-planned FAMILY RESIDENCES, near to St. Luke's Church, at Norwood, each containing ample accommodation for a moderate sized establishment, with the advantage of an abundant supply of spring water. There is a stable and coach-house, front and back gardens, carriage drive, &c. The property is leasehold, for 99 years, at a ground rent of 43*l.* and the lowest estimated rental is 260*l.* per annum, and as an investment offers a desirable opportunity for any person who could occupy one of the houses, and let off the others.—To be viewed by applying on the premises, where particulars may be obtained. Particulars may also be obtained of Messrs. HOLME, LOFTUS and YOUNG, No. 10, at the New Inn; at the Jolly Sailor, Norwood; the White Horse, Brixton-road; the George Canning, Effra-road; and at the Mart.

Freehold Ground-rents, amounting to 661*l.* per annum, secured upon 111 Private Houses, Shops, and Public Houses, on the Latimer-road Estate, Hammersmith.

MR. FREDERICK CHINNOCK begs to announce that he has been honoured with instructions to SUBMIT for PEREMPTORY SALE by PUBLIC COMPETITION, at the Auction Mart, on WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 26, at Twelve, the above valuable FREEHOLD GROUND-RENTS, which are most abundantly secured upon the leading portion of the Latimer-road Estate, situate in the parish of Hammersmith, and bounded on the west by the West London Railway, constituting the entire of Swanscombe-place, seventeen private houses in Clifton-row, the Duke of Sussex Tavern, four residences in Latimer-row, the whole of Crafter, Windsor, and Hatfield Terraces, the Globe Tavern, and Park Cottages, &c. producing a rental of about 2700*l.* per annum, and the leases of which are all executed. They will be offered in lots under the different leases, so as not only to meet the wishes of the small as well as the large capitalists to invest, but also to enable the lessees to make their leaseholds freeholds. Descriptive particulars, with plans of the estate, may be obtained of Messrs. TILSON, SQUANCE, CLARKE, and MORRICE, Solicitors, 29, Coleman-street, City; at the Auction Mart; and at Mr. FREDERICK CHINNOCK'S Auction and Estate Offices, 24, Regent-street, Waterloo-place.

TO be SOLD by AUCTION, early in the month of OCTOBER (unless previously disposed of by private contract, of which due notice will be given), in one or various lots, as may be determined at the time of sale, the valuable buildings and premises known by the name of the TANGIER IRON FOUNDRY, situate at Taunton, in the county of Somerset, where for many years past an extensive business has been conducted. The buildings are all extremely substantial, and so erected that they may, at slight cost, be converted into dwelling-houses. The whole adjoins the proposed site for the new church, and will afford admirable opportunity for any person desirous of continuing the business, or to make a street of excellent houses, in a favourite locality, which would yield a large revenue. Any person desirous of continuing the ironfoundry and smithy might have the buildings for a term, at a moderate revenue. For further particulars, apply to Mr. C. CORFIELD, Architect, Taunton; W. R. HARRIS, Esq. Solicitor, 29, Lincoln's-inn-fields, London; and, for particulars and to view, at Tangier House, Taunton; or at the office of the Somerset County Gazette, Taunton.

N.B.—Should not the above be sold or let by private contract, further advertisements will announce the day and place of sale.

DEEDS FOR EXECUTION ABROAD.—Messrs. J. and R. M'CRACKEN, Foreign Agents, No. 7, Old Jewry, beg to inform the Legal Profession, that they undertake to forward Deeds for Execution by Parties abroad, through their correspondents on the Continent, for the costs of transmission, and a simple commission. List of Correspondents, and for further information, apply as above.

DISEASED & HEALTHY LIVES ASSURED.

MEDICAL, INVALID, & GENERAL LIFE OFFICE,
23, Pall Mall, London, and 23, Nassau Street, Dublin.

Subscribed Capital £50,000.

THIS OFFICE WAS ESTABLISHED

in 1841, and possesses tables formed on a scientific basis for the assurance of diseased lives. The urgent necessity for an institution like the present may be estimated by the statement that two-thirds of the population are not insurable as healthy lives, and that about one in five of the applicants to other offices is declined on examination. Of the proposals accepted by this Society during the last three years, nearly 300 had been rejected among upwards of 80 other offices. These cases came under the class of the most prevalent diseases, and the various parties could not have participated in the advantages of life assurance had not this Society been in existence, as it is the only one possessing tabulated rates of premium deduced from extensive data.

Premiums have been determined for the assurance of persons at every age, among those afflicted with consumption, asthma, bronchitis, pneumonia, disease of the heart, apoplexy, paralysis, epilepsy, insanity, disease of the liver, dropsy, scrofula, gout, rheumatism, &c.

These circumstances induce the Directors to believe that by the establishment of this office they have conferred an important benefit upon those whose condition made such a provision as assurance necessary, and they are therefore led to expect a powerful support from the public. Increased assurances are granted on sound lives. Healthy lives are assured at lower rates than at most other offices, and a capital of half a million sterling, fully subscribed, affords a complete guarantee for the fulfilment of the Society's engagements.

F. G. P. NEISON, Actuary.

NORTH BRITISH INSURANCE COMPANY, 4, New Bank Buildings, and 10, Pall-Mall East.

Tables of increasing premiums have been formed on a plan peculiar to this company, whereby assurance may be effected for the whole of life, the premium commencing very low, and gradually increasing during the first five years, after which a uniform premium is paid during the remainder of life.

SPECIMEN OF THE TABLES.
Premium for Assuring £100.

Age	First Year.	Second Year.	Third Year.	Fourth Year.	Fifth Year.	Remainder of life
	s. d.	s. d.	s. d.	s. d.	s. d.	s. d.
30	1 3 9	1 5 2	1 6 8	1 8 4	1 10 0	2 10 5
40	1 11 10	1 13 9	1 15 10	1 18 1	1 20 6	3 8 3

This table is not only suitable to those who, from the prospect of an increasing income, or other circumstances, prefer paying a smaller sum during the first few years, but is also decidedly the best mode of insuring with the view of securing the repayment of temporary loans. It is preferable to a period policy, as it may be continued to the end of life, without requiring new certificates of health, or incurring a higher rate of premium.

A Prospectus may be obtained of the Secretary, Henry T. Thompson, esq., 4, New Bank-buildings, or of the Actuary, 10, Pall Mall East.

To Readers and Correspondents.

We cannot insert, or notice in any way, any communication that is sent to us anonymously; but those who choose to address us in confidence will find their confidence respected. NEITHER CAN WE UNDERTAKE TO RETURN ANY MANUSCRIPTS WHATSOEVER.

M. C. de L. (Manchester).—We referred the communication to our short-hand writer, who states that the judgment was not delivered in the Common Law Courts. To enable us to trace it, our correspondent should name the Equity Court in which he presumes the judgment was delivered.
H. T. (Plymouth).—The lectures of Professor Carey are not published collectively, and can only be obtained in the columns of the LAW TIMES.

T. A. W. (Clifford's-inn).—It is a rule with this journal, often announced, not to give replies to questions on law. A pleader or counsel is the proper party to whom such queries should be submitted.

AN ARTICLED CLERK.—The Real Property division of Stephens, Blackstone, and Preston's Conveyancing. There were several judgments delivered last Term, which, owing to the absence of counsel on circuit and vacation, and the consequent difficulty of getting the pleadings and arguments, are not yet reported, but which will appear as soon as they can be completed.

ERRATUM.—For Major "Baines," in the 1st col. of advertising page, LAW TIMES, No. 173, read Major "Barnes."

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS.

The volumes of the LAW TIMES, neatly, strongly, and uniformly bound, for 5s. 6d. each, with the name and address of the owner on the cover, 1s. extra, if sent to the office. If the numbers for binding be transmitted by the post, they must be tied in a parcel open at the ends, and contain some distinguishing mark by which it may be recognised, of which the publisher should be advised by letter and directed how he shall return the bound volume. Advantage may be taken of the same parcel to enclose other books for binding.

INDEX TO THE LAW.

The LAW DIGEST for the half-year ending Jan. 1 is now ready. It forms a complete Index to the Law decided during the half-year, and contains upwards of 2,000 cases. Price 5s. 6d. in a wrapper. Being stamped, it can be transmitted by post.

NECROLOGY.

SIR CHARLES WETHERELL.

THERE never probably departed this life an individual who stood less in need of posthumous praise than the late Sir Charles Wetherell. Though he lived, more especially in the earlier portion of his life, in times of fierce public excitement, and passed the greater portion of his manhood and mature age in the keenest forensic and political encounters, in which he never spared a professional or political adversary, yet such was the openness and candour of his nature—such the sincerity and honesty of his convictions—such the straightforwardness and boldness of his extreme opinions—that he had no personal enemy while living; and now that he has gone unexpectedly to the tomb, his bitterest political opponents—if indeed there were any such—mourn over his melancholy and untimely end as sincerely as his most attached personal friends. This result is owing, not so much to the graces of his mind or the endowments of his understanding, as to the strength, sincerity, and honesty of his convictions. In a corrupt, a venal, and vacillating age he never countenanced professional or political frailty, by his example; he professed to the last the principles with which he started as a public man. As a lawyer and as an advocate, Sir Charles Wetherell attained in his day a very high, if not the highest position. Called to the bar 51 years ago, he commenced his earliest practice in the Court of King's Bench, when that court was presided over by Lord Kenyon, and when the first law offices under the Crown were filled by Sir John Scott, afterwards Lord Eldon, and Chancellor of England, and Sir John Mitford, afterwards Lord Redesdale, and Chancellor of Ireland. The foremost men of the English bar were then not merely lawyers, but scholars and orators, and no better school of dialectical discipline could have been chosen for a young advocate than the arena of the King's Bench. There in the foremost rank stood Erskine, Law, Gibbs, Topping, Mingay, Shepherd, Dallas, Cockell, Garrow, Adair, Adam, Lens, and Park, while the junior briefs were held by such men as Percival, Holroyd, Romilly, Wigley, Chambre, and Bayley. In such a school, where nothing base or mean was tolerated, Mr. Wetherell first learned the nature of the duties of an English advocate, and to the last moment he was faithful to his conception of the high and honourable calling in which he had embarked. After practising for some years in the courts of common law, with no very distinguished success, Mr. Wetherell followed Lord Eldon into the Court of Chancery, and here he soon obtained a considerable share of business. It was supposed from his early connection with the Lord Chancellor that he would have been appointed Solicitor-General in 1816 in place of Sir Samuel Shepherd, but that office was conferred on Mr. Gifford in 1817, a person much Mr. Wetherell's junior in point of years and standing, as well as in general learning. The first case in which Mr. Wetherell greatly distinguished himself, and came prominently before the public, was the defence of Watson, which he volunteered in 1817. It was said at the time that he undertook this defence from a rancorous feeling of disappointment, but they who thus spoke of Mr. Wetherell knew not his character, for rancour was not in his nature. That he might have felt pique is very possible, and is not under the circumstances extraordinary. That he exerted himself strenuously and successfully is very certain, for his client obtained a verdict of acquittal. Within a year and a half after this period—namely, in 1820—Mr. Wetherell was returned to Parliament for the city of Oxford, and from this period his political life may be said to have commenced. He sat in Parliament from the year 1820 until the year 1833, was twice, during that period, Attorney-General, and although during these thirteen years he spoke as often and as vehemently as any man who ever addressed the chair, yet such was the impress of truth and sincerity, with which his language and conduct were stamped, that no man ever thought of questioning his motives, or doubting the ardour and honesty of a zeal which might not have been always prudent or wise.

Of this, in our day, unparalleled political integrity, Sir Charles Wetherell afforded two memorable examples: first, in his refusal to serve the Government of Mr. Canning, in 1827; and, secondly, in his resignation of the office of Attorney-General, under the Duke of Wellington, in 1829. Had he on either occasion preferred interest to principle, he might have held the highest offices in the state, and encircled his brow with a coronet; but, preferring principle to place, he renounced office, official emolument, and titled rank, but maintained his honour, his character, and consistency, to the last.

As a scholar Sir Charles Wetherell was a man of very varied and general attainments. In classical lore his reading was most extensive, and his quotations were often apposite and happy. In English history, too, he was well read, and his memory being exceedingly retentive, he was enabled to bring his knowledge extensively to bear on questions of an historical-legal character.

As a lawyer, his learning was most recondite and extensive, and he understood law as a science well; but in a knowledge of the practice of the courts, and in the intricacies of particular branches of the profession, he was surpassed by many, even his inferiors in powers of mind and general scholarship.

As an advocate, he was distinguished by strength, forcibleness, and untiring zeal, but he wanted tact, discretion, and consummate skill, though he was neither deficient in acuteness, subtlety, nor ingenuity. His most conspicuous defects were dilative verbosity and endless repetition, and want of a clear arrangement. As a parliamentary speaker, though he almost always amused the House, yet he sometimes wearied it too, and never, therefore, took a high rank. Though abounding with learning of every kind, and fluent, forcible, humorous, and witty by turns, yet such was the effect of his droll manner, of his numerous digressions and repetitions, of his prolixity and occasional involution and obscurity, that attention began to flag and the benches to thin of occupants; but a new jest or a recondite remark, happily hit off, would recall the wanderers, and Sir Charles generally sat down amidst a torrent of applause.

For the last thirteen years that voice, which is now mute for ever, had not been heard within the walls of St. Stephen's, and was not indeed often heard in the Court of Chancery; but although Sir Charles had in a great degree retired from public life, yet he was not forgotten by the English people, who love honesty and reverent consistency; and when the successful intriguers, political impostors, and public knaves of the last twenty years shall be forgotten, or remembered only with loathing and contempt, the name of Wetherell will be cited as embodying all the attributes appertaining to that noblest work of God, an honest man.—Morning Herald.

MINT.—Returns for the year ending Dec. 31, 1845, under 7 Wm. 4, c. 9, s. 3, and 4. The monies coined during the year were—gold, 16,029l.; silver, 647,658l.; and copper, 6,944l.

Miscellaneous.

EYE BROWS, MOUSTACHES, AND WHISKERS.—This is an Essential Spirit, drawn by the Laboratory from choice Aromatic Herbs. The Regenerator will remove hair on bald places caused by weakness of constitution, &c. and is a certain preventive of Headache and Fainting. Sold in triangular bottles, with name, &c. at 4s. 7s. and 1s. each, government stamp, and a pamphlet of testimonials and advice, included. Sent through the post at 4s. 7s. 6d. and 1s. by all Chemists, Medicine Vendors, and W. GRIMSTONE, Herbarist, Highgate, near London.

TONIC MILK OF ORANGE.—A Delicious Cordial, and sweetener of the breath. Patronized by the Royal Family and Nobility, and recommended by the Faculty. The Milk of Orange (warranted to be extracted from fruit) warms the stomach, creates appetite, digests the food, strengthens the lungs, clears and improves the Voice for Singing, enlivens the spirits, dispels nervous debility, and purifies and sweetens the breath. It is particularly recommended to gentlemen on leaving home in the morning or after smoking a cigar, while to ladies it will be equally grateful on going to a party or ball, for its invigorating influence on the mind and spirits, and its refreshing effect on the organs of health. It may be added, that as a lively but gentle stimulant wholly unaltered with spirituous ingredients, it will prove extremely grateful to that numerous class of persons, who, on principles of abstinence refrain from all intoxicating drinks.

Prepared by A. ROWLAND and SON, 20, Hatton-garden, London. Half-pints, 2s. 9d.; Pints, 4s. 6d.; Quarts, 9s. Sold by them, and by chemists and perfumers.

VICKERS'S CURACAO PUNCH.—This delightful LIQUEUR stands pre-eminent as a finished specimen of what Punch should be. It is a high state of concentration; and when diluted, presents to the connoisseur in tangible reality, that which before existed but in imagination. That truly valuable stomachic JAMAICA GINGER, is also most successfully combined with other wholesome ingredients; and introduced as a delicious Liqueur, known as ORANGE GINGERETTE, and in a stronger form (as an aromatic stimulant), under the title of GINGER BRANDY. These, as well as the celebrated IMPERIAL LIQUEUR GENEVA, may be obtained of all the Spirit Merchants in the kingdom. In order more effectually to protect the quality, and to present them to the consumer in a convenient form, these Liqueurs are bottled, sealed, and labelled by the distillers, JOSEPH and JOHN VICKERS and CO. LONDON.

N.B. The Curacao Punch and Orange Gingerette will be found admirable adjuncts to Soda Water. Distillery: Stoney-street, Borough Market, London.

THE SUMMER RIDE OR PROMENADE.—The peculiar virtues of C. and A. OLDRIE'S BALM OF COLUMBIA completely remove the difficulty experienced by ladies in preserving their ringlets after exercise; its use so invigorates the hair, that tresses, previously the straightest and most destitute of curl, rapidly acquire a vigour, which maintains in permanent ringlets the head-dress of the most preserving rotatory of the Ball-room, the Ride, or the Promenade. After the minerals and vegetables of the Old World have been compounded in all imaginable ways in fruitless attempts to discover so important a desideratum, we are indebted to the Western Hemisphere for furnishing the basis of Oldrie's Balm of Columbia, the efficacy of which in preserving, strengthening, and adorning the hair, has become a matter of notoriety among all civilized nations.

SHOOTING SEASON.—The Oldest GUN and PISTOL REPOSITORY in London (established 1770), No. 234, Strand, near Temple Bar. B. COGSWELL (late Essex), begs to inform Gentlemen his Stock for the Season is large, and comprises every London article of which B. C. respectfully requests gentlemen to inspect before purchasing; reference may be had to the makers, and a trial allowed; and to those gentlemen who prefer a less expensive gun, B. C. is enabled to offer sound double Guns, from 6s. ditto in cases complete, from 8 guineas; Single Guns, from 21s. each; Pocket Pistols, from 14s.; Holster Pistols, from 7s. per pair and upwards; six barrels, self-revolving Pistols in cases complete, from 8 guineas each. Every article in shooting apparatus, of the best quality at the lowest prices; a large assortment of Sykes's Improved Travelling Bottles in leather, wicker, and metal; Joyce's anti-corrosive Percussion Caps, Chemically prepared Gun Wicks and Wire Cartridges. Repairs executed with the greatest attention and dispatch.

SCHIEDAM HOLLANDS.—Owing to the late enormous duty on this beautiful and wholesome Spirit, comparatively very little has been used or known in this country. The Public have, therefore, had no opportunity of testing its merits. VINCENT and PUGH, after innumerable experiments and immense outlay in machinery, have at length arrived at that acme of distillation which has enabled them to produce an ARTICLE equal in every respect to the finest Foreign. Vincent and Pugh introduce this splendid matchless spirit to the public for their opinion and approbation, which they trust it merits, not only for quality but price, being enabled to offer it at 2s. 6d. per bottle, in square Dutch bottles, with the cork branded (VINCENT & PUGH), and sealed for security as to its genuineness. To be had of all the respectable retail dealers in and about the metropolis, or of their agent, Mr. Charles Hodder, Castle, Moorgate-street, City, and wholesale, Vincent and Pugh, Distillery, 16, New Park-street, Blenheim, and 10, Wood-lane, City.

The public attention is particularly called to their Pale Brown British Brandy, which is allowed to be matchless.

LITHOGRAPHY in all its Branches, Mapping, Writing, Planning, Drawing, and Printing, executed in the first style, and on the most moderate terms, at DEAN and CO.'S LITHOGRAPHIC PRINTING OFFICES, 25, 26, to 40, Threadneedle-street, City, near Moyle-street, and the City, where they are supplied with the best German Stones and Lithographic Paper, French Chalk, and ink, and with their improved Lithographic Press, so excellent in principle and construction, that it is warranted to do the finest work with perfect ease and certainty.

Solicitors, Architects, and Surveyors, entrusting their Drawings to DEAN and CO. will find them executed with accuracy and great dispatch. Their artists and workmen in the different branches of printing are employed on the premises.

FLOOR-CLOTH WAREHOUSE, No. 253, Strand, near Temple Bar. Established 1815.

JOHN WILSON begs respectfully to remind the Public that he can furnish to supply seasonable Floor-Cloth at the lowest price at which the best article can be manufactured. He begs an inspection of his present stock, which for soundness of quality, and variety of pattern, cannot be surpassed.

YACHTING, DRIVING, and ANGLING.—The NEW DREADNOUGHT COATS and CAPES, made by J. C. CORDING, will be found by Sailors and Sportsmen to be the best for their use. They will resist the heaviest rain and the fiercest tropical heat for any time, and their durability is equal to their waterproof qualities. Trousers, leggings, sou'-westers, caps, and gloves, of the same proofing. Officers and others going to the colonies will find these articles invaluable. Gentlemen who drive should use CORDING'S new waterproof driving apparel, and all the most serviceable and complete things of the kind, and approved by all who have tried them. Ladies' light riding capes, with hoods and sleeves. CORDING'S improved sheet India rubber boots are superior to any thing hitherto made for the comfort of anglers and snipe-shooters. They are light, pliable, and never crack; impervious to water for any length of time, and require no dressing to keep them in condition. Patterns and prices sent on application. Any description of article made to order. London: J. C. CORDING, 231, Strand, five doors west of Temple Bar.

COFFEE AS IN FRANCE.—It is a fact beyond dispute, that in order to obtain really fine Coffee, there must be a combination of the various kinds; and to produce strength and flavour, certain proportions should be mixed according to their different properties. Thus it is we have become celebrated for our delicious Coffee at 1s. 6d. which is the astonishment and delight of all who have tasted it, being the produce of four countries, selected and mixed by rule peculiar to our establishment, in proportions not known to any other house.

From experiments we have made on the various kinds of Coffee, we have arrived at the fact, that no one kind possesses strength and flavour. If we select a very strong Coffee it is wanting in flavour; by the same rule we find the finest and most flavourous Coffee are generally wanting in strength. Thus it is we have become celebrated for our delicious Coffee, regardless of their various properties, the consumer is not able to obtain really fine coffee at any price. There is also another peculiar advantage we possess over other houses—our roasting apparatus being constructed on the most scientific principle, the Coffee is roasted in a way that the Coffee is preserved, which, in the ordinary process of roasting, is entirely destroyed; and as we are coffee roasters, we are enabled to keep a full supply of fresh roasted Coffee continually, after the Pacific and Continental method.

The rapid and still increasing demand for this Coffee has caused great excitement in the trade, and several unprincipled houses have copied our papers and profess to sell a similar article. We, therefore, think it right to CAUTION the public, and to state that our superior mixture from four countries is a discovery of our own, and therefore the proportions are not known, nor can it be had at any other house. In future we shall distinguish it from all others as

SPARROW'S CONTINENTAL COFFEE, at 1s. 6d. per lb. Packed in tins of all sizes perfectly air-tight for the country. We have also strong and useful Coffees, from 1s. to 1s. 4d. The Establishment, High Holborn, adjoining Day and Martin's, leading through into 23, Dean-street.

HENRY SPARROW, Proprietor.

CARVING IN WOOD.—The important reduction in the price of carving in wood, effected by the patent process enables the proprietors to encourage the prevailing taste by supplying the most exquisite specimens of genius in the Gothic, Elizabethan, French, and Italian styles, adapted to all architectural purposes, picture frames, and every possible variety of elaborate decoration. The proprietors solicit an inspection of the specimens executed by this simple and beautiful process, at their offices, 444, West Strand, or at their works, Ranelagh-road, Thames-bank. Published by J. Woole, 59, Holborn, Parts I., II., III., and IV. price 1s. each (to be continued). The establishment, High Holborn, adjoining Day and Martin's, in Wood, produced by the Patent Wood Carving Company, 444, West Strand.

SHOOTING SEASON, 1846.

F. JOYCE'S ANTI-CORROSIVE PERCUSSION CAPS.—The Nobility, Gentry, and Sporting World at large, are respectfully informed, that this well-tried Composition, warranted in every respect, which has won the top of many years experience, both at home and abroad, may be had as usual of all respectable Gun-makers and dealers in Gunpowder throughout the United Kingdom. To prevent accident and disappointment to purchasers, from the use of spurious imitations, the same are requested to observe the name and address of F. JOYCE, ORIGINAL INVENTOR AND SOLE MANUFACTURER, on each sealed packet, without which they are not genuine. This precaution is rendered necessary by some unprincipled individuals having imitated the Labels and Wrappers.

Joyce's Improved Wire Cartridges and Chemically-prepared Wadings of a superior description. Good Manufactured to Pattern. A Liberal Price to Exporters and the Trade. Wholesale Warehouse, 66, Bartholomew Close, London. Universal Shot.

COCOA-NUT FIBRE.—This substance envelopes the shell of the milky coco-nut, around which it forms a strong protecting net-work. Man's ingenuity has turned the fibre to account by manufacturing it into many useful articles—such as carpets for stairs, passages, meeting-places, churches, public buildings, nurseries, and kitchens; door-mats, ropes, netting for sheep-dirs, &c.; but among the applications there is not any to which it is better adapted than for the stuffing of mattresses and cushions, as a substitute for horse-hair, wool, and flock. It is very elastic, and affords great ease and support to the body, whether used with or without a feather bed. It has also the additional recommendation of being so obnoxious to vermin that they will not live in it whilst it is a fact well known that wool, flock, tow, and even horse-hair, will engender animalcules. Possessing peculiar chemical properties that render it a non-absorbent, the fibre is particularly suitable for children's beds for use of schools, in all large dormitories, and at sea. Cocoa-nut fibre mattresses are only about one-half the price of those made from horse-hair. Priced lists may be had on application at the warehouse, or will be sent free by post.

THORNTON, 43, Ludgate-hill, seven doors from Farringdon-street, and five below Belle Sauvage Inn.

BUCKLAND, in DOVER.—Valuable Freehold Corn and Paper Mills, capital Dwelling-house, Gardens, and Meadow-land.

MESSRS. LAMB and BIRCH will SELL by PUBLIC AUCTION, at the Royal Oak Inn, in Dover, on WEDNESDAY, the 2nd day of SEPTEMBER, 1846, at One for Two o'clock precisely (by order of the assignees under a fiat in bankruptcy against Mr. Samuel M. Latham), in the following lots:—

Lot 1.—A valuable freehold overshot CORN MILL, in which a very extensive business has been carried on for many years, now in the occupation of Messrs. J. and E. Pilcher, as tenants at will, situate at Buckland, abutting on the London turnpike-road, with the fixtures and going-gear belonging thereto; together with the garden-ground on the south-east side thereof, and the land between the mill and the inclosed garden on the north-west side, and the mill-head and mill-banks, as shown in the plan, so far as the vendors can convey the same or the right thereto. The mill has five lofty stories, and works five pair of stones; but it is capable of being made available for more work, and of grinding 300 quarters per week. It has been well kept up, and is in good working order. The overshot wheel is fitted with iron buckets, is between ten and eleven feet diameter, and is worked by a very powerful fall of water of nearly twelve feet. The garden-ground adjoining the mill contains upwards of a quarter of an acre; and, abutting also upon the high road, is well adapted for building purposes.

Lot 2.—A capital newly-erected Freehold DWELLING-HOUSE, now in the occupation of G. Graham, esq. for a term which will expire at Michaelmas, 1847, with the gardens, lawn, pleasure-grounds, and ornamental enclosure surrounding the premises. The house contains good entrance-hall, breakfast, dining, and drawing-rooms, library, nine bed-rooms, capital cellars, and very convenient domestic offices. It is most substantially built. Its internal arrangement is of the most comfortable kind; and it forms altogether a highly desirable residence, and fit for a large establishment.

Lot 3.—The Freehold PAPER MILLS, on the N.E. side of, and partly built over the River Dour, with the fixtures and materials therein, and the land in the rear thereof, with the garden and bank to the northward, and also a piece of land, supposed to be leasehold, formerly a garden, and now thrown into, and used as a part of Brookditch meadow, after described. The freehold contains about 2r. and 9p. and the part supposed leasehold about 1r. 11p. With this lot will be sold, the road leading out of the turnpike-road, and the carriage bridge over the river, on the terms stated in the particulars, as also the intended reserved road, across Brookditch meadow, so far as the lot extends.

Lot 4.—A very productive WALLED GARDEN, intersected by a running stream of pure spring water, with the valuable trees, plants, and buildings therein, and the barn, yard, valuable pasture land, sheep wash and watercourse, situate on the north-east side of the River Dour. The land forms part of the Brookditch meadow. This lot is bounded on the N.E. and S.E. sides by the high road, on the S.W. by the river Dour, and on the N.W. by a thirty feet reserved through the meadow, connecting the London road with the road from Charlton to Old Park, &c. And the lot contains altogether about 1a. 2r. 5p.

Lot 5.—A piece of most fertile and valuable PASTURE LAND, being the residue of Brookditch meadow, and the bed of the canal there, containing by admeasurement 2a. 3r. 19p. or thereabouts: abutting to the high road towards the N.E. to the beforementioned reserved road towards the S.E. and to Lot 3 towards the S.W.

The above lots form altogether an opportunity for investment rarely to be met with in the neighbourhood of Dover. They are very pleasantly situated, about half a mile from that town, possessing the comforts of the country with all the advantages of a town, and a contiguity to a large business population. The flow of the river Dour is well known as a steady and copious run of water; and the property in question might be adapted to almost any business where water and space are essential or useful.

Printed particulars, with plans and conditions of sale, may be had ten days before the sale, and further particulars obtained on application to Messrs. BRIDGES, MASON, and BRIDGES, Red Lion-square; the Auctioneers, Dover; Mr. A. Small, Land Surveyor, Buckland; or to Messrs. Edw. Knocker and Edw. Elwin, Solicitors to the fiat, Dover.

The Great and Valuable FREEHOLD ESTATE of WHITTLESEA, extending to within two miles of the city of Peterborough.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON are commissioned by the noble proprietors to SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, near the Bank of England, in SEPTEMBER (unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by Private Contract), the above truly valuable and important FREEHOLD PROPERTY between Peterborough and Wisbeach, in Cambridgeshire, comprising the vast manors of Whittlesea, embracing nearly 25,000 acres, and in which are 200 or 300 copyholdings, paying quit-rents and fines, the greater part of the flourishing town of Whittlesea, the bank premises, several private residences, inn, shops, &c. being held of the said manor.

Also above 2,100 ACRES of most FERTILE LAND, divided into COMPACT FARMS, and let at low rents to a highly respectable and intelligent tenantry with some very valuable dispersed parcels of land adjoining and contiguous to the town, portions eligible for building.

Also, the ADVOWSON of the Vicarage of St. Mary, and the FREEHOLD RENT-CHARGES, in lieu of tithes, extending over nearly 18,000 ACRES, of the annual value together of upwards of 6,000l. exclusive of the valuable manors and living; offering, with its many advantages, a fine influential and solid property for the investment of capital. There is a navigable river and canal through the estate, and the railway from Peterborough to Ely, &c. passes through Whittlesea.

The entire property will be first offered in one lot, and if not sold will be immediately put up in three lots, viz. first, the tithe-rent-charges; second, the farms and manors; and, third, the advowson.

Particulars may be obtained of Messrs. JONES, BATEMAN, and BENNETT, Solicitors, Lincoln's-inn-fields; at the Auction Mart; of Mr. JOHN WADELOW, Whittlesea, who will show the estates; and of Messrs. DANIEL SMITH and SON, Land Agents, in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall.

KENT.—Valuable Freehold Farms in the picturesque and healthy parish of Wrotham, about 23 miles from town, and 11 from Maidstone.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON are instructed by the Devises in Trust under the will of the late Rev. George Moore, to SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, AUGUST 25, at Twelve, in lots (unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by private contract), FIVE very desirable FREEHOLD FARMS, with suitable buildings, cottages, &c. in the beautiful, healthy, and fertile parish of Wrotham, the whole in very high condition, having been for some time past in the hands of the late proprietor, rendering them particularly desirable little properties for occupation or investment. Mr. Harrison, the bailiff, will show the farms; and particulars, with plans, may be had at the neighbouring inns; at the Mart; of R. LAMBERT, esq. 32, John-street, Bedford-row; and of DANIEL SMITH and SON, Land Agents, Waterloo-place, Pall-mall.

The Estate of New Place, with its Mansion and famous Trout Fishery, close to Alresford, Hants, about eight miles from Winchester and 18 from Southampton.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON are commissioned to SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, near the Bank of England, on FRIDAY, the 18th day of SEPTEMBER next, at Twelve o'clock, (unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by Private Contract), the above valuable FREEHOLD PROPERTY; comprising the mansion of New Place, the prominent feature amidst the picturesque scenery on approaching the town of Alresford from Winchester, at present occupied by Lady Paxton, who will give early possession. The house stands elevated, surrounded by well-planted grounds, having an extensive and important frontage upon the high road, from which it is screened by ornamental plantations. The estate comprises, in a most perfect and compact ring fence, about 105 acres, part very valuable water meadows, extending to and embracing the river, which bounds it on the lower or north side for a mile, affording some of the best trout fishing in the county. It is a remarkably healthy and a famous sporting part of the country. —It may be viewed with cards, which, with particulars and lithographic plans, may be had at Messrs. Jacob and Johnson's library, Winchester; at the hotels, Southampton; at the Auction Mart; of Messrs. DUNN, CARTER, and HOPKINS, Solicitors, Alresford; and of Messrs. DANIEL SMITH and SON, Land Agents, in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall.

ADDLESTONE, SURREY.—Valuable Freehold and Copyhold Estate, delightfully situated in this much-admired, dry, and healthy village, within a quarter of a mile of the Station on the Egham Branch of the South-Western Railway at Weybridge, one hour's ride from London, and one mile of the capital market-town of Chertsey.

MR. WARREN respectfully announces that he has been favoured with instructions to SELL, at the Crown Inn, Chertsey, on WEDNESDAY, the 26th AUGUST, 1846, at Two, in Eight Lots, FORTY ACRES of LAND, of excellent quality, and in part fish-free, most desirably situate in the highly respectable and improving village of Addlestone, and possessing the very extensive frontage of 500 yards to the high road leading from Windsor to Guildford and Brighton, and admirably adapted for building purposes; also a comfortable Farm-house, Barn, Yard, and Outbuildings; the whole having been held on lease by the late Mr. Perry and his Widow, whose term expires at Michaelmas next, when (or before) possession may be had.

May be viewed upon application to Mrs. Perry, at the farm-house, opposite the George Inn, Addlestone, where printed particulars, with plans, may be obtained; also of Messrs. BRIDGES, MASON, and BRIDGES, Solicitors, Red Lion-square; at the Griffin, Kingston; White Lion, Staines; Greyhound, Richmond; Bear, Esher; at the place of sale; and of Mr. WARREN, Land and Timber Surveyor and Valuer, Isleworth.

TO BE SOLD by PRIVATE CON-

TRACT, a FREEHOLD ESTATE, consisting of 100 acres, the greatest part excellent pasture and dairy land, and three fields of arable land, a good farm-house lately built, and suitable outbuildings lying in a ring-fence, in the county of Gloucester, and in the occupation of a most respectable tenant, who has held it for forty years, upon a yearly rent of 160l. per annum, which he pays with punctuality.

Also a Freehold Estate consisting of about sixty-three acres of excellent arable land lying near the above, and let at the rent of 120l. per annum.

The two above-described estates are situate within a few miles of two railway stations, and have the advantage of numerous and excellent roads and market-towns.

They will be sold together or separate, and (if any accommodation) the vendor will allow a portion of the purchase-money to remain on mortgage at 34 per cent. for a term.

For particulars and orders to view, apply to RICHARDSON, SMITH, and SADLER, 28, Golden-square.

Periodical Sales (established in the year 1803) of Reversions, Life Interests, Annuities, Policies of Assurance, Advowsons, Next Presentations, Rent Charges in lieu of Tithes, Post-obit Bonds, Tontines, Debentures, Ground Rents, Improved Rents, Shares in Docks, Canals, Mines, Railways, Insurance Companies, and all Public Undertakings.

MESSRS. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS respectfully inform the public, that upwards of 40 years' experience having proved the classification of this species of property to be extremely advantageous and economical to vendors, and equally satisfactory and convenient to purchasers, the PERIODICAL SALES of reversionary interests, policies of insurance, tontines, debentures, advowsons, next presentations, and securities dependent upon human life, shares in docks, canals, mines, railways, and all public undertakings, will be continued through 1846, as follows:—

AN INDEX TO THE LAW.

Just published.

THE LAW DIGEST.—A complete Index to all the Reports that appeared during the Half-year ending the 1st of January last. Price 6s. 6d. in a stout wrapper. To be continued half-yearly.

The object of this Digest is to enable the Practitioner to find in a moment what has been the law decided on any subject, with reference to the authorities.

This laborious undertaking is intended to supply the practitioner with a ready reference to all the law decided during the half-year ending on the 1st of January, and it is, if successful, to be continued half-yearly. The plan is simple and convenient. All the cases reported during the half year are arranged under their proper subjects, and these are placed alphabetically. If, therefore, the practitioner wants to ascertain what cases have been decided, say on the law of "Executors," he turns to that title, and under it he will find every case, wheresoever reported, briefly digested with reference to the report or reports, if more than one, where it appears. Besides this, there is an index to the names of cases, and to the names both of defendants and plaintiffs, so that if one be forgotten the case may still be traced by means of the other. The peculiarity of this work, and that in which it differs from any other digest, is that it includes all the reports, whereas all the other digests exclude some, being guided in their selection, not by the wants of the practitioner, but according to the rivalries of publishers. The plan of this digest is to omit none, and its consequent completeness gives it a peculiar value and utility. The amount of exclusion from the other digests may be judged by this, that the Digest before us, although embracing the reports only for half-a-year, contains more cases than does either of the others for a whole year, and the mere index of the names of the cases digested occupies no less than twenty-four closely printed columns. There is also a table of the statutes cited, arranged in chronological order.

"It will not become us to express an opinion upon the merits of this publication. We can only give a description of it, leaving it to the reader from that description to determine whether it is likely to be an acquisition to his office."—Law Times.

COMPANION TO THE PEERAGE.
Now ready, complete in 2 vols. royal 8vo. price 2*l.* 10*s.* bound, beautifully printed in double columns, uniformly with the "Peerage and Baronetage."

MR. BURKE'S HISTORY OF THE LANDED GENTRY: A Genealogical Dictionary of the whole of the Untitled Aristocracy of England, Scotland, and Ireland.

This important national work has been undertaken as a companion to Mr. Burke's popular "Dictionary of the Peerage and Baronetage," and upon a similar plan, in order that the two publications may embrace the whole body of the British Peerage, Baronetage, and Gentry, and may furnish such a mass of authentic information, in regard to all the principal families in the kingdom, as has never before been brought together. It relates to the Untitled Families of Rank, as the "Peerage and Baronetage" does to the Titled, and forms, in fact, a Peerage of the Untitled Aristocracy. It embraces the whole of the Landed Interest. The Landed Gentry of England are so closely connected with the stirring records of its eventful history, that some acquaintance with them is a matter of necessity with the legislator, the lawyer, the historical student, the speculator in politics, and the curious in topographical and antiquarian lore; and even the very spirit of ordinary curiosity will prompt to a desire to trace the origin and progress of those families whose influence pervades the towns and villages of our land. This work, abounding in interesting anecdote, and displaying deep research, must rank among the first class of those publications which elucidate or connect themselves with the annals of our country, and indispensable to the library of every gentleman.

N.B. Purchasers of single parts of this work are advised to complete their sets without delay, as the parts will only be sold separately for a short period.

This Society grants Insurances upon the lives of persons in every profession and station wherever resident.

Four-fifths of the profits are divided among the assured. The rates are calculated on the lowest scale consistent with security, from the Government returns. The payments may be made, yearly, half-yearly, and quarterly, during life, or for a limited period.

Assurances for the whole Term of Life may also be effected upon an Increasing Scale, commencing at a rate much below the ordinary Premiums, and exempt from any augmentation for a period of seven years.

The Board meets every Wednesday, at half-past Three o'clock, to receive proposals and transact other business; but any assurance for which immediate despatch is required may be effected on the same day that it is proposed.

In cases where a life assured by another has gone beyond the limits prescribed by the policy, without the knowledge of the party interested, the Society will, upon his application, and proof of the life being then in a satisfactory state of health (but subject to their medical officers' approval of the risk as applicable to such life), renew the policy upon the same terms as they would have required for its continuance had their consent been previously obtained.

The usual commission allowed to all solicitors.

CORRESPONDENCE.

PRACTICE OF MAKING BASTARDY ORDERS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE LAW TIMES.

SIR,—I am induced to trouble you with a line or two on the following subject:—In several places in this neighbourhood, when orders for the support of bastard children are made by magistrates, it is the constant practice of the magistrate's clerk to make out the order in three parts, one to serve on the putative father, another to be sent to the guardians; but the third is invariably kept by the clerk, so that the mother does not get any order at all, though she applies and pays for it. The hardship, as well as impolicy and injustice of such a course, must, I think, be apparent. In a case which recently came under my notice, where a woman had removed out of the jurisdiction where the order was made, and wanted a warrant in the jurisdiction where she then was, against the man, for making default in his payments, she applied to the clerk to the magistrates of the former jurisdiction, to be permitted the favour of having the order, to enable her to get a warrant in another place. The clerk, after a great deal of hesitation, allowed her to have the order, but only on the express understanding that she would return it again as soon as she had the man brought up. In another case, an order was made upon a man several months ago, say at A, who ran off from the neighbourhood at the time. The woman removed from A to N, in another jurisdiction. A few days ago the man was heard of, as having come to N. The poor woman was told she could not take proceedings until she produced the order; but A, where the order was, being several miles distant from N, and the woman having no money to procure a conveyance to reach there in a short time (the man intending to leave N the next morning), he was allowed to escape. Such cases as these have frequently happened here; they have induced me to ask you to notice the matter, in the hope that it may meet the eye of some of those who inflict such hardships on poor, ill-used women; and if no valid reason can be given for it, that a practice alike absurd, uncalled for, and unjust, will be discontinued. There can be no objection to the clerk keeping a copy or duplicate of the order, but he surely, in doing so, is not to deprive the woman of hers.

I am, Sir, yours, &c.

THE SMALL DEBTS BILL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE LAW TIMES.

SIR,—Your editorial article of this week expresses surprise that the attorneys have not bestirred themselves to oppose this Bill, and you appear unable to account for such apathy.

There is no mystery in the matter. The majority of respectable attorneys do not care to be employed in the recovery of debts; it does not fairly remunerate them. For, on the one hand, they have to pay an over proportionate amount for agent's charges, official fees, and other mechanical work; and, on the other hand, in unsuccessful cases, where the defendant absconds or becomes insolvent, they will as often put up with the loss of their costs as inflict a double injury on the employer by sending in a bill. It is a current observation in the country, "I wish I may never see the tail of a writ in my office." The business of recovering small debts is taken up by men of generally less credit and conscientiousness; and they are under some necessity of fleeing their client when they can get no wool from the defendant debtor.

It is unnecessary, in a work like yours, to shew how much of the costs of a suit is thrown away for the merest mechanical work, and how little goes to remunerate the skill and integrity selected by the client. The attorney's interest (like the client's) is a secondary affair among lawyers. The barrister actually claims it as his privilege "to abuse the attorney" ad libitum. That the interests of the bar, the London agent, master, secretary, official clerk, &c. are all more tenderly fostered than those of him who stands nearest to the client, is palpable. We need not go for proofs beyond the Law Institution, and the Chancery Compensation job. The cause lies in the more concentrated situation of the former class. All attorneys (except a few mixed up with official situations) are law reformers, and honest ones too. They are more interested in speedy and efficient justice than the other legal employees. If their influence had been paramount, instead of subjected to that of the other classes alluded to, the Court of Chancery would by this time have been one of social utility and convenience, instead of a terror and abhorrence to the prudent man.

The end of this is, to hint the advantage of any measure for recovering small debts being submitted to the revision of some respectable unbeneficed country attorneys.

LEX.

POINT OF PRACTICE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE LAW TIMES.

SIR,—In answer to your correspondent's inquiry in the LAW TIMES of the 22nd instant, as to the propriety of making the mortgagor, upon a transfer of a mortgage, enter into fresh covenants with the new mortgagee, I humbly submit that the ad valorem duty for the entire sum advanced does not attach in the case put by your correspondent.

The mortgage stamp must be regulated by the effect of the instrument constituting the security. (See dem. Jarman v. Sarder, 3 Scott, 407; 3 Bing. N. C. 92.) It is the practice with many attorneys to insert a new proviso for redemption, and a new covenant for payment; whilst others omit them. Where the concurrence of the mortgagor can be obtained, Mr. Jarman recommends the insertion of a new proviso and new covenants, as being the preferable mode, because it avoids the necessity of assigning the debt, with power to the transferee to sue in the name of the transferor, which is always inconvenient. And he is also of opinion that the ad valorem duty does not attach, on the ground that mortgage money which has once paid the ad valorem duty was not intended by the legislature to be again liable. Vide Bythewood's Conveyancing, by Jarman, 2nd edit. vol. vi. pp. 269, 292, 324, (notes).

At the same time I would observe that there are opposite opinions upon the point, but which I think cannot be substantiated. It is important to bear in mind that the Courts incline to give the subject the benefit of reasonable doubts arising in the construction of the Stamp Act.

I am, Sir, yours, &c.

REPRESENTATION OF ATTORNEYS IN PARLIAMENT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE LAW TIMES.

SIR,—Frequent and very just complaints have appeared in your columns of the want of an active member of one branch of the Profession to represent its interests in Parliament. Nearly all class interests are represented there, and why should the solicitors (who are admitted to be a most influential class), not be there represented? During the late committee of the House upon the Small Debts Bill, we were indebted to Mr. Wakley for all that was done upon our behalf. The Attorney-General, of course, took charge of the interests of Barristers, but had it not been for the honourable member for Finsbury, no one would have said any thing for us. We want such a representative for our body as he is for the medical practitioners, but I fear we may wait long for such an advantage. However, a general election will, in all probability, take place some time next year, and, surely, Sir, we can, within "the length and breadth of the land," find a candidate and constituency who will be the means of affording us a representative in the next Parliament? All the Law Societies should take the matter up immediately, and communicate with each other upon the subject. I feel assured that, if required, a sufficient sum could be raised by subscription amongst our brethren, to defray the expenses of the election. I should be very happy to contribute to such a fund; and we may rest assured, that unless we are represented in the House, it will be wholly useless to attempt obtaining a repeal of the certificate duty, or any other object affecting our professional privileges or interests.

I am, Sir, your's, &c. A SOLICITOR.

THE WILLS ACT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE LAW TIMES.

SIR,—WILL any of your readers oblige me to inform me who was or were the author or authors of the WILLS Act (1 Vict. c. 26)?

I ask this more particularly in reference to sec. 4, which is, perhaps, the foulest blot that has hitherto been cast upon an otherwise excellent system of modern legislation.

Let me entreat your readers to look steadily at sec. 4, and then, if they can, suppress a feeling of shame that they should be identified with a law capable of inventing and concocting such things as injustice—aye, and actually passing it off as the respectable pretence of an amendment of the law of wills!

Surely, if Satan's very self were lord of a man, not even his chief steward could have concocted anything more vile, mercenary, insolent, or despising than this enactment.

I am, Sir, yours, &c.

NECROLOGY.

THE MARQUIS OF THOMOND.

We regret to have to record the decease of the Marquis of Thomond, who expired, on Friday last, at Taplow House, near Maidenhead, after an illness of only ten days.

The deceased William O'Bryen, Marquis of Thomond, Earl and Baron of Inchiquin, and Baron of Barren, county Clare, in the peerage of Ireland; and Baron Tadcaster, of Tadcaster, county York, in the peerage of the United Kingdom, was son of Mr. Edward O'Bryen, brother of the first marquis by Mary, daughter of Mr. Carrick. He was born in 1766, and was consequently in his 80th year. The late marquis married, in September, 1799, Elizabeth Rebecca, only daughter and heir of Mr. Thomas Trotter, of Duleck, county Meath, who survives her husband.

The late marquis entered the army at a comparatively early age, and was in the 12th regiment of Foot, at the capture of Guadaloupe and St. Lucie, and subsequently proceeded to the East Indies with that regiment in active service. He eventually exchanged from the infantry to the 14th Dragoons, but retired from the army in 1800. On the death of his uncle, the first marquis, in February, 1808, he succeeded to the family honours and estates in the county of Cork. The deceased nobleman was, with the exception of the King of Hanover, the senior knight of the most illustrious order of St. Patrick; was a privy councillor for Ireland since 1828, colonel of the Cork City Militia, extra aide-de-camp to the Queen, and his late Majesty William IV., and a representative peer for Ireland since 1816.

In default of male issue, the late marquis is succeeded in the title by his brother, Vice-Admiral Lord James O'Bryen, G.C.H. (now Marquis of Thomond). Lady Susan, married to the Hon. Capt. George F. Hotham, R.N.; Lady Sarah, married to Mr. William Stanhope Taylor; Lady Mary, married to Viscount Berkehaven; and Lady Elizabeth, married to Mr. Geo. Stukeley Bucke, are daughters of the late marquis. He possessed valuable property in Ireland, but had not for many years past visited that country. He was a staunch Conservative, but, from his advanced age, had not lately interfered in politics.

By his last will, a vacant ribbon of the order of St. Patrick falls into the gift of the Treasurer.

Miscellaneous.

SHOOTING SEASON.—The Oldest GUN and PISTOL REPOSITORY in London (established 1770), No. 224, Strand, near Temple Bar. B. COGSWELL (late Essex), begs to inform Gentlemen his Stock for the Season is large, and comprises every London Maker of eminence, which B. C. respectfully requests gentlemen to inspect before purchasing; reference may be had to the makers, and a trial allowed; and to those gentlemen who prefer a less expensive gun, B. C. is enabled to offer sound double Guns, from 60s. ditto in cases complete, from 5 guineas; Single Guns, from 21s. each; Pocket Pistols, from 14s.; Holster Pistols, from 27s. per pair and upwards; six barrels, self-acting Pistols in cases complete, from 8 guineas each. Every article in shooting apparatus, of the best quality at the lowest prices; a large assortment of Bykes's improved Travelling Bottles in leather, wicker, and metal; Joyce's anti-corrosive Percussion Caps, chemically prepared. Gun Waddings and Wire Cartridges. Repairs executed with the greatest attention and dispatch.

SCHIEDAM HOLLANDS.—Owing to the late enormous duty on this beautiful and wholesome Spirit, comparatively very little has been used or known in this country. The Public have, therefore, had no opportunity of testing its merits. VINCENT and PUGH, after invaluable experience and immense outlay in machinery, have at length arrived at that state of distillation which has enabled them to produce an ARTICLE equal in every respect to the finest Foreign. Vincent and Pugh introduce this splendid maltless spirit to the public for their opinion and approbation, which they trust it merits, and for quality but price, being enabled to offer it at 2s. 6d. per bottle, in square Dutch bottles, with the corks branded (VINCENT & PUGH), and sealed for security as to its genuineness. To be had of all the respectable retail dealers in and about the metropolis, or of their agent, Mr. Charles Hodder, Castle, Moorgate-street, City, and wholesale, Vincent and Pugh, Distillery, 16, New Park-street, Borough, and 10, Rood-lane, City. The public attention is particularly called to their Pale Brown British Brandy, which is allowed to be matchless.

YACHTING, DRIVING, AND ANGLING.—THE NEW DREADNOUGHT COATS and CAPS, made by J. C. CORDING, will be found by Sailors and Sportsmen to be the best articles ever made up for their use. They will resist the heaviest rain and the fiercest tropical heat for any time, and their durability is equal to their waterproof qualities. Trousers, leggings, sea-westerns, caps, and gloves, of the same proofing. Officers and others going to the colonies will find these articles invaluable. Gentlemen who drive should use CORDING'S sea waterproof driving aprons and coats, the most serviceable and complete things of the kind, and approved by all who have tried them. Ladies' light riding caps, with hoods and sleeves. CORDING'S improved sheet India rubber boots are superior to any thing hitherto made for the comfort of anglers and snipe-shooters. They are light, pliable, and never crack; impervious to water for any length of time, and require no dressing to keep them in condition. Patterns and prices sent on application. Any description of article made to order. London: J. C. CORDING, 231, Strand, five doors west of Temple Bar.

A NEW DISCOVERY.—Mr. HOWARD, Surgeon-Dentist, 53, Fleet-street, begs to introduce an ENTIRELY NEW DESCRIPTION OF ARTIFICIAL TEETH, fixed without springs, wires, or ligatures. They so perfectly resemble the natural Teeth as not to be distinguished from the original by the closest observer; they will NEVER CHANGE COLOUR or DECAY, and will be found very superior to any Teeth ever before used. This method does not require the extraction of roots or any painful operation, and will give support and preserve the teeth that are loose, and is guaranteed to restore articulation and mastication; and that Mr. Howard's improvements may be within the reach of the most economical, he has fixed his charges at the lowest scale possible. Decayed teeth rendered sound and useful in mastication.—53, Fleet-street. At home from Ten till Five.

COFFEE AS IN FRANCE.—It is a fact beyond dispute, that in order to obtain really fine Coffee, there must be a combination of the various kinds; and to produce strength and favour, certain proportions should be mixed according to their different properties. Thus it is we have become celebrated for our delicious Coffee at 1s. 8d. which is the astonishment and delight of all who have tasted it, being the produce of four countries, selected and mixed by reference to our establishment, in proportions not known to any other house.

From experiments we have made on the various kinds of Coffee, we have arrived at the fact, that no one kind possesses strength and favour. If we select a very strong Coffee it is wanting in flavour; by the same rule we find the finest and most delicious Coffee is generally wanting in strength; and as they are usually sold each kind separately, quite regardless of their various properties, the consumer is not able to obtain really fine coffee at any price. There is also another peculiar advantage we possess over other houses—our roasting apparatus being constructed on decidedly scientific principles, whereby the strong aromatic flavour of the Coffee is preserved, which, in the ordinary process of roasting, is entirely destroyed; and as we are coffee roasters, we are enabled to keep a full supply of fresh roasted Coffee continually, after the Parisian and Continental method.

The rapid and still increasing demand for this Coffee has caused great excitement in the trade, and several unprincipled houses have copied our papers and profess to sell a similar article. We, therefore, think it right to CAUTION the public, and to state that our superior mixture of four countries is a discovery of our own, and therefore our recommendations are not known, nor can it be had at any other house. In future we shall distinguish it from all others as SPARKOW'S CONTINENTAL COFFEE, at 1s. 8d. per lb. Packed in tins of all sizes perfectly air-tight for the country. We have also strong and useful Coffees, from 1s. to 1s. 6d. the finest and most delicious. High Holborn, adjoining Day and Martin's, leading through into 23, Dean-street.

HENRY SPARKOW, Proprietor.

CARVING IN WOOD.—The important reduction in the price of carving in wood as executed by the patent process enables the proprietors to encourage the prevailing taste by supplying the most exquisite specimens of genius in the Gothic, Elizabethan, French, and Italian styles, and to execute all orders for carvings, picture frames, and every possible variety of elaborate decoration. The proprietors solicit an inspection of the specimens executed by this simple and beautiful process, at their offices, 444, West Strand, or at their works, Ranelagh-road, Thames-bank. Published by J. Weale, 59, Abchurch-lane, E.C. 4. H.C. and I.V. price 1s. each (to be continued). Containing specimen drawings of elaborate Carvings in Wood, produced by the Patent Wood Carving Company, 444, West Strand.

THE NEW TOOTH-BRUSH, made on the most scientific principles, thoroughly cleansing between the teeth, when used up and down, and polishing the surface when used crossways. This Brush so entirely enters between the teeth, that the inventor has decided upon naming it the TOOTHFISH BRUSH; therefore ask for it under that name, marked and numbered as under:—No. 1, full-sized Brush, marked T. F. W. No. 1, hard; No. 2, less hard; No. 3, middling; No. 4, soft. The narrow Brushes, marked T. F. W. No. 5, hard; No. 6, less hard; No. 7, middling; No. 8, soft. These Indispensable Brushes are only to be had at ROSS and SONS, and they warrant the hair never to come out, at 1s. each, or 10s. per dozen, in bone, or 2s. each, or 21s. per dozen, in ivory.

THE ATRAPALATORY, or LIQUID HAIR DYE.—The only dye that restores the hair to its natural colour, and does not require re-doing, but as the hair grows, as it never fades or acquires that unnatural red or purple that common to all other dyes. ROSS and SONS can, with the greatest confidence, recommend the above Dye as infallible, if done at their establishment; and ladies or gentlemen requiring it are requested to bring a friend or servant with them to see how it is used, which will enable them to do it afterwards without the chance of failure. Several private apartments devoted entirely to the above purpose, and some of the establishments having used it, the effect produced can be at once seen. The hair is restored to its natural colour, and the scalp is soothed by the instructions given with each bottle of the Dye, numerous persons have succeeded equally well without coming to them.

Address ROSS and SONS, 119 and 120, Bishopsgate-street, London, the celebrated Perfumers, Parfums, Hair-oil, and Hair-dye, N.B. Parties attended at their own residences, whatever the distance.

BY COMMAND OF HER MAJESTY'S GOVERNMENT. In consequence of the many copies achieved by the constant use of GRIMSTONE'S EYE-SNUFF, manufactured of choice British Herbs. Government having ascertained the above fact, has commanded W. GRIMSTONE, of 434, Oxford-street, to affix a metallic stamp, bearing the name of the said W. GRIMSTONE, on the Lords of the Treasury in 1855, and approved by the Stamp Solicitor in 1857. That this celebrated Grimstone's Eye-Snuff will be sold by all Chemists and Medicine Vendors, in caustics at 1d. 1s. 6d., 2s. 7d., 3s. 6d., and 4s. 6d., each, stamp included, and forwarded through the post. Upon receipt of a Money Order for 5s. 7d. a 5s. 7d. caustic will be forwarded from W. GRIMSTONE, Merchant, 434, Oxford-street, London.

COCOA-NUT FIBRE.—This substance envelopes the shell of the milky cocoa-nut, around which it forms a strong protecting network. Man's ingenuity has turned the fibre to account by manufacturing it into many useful articles—such as carpets for stairs and passages, matting for churches, public buildings, offices, nurseries, and kitchens; hearth-rugs, door-mats, rug-covers, for sheep-folds, &c.; but among the applications there is not any to which it is better adapted than for the stuffing of mattresses and cushions, as a substitute for horse-hair, wool, and flock. It is very elastic, and affords great ease and support to the body, whether used with or without a feather bed. It has additional recommendations of being so obnoxious to vermin that they will not live in it! whilst it is a fact well known that wool, flock, tow, and even horse-hair, will engender animalcules. Possessing peculiar chemical properties that render it a non-absorbent, the fibre is particularly suitable for children's beds, for use at schools, in all large dormitories, and at sea. Cocoa-nut fibre mattresses are only about one-half the price of those made from horse-hair. Priced lists may be had on application at the warehouse, or will be sent free by post.

AN INVARIABLE HAIR DYE.
ROWLAND'S MELACOMIA, the most successful Liquid Preparation, ever known in this or any other country for Dyeing the Hair of the Head, Whiskers, Moustaches, and Eyebrows a natural and permanent brown or black, so exactly resembling the natural colour of the hair as to defy detection. It is perfectly innocent in its nature, is free from any unpleasant smell, and can be used by any lady or gentleman with the greatest ease and secrecy. Its effect is so permanent that neither water nor perspiration will influence it, and it is entirely free from those properties (usual in hair-dyes) which give an unnatural red or purple tint to the hair. Price, 6s. Prepared by A. ROWLAND and SON, 20, Hutton Gardens, London. Sold by them and by Chemists and Perfumers.

Sales by Auction.

BUCKLAND, in DOVER.—Valuable Freehold Corn and Paper Mills, capital Dwelling-house, Gardens, and Meadow-land.

MESSRS. LAMB and BIRCH will SELL by PUBLIC AUCTION, at the Royal Oak Inn, in Dover, on WEDNESDAY, the 2nd day of SEPTEMBER, 1846, at One or Two o'clock precisely (by order of the assignees under a fiat in bankruptcy against Mr. Samuel M. Latham), in the following lots:—

Lot 1.—A valuable freehold overhot CORN MILL, in which a very extensive business has been carried on for many years, now in the occupation of Messrs. J. and E. Fitcher, as tenants at will, situate at Buckland, abutting on the London turnpike-road, with the fixtures and going-gear belonging thereto; together with the garden-ground on the south-east side thereof, and the land between the mill and the inclosed garden on the north-west side, and the mill-head and mill-banks, as shown in the plan, so far as the vendors can convey the same or the right thereto. The mill has five lofty stories, and works five pair of stones; but it is capable of being made available for more work, and of grinding 300 quarters per week. It has been well kept up, and is in good working order. The overhot wheel is fitted with iron buckets, is between ten and eleven feet diameter, and is worked by a very powerful fall of water of nearly twelve feet. The garden-ground adjoining the mill contains upwards of a quarter of an acre; and, abutting also upon the high road, is well adapted for building purposes.

Lot 2.—A capital newly-erected Freehold DWELLING-HOUSE, now in the occupation of G. Graham, esq. for a term which will expire at Michaelmas, 1847, with the garden, lawn, pleasure-grounds, and ornamental enclosure surrounding the premises. The house contains good entrance-hall, breakfast, dining, and drawing-rooms, library, nine bed-rooms, capital cellars, and very convenient domestic offices. It is most substantially built. Its internal arrangement is of the most comfortable kind; and it forms altogether a highly desirable residence, and fit for a large establishment.

Lot 3.—The Freehold PAPER MILLS, on the N.E. side of, and partly built over the River Dour, with the fixtures and materials therein, and the land in the rear thereof, with the garden and bank to the northward, and also a piece of land, supposed to be leasehold, formerly a garden, and now thrown into, and used as a part of Brookditch meadow, after described. The freehold contains about 2r. and 5p. and the part supposed leasehold about 1r. 11p. With this lot will be sold, the road leading out of the turnpike-road, and the carriage bridge over the river, on the terms stated in the particulars, as also the intended reserved road, across Brookditch meadow, so far as the lot extends.

Lot 4.—A very productive WALLED GARDEN, intersected by a running stream of pure spring water, with the valuable trees, plants, and building thereon, most the terrace, yard, valuable pasture land, sheep walk and watercourse, situate on the north-east side of the River Dour. The land forms part of the Brookditch meadow. This lot is bounded on the N.E. and S.E. sides by the high road, on the S.W. by the river Dour, and on the N.W. by a thirty feet road reserved through the meadow, connecting the London road with the road from Charlton to Old Park, &c. And the lot contains altogether about 1s. 2r. 5p.

Lot 5.—A piece of most fertile and valuable PASTURE LAND, being the residue of Brookditch meadow, and the bed of the canal there, containing by admeasurement 2s. 3r. 19p. or thereabouts; abutting to the high road towards the N.E. to the beforementioned reserved road towards the S.E. and to Lot 3 towards the S.W.

The above lots form altogether an opportunity for investment rarely to be met with in the neighbourhood of Dover. They are very pleasantly situated, about half a mile from that town, possessing the comforts of the country with all the advantages of a town, and a contiguity to a large business population. The flow of the river Dour is well known as a steady and copious run of water; and the property in question might be adapted to almost any business where water and space are essential or useful.

Printed particulars, with plans and conditions of sale, may be had ten days before the sale, and further particulars obtained on application to Messrs. BRIDGES, MASON, and BRIDGES, Red Lion-square; the Auctioneers, Dover; Mr. A. Small, Land Surveyor, Buckland; or to Messrs. Edw. Knocker and Edw. Elwin, Solicitors to the said, Dover.

Important Investment.—To Capitalists and Others.

TO BE SOLD BY AUCTION, by Mr. STAFFORD, at his Rooms, in Milcom-street, on SATURDAY, the 5th day of SEPTEMBER, 1846, at Twelve for One o'clock precisely, the REVERSIONARY INTEREST of an individual expectant on the decease of a lady, now in her sixty-third year, of and in One-Seventh Part or Share of the sum of 32,427l. 1s. 8d. now standing with other moneys in the names of trustees, as follows, viz:—16,529l. 1s. 8d. Consols; 7,564l. 10s. 3d. per Cents.; 8,333l. 6s. 8d. 3 per Cents. Total, 32,427l. 1s. 8d.—For further particulars, apply to R. VINER, esq. Solicitor, 24, Charles-street; or at the Auctioneer's Office, Milcom-street, Bath. Bath, 18th August, 1846.

FREEHOLD and COPYHOLD LAND in Hampshire, for building or cultivation, 95 acres (83 freehold and 12 copyhold), with the erection of a pretty Swiss cottage; three other cottages, stabling, barns, and other agricultural buildings, the whole beautifully belted with timber. There is a quantity of peat, and thousands of fir-trees, now ready for cutting, worth 1,000l. and the price for the whole only 3,000 guineas. It would be a capital speculation for building, as it commands extensive frontages to two high roads, and the scenery not to be surpassed, and there is excellent shooting, fishing, and hunting in the neighbourhood; or equally desirable for cultivation, the land being of excellent quality, fine, and quit rent of copyhold merely nominal.

Apply at Messrs. BECKWITH and SALMON'S Estate and Land Office, 25, Bucklersbury.

Assurances are granted on the Lives of Persons in every station of Life, and for every part of the World, upon peculiarly favourable terms—the rates of Premium being on the lowest scale consistent with perfect security.

The assured have the opportunity of obtaining the advance, at any period of life, of the full amount secured by the Policy, on giving approved available security for a certain number of Annual payments for a limited number of Years, on the advantageous terms set out in the Company's Tables.

This Company has also adopted an entirely new plan of Assurance, by deposit only of a sum of money instead of payment of an annual or other Premium, with the privilege of withdrawing the whole or any part of the money so deposited at any time.

Prospectuses, explaining the great advantages afforded to persons assured in this Company, and the facilities afforded to such as desire to effect assurances on the lives of others, so as to render such policies effectual securities, may be had, with every requisite information, on application, either personally or by letter, at the Company's offices.

Persons resident in towns where no agent for the Company is yet appointed, and desirous of acting as such, may apply by letter, with the usual references as to character and respectability.

LIFE.—This Institution adopts both the Mutual and Proprietary systems of Life Assurance. Persons assured according to the Mutual Scale are entitled to four-fifths of the profits of this branch, whilst those assured according to the Proprietary Scale are charged the lowest possible rate of premium consistent with security to the establishment. Both are fully protected by the large subscribed capital of the Company.

Advances are also made on Real or Undoubted Personal Security, to be further secured by Assurances to be effected with the Company.

FIRE.—The Premiums for Assurance against Fire are charged at the usual moderate rates, with a reduction of 10l. per Cent. on the Residences and Furniture of Clergymen.

Prospectuses, the necessary Forms, and every requisite information for effecting Assurances, may be obtained on application at the Head Office.

This Company, established by Act of Parliament, affords the most perfect security in a large paid-up Capital, and the great success which has attended it since its commencement in 1834.

Its Annual Income being upwards of 422,000.

In 1841 the Company added a Bonus of 2l. per cent. per annum on the sum insured to all policies of the participating class from the time they were effected.

The Bonus added to policies from March, 1834, to the 31st Dec. 1840, is as follows:—

Sum Assured.	Time Assured.	Bonus added to Policy.
£5,000	6 Yrs. 10 Months.	£100 0 0
5,000	4 Years	50 0 0
5,000	4 Years	50 0 0
5,000	2 Years	25 0 0

The Premiums nevertheless are on the most moderate, and only one-half need be paid for the first Five Years, where the Insured is in Life.

Every information will be afforded on application to the Resident Directors, EDWARD BOYD, Esq. and L. LENOX BOYD, Esq. of No. 8, Waterloo-place, Pall-mall, London.

Sales by Auction.

TO be SOLD by AUCTION, at the Lion Hotel, in Warrington, in the county of Lancaster, at Three o'clock in the afternoon, on the 22nd, 23rd, and 24th days of OCTOBER, 1846, in 63 Lots, and subject to conditions which will be then produced, the Fee-simple and Inheritance of and in the valuable and extensive ESTATES, WATER-CORN-MILL, FARMS, LANDS, and TENEMENTS (late of the Rev. Masie Domville Taylor, deceased), situate in Lymms, in the county of Chester, including therein the capital messuage or mansion house called Lymms Hall, and also one-fourth share of the MANOR of Lymms Hall, and comprising about 600 statute acres of Land. Lymms has been long celebrated among the Cheshire villages for its picturesque and romantic beauty. The neighbourhood is pleasant and the society good. The roads on all sides are excellent, and the Bridgewater Canal, on which there are daily passage boats to and from Manchester and Liverpool, passes through the village. When the Birkenhead, Lancashire, and Cheshire Junction Railway is completed, which will pass at no great distance from it, the village will possess unrivalled facilities of access from the adjoining districts of Lancashire and Cheshire, as well as from all other parts of the country.

The estate, which has been divided into numerous and various lots, to suit purchasers of different classes, will be found to comprise arable, meadow, and pasture land, of the best quality, and in the highest state of cultivation; a portion of the meadow land lies on the banks of the river Mersey. The produce of the estate always finds a ready market at Manchester, to which place it is conveyed by means of the Bridgewater Canal at an inconsiderable expense. The market towns of Altrincham, Kearsley, and Warrington are also within the respective distances of seven, six, and five miles from Lymms, and are all accessible by the best roads. Upon the estate will be found several very eligible sites for residences, with advantages of good drainage, suitable soil, and a variety of pleasing views over the valley of the Mersey, and the surrounding country. Abundance of good stone suitable for building purposes is found on the estate. Lymms Hall, which, with a moderate quantity of land, will be offered in one lot, is a substantial stone edifice, built about the year 1640, with projecting gables, and in the picturesque style of that period, and is surrounded by a sufficiency of ornamental timber. Possession of all the lots may be secured at an early period at the will of the purchasers, the requisite notices having been given to the tenants with a view to the present sale.—The respective tenants or Mr. Thomas Jackson, of Lymms, will shew the estate; and printed particulars with plans may shortly be had at the Spread Eagle and Fleece Inns, in Lymms; at the place of sale; and at the office of Messrs. BEAMONT and URSON, Solicitors, Warrington.

Insurance Companies.

DISEASED & HEALTHY LIVES ASSURED.

MEDICAL, INVALID, & GENERAL LIFE OFFICE,
25, Pall Mall, London, and 22, Nassau Street, Dublin.

Subscribed Capital £50,000.

THIS OFFICE WAS ESTABLISHED in 1841, and possesses tables formed on a scientific basis for the assurance of diseased lives. The urgent necessity for an institution like the present may be estimated by the statement that two-thirds of the population are not insurable as healthy lives, and that about one in five of the applicants to other offices is declined on examination. Of the proposals accepted by this Society during the last three years, nearly 300 had been rejected among upwards of 80 other offices. These cases came under the class of the most prevalent diseases, and the various parties could not have participated in the advantages of life assurance had not this Society been in existence, as it is the only one possessing tabulated rates of premium deduced from extensive data.

Premiums have been determined for the assurance of persons at every age, among those afflicted with consumption, asthma, bronchitis, pneumonia, disease of the heart, apoplexy, paralysis, epilepsy, insanity, disease of the liver, dropsy, scrofula, gout, rheumatism, &c.

These circumstances induce the Directors to believe that by the establishment of this office they have conferred an important benefit upon those whose condition made such a provision as assurance necessary, and they are therefore led to expect a powerful support from the public. Increased annuities are granted on sound lives. Healthy lives are assured at lower rates than at most other offices, and a capital of half a million sterling, fully subscribed, affords a complete guarantee for the fulfilment of the Society's engagements.

F. G. P. NEISON, Actuary.

NORTH BRITISH INSURANCE COMPANY, 4, New Bank Buildings, and 10, Pall-Mall East.

Tables of increasing premiums have been formed on a plan peculiar to this company, whereby assurance may be effected for the whole of life, the premium commencing very low, and gradually increasing during the first five years, after which a uniform premium is paid during the remainder of life.

SPECIMEN OF THE TABLES.
Premium for Assuring £100.

Age	First Year.	Second Year.	Third Year.	Fourth Year.	Fifth Year.	Remainder of life
	s. d.	s. d.	s. d.	s. d.	s. d.	s. d.
30	1 3	9 1	5 2	1 6	8 1	4 10
40	1 11	10 1	13 9	1 15	10 1	18 1

This table is not only suitable to those who, from the prospect of an increasing income, or other circumstances, prefer paying a smaller sum during the first few years, but is also decidedly the best mode of insuring with the view of securing the repayment of temporary loans. It is preferable to a period policy, as it may be continued to the end of life, without requiring new certificates of health, or incurring a higher rate of premium.

A Prospectus may be obtained of the Secretary, Henry T. Thompson, esq., 4, New Bank-buildings, or of the Actuary, 10, Pall Mall East.

LIFE.—This Institution adopts both the Mutual and Proprietary systems of Life Assurance. Persons assured according to the Mutual Scale are entitled to four-fifths of the profits of this branch, whilst those assured according to the Proprietary Scale are charged the lowest possible rate of premium consistent with security to the establishment. Both are fully protected by the large subscribed capital of the Company.

Advances are also made on Real or Undoubted Personal Security, to be further secured by Assurances to be effected with the Company.

FIRE.—The Premiums for Assurance against Fire are charged at the usual moderate rates, with a reduction of 10l. per Cent. on the Residences and Furniture of Clergymen.

Prospectuses, the necessary Forms, and every requisite information for effecting Assurances, may be obtained on application at the Head Office.

CORRESPONDENCE.

MAL-PRACTICES OF ATTORNEYS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE LAW TIMES.

SIR,—Mr. Durrant is entitled to the thanks of the Profession for his conduct at the Essex County Court, reported in your last week's paper. It is high time to put a stop to Mr. Old and his tribe. I am informed, and believe it to be true, that there is a Mr. W. Godfrey, carrying on the business of an attorney, at 25, Southernhay, Exeter, who was never articulated, but was for many years a salary clerk to a Mr. Ford, of Exeter, now deceased, and that he carries on Mr. Ford's business in the name of some gentleman living a great many miles from Exeter, who scarcely ever visits it. This seems to be a worse case than that of Old and Dennes. The attorneys of Exeter should look into this if it be correct, and if it is incorrect perhaps Mr. Godfrey will contradict it in your next paper.

I am, Sir, yours, &c.

A DEVONSHIRE ATTORNEY.

P.S. Perhaps some Exeter solicitor can throw light on this matter. It appears to me that the attorneys are not aware of the consequence of allowing unqualified persons to practise in their names; if they are they would surely not allow their names to be thus used.

THE INFLUENCE OF ATTORNEYS IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE LAW TIMES.

SIR,—As Mr. Wakley is the only gentleman of the six hundred and odd of "Honourable Members," who attempted, in any degree, the advocacy of the cause of the solicitors on the several discussions of this measure, the very least thing we, as a body, can do, is to tender him our acknowledgments for his strenuous endeavours on our behalf; and the best way we can evidence any such feeling is, to offer him some slight memorial, which may bear on its front its object and intent. A shilling subscription, among solicitors generally, would abundantly carry out these views, and, I fancy, very speedily, too, if set on foot.

It is obvious that a country town is not a place to commence such a movement; but there are very few country solicitors who would not instruct their agents to contribute to such an object, if some place and person in town, connected with the Profession, could be found to further it.

I respectfully throw out the suggestion, in the hope that something of the sort may be done, to assure this valuable man of the respect which his services have gained for him.

I am, Sir, yours, &c.

Dartford, Kent, Aug. 31, 1846.

C. R. G.

ATTORNEYS' GOWNS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE LAW TIMES.

SIR,—As the Profession will, doubtless, be now often called upon to appear as advocates in the Courts about to be formed under the "Small Debts Act," a more fitting opportunity cannot possibly occur, than the present, for their resuming the gown. Such a course would enable the sutors of the courts to distinguish the authorized legal practitioner from the numerous harpies and sham lawyers with which these courts will be infested. It would also add to the dignity of the courts, and the respectability of our "apparently friendless" Profession.

I am, Sir, yours, &c.

PUBLIC PETITIONS.—Since the 26th ult. the following petitions have been presented:—For the abolition of flogging in the army and navy, five, bearing 2,763 signatures; for the redemption of tolls upon Waterloo, Southwark, and Vauxhall-bridges, 24, with 5,778 signatures; in favour of the Pawnbrokers' Bill, 15, with 615 signatures; in favour of the Medical Practitioners' Bill 120, with 377 signatures.

ARMY.—From a return presented to the House of Commons, it appears that the number of officers allowed to receive half-pay since 1st April, 1845, while holding a civil appointment, amounts to five; only one of whom, however, receives emolument of any consequence; namely, Lieut.-Col. Bowles, who, as comptroller of the household of the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, is in the annual receipt of 413l. 13s. 4d.

AN INDEX TO THE LAW.

Just published.

THE LAW DIGEST.—A complete Index

to all the Reports that appeared during the Half-year ending the 1st of January last. Price 5s. 6d. in a stout wrapper. To be continued half-yearly.

The object of this Digest is to enable the Practitioner to find in a moment what has been the law decided on any subject, with reference to the authorities.

This laborious undertaking is intended to supply the practitioner with a ready reference to all the law decided during the half-year ending on the 1st of January, and it is, if successful, to be continued half-yearly. The plan is simple and convenient. All the cases reported during the half year are arranged under their proper subjects, and these are placed alphabetically. If, therefore, the practitioner wants to ascertain what cases have been decided, say on the law of "Executors," he turns to that title, and under it he will find every case, whereover reported, briefly digested with reference to the reports, or reports, if more than one, where it appears. Besides this, there is an index to the plaintiffs, so that if one be forgotten the case may still be traced by means of the other. The peculiarity of this work, and that in which it differs from any other digest, is, that it includes all the reports, whereas all the other digests exclude some, being guided in their selection, not by the wants of the practitioner, but according to the rivalries of publishers. The plan of this digest is to omit none, and its consequent completeness gives it a peculiar value and utility. The amount of exclusion from the other digests may be judged by this, that the Digest before us, although embracing the reports only for half-a-year, contains more cases than does either of the others for a whole year, and the mere index of the names of the cases digested occupies no less than twenty-four closely printed columns. There is also a table of the statutes cited, arranged in chronological order.

"It will not become as to express an opinion upon the merits of this publication. We can only give a description of it, leaving it to the reader from that description to determine whether it is likely to be an acquisition to his office."—Law Times.

Miscellaneous.

SHOOTING SEASON.—The Oldest GUN and

PISTOL REPOSITORY in London (established 1770), No. 224, Strand, near Temple Bar. B. COGSWELL (late Essex), begs to inform Gentlemen his Stock for the Season is large, and comprises every London Maker of eminence, which B. C. respectfully requests gentlemen to inspect before purchasing; reference may be had to the makers, and a trial allowed; and to those gentlemen who prefer a less expensive gun, B. C. is enabled to offer sound double Guns, from 50s. ditto in case complete, from 5 guineas; Single Guns, from 21s. each; Pocket Pistols, from 14s.; Holster Pistols, from 27s. per pair and upwards; six barrels, self-revolving Pistols in cases complete, from 3 guineas each. Every article in shooting apparatus, of the best quality at the lowest prices; a large assortment of Sykes's improved Travelling Baiter in leather, wicker, and metal; Joyce's anti-corrosive Percussion Caps, chemically prepared. Gun Waddings and Wire Cartridges. Repairs executed with the greatest attention and dispatch.

SCHIEDAM HOLLANDS.—Owing to the late enormous duty on this beautiful and wholesome Spirit, comparatively very little has been used or known in this country. The Public have, therefore, had no opportunity of testing its merits. VINCENT and PUGH, after numerous experiments and incessant enquiry in machinery, have at length arrived at that mode of distillation which has enabled them to produce an ARTICLE equal in every respect to the finest Foreign. Vincent and Pugh introduce this splendid matchless spirit to the public for their opinion and approbation, which they trust it merits, not only in quality but price, being now for any length of time, 2s. 6d. per bottle, in square Dutch bottles, with the cork branded (VINCENT & PUGH), and sealed for security as to its genuineness. To be had of all the respectable retail dealers in and about the metropolis, or of their agent, Mr. Charles Hodder, Castle, Moorlane-street, City, and wholesale, Vincent and Pugh, Distillery, 10, New Park-street, Borough, and 10, Rood-lane, City.

The public attention is particularly called to their Pale Brown British Brandy, which is allowed to be matchless.

YACHTING, DRIVING, and ANGLING.—

THE NEW DREADNOUGHT COATS and CAPES, made by J. C. CORDING, will be found by Sailors and Sportsmen to be the best articles ever made up for their use. They will resist the heaviest rain and the fiercest tropical heat for any time, and their durability is equal to their waterproof qualities. Trousers, leggings, sou'-westers, caps, and gloves, of the same proofing. Officers and others going to the colonies will find these articles invaluable. Gentlemen who drive should use CORDING'S new waterproof driving aprons and coats, the most serviceable and complete things of the kind, and approved by all who have tried them. Ladies' light riding capes, with hoods and sleeves. CORDING'S improved sheet India rubber boots are superior to any thing hitherto made for the comfort of anglers and snipe-shooters. They are light, pliable, and never crack; impervious to water for any length of time, and require no dressing to keep them in condition. Patterns and prices sent on application. Any description of article made to order. London: J. C. CORDING, 231, Strand, five doors west of Temple Bar.

CARVING IN WOOD.—The important reduction in the price of carving in wood as executed by the patent process enables the proprietors to encourage the prevailing taste by supplying the most exquisite species of carving in the Gothic, Elizabethan, French, and Italian styles, adapted to all architectural purposes, picture frames, and every possible variety of elaborate decorations. The proprietors solicit an inspection of the specimens executed by this simple and beautiful process at their offices, 44, West Strand, or at their works, Remond-place, Thames-bank. Published by J. Ward, 59, Holborn, Part I., II., III., and IV. price 3s. each (to be continued), containing specimen drawings of elaborate Carvings in Wood, produced by the Patent Wood Carving Company, 44, West Strand.

COCOA-NUT FIBRE.—This substance envelopes

the shell of the milky coco-nut, around which it forms a strong protecting net-work. Man's ingenuity has turned the fibre to account by manufacturing it into many useful articles—such as carpets for stairs and passages, matting for churches, public buildings, offices, nurseries, and kitchens; hearth-rugs, door-mats, ropes, netting for sleep-folds, &c.; but among the applications there is not any to which it is better adapted than for the stuffing of mattresses and cushions, as substitute for horse-hair, wool, and flock. It is very elastic, and affords great ease and support to the body, whether used with or without a feather bed. It has also the additional recommendation of being so obnoxious to vermin that they will not live in it! whilst it is a fact well known that even fleas, lice, and even horse-hair, will expel their animalcules. Possessing peculiar chemical properties that render it a non-absorbent, the fibre is particularly suitable for children's beds, for use of schools, in all large dormitories, and at sea. Cocoa-nut fibre mattresses are only about one-half the price of those made from horse-hair. Priced lists may be had on application at the warehouse, and will be sent free by post.

TEARLARK, 42, Ludgate-hill, seven doors from Faringdon-street, and five below Belle Sauvage Inn.

DIAMOND DUST, direct from the Mines.—

Genuine DIAMOND DUST, for giving instantaneously the keenest edge to the blindest razor, knife, &c. regularly imported direct from the mines of Golconda, the Brissils, and the Uralian Mountains, and may be had at the wholesale depot, 1, Angel-court, opposite Somerset-house, Strand, London, in rosewood boxes (with instructions) at 1s. 6d. each, and the retail price, 6d. each. It is the best throughout the world. Diamond dust, it is well known, has been used for many years amongst the nobles of the Russian Court as an indispensable adjunct to the comfort of their toilets. His late Majesty George IV. and His Royal Highness the Duke of Sussex were well acquainted with the peculiar properties and application of the diamond dust, having used it for sharpening their razors for upwards of 30 years. Parties using the diamond dust will never require to have their razors set or ground, the use of the hone being rendered perfectly unnecessary. Shippers and agents supplied on liberal terms. Either of the boxes will be transmitted free by any part of the country.

EYE BROWS, MOUSTACHES, and WHISKERS, produced in a few weeks by GRIMSTONE'S AROMATIC REGENERATOR, an Essential Spirit, drawn by the inventor from choice Aromatic Herbs. The Regenerator will produce new hair on bald places caused by weakness of constitution, &c. and is a certain preventive of Headache and Fainting. Sold in triangular bottles, with same, &c. at 4s. 7s. and 11s. each, and government sanction of testimonials and advice, included. Sent through the post, at 4s. 6d. 7s. 8d. and 12s. by all Chemists, Medicine Vendors, and W. GRIMSTONE, Herbarry, Highgate, near London.

VICKERS'S CURACAO PUNCH.

THIS DELIGHTFUL LIQUEUR stands pre-eminent as a finished specimen of what Punch should be. It is in a high state of concentration; and when diluted, presents to the consumer the reality, the taste, and the fragrance of the original. That truly valuable stomachic JAMAICA GINGER, so most successfully combined with other wholesome ingredients; and introduced as a delicious Liqueur, known as ORANGE GINGERETTE; and in a stronger form (as an anti-spasmodic), under the name of BRANDY. These two, which are the basis of the IMPERIAL LIQUEUR GENEVA, may be obtained of all the Spirit Merchants in the kingdom. In order more effectually to protect the quality, and to present them to the consumer in a convenient form, these Liqueurs are bottled, sealed, and labelled by the distillers.

JOSEPH and JOHN VICKERS and CO. LONDON.

N.B. The Curacao Punch and Orange Gingerette will be found admirable adjuncts to Soda Water.

Distillery: Stoney-street, Borough Market, London.

CARSON'S ORIGINAL ANTI-CORROSION

PAINT, specially patronized by the British and other Governments, the East-India Company, the principal Dock Companies, and other public bodies, &c. is particularly recommended to the Nobility, Gentry, Agriculturists, Manufacturers, West-India Proprietors, and others, it having been proved, by the practical test of nearly fifty years, to surpass all other Paints as an out-door preservative. It is extensively used for the preservation of wooden houses, farms, and other out-buildings, farming implements, conservatories; park paling, gates, iron railing, iron harness, copper, zinc, lead, brick, stone, oil compass and stucco fronts, and tiles to represent slating. The superiority of the ANTI-CORROSION over every other paint, for out-door purposes, may be easily inferred from the simple fact that it is the only paint most strenuously opposed by colour manufacturers, painters, oil and colourmen, and others interested in the sale of common paints. It is also very economical, any labourer being able to lay it on. Colours—light stone, drab, the Portland ditto, Buff, light, dark yellow, light, dark, and black on light and dark lead, light and dark chocolate, bright and dark red, and black, 80s. per cwt.; iridescent green, 50s.; bright ditto, 60s.; deep green, 60s. per cwt.; in casks, 28 lb., 56 lb., and 112 lb. each. Oil and Brushes. More detailed particulars will be sent, free of cost, on application to the inventor, Mr. W. C. Carson, who is reluctantly compelled to caution the Public against the spurious imitations of his Original ANTI-CORROSION PAINT, now offered for sale. He has no agents whatever. All orders are particularly requested to be sent direct.

Sales by Auction.

TO be SOLD by AUCTION, early in the month of OCTOBER (unless previously disposed of by private contract, of which due notice will be given), in one or various lots, as may be determined at the time of sale, the valuable buildings and premises known by the name of the TANGIER IRON FOUNDRY, situate at Taunton, in the county of Somerset, where for many years past an extensive business has been conducted. The buildings are all extremely substantial, and so erected that they may, at slight cost, be converted into dwelling-houses. The whole adjoins the proposed site for the new church, and will afford admirable opportunity for any person desirous of continuing the business, or to make a street of excellent houses, in a favourite locality, which would yield a large revenue. Any person desirous of continuing the ironfoundry and smithy might have the buildings for a term, at a moderate revenue.

For further particulars, apply to Mr. C. CORFIELD, Architect, Taunton; W. R. HARRIS, Esq. Solicitor, 22, Lincoln's-inn-fields, London; and, for particulars and to view, at Tangier House, Taunton; or at the office of the Somerset County Gazette, Taunton.

N.B.—Should not the above be sold or let by private contract, further advertisements will announce the day and place of sale.

The noble Town Mansion of the late Right Hon. Lord Carbery, in Belgrave-square.

MESSRS. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS are honoured with instructions from the Executors, to SELL by AUCTION, on the premises, on MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, at Two in the afternoon, the noble TOWN RESIDENCE of the late Right Hon. Lord Carbery, situate No. 3, on the north side of Belgrave-square, most elegantly fitted up, and in excellent order, containing numerous principal and secondary bed-chambers, with dressing-rooms, a magnificent suite of reception-rooms, comprising two very spacious lofty drawing-rooms communicating with French windows glazed with plate glass and opening upon balconies, the walls decorated with elegant white satin and gold paper in compartments, the wood-work and ceiling painted white and enriched with gold mouldings and ornaments to correspond, and a lobby leading to a boudoir, the walls tastefully finished with oak paper and gilt mouldings, a spacious dining-room, with plate glass windows, neatly painted and finished with enriched cornices, and communicating, through folding doors, with an ante-room or breakfast parlour, a library with painted walls and cornice, a water-closet, and an imposing entrance-hall and vestibule paved with stone, principal and secondary stone staircases to the second story. The domestic offices are complete in every department, with extensive cellaring of all descriptions. In the rear of the mansion is capital stabling for seven horses, standing for four carriages, with lofts and servants' apartments over, and a wash-house with a laundry and sleeping-rooms over. The property is leasehold, under the Marquis of Westminster, for a term of 77 years unexpired, at a ground rent of only 13l. per annum.—May be viewed by cards only between the hours of Twelve and Four, which, with particulars, may be had of Messrs. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS, 28, Poultry. Particulars may also be obtained of Messrs. BAKENDALE, TATHAM, UPTON, JOHN-SON, UPTON, and JOHNSON, Solicitors, Great Winchester-street, Broad-street, and Lincoln's-inn-fields.

ROMFORD, ESSEX.—The Brook Meadows, numerous detached Arable and Pasture Lands, Cottages, Dwelling-houses, and other Premises.

MESSRS. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS are directed to SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, in the approaching month of OCTOBER, in twenty lots, numerous eligible FREEHOLD INVESTMENTS, situate in and near the capital market town of Romford, in the county of Essex; comprising the Crown Meadows and adjoining inclosures, several detached inclosures of rich arable and pasture land, with numerous dwelling-houses, shops, cottages, yards, buildings, and extensive premises, comprising in the whole nearly eighty acres of land, extremely well situate, in high cultivation, and in the occupation of respectable tenants, at rents amounting to 630l. per annum.—May be viewed, and particulars had fourteen days previous to the sale, at the Red Lion Inn, Romford; of TIMOTHY TYRRELL, Esq. Solicitor, Guildhall-yard; at the Mart; and of Messrs. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS, 28, Poultry.

To Brewers and Publicans.—The Golden Lion Inn, Romford, Essex.

MESSRS. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS are directed to SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, in the ensuing month of OCTOBER, a FREEHOLD ESTATE, comprising the Golden Lion, situate in the High-street and Corn-market, and the corner of Collier-row-lane, in the capital and greatly improving market town of Romford, comprising an old-established and well-frequented inn, distinguished as above, and containing suitable accommodation for company and travellers, extensive yards and stabling, and all necessary appurtenances for an extensive business. In the occupation of Mr. Noah Dunnett, on lease for a short term unexpired, at a net rent of 105l. per annum.—May be viewed, and particulars had, fourteen days previous to the sale, on the premises; of TIMOTHY TYRRELL, Esq. Solicitor, Guildhall-yard; at the Mart; and of Messrs. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS, 28, Poultry.

Periodical Sale.—Rent Charge in lieu of Tithes, Mendesham, Suffolk.

MESSRS. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS are instructed to include in the Monthly SALE of Reversionary Interests, &c. appointed to take place at the Mart, on FRIDAY, OCTOBER 2, (unless previously disposed of by private contract,) a RENT CHARGE, or clear annual income of 237l. arising from one moiety or half-part of the Tithes of Mendesham, in the county of Suffolk, as committed by the Commissioners appointed for that purpose; held upon lease from the Dean and Chapter of Ely, renewal fee according to custom.—Particulars may be obtained in due time of Messrs. GOLDING and KING, Solicitors, Stowmarket; at the Mart; and of Messrs. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS, 28, Poultry.

MARSHALLS, near Romford and the Railway Station.—Elegant Residence, Park, and Estate.

MESSRS. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS are directed to SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, in the approaching month of OCTOBER, a valuable FREEHOLD ESTATE, distinguished as MARSHALLS; comprising an elegant Country Residence, with interior accommodations adapted for an opulent family, attached and detached offices of every description in the most perfect order, approached through a picturesque and richly timbered park, and judiciously placed on the verge of a beautiful lawn, belted and embellished with delightful shrubbery walks, American plants, evergreens, and stately forest trees; a fine sheet of water crossed by a handsome bridge, an elegant conservatory, flower and kitchen gardens with lofty walls, clothed and stocked with a valuable selection of luxuriant fruit trees, pine pits, peach-house, graperies, melon ground, mushroom-house, ice-house, bath, billiard-room, ayotts, boat-house, fishponds, rural alcoves, and other ornamental appendages; also a farm in the highest state of cultivation, with excellent agricultural buildings: the whole containing 118 acres, chiefly rich meadow land, lying within a ring fence, in the parish of Romford, contiguous to the capital and greatly improving market town of Romford, only 12 miles from London, in the county of Essex, and within half a mile of the railway station.—May be viewed with tickets only, which, with particulars, may be had in due time of Messrs. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS, 28, Poultry; particulars may also be obtained of TIMOTHY TYRRELL, Esq. Solicitor, Guildhall-yard; at the Golden Lion, Romford; and at the Auction Mart.

Outlands Park.

MESSRS. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS are instructed to SELL by AUCTION, at the Auction Mart, on FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, at Twelve, in six lots, OUTLANDS FARM, a valuable Freehold Estate, consisting of 27 acres of pasture, plantations, garden ground, and orcharding; delightfully situate in the parishes of Weybridge and Walton, in the county of Surrey, about one mile from the Weybridge Station, and only about half-an-hour's ride from London, with a neat residence, containing accommodation for a moderate-sized family, with suitable offices, and extensive stabling. The property is approached by the entrance-lodge by the South-western Railway, and extends through the park to the Outlands drive; the whole being highly ornamented with stately timber, is singularly eligible for the creation of villa residences, for which purpose it will be divided into several lots.—Particulars, with plans annexed, may be had of Mr. Haynes, on the premises; of Messrs. FRERE, FORSTER, and Co. Solicitors, Lincoln's-inn, at the White Hart, Windsor; Griffin, Kingston; Swan, Chertsey; at the Auction Mart; and of Messrs. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS, 28, Poultry.

BELGRAVE-SQUARE.—The excellent modern Furniture and Appendages of the Town Mansion of the late Right Hon. Lord Carbery, including noble Pier and Chimney Glasses, Marqueterie Cabinets, Commodore, Tables, and Bookcases, Bronze Equestrian Groups, richly cut Glass Chandeliers, suits of handsome blue Figured Satin, Amber Silk, and Claret Colour Tabaret Curtains, China and Glass, a small Cellar of capital Wines, and numerous Effects.

MESSRS. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS are honoured with instructions from the Executors of the Right Hon. Lord Carbery to SELL by AUCTION, on the Premises, 3, Belgrave-square, on MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, and following days, at Twelve, the superior modern FURNITURE, valuable Wines, and Effects of the above nobleman; comprising, in the secondary sleeping rooms, half-tester, tent, and other bedsteads and furniture, feather beds and bedding, mahogany and oak chests of drawers, wash-hand stands, and toilet tables. The principal bed chambers include mahogany Parisian bedsteads, with canopy tops and chintz hangings, hair and wool mattresses, feather beds and bedding, washhand-stands, toilet tables, chests of drawers, winged and plain wardrobes, cheval and dressing-glasses. In the reception rooms will be found a rosewood drawing-room suite, covered in blue silk, consisting of loo, card, and sofa tables, couches, chairs, and ottomans, elegant white and gold chairs, covered in white satin and rich silk damask, superb blue figured satin curtains for four windows, noble pier and chimney glasses in handsome carved and gilt frames, chandeliers, console tables with marble tops and plate-glass panel doors, beautiful marqueterie cabinets, tables, commodore, and book cases, Parisian clocks, bronze equestrian groups, elegant or-molu candelabras, Turkey, Brussels, and needle-work carpets, a set of massive Spanish mahogany telescope dining tables, carved pedestal sideboard, sideboard tables, 18 solid mahogany dining-room chairs covered in maroon leather, claret colour silk tabaret curtains for two windows, oak winged library bookcases, china, glass, a cellar of capital wines, about 100 dozen of Port, Sherry, and other wines, china and glass culinary requisites, a Baker's patent mangle, and numerous miscellaneous effects.—May be viewed on Friday and Saturday previous to the sale, when catalogues may be had (at 1s. each) on the premises, and of Messrs. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS, 28, Poultry.

Periodical Sales (established in the year 1803) of Reversions, Life Interests, Annuities, Policies of Assurance, Advowsons, Next Presentations, Rent Charges in lieu of Tithes, Post-obit Bonds, Tontines, Debentures, Ground Rents, Improved Rents, Shares in Docks, Canals, Mines, Railways, Insurance Companies, and all Public Undertakings.

MESSRS. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS respectfully inform the public, that upwards of 40 years' experience having proved the classification of this species of property to be extremely advantageous and economical to vendors, and equally satisfactory and convenient to purchasers, the PERIODICAL SALES of reversionary interests, policies of insurance, tontines, debentures, advowsons, next presentations, and securities dependent upon human life, shares in docks, canals, mines, railways, and all public undertakings, will be continued through 1846, as follows:

Friday, October 2

Friday, November 6

Particulars may be had Ten days previous to each sale, at the Auction Mart; and of Messrs. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS, 28, Poultry.

Very important and valuable Freehold Estate, embracing the entire Parish of Addington, free of Tithes and Land-tax, and almost of Poor-rates, with its spacious Mansion, excellent Manor for Game, the Advowson, and several first-rate Grazing and Dairy Farms, extending nearly to the town of Winslow, only five miles from the county and borough town of Buckingham, distinguished as the family seat and domain of the late Honourable General Vere Poulett, forming a singularly eligible and solid investment for capital in a proverbially rich and fine sporting country.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON are commissioned to announce that the above remarkably valuable and truly important FREEHOLD ESTATE will be SOLD by AUCTION, at the Mart, near the Bank of England, on THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, at 12, unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by private treaty. It comprises the spacious and substantial mansion of Addington, with walled garden, capital stabling, &c. placed on a gentle elevation, nearly in the centre of one of the most fertile domains in the county, embracing the entire parish, nearly encircled by a fine brook, and chiefly rich grazing and dairy land, the whole title free, and let to old respectable tenants, at rents amounting to about 2,600l. per annum; the perpetual advowson, with its parsonage and glebe, and the manor, which is well stocked with game, appertain to the estate. The timber is nearly all elm, a certain proof of the fertility of the soil. The high turnpike-road from Aylesbury to Buckingham passes through the property close to the town of Winslow, and it is within a very easy distance of the several markets of Buckingham, Bicester, Stow, Stratford, &c. This description of grass land is unlikely to be affected by any change as to corn laws or tariffs, and the property, therefore, presents, with its peculiar and great local advantages, an indisputably fine and choice property for the investment of money, with a most enjoyable domain for residence, being in a perfectly rural district, and in the centre of several packs of hounds. A station on the Buckinghamshire Railway will be very near.

The property may be viewed by application to Mr. King, Surveyor, Winslow, of whom particulars may be had; of Messrs. KARSLAKE and CREALOCK, Solicitors, Carlton Chambers, Regent-street; of ALEXANDER RIDGWAY, Esq. Leicester-square; of Messrs. WALKER and GRIDLEY, Solicitors, 5, Southampton-street, Bloomsbury; and every information obtained of Messrs. DANIEL SMITH and SON, Land Agents and Surveyors, in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall.

CAMBRIDGESHIRE.—The Great and Valuable FREEHOLD ESTATE of WHITTLESEA, extending to within two miles of the city of Peterborough.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON are commissioned by the noble proprietors to SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, near the Bank of England, on THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, at Twelve, unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by Private Contract, the above truly valuable and important FREEHOLD PROPERTY near Peterborough, comprising the vast manors of Whittlesea, embracing nearly 25,000 acres, and in which are 200 or 300 copyholders, paying quit rents and fines, the greater part of the flourishing town of Whittlesea, the bank premises, several private residences, inn, shops, &c. being held of the said manor.

Also above 2,100 ACRES of most FERTILE LAND, divided into COMPACT FARMS, and let at low rents to a highly respectable and intelligent tenantry with some very valuable dispersed parcels of land adjoining and contiguous to the town, portions eligible for building.

Also, the ADVOWSON of the Vicarage of St. Mary, and the FREEHOLD RENT-CHARGES, in lieu of tithes, extending over nearly 18,000 ACRES, of the annual value together of upwards of 8,600l. exclusive of the valuable manors and living; offering, with its many advantages, a fine influential and solid property for the investment of capital. There is a navigable river and canal through the estate, and the railway from Peterborough to Ely, &c. passes through Whittlesea.

The entire property will be first offered in one lot, and if not sold will be immediately put up in three lots, viz. first, the tithe-rent-charges; second, the farms and manors; and, third, the advowson.

Particulars may be obtained of Messrs. JONES, RATEMAN, and BENNETT, Solicitors, Lincoln's-inn-fields; at the Auction Mart; of Mr. JOHN WADDELOW, Whittlesea, who will show the estates; and of Messrs. DANIEL SMITH and SON, Land Agents, in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall.

Freehold and Leasehold Residences, City-road, Dalston, and Mile-end, of the value of nearly 3000l. per annum.

MR. ROBERTS (of Old Jewry) will SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, at Twelve, in lots. Ten very genteel six-roomed RESIDENCES, with spacious fore-courts, and large gardens, pleasantly situate, Nos. 1 to 10, Colford-road, Downham-road, Kingsland-road; Two semi-detached Cottage Residences, containing each six rooms and gardens, in Laurel-street, near the Hope, Holly-street, Dalston; Three genteel six-roomed Houses, Nos. 1, 2, and 3, Napier-street, Wenlock-road, City-road; Three capital six-roomed Houses, Nos. 3, 4, and 5, Lower York-street, Kingsland-road, near Haggerston Church; and Two compact five-roomed Freehold Houses, Nos. 7 and 9, King-street, Cambridge-road, Mile-end. The leaseholds are held for long terms, direct from the freeholders, at low ground rents.—Particulars may be had at the Swan, Kingsland-road; Hope, Holly-street; Queen's Head, Cambridge-road; at the Mart; of J. SCARBOROUGH, Esq. 19, Tokenhouse-yard; and of the Auctioneer, 7, Old Jewry.

Sales by Auction.

IRELAND.—COUNTY OF WEXFORD.—Valuable

Reversionary Life Interest.

MR. GEORGE CARNE is instructed to offer for SALE by AUCTION, at the Globe Hotel, Plymouth, on THURSDAY, the 24th day of SEPTEMBER next, at Twelve o'clock at noon, either entire or in convenient lots, the LIFE ESTATE (without impeachment of waste), late of Wm. Hore, esq. aged 36, or thereabouts, expectant on the decease of his father, Walter Hore, esq. aged 63, or thereabouts, but now vested in the assigns of the said Wm. Hore.

In all that and those the towns and lands of Harperstown, Taghmon, and its sub-denominations, part of Clonacree, Paulemarle, and Cloughbulla. And all that and those the town and lands of Traceystown, Moorestown, Hightown, Waddingtown, Aughnegan, part of Drinagh, part of Rochestown, and Mushmade, and in Arpinstown, four acres, all situate in the baronies of Shilmalier, Bargy, and Forth, in the county of Wexford, created by indenture of settlement bearing date the 1st day of September, 1837. And also the Reversion in Fee, expectant on the death of the said Walter Hore, and the death and failure of issue male of his four brothers. The annual rental of this property (1,500 acres or thereabouts, in extent comprising mansion, demesne, farms, limestone quarries, &c.) amounts to upwards of 1,900l. exclusively of the mansion and demesne of Harperstown (with its timber), now in the hands of the said Walter Hore, as tenant for life, and of the estimated annual value of 400l.

The quit rent and tithe rent charges, amount to 119l. 6s. 7d. or thereabouts. It is anticipated, that one estate will, on the death of a life, now aged 90, or thereabouts, insure a rise of 150l. per annum, at least, on the present rent, and that owing to several portions of the property being held on lease, are long the annual rental will be considerably enhanced.

The whole of this valuable property lies within ten miles of the populous and thriving town of Wexford, but a great portion (including the Lime Stone Quarries) is contiguous to that town. It suffices to state that the improved habits of the neighbourhood of Wexford—its excellent market—its quick communication with Liverpool—the punctuality with which the rents of this property are paid (second in that respect to none throughout Ireland)—the high quality of the land which has been given to the Baronies of Bargy and Forth a superiority throughout the whole of the county of Wexford (emphatically styled the granary of Ireland), the immediate and prospective advantages which must be derived from the completion of the railway communication with Dublin; and lastly the opportunity of recovering lands from the sea pursuant to powers for raising money on the property for that purpose contained in the said settlement (such recovered lands to be subjected thereto), all combine to form inducements of no ordinary kind for English capitalists to embark their money in land situate in an Irish district enjoying the peaceful security of an English county.—For further particulars, copy rent roll, &c. application to be made to Messrs. W. W. and R. WREN, Solicitors, 32, Fenchurch-street, London; Mr. J. WHYDDON, Solicitor, Russell-street, Plymouth; and to the Auctioneer, Mr. G. CARNE, Bedford-street, Plymouth.

This Society grants Assurances to meet every kind of pecuniary risk contingent upon the duration of human life.

Four-fifths of the profits are divided among the assured. The rates are calculated upon the basis of the Government returns.

Assurances are granted upon an increasing scale, thereby effecting a considerable reduction in the premiums for the first seven years.

In cases where a life assured by another has gone beyond the limits prescribed by the policy, without the knowledge of the party interested, the Society will, upon his application, and proof of the life being then in a satisfactory state of health (but subject to their medical officers' approval of the risk as applicable to such life), renew the policy upon the same terms as they would have required for its continuance had their consent been previously obtained.

The usual commission allowed to all solicitors.

NECROLOGY

THE MARQUESS OF AILSA.

We have to announce the demise of the Marquess of Ailsa, who, after an illness of several months, expired on Tuesday last, at St. Margaret's, his lordship's seat at Isleworth. We learn that, although the noble marquess had gradually declined in health for the last three years, he, up to the close of July, remained in much the same state, so as not to cause any immediate alarm to his family. Since then his lordship has rapidly sunk, and his approaching dissolution became apparent, and in consequence of anticipated danger, an express was despatched to the Earl of Cassillis, who is abroad, to inform him of the alarming illness of his grandfather. The deceased, Archibald Kennedy, Marquess of Ailsa of the Isle of Ailsa, county Ayr, and Baron Ailsa of Ailsa, in the peerage of the United Kingdom; Earl of Cassillis and Baron Kennedy, in the peerage of Scotland; and a baronet of Nova Scotia; was eldest son of Archibald, 11th Earl of Cassillis, by his second marriage with Anne, daughter of Mr. John Watts. He was born in 1770, and on the 1st of June, 1793, he married Margaret, youngest daughter of Mr. John Erskine. In December 1794 he succeeded, on the death of his father, to the ancient Scottish honours of the family. He is succeeded in the family honours, and extensive estates in Ayrshire, Berwickshire, Forfarshire, &c. by his grandson Archibald, Earl of Cassillis (now, of course, Marquess), eldest son of the late Earl of Cassillis, son of the deceased Marquess, and Eleanor, only child of Mr. Alexander Allardice, who only survived the death of her husband three months. The present marquess was formerly in the 17th Light Dragoons, but retired from the army in 1842.

SIR ROBERT PRESTON, BART.

Sir Robert Preston, bart. the oldest of that class of title in the empire, expired at Blackadder on the 30th ult. in the 90th year of his age. He was born in 1757, being the only son of the celebrated General George Preston (who at one period was commander of the Royal North British Dragoons), by the daughter of James Johnston, esq. He married his cousin, daughter to John Preston, esq. of Gorton, and had issue; amongst other children, Robert Preston, esq. formerly a major in the army, who succeeds to the title and estates. The latter are in Lincolnshire, Somersetshire, and Perthshire, and the family of the deceased were known as the Prestons Walleyfield, in the latter county. The title, a Scotch one, was created in 1637, and the sixth baronet having died in 1834 without any issue on the male line, of the first baronet, the title reverted according to patent of creation to the nearest male collateral relative, the deceased, who was the representative of the first baronet's nearest brother.

To Readers and Correspondents.

We cannot insert, or notice in any way, any communication that is sent to us anonymously; but those who choose to address us in confidence will find their confidence respected. NEITHER CAN WE UNDERTAKE TO RETURN ANY MANUSCRIPTS WHATSOEVER.

AN OLD SUBSCRIBER (Carmarthen).—We believed that every "old subscriber" to, and frequent reader of, this Journal, had seen, over and over again, the announcement that we do not trench upon the province of counsel by advising upon cases, or giving opinion on points of law. The case submitted falls clearly within our rule of exclusion, therefore we respectfully decline compliance with our correspondent's wish.

KING GENN (Cambridge).—This gentleman informs us, with reference to our publishing his application for a debt, in our last number, that he is an accountant, and never pretended to be an attorney. We must, however, inform him that, substantially, by taking upon himself the duty of an attorney, he has done so; for the majority of persons to whom such communications are addressed, conclude, and justly, that they come from a professional man. The expressions of whines and minnows, and the like, with the wispish tone of Mr. Genn's letter, precludes our giving it a place in this Journal.

J. E. E.—(S—d.)—The circular obligingly forwarded has already been given at full length, and commented upon in this Journal. (7 Law T. p. 333.) Last week we received from various parts of the country copies of this audacious advertisement—which must have been freely distributed amongst the Profession. The extent these parties will catch, we may be assured, will neither be covetous nor respectable. If J. E. E. will refer to our Notices to Correspondents in last week's number he will find our opinions and intentions regarding the circular there expressed.

A SUBSCRIBER (Kidderminster).—The clerks only to the new County Courts are required by the Act to be attorneys.

* * * We have received from various parts several circulars of "sham lawyers," which limited space does not admit of our inserting in this number.

The numbers comprising the first volume of the VERULAM REPORTS of Real Property and Conveyancing Cases may also be transmitted for binding in like manner.

INDEX TO THE LAW.

ARGUS LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY, THROGMORTON-STREET, BANK.—

Empowered by special Act of Parliament, 8th and 6th William IV. c. 76.

THOMAS FARNCOMBE, Esq. Alderman, Chairman.

WILLIAM LEAF, Esq. Deputy-Chairman.

Physician—Dr. Jefferison, No. 2, Finsbury-square.

Surgeon—W. Coulson, esq. No. 2, Frederick's-place, Old Jewry.

Consulting Actuary—Professor Hall, of King's College.

LOW RATES OF PREMIUMS.

In addition to the subscribed Capital of 300,000l. the Assured have the security of the Company's rapidly increasing income and an accumulating Assurance Fund invested in Government and other available securities, of considerably larger amount than the estimated liabilities of the Company.

The rates of Premium are reduced to the lowest scale compatible with the safety of the Assured and the stability of the Company, thereby, in effect, giving to every Policy-holder an immediate and certain bonus, without risk, in lieu of the deferred and frequently delusive prospect of a periodical division of profits.

ANNUAL PREMIUM TO ASSURE 100l.

Age.	For One Year.	For Seven Years.	Whole Term.
	£ s. d.	£ s. d.	£ s. d.
20	0 17 8	0 19 1	1 11 10
30	1 1 8	1 2 7	2 0 7
40	1 5 0	1 6 9	2 14 10
50	1 14 1	1 19 10	4 0 11
60	3 2 4	3 17 0	6 0 10

One-third of the "whole term" premium may remain unpaid at five per cent. compound interest as a debt upon the policy for life, or may be paid off at any time without notice.

In assurances for advances of money, as security for debts, or as a provision for a family when the least present outlay is desirable, the varied and comprehensive tables of the Argus Office will be found to be particularly favourable to the assured.

The Medical Officers attend daily, at a Quarter before Two o'clock. E. BATES, Resident Director.

A liberal Commission to Solicitors and Agents.

LIFE.—This Institution adopts both the Mutual and Proprietary systems of Life Assurance. Persons assured according to the Mutual Scale are entitled to four-fifths of the profits of this branch, whilst those assured according to the Proprietary Scale are charged the lowest possible rate of premium consistent with security to the establishment. Both are fully protected by the large subscribed capital of the Company.

Advances are also made on Real or Undoubted Personal Security, to be further secured by Assurances to be effected with the Company.

FIRE.—The Premiums for Assurance against Fire are charged at the usual moderate rates, with a reduction of 10% per Cent. on the Residences and Furniture of Clergymen.

Prospectuses, the necessary Forms, and every requisite information for effecting Assurances, may be obtained on application at the Head Office.

Surgeon—F. Hale Thomson, esq. 49, Berners-street.
This Company, established by Act of Parliament, affords the most perfect security in a large paid-up Capital, and in the great success which has attended it since its commencement in 1834.

Its Annual Income being upwards of £82,000.

In 1841 the Company added a Bonus of 2% per cent. per annum on the sum insured to all policies of the participating class from the time they were effected.

The Bonus added to policies from March, 1834, to the 31st Dec. 1840, is as follows:—

Sum Assured.	Time Assured.	Sum added to Policy
£5,000	6 Yrs. 10 Months.	£563 6s. 8d.
5,000	6 Years	500 0 0
5,000	4 Years	400 0 0
5,000	2 Years	200 0 0

The Premiums nevertheless are on the most moderate scale, and only one-half need be paid for the first five years, where the Insurance is for Life.

Every information will be afforded on application to the Resident Directors, EDWARD BOYD, Esq. and E. LENOX BOYD, Esq. of No. 8, Waterloo-place, Pall-mall, London.

AN INDEX TO THE LAW.

Just published.

THE LAW DIGEST.—A complete Index to all the Reports that appeared during the Half-year ending the 1st of January last. Price 5s. 6d. in a stout wrapper. To be continued half-yearly.

"The object of this Digest is to enable the Practitioner to find in a moment what has been the law decided on any subject, with reference to the authorities."

"This laborious and racking is intended to supply the practitioner with a ready reference to all the law decided during the half-year ending on the 1st of January, and it is, if successful, to be continued half-yearly. The plan is simple and convenient. All the cases reported during the half-year are arranged under their proper subjects, and these are placed alphabetically. If, therefore, the practitioner wants to ascertain what cases have been decided, say on the law of "Executors," he turns to that title, and under it he will find every case, wheresoever reported, briefly digested with reference to the report or reports, if more than one, where it appears. Besides this, there is an index to the names of cases, and to the names both of defendants and plaintiffs, so that if one be forgotten the case may still be traced by means of the other. The peculiarity of this work, and that in which it differs from any other digest, is, that it includes all the reports, whereas all the other digests exclude some, being guided in their selection, not by the wants of the practitioner, but according to the rivalries of publishers. The plan of this digest is to omit none, and its consequent completeness gives it a peculiar value and utility. The amount of extraction from the other digests may be judged by this, that the Digest before us, although embracing the reports only for half-a-year, contains more cases than does either of the others for a whole year, and the mere index of the names of the cases digested occupies no less than twenty-four closely printed columns. There is also a table of the statutes cited, arranged in chronological order."

"It will not become us to express an opinion upon the merits of this publication. We can only give a description of it, leaving it to the reader from that description to determine whether it is likely to be an acquisition to his office."—Law Times.

NERVOUS OR MENTAL AFFLICTION.

—For nothing! A Pamphlet on this subject, with cases and testimonials, will be cheerfully sent to every address, and franked home, if one stamp is inclosed.—A CLERGYMAN, late of Cambridge University, having discovered a method of curing himself of a NERVOUS or MENTAL COMPLAINT of 14 years' duration, and in 13 years having had about 14,000 patients, noblemen and nobles, medical men, clergymen, and all other grades, all of whom he has cured who followed his advice, except 80, offers from benevolence rather than gain, to cure others. Low spirits, mental debility, exhaustion, delusions, determination of blood to the head, vertigo, groundless fear, failure of memory, incapacity for study, business, &c. restlessness, inattention, writhings, indecision, weakness, slowness of thought, blasphemy and self-destruction, and insanity itself, are curable by this important discovery, which can be sent to all parts. Most recover in six weeks.

Apply to or address, post-paid, Rev. Dr. WILLIS MOSLEY, 19, Bloomsbury-street, Bedford-square. At home from 11 to 3.

KNIGHT'S Series of 1,000 Forms in Magistrates' and Parochial Law, of which a list will be forwarded, post-paid, to any applicant as above.

SCHIEDAM HOLLANDS.—Owing to the late enormous duty on this beautiful and wholesome Spirit, comparatively very little has been used or known in this country. The Public have, therefore, had no opportunity of testing its merits. VINCENT and PUGH, after innumerable experiments and immense outlay in machinery, have at length arrived at that state of distillation which has enabled them to produce an ARTICLE equal in every respect to the finest Foreign. Vincent and Pugh introduce this splendid matchless spirit to the public for their opinion and approbation, which they trust it merits, not only for quality but price, being enabled to offer it at 2s. 6d. per bottle, in square Dutch bottles, with the cork brand (VINCENT & PUGH), and sealed for security as to its genuineness. To be had of all the respectable retail dealers in and about the metropolis, or of their agent, Mr. Charles Madden, Castle, Manxgate-street, City, and wholesale, Vincent and Pugh, Distillery, 14, New Park-street, Borough, and 14, Wood-lane, City.
The public attention is particularly called to their Pale Brown Scotch Whisky, which is allowed to be matchless.

YACHTING, DRIVING, and ANGLING.

THE NEW DREADNOUGHT COATS and CAPES, made by J. C. CORDING, will be found by Sailors and Sportsmen to be the best articles ever made for their use. The coats are made of the finest and the strongest tropical heat for any time, and their durability is equal to their waterproof qualities. Trowsers, leggings, coat-waters, caps, and gloves, of the same proof. Officers and others going to the colonies will find them invaluable. Gentlemen who drive should use CORDING'S new waterproof driving aprons and coats, the most serviceable and complete things of the kind, and approved by all who have used them. Ladies' light riding capes, with hoods and sleeves. CORDING'S improved Indian rubber boots are superior to any thing hitherto made for the comfort of ladies and sportsmen. They are light, pliable, and never crack; impervious to water for any length of time, and require no dressing to keep them in condition. Patterns and prices sent on application. Any description of article made to order. London: J. C. CORDING, 281, Strand, five doors west of Temple Bar.

CARVING IN WOOD.—The important reduction in the price of carving in wood as executed by the patent process enables the proprietors to encourage the prevailing taste by supplying the most exquisite specimens of graven in the Gothic, Elizabethan, French, and Italian styles, adapted to all architectural purposes, picture frames, and every possible variety of elaborate decoration. The proprietors solicit an inspection of the specimens executed by this unique process, at the residence of the proprietors, or at their works, Ranelagh-road, Thames-bank. Published by J. Waale, 50, Holborn, Parts I., II., III., and IV. price 1s. each (to be continued), containing specimen drawings of elaborate Carvings in Wood, produced by the Patent Wood Carving Company, 44, West Strand.

COCOA-NUT FIBRE.—This substance envelops the shell of the milky coco-nut, around which it forms a strong protecting net-work. Man's ingenuity has turned the fibre to account by manufacturing it into many useful articles—such as carpets for stairs and passages, matting for churches, public buildings, offices, nurseries, and kitchens; hearth-rugs, door-mats, ropes, netting for sheep-folds, &c.; but among the applications there is not any to which it is better adapted than for the stuffing of mattresses and cushions, as a substitute for horse-hair, wool, and flock. It is very elastic, and affords great ease and support to the body, whether used with or without a feather bed. It has also the additional recommendation of being so obstinate that it will not sink, as it is so light, and so elastic, that it will support wool, flock, tow, and even horse-hair, will engender animalcules. Possessing peculiar chemical properties that render it a non-absorbent, the fibre is particularly suitable for children's beds, for use of schools, in all large dormitories, and at sea. Cocoa-nut fibre mattresses are only about one-half the price of those made from horse-hair. Prices of lists may be had on application at the warehouse, or will be sent free by post.

TANSEAR, 42, Ludgate-hill, seven doors from Faringdon-street, and five below Fleet Bridge Inn.

DIAMOND DUST, direct from the Mines.

Genuine DIAMOND DUST, for giving instantaneously the keenest edge to the bluntest razor or knife, is now regularly imported direct from the mines of Golconda, the Brazil, and the Uralian Mountains, and may be had at the wholesale depot, 1, Angel-court, opposite Somerset-house, Strand, London, in reward boxes (with instructions) in 1s., 2s., 6d., 10s., and 10s. 6d. each, and at the various agents throughout the world. Diamond dust, it is well known, has been used for many years amongst the nobles of the Russian Court as an indispensable adjunct to the comfort of their toilets. His late Majesty George IV. and His Royal Highness the Duke of Sussex were well acquainted with its useful properties and use, and it is now in constant use, having used it for sharpening their razors for upwards of 30 years. Parties using the diamond dust will never require to have their razors set or ground, the use of the home being rendered perfectly unnecessary. Shippers and country agents supplied on liberal terms. Either of the boxes will be transmitted free to any part of the country.

THE NEW TOOTH-BRUSH, made on the most scientific principle, thoroughly cleansing between the teeth when used up and down, and polishing the surface when used crosswise. This brush so entirely enters between the closest teeth, that the inventors have decided upon naming it the TOOTH-PICK BRUSH; therefore ask for it under that name, marked and numbered as under—viz., full-sized brushes, marked T. P. W. No. 1, hard; No. 2, medium; No. 3, soft; No. 4, extra soft; No. 5, extra soft; No. 6, extra soft; No. 7, extra soft; No. 8, extra soft; No. 9, extra soft; No. 10, extra soft. These imitators are only to be had at ROSS and SONS', and they warrant the hair never to come out, at 1s. each, or 10s. per dozen, in boxes of 12 or 24, per dozen or 24s., per dozen or 24s.

THE TRANSPIRATORY or LIQUID HAIR DYE.—The only Dye that really answers for all colors, and does not require re-doing, but as the hair grows, as it never fades or acquires that unnatural red or purple tint common to all other dyes. ROSS and SONS' can, with the greatest confidence, recommend the above Dye as infallible, if done at their establishment, and ladies or gentlemen requiring it, it is recommended to bring a friend or servant with them to see how it is used, which will enable them to do it afterwards without the chance of failure. Several private apartments devoted entirely to the above purpose, and some of the best having used it, the effect produced can be at once seen. They think it necessary to add, that by attending strictly to the instructions given with each bottle of the Dye, numerous persons have succeeded equally well without coming to them.

Address ROSS and SONS', 119 and 120, Bishopsgate-street, London, the celebrated Perfumers, Furriers, Hair-cutters, and Hair-dressers, N.B. Parties attended at their own residences, whatever the distance.

A NEW DISCOVERY.—Mr. HOWARD, Surgeon-Dentist, 62, Fleet-street, begs to introduce an ENTIRELY NEW DESCRIPTION OF ARTIFICIAL TEETH, fixed without springs, wires, or ligatures. They so perfectly resemble the natural Teeth as not to be distinguished from the original by the closest observer; they will NEVER CHANGE COLOUR or become loose, and are far superior to any Teeth ever before used. This method does not require the extraction of roots or any painful operation, and will give articulation and preserve teeth that are loose, and is guaranteed to restore articulation and comfort, and the Surgeon-Dentist, Mr. Howard, may be within the reach of the most economical, he has fixed his charges at the lowest scale possible. Decayed teeth rendered sound and useful in mastication.—62, Fleet-street. At home from Ten till Five.

BY COMMAND of HER MAJESTY'S GOVERNMENT. In consequence of the many cases achieved by the constant use of GRIMSTONE'S EYE-SNUFF, manufactured of choice British Herbs. Government having ascertained the above fact, has commanded W. GRIMSTONE, of 42, Oxford-street, to affix a medicinal stamp on all containers bearing the label as sanctioned by the Lords of the Treasury in 1835, and approved by the Stamp Solicitor in 1837. That this celebrated Grimstone's Eye-Snuff will be sold by all Chemists and Medicine Vendors, in containers at 9d. 1s. 6d. 2s. 7d. 3s. 6d. 4s. 5s. 6s. 7s. 8s. 9s. 10s. 11s. 12s. 13s. 14s. 15s. 16s. 17s. 18s. 19s. 20s. 21s. 22s. 23s. 24s. 25s. 26s. 27s. 28s. 29s. 30s. 31s. 32s. 33s. 34s. 35s. 36s. 37s. 38s. 39s. 40s. 41s. 42s. 43s. 44s. 45s. 46s. 47s. 48s. 49s. 50s. 51s. 52s. 53s. 54s. 55s. 56s. 57s. 58s. 59s. 60s. 61s. 62s. 63s. 64s. 65s. 66s. 67s. 68s. 69s. 70s. 71s. 72s. 73s. 74s. 75s. 76s. 77s. 78s. 79s. 80s. 81s. 82s. 83s. 84s. 85s. 86s. 87s. 88s. 89s. 90s. 91s. 92s. 93s. 94s. 95s. 96s. 97s. 98s. 99s. 100s. 101s. 102s. 103s. 104s. 105s. 106s. 107s. 108s. 109s. 110s. 111s. 112s. 113s. 114s. 115s. 116s. 117s. 118s. 119s. 120s. 121s. 122s. 123s. 124s. 125s. 126s. 127s. 128s. 129s. 130s. 131s. 132s. 133s. 134s. 135s. 136s. 137s. 138s. 139s. 140s. 141s. 142s. 143s. 144s. 145s. 146s. 147s. 148s. 149s. 150s. 151s. 152s. 153s. 154s. 155s. 156s. 157s. 158s. 159s. 160s. 161s. 162s. 163s. 164s. 165s. 166s. 167s. 168s. 169s. 170s. 171s. 172s. 173s. 174s. 175s. 176s. 177s. 178s. 179s. 180s. 181s. 182s. 183s. 184s. 185s. 186s. 187s. 188s. 189s. 190s. 191s. 192s. 193s. 194s. 195s. 196s. 197s. 198s. 199s. 200s. 201s. 202s. 203s. 204s. 205s. 206s. 207s. 208s. 209s. 210s. 211s. 212s. 213s. 214s. 215s. 216s. 217s. 218s. 219s. 220s. 221s. 222s. 223s. 224s. 225s. 226s. 227s. 228s. 229s. 230s. 231s. 232s. 233s. 234s. 235s. 236s. 237s. 238s. 239s. 240s. 241s. 242s. 243s. 244s. 245s. 246s. 247s. 248s. 249s. 250s. 251s. 252s. 253s. 254s. 255s. 256s. 257s. 258s. 259s. 260s. 261s. 262s. 263s. 264s. 265s. 266s. 267s. 268s. 269s. 270s. 271s. 272s. 273s. 274s. 275s. 276s. 277s. 278s. 279s. 280s. 281s. 282s. 283s. 284s. 285s. 286s. 287s. 288s. 289s. 290s. 291s. 292s. 293s. 294s. 295s. 296s. 297s. 298s. 299s. 300s. 301s. 302s. 303s. 304s. 305s. 306s. 307s. 308s. 309s. 310s. 311s. 312s. 313s. 314s. 315s. 316s. 317s. 318s. 319s. 320s. 321s. 322s. 323s. 324s. 325s. 326s. 327s. 328s. 329s. 330s. 331s. 332s. 333s. 334s. 335s. 336s. 337s. 338s. 339s. 340s. 341s. 342s. 343s. 344s. 345s. 346s. 347s. 348s. 349s. 350s. 351s. 352s. 353s. 354s. 355s. 356s. 357s. 358s. 359s. 360s. 361s. 362s. 363s. 364s. 365s. 366s. 367s. 368s. 369s. 370s. 371s. 372s. 373s. 374s. 375s. 376s. 377s. 378s. 379s. 380s. 381s. 382s. 383s. 384s. 385s. 386s. 387s. 388s. 389s. 390s. 391s. 392s. 393s. 394s. 395s. 396s. 397s. 398s. 399s. 400s. 401s. 402s. 403s. 404s. 405s. 406s. 407s. 408s. 409s. 410s. 411s. 412s. 413s. 414s. 415s. 416s. 417s. 418s. 419s. 420s. 421s. 422s. 423s. 424s. 425s. 426s. 427s. 428s. 429s. 430s. 431s. 432s. 433s. 434s. 435s. 436s. 437s. 438s. 439s. 440s. 441s. 442s. 443s. 444s. 445s. 446s. 447s. 448s. 449s. 450s. 451s. 452s. 453s. 454s. 455s. 456s. 457s. 458s. 459s. 460s. 461s. 462s. 463s. 464s. 465s. 466s. 467s. 468s. 469s. 470s. 471s. 472s. 473s. 474s. 475s. 476s. 477s. 478s. 479s. 480s. 481s. 482s. 483s. 484s. 485s. 486s. 487s. 488s. 489s. 490s. 491s. 492s. 493s. 494s. 495s. 496s. 497s. 498s. 499s. 500s. 501s. 502s. 503s. 504s. 505s. 506s. 507s. 508s. 509s. 510s. 511s. 512s. 513s. 514s. 515s. 516s. 517s. 518s. 519s. 520s. 521s. 522s. 523s. 524s. 525s. 526s. 527s. 528s. 529s. 530s. 531s. 532s. 533s. 534s. 535s. 536s. 537s. 538s. 539s. 540s. 541s. 542s. 543s. 544s. 545s. 546s. 547s. 548s. 549s. 550s. 551s. 552s. 553s. 554s. 555s. 556s. 557s. 558s. 559s. 560s. 561s. 562s. 563s. 564s. 565s. 566s. 567s. 568s. 569s. 570s. 571s. 572s. 573s. 574s. 575s. 576s. 577s. 578s. 579s. 580s. 581s. 582s. 583s. 584s. 585s. 586s. 587s. 588s. 589s. 590s. 591s. 592s. 593s. 594s. 595s. 596s. 597s. 598s. 599s. 600s. 601s. 602s. 603s. 604s. 605s. 606s. 607s. 608s. 609s. 610s. 611s. 612s. 613s. 614s. 615s. 616s. 617s. 618s. 619s. 620s. 621s. 622s. 623s. 624s. 625s. 626s. 627s. 628s. 629s. 630s. 631s. 632s. 633s. 634s. 635s. 636s. 637s. 638s. 639s. 640s. 641s. 642s. 643s. 644s. 645s. 646s. 647s. 648s. 649s. 650s. 651s. 652s. 653s. 654s. 655s. 656s. 657s. 658s. 659s. 660s. 661s. 662s. 663s. 664s. 665s. 666s. 667s. 668s. 669s. 670s. 671s. 672s. 673s. 674s. 675s. 676s. 677s. 678s. 679s. 680s. 681s. 682s. 683s. 684s. 685s. 686s. 687s. 688s. 689s. 690s. 691s. 692s. 693s. 694s. 695s. 696s. 697s. 698s. 699s. 700s. 701s. 702s. 703s. 704s. 705s. 706s. 707s. 708s. 709s. 710s. 711s. 712s. 713s. 714s. 715s. 716s. 717s. 718s. 719s. 720s. 721s. 722s. 723s. 724s. 725s. 726s. 727s. 728s. 729s. 730s. 731s. 732s. 733s. 734s. 735s. 736s. 737s. 738s. 739s. 740s. 741s. 742s. 743s. 744s. 745s. 746s. 747s. 748s. 749s. 750s. 751s. 752s. 753s. 754s. 755s. 756s. 757s. 758s. 759s. 760s. 761s. 762s. 76

Sales by Auction.

GREAT SALE OF LANDS IN BIRKENHEAD AND CLAUGHTON-CUM-GRANGE.

MESSRS. T. WINSTANLEY and SONS have received instructions from the Commissioners of Birkenhead, to offer for SALE, by PUBLIC AUCTION, on WEDNESDAY the 30th of SEPTEMBER, at the Town Hall, Birkenhead, at One o'clock, P.M. in Eligible Lots for BUILDING PURPOSES, their LAND in the following situations in the said Townships, viz.:—Within the New Park at Birkenhead; on the West or Upper Side of the Park (known as the Forest Land); at Flaybrick Hill, near the Intended Cemetery; in Conway-street, near St. James's Church, now erecting; in Hamilton-street, adjoining the New Market; in Livingston-street, near Oakfield and the New Park.

Terms of Payment.—10 per cent. deposit, 10 per cent. at the expiration of twelve months; the remainder of the purchase-money to remain (if required) for ten years from the day of sale, at four per cent. interest.

Plans and particulars will be ready for delivery in a few days, and in the meantime information may be obtained at the Surveyor's Office, Commissioners' Rooms, Hamilton-square, Birkenhead, or at the office of Messrs. MALLABY, TOWNSEND, and NEWALL, Solicitors, Fenwick-street, Liverpool, and Cleveland-street, Birkenhead.

JOSH. MALLABY,

Commissioners' Rooms, July 3, 1846.

These Freehold Properties will be submitted to public competition by the Commissioners, under circumstances peculiarly favourable to purchasers; in lots, and under such terms and conditions as it is deemed will facilitate a realization to the Capitalist and Builder. The Land thus offered for public sale is wholly within the Township of Birkenhead, and under the protection of its local Acts, and has, by its favourable position, participated largely in the great works carried out and those now in progress, under the powers of the several Acts now in force for the Improvement of the Town.

The Land surrounding the Park, and permanently attached to it, is situated between the carriage drives and the several magnificent roads lately executed in continuous and uninterrupted boundary to that property, and within 2,000 yards average distance from the Ferries. The great extent and acknowledged beauty of the Park (in the formation and completion of which no expense has been spared) has secured a nucleus to the Building Land, forming a prospect commanded by the whole of that property, of very striking and judiciously-varied scenery. The Park is situated on a gentle slope, gradually rising to considerable elevation, and from which extensive marine views, on the Lancashire and Cheshire shores, are embraced. Adjoining the Park Land, with advantages little inferior, is situated the Land called "The Forest Land," now under timber, and very eligible for Villas and other classes of Property.

With a due regard to the principles and preliminary measures upon which Building Land is brought into a condition for immediate realization, the Commissioners have added most materially by the central position of the Property) been enabled to effect a complete union with the leading and conspicuous thoroughfares in the Town.

The Cemetery and Conway-street Estates, within a short distance of the Large Dock Works, now assuming an aspect of rapid progressive importance, have, in the manner in which it has been finally decided on treating them, both as to their connection with the Agricultural districts, and the scene of business in the Great Floating Basin and auxiliary Docks, secured to that property a permanent character and value that cannot be prejudiced.

The Land contiguous to the New Market, forms the entire N.W. Boundary to that building, fronting Hamilton-street, and abutting Market-street, the letter of which it is decided to widen to a corresponding width of twenty yards with Hamilton-street, is divided into small desirable lots, interrupted only by side approaches, and other accesses to the New Building.

It is almost needless to draw public attention to the rapid growth of Birkenhead, or to the great works in progress and prospect, to which, in a degree, may be attributed as the active agent, in combination with the natural resources and commercial and rural position of the district, its rapid increase. The rural and commercial sections of the town have been distinctly and judiciously defined. The park is a gift to the inhabitants, dedicated in perpetuity to the town; and while this noble public work engaged the attention of the Commissioners, it was happily combined with the consideration of affording the superior and middle classes among the merchants of Liverpool and Birkenhead an opportunity, at a comparatively trifling cost, of establishing themselves in a rural district, at an easy stage from their scenes of business; combining the features of a country residence and park range, with the comfort and safety of efficient lighting and watching regulations. This wise provision for the public interest can but meet with the eminent success it deserves.

T. WINSTANLEY and SONS,

Church-street, Liverpool, 31st Aug. 1846.

FREEHOLD GROUND-RENT of 132l. per annum, and FREEHOLD ESTATE of the improved value of 60l. per annum, Ray-street, Clerkenwell.

MESSRS. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS are instructed to SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on FRIDAY, OCTOBER 9, at Twelve, in two Lots, an extensive FREEHOLD ESTATE, situate near the line of the important improvements now in rapid progress from Farringdon-street to the Angel, at Islington, in Crawford-passage, Ray-street, Clerkenwell, in the county of Middlesex, comprising the capital foundry, numerous workshops, warehouses, show-rooms, dwelling-houses, coach-houses, stables, yards, and premises, in the occupation of Mr. Charles Botten, brassfounder, on lease for a term of which forty years are unexpired, at a ground-rent of 32l. per annum. Also a Freehold Estate, comprising two dwelling-houses, a dairyman's shop, large coal store, with warehouse over, and other appurtenances, situate No. 11, Ray-street, and No. 1, Coppice-row, Clerkenwell, a short distance from the above, in the occupation of Messrs. Pullen and Hopkins, yearly tenants, of the improved value of 60l. per annum.—May be viewed with leave of the tenants; and particulars had ten days previous to the sale, at the Mart; and of Messrs. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS 28, Poultry.

BOXMOOR.—Villa Residences, Meadow Land, and Building Ground.

MESSRS. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS are instructed to SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, at Twelve, in Ten Lots, by order of the Mortgage (unless previously disposed of by private contract), a FREEHOLD ESTATE, situate contiguous to the Boxmoor Station, on the London and North-Western Railway, about one mile from Hemel Hempstead, three from Great Berkhamstead, seven from Watford and Tring, and twenty-four from London, in the parish of Hemel Hempstead, in the county of Herts; comprising Down Cottage Villa, situate on a commanding eminence, embracing beautiful prospects, and containing ample accommodation for a moderate-sized family, with appropriate domestic and external offices, a lawn decorated with shrubs and evergreens, a good garden well stocked with fruit trees, and about four acres of rich meadow land; also, four pair of modern Villa Residences, semi-detached, adapted for small families, with suitable garden-ground to each, and five plots of meadow land, comprising about three acres, applicable for building purposes.—May be viewed, and particulars had ten days prior to the sale, at the Railway Hotel, Boxmoor; King's Arms, Hemel Hempstead; King's Arms, Great Berkhamstead; Essex Arms, Watford; Verulam Arms, St. Alban's; of Mr. WRIGHT, Solicitor, London-street, Fenchurch-street; of Mr. J. B. Shepherd, Surveyor, Chapel-place, Poultry; at the Mart; and of Messrs. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS, 28, Poultry.

Outlands Park.

MESSRS. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS are instructed to SELL by AUCTION, at the Auction Mart, on FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, at Twelve, in six lots, OATLANDS FARM, a valuable Freehold Estate, consisting of 27 acres of pasture, plantations, garden ground, and orcharding; delightfully situate in the parishes of Weybridge and Walton, in the county of Surrey, about one mile from the Weybridge Station, and only about half-an-hour's ride from London, with a neat residence, containing accommodation for a moderate-sized family, with suitable offices, and extensive stabling. The property is approached by the entrance-lodge by the South-western Railway, and extends through the park to the Outlands drive; the whole being highly ornamented with stately timber, is singularly eligible for the erection of villa residences, for which purpose it will be divided into several lots.—Particulars, with plans annexed, may be had of Mr. Haynes, on the premises; of Messrs. FRERE, FORSTER, and Co. Solicitors, Lincoln's-inn; at the White Hart, Windsor; Griffin, Kingston; Swan, Chertsey; at the Auction Mart; and of Messrs. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS, 28, Poultry.

Periodical Sale.—Rent Charge in lieu of Tithes, Mendlesham, Suffolk.

MESSRS. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS are instructed to include in the Monthly SALE of Reversionary Interests, &c. appointed to take place at the Mart, on FRIDAY, OCTOBER 2, (unless previously disposed of by private contract), a RENT CHARGE, or clear annual income of 277l. arising from one moiety or half-part of the Tithes of Mendlesham, in the county of Suffolk, as commuted by the Commissioners appointed for that purpose; held upon lease from the Dean and Chapter of Ely, renewal fee according to custom.—Particulars may be obtained in due time of Messrs. GOLDING and KING, Solicitors, Stowmarket; at the Mart; and of Messrs. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS, 28, Poultry.

Periodical Sales (established in the year 1803) of Reversions, Life Interests, Annuities, Policies of Assurance, Advertisements, Next Presentations, Rent Charges in lieu of Tithes, Post-obit Bonds, Tontines, Debentures, Ground Rents, Improved Rents, Shares in Docks, Canals, Mines, Railways, Insurance Companies, and all Public Undertakings.

MESSRS. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS respectfully inform the public, that upwards of 40 years' experience having proved the classification of this species of property to be extremely advantageous and economical to vendors, and equally satisfactory and convenient to purchasers, the PERIODICAL SALES of reversionary interests, policies of insurance, tontines, debentures, advowsons, next presentations, and securities dependent upon human life, shares in docks, canals, mines, railways, and all public undertakings, will be continued through 1846, as follows:—

Friday, October 2 Friday, November 6
Friday, December 4.

Particulars may be had Ten days previous to each sale, at the Auction Mart; and of Messrs. SHUTTLEWORTH and SONS, 28, Poultry.

TO BE SOLD BY AUCTION, early in the month of OCTOBER (unless previously disposed of by private contract, of which due notice will be given), in one or various lots, as may be determined at the time of sale, the valuable buildings and premises known by the name of the TANGIER IRON FOUNDRY, situate at Taunton, in the county of Somerset, where for many years past an extensive business has been conducted. The buildings are all extremely substantial, and so erected that they may, at slight cost, be converted into dwelling-houses. The whole adjoins the proposed site for the new church, and will afford admirable opportunity for any person desirous of continuing the business, or to make a street of excellent houses, in a favourite locality, which would yield a large revenue. Any person desirous of continuing the ironfoundry and smithy might have the buildings for a term, at a moderate revenue.

For further particulars, apply to Mr. C. CORFIELD, Architect, Taunton; W. R. HARRIS, Esq. Solicitor, 22, Lincoln's-inn-fields, London; and, for particulars and to view, at Tangier House, Taunton; or at the office of the Somerset County Gazette, Taunton.

N.B.—Should not the above be sold or let by private contract, further advertisements will announce the day and place of sale.

LAW FIRE INSURANCE SOCIETY.—

To be DISPOSED OF, from 26 to 30 SHARES in this Society, either together or in portions. Apply personally, or by letter post paid, to Mr. BENNETT, 134, Aldersgate-street, City.

Sales by Auction.

TO be SOLD by AUCTION, early in the month of OCTOBER (unless previously disposed of by private contract, of which due notice will be given), in one or various lots, as may be determined at the time of sale, the valuable buildings and premises known by the name of the TANGIER IRON FOUNDRY, situate at Taunton, in the county of Somerset, where for many years past an extensive business has been conducted. The buildings are all extremely substantial, and so erected that they may, at slight cost, be converted into dwelling-houses. The whole adjoins the proposed site for the new church, and will afford admirable opportunity for any person desirous of continuing the business, or to make a street of excellent houses, in a favourite locality, which would yield a large revenue. Any person desirous of continuing the ironfoundry and smithy might have the buildings for a term, at a moderate revenue.

For further particulars, apply to Mr. C. CORFIELD, Architect, Taunton; W. R. HARRIS, Esq. Solicitor, 22, Lincoln's-inn-fields, London; and, for particulars and to view, at Tangier House, Taunton; or at the office of the Somerset County Gazette, Taunton.

N.B.—Should not the above be sold or let by private contract, further advertisements will announce the day and place of sale.

Sales by Auction.

Very important and valuable Freehold Estate, embracing the entire Parish of Addington, free of Tithes and Land-tax, and almost of Poor-rates, with its spacious Mansion, excellent Manor for Game, the Advowson, and several first-rate Grazing and Dairy Farms, extending nearly to the town of Winslow, only five miles from the county and borough town of Buckingham, distinguished as the family seat and domain of the late Honourable General Vere Poulett, forming a singularly eligible and solid investment for capital in a proverbially rich and fine sporting country.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON are commissioned to announce that the above remarkably valuable and truly important FREEHOLD ESTATE will be SOLD by AUCTION, at the Mart, near the Bank of England, on THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, at 12, unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by private treaty. It comprises the spacious and substantial mansion of Addington, with walled garden, capital stabling, &c. placed on a gentle elevation, nearly in the centre of one of the most fertile domains in the county, embracing the entire parish, nearly encircled by a fine brook, and chiefly rich grazing and dairy land, the whole tithe free, and let to old respectable tenants, at rents amounting to about 2,600*l.* per annum; the perpetual advowson, with its parsonage and glebe, and the manor, which is well stocked with game, appertain to the estate. The timber is nearly all elm, a certain proof of the fertility of the soil. The high turnpike-road from Aylesbury to Buckingham passes through the property close to the town of Winslow, and it is within a very easy distance of the several markets of Buckingham, Bicester, Stony Stratford, &c. This description of grass land is unlikely to be affected by any change as to corn laws or tariffs, and the property, therefore, presents, with its peculiar and great local advantages, an indisputably fine and choice property for the investment of money, with a most enjoyable domain for residence, being in a perfectly rural district, and in the centre of several packs of hounds. A station on the Buckinghamshire Railway will be very near.

The property may be viewed by application to Mr. King, Surveyor, Winslow, of whom particulars may be had; and every information obtained of Messrs. DANIEL SMITH and SON, Land Agents and Surveyors, in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall; of Messrs. KARSLAKE and CREALOCK, Solicitors, Carlton Chambers, Regent-street; and of Messrs. WALKER and GRIDLEY, Solicitors, 5, Southampton-street, Bloomsbury.

Tithe Rent Charge of above 3,000*l.* per annum (Freehold), offering an equally secure investment for capital as land, with a higher rate of interest, and no drawback for repairs.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON will OFFER for SALE by AUCTION, at the Auction Mart, on THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, in one lot, the very valuable FREEHOLD TITHE RENT CHARGES, arising from about 18,000 acres of first-rate land, in the parish of Whittlesea, close to Peterborough, comprising estates belonging to his Grace the Duke of Bedford, — Chitlers, esq., and other large proprietors, producing about 3,000*l.* per annum, clear of parochial rates. — Particulars may be had at the chief inns at Whittlesea and Peterborough; of Mr. WADDELOW, Whittlesea; of Messrs. JONES, BATEMAN, and BENNETT, Lincoln's-inn; and of DANIEL SMITH and SON, Land Agents, in Waterloo-place, London.

The great and valuable Freehold Estate of Whittlesea, extending to within two miles of the city of Peterborough.

MESSRS. DANIEL SMITH and SON are commissioned by the noble proprietors to SELL by AUCTION, at the Auction Mart, on THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, at Twelve (unless an acceptable offer shall be previously made by Private Contract), the above truly important and valuable FREEHOLD PROPERTY, near Peterborough, comprising the vast manors of Whittlesea, embracing nearly 25,000 acres, and in which are nearly 200 or 300 copyholders, paying quit-rents and fines, the greater part of the flourishing town of Whittlesea, the bank premises, several private residences, inns, shops, &c. being held of the said manor. Also above 2,100 acres of most fertile land, divided into compact farms, and let at low rents, to a highly respectable and intelligent tenantry, with some very valuable dispersed parcels of land adjoining and contiguous to the town, portions eligible for building. Also the Advowson of the Vicarage of St. Mary, and the Freehold Rent Charges in lieu of tithes, extending over nearly 18,000 acres, of the annual value together of upwards of 6,000*l.* exclusive of the valuable manors and living, offering, with its many advantages, a fine, influential, and solid property for the investment of capital. There is a navigable river and canal through the estate, and the railway from Peterborough to Ely passes through Whittlesea. The entire property will be first offered in one lot, and if not sold, will be immediately put up in three lots, viz.: — 1. The Tithe Rent-charges; 2. The Manors and Farms; 3. The Advowson. — Particulars may be obtained of Messrs. JONES, BATEMAN, and BENNETT, Solicitors, Lincoln's-inn; at the Auction Mart; of Mr. JOHN WADDELOW, Whittlesea, who will show the estates; and of Messrs. DANIEL SMITH and SONS, Land Agents, in Waterloo-place, Pall-mall.

Freehold Farm of 225 Acres, Land-tax redeemed, in the preferable part of the County of Essex, forming a desirable investment.

TOPLIS and SON will SUBMIT for SALE by AUCTION, in OCTOBER, unless previously disposed of by Private Contract, RETLEIGH LODGE AND PARK GATE ESTATE, consisting of a Freehold Farm of 225 Acres of Productive Land, in the highest state of Cultivation; there is an excellent Family Residence on the Estate, and is pleasantly situated within a short distance of the town of Rayleigh. It is let on Lease to a highly respectable tenant, for a term, whereof ten years are unexpired, at the low rent of 370*l.* per annum. — Further Particulars may be obtained of TOPLIS and SON, 16, St. Paul's Church-yard.

TO be SOLD by AUCTION, at the Lion Hotel, in Warrington, in the county of Lancaster, at Three o'clock in the afternoon, on the 22nd, 23rd, and 24th days of OCTOBER, 1846, in 63 Lots, and subject to conditions which will be then produced, the Fee-simple and Inheritance of and in the valuable and extensive ESTATES, WATER-CORN-MILL, FARMS, LANDS, and TENEMENTS (late of the Rev. Masie Domville Taylor, deceased), situate in Lymm, in the county of Chester, including therein the capital messuage or mansion house called Lymm Hall, and also one-fourth share of the MANOR of LYMM, and comprising about 600 statute acres of Land. Lymm has been long celebrated among the Cheshire villages for its picturesque and romantic beauty. The neighbourhood is pleasant and the society good. The roads on all sides are excellent, and the Bridgewater Canal, on which there are daily passage boats to and from Manchester and Liverpool, passes through the village. When the Birkenhead, Lancashire, and Cheshire Junction Railway is completed, which will pass at no great distance from it, the village will possess unrivalled facilities of access from the adjoining districts of Lancashire and Cheshire, as well as from all other parts of the country.

The estate, which has been divided into numerous and various lots, to suit purchasers of different classes, will be found to comprise arable, meadow, and pasture land, of the best quality, and in the highest state of cultivation; a portion of the meadow land lies on the banks of the river Mersey. The produce of the estate always finds a ready market at Manchester, to which place it is conveyed by means of the Bridgewater Canal at an inconsiderable expense. The market towns of Altrincham, Knutsford, and Warrington are also within the respective distances of seven, six, and five miles from Lymm, and are all accessible by the best roads. Upon the estate will be found several very eligible sites for residences, with advantages of good drainage, suitable soil, and a variety of pleasing views over the valley of the Mersey, and the surrounding country. Abundance of good stone suitable for building purposes is found on the estate. Lymm Hall, which, with a moderate quantity of land, will be offered in one lot, is a substantial stone edifice, built about the year 1640, with projecting gables, and in the picturesque style of that period, and is surrounded by a sufficiency of ornamental timber. Possession of all the lots may be secured at an early period at the will of the purchasers, the requisite notices having been given to the tenants with a view to the present sale. — The respective tenants or Mr. Thomas Jackson, of Lymm, will shew the estate; and printed particulars with plans may shortly be had at the Spread Eagle and Fleece Inns, in Lymm; at the place of sale; and at the office of Messrs. BEAMONT and URMSON, Solicitors, Warrington.

Sales by Auction.

GREAT SALE OF LANDS IN BIRKENHEAD AND CLAUGHTON-CUM-GRANGE.

MESSRS. T. WINSTANLEY and SONS have received instructions from the Commissioners of Birkenhead, to offer for SALE, by PUBLIC AUCTION, on WEDNESDAY the 30th of SEPTEMBER, at the Town Hall, Birkenhead, at One o'clock, p.m. in Eligible Lots for BUILDING PURPOSES, their LAND in the following situations in the said Townships, viz.:—Within the New Park at Birkenhead; on the West or Upper Side of the Park (known as the Forest Land); at Flaybrick Hill, near the Intended Cemetery; in Conway-street, near St. James's Church, now erecting; in Hamilton-street, adjoining the New Market; in Livingston-street, near Oakfield and the New Park.

Terms of Payment.—10 per cent. deposit, 10 per cent. at the expiration of twelve months; the remainder of the purchase-money to remain (if required) for ten years from the day of sale, at four per cent. interest.

Plans and particulars will be ready for delivery in a few days, and in the meantime information may be obtained at the Surveyor's Office, Commissioners' Rooms, Hamilton-square, Birkenhead, or at the office of Messrs. MALLABY, TOWNSEND, and NEWALL, Solicitors, Fenwick-street, Liverpool, and Cleveland-street, Birkenhead.

JOSH. MALLABY,

Commissioners' Rooms, July 3, 1846.

These Freehold Properties will be submitted to public competition by the Commissioners, under circumstances peculiarly favourable to purchasers; in lots, and under such terms and conditions as it is deemed will facilitate a realization to the Capitalist and Builder. The Land thus offered for public sale is wholly within the Township of Birkenhead, and under the protection of its local Acts, and has, by its favourable position, participated largely in the great works carried out and those now in progress, under the powers of the several Acts now in force for the Improvement of the Town.

The Land surrounding the Park, and permanently attached to it, is situated between the carriage drives and the several magnificent roads lately executed in continuous and uninterrupted boundary to that property, and within 2,000 yards average distance from the Ferries. The great extent and acknowledged beauty of the Park (in the formation and completion of which no expense has been spared) has secured a nucleus to the Building Land, forming a prospect commanded by the whole of that property, of very striking and judiciously-varied scenery. The Park is situated on a gentle slope, gradually rising to considerable elevation, and from which extensive marine views, on the Lancashire and Cheshire shores, are embraced. Adjoining the Park Land, with advantages little inferior, is situated the Land called "The Forest Land," now under timber, and very eligible for Villas and other classes of Property.

With a due regard to the principles and preliminary measures upon which Building Land is brought into a condition for immediate realization, the commissioners have aided most materially by the central position of the Property, been enabled to effect a complete union with the leading and conspicuous thoroughfares in the Town.

The Cemetery and Conway-street Estates, within a short distance of the Large Dock Works, now assuming an aspect of rapid progressive importance, have, in the manner in which it has been finally decided on treating them, both as to their connection with the Agricultural districts, and the scene of business in the Great Floating Basin and auxiliary Docks, secured to that property a permanent character and value that cannot be prejudiced.

The Land contiguous to the New Market, forms the entire N.W. Boundary to that building, fronting Hamilton-street, and abutting Market-street, the latter of which it is decided to widen to a corresponding width of twenty yards with Hamilton-street, is divided into small desirable lots, interrupted only by side approaches, and other accesses to the New Building.

It is almost needless to draw public attention to the rapid growth of Birkenhead, or to the great works in progress and prospect, to which, in a degree, may be attributed as the active agent, in combination with the natural resources and commercial and rural position of the district; its rapid increase. The rural and commercial sections of the town have been distinctly and judiciously defined. The park is a gift to the inhabitants, dedicated in perpetuity to the town; and while this noble public work engaged the attention of the Commissioners, it was happily combined with the consideration of affording the superior and middle classes among the merchants of Liverpool and Birkenhead an opportunity, at a comparatively trifling cost, of establishing themselves in a rural district, at an easy stage from their scenes of business; combining the features of a country residence and park range, with the comfort and safety of efficient lighting and watching regulations. This wise provision for the public interest can but meet with the eminent success it deserves.

T. WINSTANLEY and SONS,

Church-street, Liverpool, 31st Aug. 1846.

SURREY, 34 miles from London.—Valuable Estate for Investment, including three Farm-houses, Cottages, and 475 acres of Land, with the Great Tithes or Commutation Rent Charge of the Parish, and Land-tax redeemed.

MESSRS. WINSTANLEY have received instructions to OFFER for SALE by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, OCTOBER 20, at Twelve, in one lot, a valuable ESTATE for investment, situate in the parishes of Crowhurst and Tandridge, in the county of Surrey, only about 34 miles from London, and two from the Godstone Station on the South Eastern Railway, and two from Lingfield; comprising the Mansion House, Church, and Pound Farms, with all suitable agricultural buildings, in excellent repair, together with about 475 acres of productive meadow, pasture, arable, and wood land, lying nearly within a ring fence, in the occupation of two most respectable tenants; also the rent charge in lieu of the great tithes on lands in the parish of Crowhurst: the whole rental amounting together to nearly 630l. per annum. To be viewed by permission of the tenants.—Printed particulars may be obtained of Messrs. SAWYER & BRETTELL, Solicitors, No. 2, Staple-inn, London; Messrs. WINSTANLEY, Paternoster-row; at the inns at Godstone, Westerham, Sevenoaks, East Grinstead, and Croydon; and at the place of sale.

COUNTY OF KENT.—The Fairlawn Estate, near Tunbridge.

MESSRS. WINSTANLEY beg to acquaint the public that they have received directions from the trustees under the will of Edmund Yates, esq. deceased, and in pursuance of an Act of Parliament, to SELL by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, OCTOBER 20, in one lot, an important FREEHOLD PROPERTY, in the county of Kent, distinguished as the FAIRLAWN ESTATE, six miles from Tunbridge and Sevenoaks, and twenty-seven from London; comprising about 1,500 acres of land, lying exceedingly compact (with the exception of a small portion), and including a capital stone-built mansion, lately put into thorough repair, containing all the requirements of a nobleman or man of fortune, with a beautifully timbered park, ornamental lodge, conservatory, orangery and forcing-houses, delightful gardens, wilderness, pleasure grounds, &c. There is also on the property an excellent residence (occupied by a lady of rank), several farm-houses and labourers' cottages, public-house, water corn-mill, &c. The Perpetual Curacy of Shipborne, and the tithes of the parish. The mansion can only be viewed by tickets, to be had, with descriptive particulars and plans, of Messrs. MILNE, PARRY, MILNE, and MORRIS, Solicitors, Harcourt-buildings, Temple; and of Messrs. WINSTANLEY, Paternoster-row, London. Particulars will also be left for distribution at Messrs. Milne and Co.'s, Solicitors, Manchester; at Messrs. Thomas Winstanley and Son's, Auctioneers, at Liverpool; at the inns at Tunbridge and Sevenoaks; the libraries at Tunbridge-wells, Hastings, and St. Leonard's; of Mr. Cressay, Auctioneer, Brighton; at the Ship and the Royal York Hotels, Dover; and at the place of sale.

IRELAND.—COUNTY OF WEXFORD.—Valuable Reversionary Life Interest.

MR. GEORGE CARNE is instructed to offer for SALE by AUCTION, at the Globe Hotel, Plymouth, on THURSDAY, the 24th day of SEPTEMBER next, at Twelve o'clock at noon, either entire or in convenient lots, the LIFE ESTATE (without impeachment of waste), late of Wm. Hore, esq. aged 36, or thereabouts, expectant on the decease of his father, Walter Hore, esq. aged 63, or thereabouts, but now vested in the assignees of the said Wm. Hore. In all that and those the towns and lands of Harpinstown, Taghmon, and its sub-denominations, part of Clonacran, Paulemarie, and Cloughculla. And all that and those the town and lands of Traceystown, Moortown, Hightown, Waddingtown, Aughtnegan, part of Drinagh, part of Rochestown, and Muchmade, and in Arpinstown, four acres, all situate in the baronies of Shinnallier, Bargo, and Forth, in the county of Wexford, created by indenture of settlement bearing date the 1st day of September, 1837. And also the Reversion in Fee, expectant on the death of the said Walter Hore, and the death and failure of issue of the said William Hore, and the death and failure of issue male of his four brothers. The annual rental of this property (1,500 acres or thereabouts, in extent comprising mansion, demesne, farms, limestone quarries, &c.) amounts to upwards of 1,900l. exclusively of the mansion and demesne of Harpinstown (with its timber), now in the hands of the said Walter Hore, as tenant for life, and of the estimated annual value of 400l.

The quit rent and tithe rent charges, amount to 119l. 0s. 7d. or thereabouts. It is anticipated, that one estate will, on the death of a life, now aged 90, or thereabouts, insure a rise of 150l. per annum, at least, on the present rent, and that owing to several portions of the property being held on lease, ere long the annual rental will be considerably enhanced. The whole of this valuable property lies within ten miles of the populous and thriving town of Wexford, but a great portion (including the Lime Stone Quarries) is contiguous to that town. It suffices to state that the improved habits of the neighbourhood of Wexford—its excellent market—its quick communication with Liverpool—the punctuality with which the rents of this property are paid (second in that respect to none throughout Ireland)—the high quality of the land which has given to the Baronies of Bargo and Forth a superiority throughout the whole of the county of Wexford (emphatically styled the granary of Ireland), the immediate and prospective advantages which must be derived from the completion of the railway communication with Dublin; and lastly the opportunity of recovering lands from the sea pursuant to powers for raising money on the property for that purpose contained in the said settlement (such recovered lands to be subjected thereto), all combine to form inducements of no ordinary kind for English capitalists to embark their money in land situate in an Irish district enjoying the peaceful security of an English county.—For further particulars, copy rent roll, &c. application to be made to Messrs. W. W. and R. WREN, Solicitors, 32, Fenchurch-street, London; Mr. J. WHYDDON, Solicitor, Russell-street, Plymouth; and to the Auctioneer, Mr. G. CARNE, Bedford-street, Plymouth.

RAILWAY SHARES BY PUBLIC SALE.

MESSRS. LAMOND, SMALE, and LAMOND'S Sales of Railway Shares, &c. take place every Tuesday and Friday, at One o'clock, at the Hall of Commerce, Threadneedle-street, London, to which place all favours, containing instructions, are respectfully requested to be addressed.

NERVOUS MENTAL COMPLAINTS.

The Nervous are invited to send to Mr. ADAMS for his pamphlet on the symptoms, treatment, and cure of nervous complaints, which pamphlet he will return post-paid on receipt of two stamps. Persons suffering from groundless fear, delusion and melancholy, inquietude, disinclination for society, study, business, the overflow of blood to the head, head ache, giddiness, failure of memory, irresolution, and every other form of nervous disease, are invited to avail themselves of his never-failing remedy. The most deeply rooted symptoms are effectually and permanently removed without bleeding, blistering, or purging, and without hindrance to habits of business or pleasure.

Letters will be replied to without delay.—The remedies forwarded to all parts.—At home for consultation from 11 to 4.—23, DOUGHTY-STREET, MECKLENBURGH-SQUARE, LONDON.

Four-fifths of the profits will be divided amongst the assured entitled to participate. A separate scale of premium (the lowest consistent with safety) provided for parties desiring to participate in the profits.

Assurances may be effected with the least possible delay, either by application direct to the office, or through any respectable solicitor.

Every variety of proposal for assurance, and for payment of premiums will be entertained.

The directors are empowered to renew policies which may become void in consequence of the lives insured thereby going without permission beyond the prescribed limits, and in the event of death under such circumstances, to pay the sum assured, provided in either case the proper extra premium is allowed to the Society.

Ladies, whose lives may be proposed for assurance, will not be required to appear before the Board, and will be visited (if in town) at their own residences by the Society's physician.

The usual commission allowed to professional men generally, and additional advantages to such of them in the country as may wish to act as special agents, whose qualifications and duties may be known on application to the secretary.

Prospectuses, and all further information, with forms of proposals, may be obtained at the Office, No. 32, New Bridge-street, Blackfriars, London.

WINSTANLEY beg to apprise the Public, that the Important FREEHOLD PROPERTY, in the county of Kent, distinguished as the FAIRLAWN ESTATE, near Tonbridge and Seven Oaks, comprising about One Thousand Five Hundred Acres, advertised to be Sold by Auction by them, on Tuesday, the 20th of October next, by direction of the Trustees under the Will of Edmund Yates, Esq. deceased, and in pursuance of an Act of Parliament, IS DISPOSED OF BY PRIVATE CONTRACT.

Fatnoster Row, Sept. 22, 1846.

GLOBE INSURANCE, Pall-mall and Cornhill, London.

EDWARD GOLDSMID, Esq. Chairman.
WILLIAM TITE, Esq. F.R.S. Deputy-Chairman.
GEORGE CARR GLYN, Esq. Treasurer.
 Established 1803, for Fire and Life Insurance, and Annuities, and the purchase of Reversions and Life Contingencies.

Capital One Million sterling. The whole paid up and invested, and entirely independent of the amount of premiums received.

Insurances may be effected on single lives, on joint lives, and on the contingency of one life surviving another. Persons deriving life incomes from church preferment, public offices, and any other civil or military employment, may, by appropriating a part of their income to provide the annual payment, alleviate the distress which their death would otherwise occasion to their family or friends.

Rates and conditions of fire and life insurance, or other information, may be obtained at the offices in London, and of the company's agents in the Country; and where agents are not appointed, persons in active life, and desirous of the appointment, may apply to the secretary.

Fire Policies due at Michaelmas must be paid on or before the 14th of October.

By order of the Board,
JOHN CHARLES DENHAM, Secretary.

Persons insured by this society are not liable to be called upon to contribute towards losses.

Agricultural produce and farming stock (live and dead), and implements and utensils of husbandry, may be insured on one farm, in one sum, without the average clause, at three shillings per cent. per annum free of duty.

In order to meet covenants requiring continuance of rent, notwithstanding destruction of buildings by fire, the Society will grant insurances on rent, the amount being specified in the policy.

Losses occasioned by fire from lightning will be made good.

Insurances may be made for more years than one by a single payment; and in such cases a liberal discount will be allowed on both premium and duty; for instance, insurance effected for seven years will be charged the premium and duty for six years only.

Insurances may be made for a less term than one year at a reduced premium, and the proportionate part only of the annual duty.

Insurances granted for a year or any longer term may be renewed within fifteen days after the expiration thereof.

Persons insured with this Society, and who may suffer loss, will receive their indemnity without deduction or discount.

No charge will be made for the policy where the sum insured amounts to 300l.

Attendance given at the Office of the Society daily, from nine till four, where parties may obtain any further information respecting the terms on which insurances may be effected.

E. BLAKE BEAL, Secretary.

LIFE.—This Institution adopts both the Mutual and Proprietary systems of Life Assurance. Persons assured according to the Mutual Scale are entitled to four-fifths of the profits of this branch, whilst those assured according to the Proprietary Scale are charged the lowest possible rate of premium consistent with security to the establishment. Both are fully protected by the large subscribed capital of the Company.

Advances are also made on Real or Undoubted Personal Security, to be further secured by Assurances to be effected with the Company.

FIRE.—The Premiums for Assurance against Fire are charged at the usual moderate rates, with a reduction of 10l. per Cent. on the Residences and Furniture of Clergymen.

Prospectuses, the necessary Forms, and every requisite information for effecting Assurances, may be obtained on application at the Head Office.

Address to Messrs. Shaw, Bailey, and Smith, solicitors, 5, Berners-street, London.

Extracts from the Report of the Select Committee of the House of Commons:—

"Your Committee cannot conclude their report without urging upon the House the importance of a project which proposes at all times to carry away the drainage at the level of low tides, and to remove from the Thames the daily increasing refuse of London.

"If the confident expectations of your Committee are accomplished, it will not fail ultimately to realize all the advantages which were originally contemplated. Mr. Dickenson has proved the efficiency of liquid manures. The meadows of Edinburgh and of Mansfield have shown the power of sewage water. Mr. Thompson, of Clitheroe, and Mr. Harvey, of Glasgow, have established the fact, that liquid manure may be applied at a cheap rate, by means of the mechanical contrivance of service pipes and hoses, to crops in every stage of their growth.

"There will be found individuals, no doubt, in this country, of enterprise, to give further development to each of these experiments; but it is only through the agency of a Company that they may be all combined, and applied to the important purposes of cleansing our towns, purifying our rivers, and enriching our soil."

In 1845 the National Debt amounted to 768,789,341l., and the interest thereon, 27,897,265l.; in 1815 the debt was 816,311,940l. and the interest 31,576,074l. The exports in 1845 amounted to 150,645,018l.; and in 1815 they were 57,420,437l. The imports in 1845 were 83,330,609l. and in 1815 they were 31,822,053l. In 1845, 1,133,561 qrs. of wheat and flour were imported from all parts but Ireland; and in 1815 there were imported 194,931 qrs. In 1845 308,493 qrs. were retained for home consumption; and in 1815 the quantity was 116,382 qrs. The average price per quarter in 1845 was 50s. 10d. and 63s. 8d. in 1815. The fluctuation per cent. between 1842 and 1845 was 14.31; and between 1815 and 1821 it was 72.59. In 1845 the duty on the average price was 30s.; and in 1815 importation was prohibited. The number of acres enclosed (as far as returned) from 1800 to 1842 was 1,933,049. The proportion per cent. of the population living on foreign corn in 1841 was 5.73; in 1821 it was 3.39. In 1841 the number of days' consumption imported was 34.35; in 1821 it was 20.22. In 1845, the quantity of wheat sold in country markets in England and Wales was 6,666,240 quarters, and in 1822 it was 2,191,807. The price of wheat varied from 1808 to 1818 in the principal ports of Europe after the following rates per cent.—In England 92.67, Sweden 170.41, Rotterdam 84.40, Dordt 50.00, Louvain 89.42, Königsberg 160.35, Danzig 47.10, Mecklenburg 27.08, Oldenburg 72.15, St. Petersburg 70.00, Riga 73.01, Archangel 74.91, France 131.36, Bourdeaux 136.62, Holstein 57.05, Christiania 260.41, Bremen 65.23, Hamburg 71.43, Lubeck 78.47, Trieste 19.23, Roman States 95.75, Bilbao 85.85, Alicante 130.00, and Lisbon 93.65. In 1844 the declared value of British and Irish exports was 27,253,918l.; in 1828 they amounted to 17,824,309l.

PUBLIC RECORDS.—On Wednesday, in a Parliamentary paper, the correspondence between Sir Robert Peel and Lord Langdale, as Keeper of the Public Records in the year 1845, respecting the building of a public record-office, was printed. The subject was mentioned at the close of the late session, and Lord John Russell expressed his anxiety to afford a suitable place as a repository for the numerous public records. On the 30th of May, 1845, Lord Langdale brought the subject before Sir Robert Peel, urging on him to give early directions for providing a proper building for the deposit of these important documents. "It is the word only," his Lordship stated, "if you should think it right to pronounce it," which is wanting. It seems that the Victoria Tower, in the new palace, was selected for the records, but his lordship considered that it would not afford sufficient accommodation. The roofs of the new houses were then considered, but declined, his lordship stating that an easy access to the documents was most desirable. The letter was laid by Sir R. Peel before the Lords of the Treasury. Their lordships did not view the suggestion of the keeper of the records, of enlarging the Rolls estate, and erecting a building thereon, as proper to be entertained, on account of the expense, but thought it advisable to adhere to the plan of applying the Victoria Tower and certain adjacent parts of the new houses of Parliament to the accommodation of the public records. Lord Langdale, on the 16th of August, 1845, in reply to a communication from Mr. Cardwell, as Secretary of the Treasury, again urged the subject, and manifested his anxious desire to deposit the records in a place of safety. He complained that the Lords of the Treasury did not desire to co-operate with him, and that their lordships seemed entirely to forget that upon the Master of the Rolls, for the time being, the task and responsibility of arranging the records rested. On the 27th of August, 1845, Mr. Trevelyan, on the part of their lordships, regretted that the Master of the Rolls, with whom it had been their anxious desire to co-operate in all that related to the public records, should see reason to object so strongly to the appropriation of the Victoria Tower. Their lordships did not feel themselves at liberty, on account of the heavy expense, to erect a new building of an enormous extent, and when the rooms in the Victoria Tower were completed everything would be done for the reception of the records.

TURNPIKE TRUSTS.—WALES.—An abstract of the general statements of the income and expenditure of the Turnpike-roads in South Wales for the year 1845, has just been issued by order of the House of Commons, dated August 15, pursuant to the Act of 7 & 8 Vict. c. 91. It appears therefrom that the total income during the year was 9,917l. 5s. 5d. and the total expenditure 9,236l. 5s. 2d. The following are details of those sums:—The balance in hand at the commencement of the year, or received from officers of trusts, was 6,569l. and the balance due to officers of trusts 376l. The income from tolls was 9,808l.; from county treasurers 58l.; from fines 15l.; and from sale of toll-houses. The items under the head of expenditure were:—For manual labour, constant, 1,878l.; casual, 898l.; materials, 2,087l. new toll-houses, 318l.; tradesmen's bills, 313l.; salaries, 701l.; Public Works Loan Commissioners, 1,956l.; debts of former trusts, 450l.; incidental expenses, 930l. The balance in the treasurer's hands, December 31, 1845, was 6,874l. but after payments on account of contracts of 1,570l. the actual balance was 5,424l. The actual balance due to treasurers, December 31, 1845, was 190l. The total length of roads included in this account is 1,095 miles and 1,596 yards (including 13 miles and 1,090 yards belonging to county bridges, or repaired by private parties). The charge upon the six counties of South Wales, was 203,675l. 16s. 7d. and the annuities payable during the present year amount to 11,040l. 17s. The salaries to officers were—Six clerks to county roads boards, 315l.; nine clerks to district roads boards, 345l.; thirteen surveyors, 1,365l.; three pay clerks, 60l.

LAW CHANGES IN SCOTLAND.—It is reported that Lord Murray will be speedily elevated to the peerage, and his place on the bench conferred upon the present Solicitor-General. Mr. Moncreiff, it is understood, will succeed to the latter office.—Edinburgh Evening Post.

AN INDEX TO THE LAW.

Just published.

THE LAW DIGEST.—A complete Index to all the Reports that appeared during the Half-year ending the 1st of January last. Price 5s. 6d. in a stout wrapper. To be continued half-yearly.

"The object of this Digest is to enable the Practitioner to find in a moment what has been the law decided on any subject, with reference to the authorities."

"This laborious undertaking is intended to supply the practitioner with a ready reference to all the law decided during the half-year ending on the 1st of January, and it is, if successful, to be continued half-yearly. The plan is simple and convenient. All the cases reported during the half year are arranged under their proper subjects, and these are placed alphabetically. If, therefore, the practitioner wants to ascertain what cases have been decided, say on the law of "Executors," he turns to that title, and under it he will find every case, whosoever reported, briefly digested with reference to the report or reports, if more than one, where it appears. Besides this, there is an index to the names of cases, and to the names both of defendants and plaintiffs, so that if one be forgotten the case may still be traced by means of the other. The peculiarity of this work, and that in which it differs from any other digest, is, that it includes all the reports, whereas all the other digests exclude some, being guided in their selection, not by the wants of the practitioner, but according to the rivalries of publishers. The plan of this digest is to omit none, and its consequent completeness gives it a peculiar value and utility. The amount of exclusion from the other digests may be judged by this, that the Digest before us, although embracing the reports only for half-a-year, contains more cases than does either of the others for a whole year, and the mere index of the names of the cases digested occupies no less than twenty-four closely printed columns. There is also a table of the statutes cited, arranged in chronological order."

"It will not become us to express an opinion upon the merits of this publication. We can only give a description of it, leaving it to the reader from that description to determine whether it is likely to be an acquisition to his office."—Law Times.

RAILWAY SHARES BY PUBLIC SALE.

MESSRS. LAMOND, SMALE, and LACOMOND'S Sales of Railway Shares, &c. take place every Tuesday and Friday, at One o'clock, at the Hall of Commerce, Threadneedle-street, London, to which place all favours, containing instructions, are respectfully requested to be addressed.

Miscellaneous.

SCHIEDAM HOLLANDS.—Owing to the late enormous duty on this beautiful and wholesome Spirit, comparatively little has been used or known in this country. The Public have, therefore, had no opportunity of testing its merits. VINCENT and PUGH, after innumerable experiments and immense outlay in machinery, have at length arrived at that state of distillation which has enabled them to produce an ARTICLE equal in every respect to the finest Foreign. Vincent and Pugh introduce this spiritless matchless spirit to the public for their opinion and approbation, which they trust it merits, not only for quality but price, being enabled to offer it at 2s. 6d. per bottle, in square Dutch bottles, with the corals branded (VINCENT & PUGH), and sealed for security as to its genuineness. To be had of all the respectable retail dealers in and about the metropolis, or of their agent, Mr. Charles Hodder, Castle, Moorgate-street, City, and wholesale, Vincent and Pugh, Distillery, 15, New Park-street, Borough, and 10, Rood-lane, City.
The public attention is particularly called to their Pale Brown British Brandy, which is allowed to be matchless.

YACHTING, DRIVING, and ANGLING.—The NEW DREADNOUGHT COATS and CAPES, made by J. C. CORDING, will be found by Sailors and Sportsmen to be the best articles ever made up for their use. They will resist the heaviest rain and the fiercest tropical heat for any time, and their durability is equal to their waterproof quality. Trousers, leggings, sou'-westers, caps, and gloves, of the same proofing. Officers and others going to the colonies will find these articles invaluable. Gentlemen who drive should use CORDING'S new waterproof driving aprons and coats, the most serviceable and complete things of the kind, and approved by all who have tried them. Ladies' light capes, with hoods, and sleeves. CORDING'S improved sheet India rubber boots are superior to any thing hitherto made for the comfort of anglers and snipe-shooters. They are light, pliable, and never crack; impervious to water for any length of time, and require no dressing to keep them in condition. Patterns and prices sent on application. Any description of the specimens executed by London: J. C. CORDING, 231, Strand, five doors west of Temple Bar.

CARVING IN WOOD.—The important reduction in the price of carving in wood as executed by the patent process enables the proprietors to encourage the prevailing taste by supplying the most exquisite specimens of genius in the Gothic, Elizabethan, French, and Italian styles, adapted to all architectural purposes, picture frames, and every possible variety of elaborate decoration. The proprietors solicit an inspection of the specimens executed by this simple and beautiful process, at their offices, 444, West Strand, or at their works, Ranelagh-road, Thames-bank. Published by J. Weale, 89, Holborn, Paris L. BY COMMAND OF HER MAJESTY'S GOVERNMENT. In consequence of the many cures achieved by the constant use of GRIMSTONE'S EYE-SNUFF, manufactured of choice British Herbs. Government having ascertained the above fact, has commanded W. GRIMSTONE, of 434, Oxford-street, to affix a medicated stamp on all containers bearing the label as sanctioned by the Lords of the Treasury in 1825, and approved by the House of Commons in 1827. That this celebrated Grimstone's Eye-Snuff will be sold by all Chemists and Medicine Vendors, in containers at 9d. 1s. 6d. 2s. 7d. 4s. 6d. and 9s. each, stamp included, and forwarded through the post. Upon receipt of a Money Order for 5s. 7d. a 3s. 7d. container will be forwarded from W. GRIMSTONE, Merchant, 434, Oxford-street, London.

THE NEW TOOTH-BRUSH, made on the most scientific principles, thoroughly cleaning between the teeth, when used up and down, and polishing the surface when used crossways. This Brush so entirely enters between the closest teeth, that the inventors have decided upon naming it the TOOTHPICK BRUSH; therefore ask for it under that name, marked and numbered as under—No. 1, Standard Brush, marked T. P. No. 1, hard; No. 2, less hard; No. 3, middling; No. 4, soft. The narrow Brushes, marked T. P. No. 5, hard; No. 6, less hard; No. 7, middling; No. 8, soft. These invaluable Brushes are only to be had at ROSS and SONS, and they warrant the hair never to come out, at 1s. each, or 10s. per dozen, in boxes, or 2s. each, or 21s. per dozen, in tins.

THE ATRIPLATORY, or LIQUID HAIR DYE.—The only Dye that really answers for all colours, and does not require re-dyeing, but as the hair grows, as it never fades or acquires that unsightly red or purple tinge common to all other dyes. ROSS and SONS, with the greatest confidence, recommend the above Dye as infallible, if done at their establishment; and ladies or gentlemen requiring it are requested to bring a friend or servant with them to see how it is used, which will enable them to do it afterwards without the chance of failure. Several parties have reported entirely to the above purpose, and some of their establishments having used it, the effect produced can be at once seen. They think it necessary to add, that by attending strictly to the instructions given with each bottle of the Dye, numerous persons have succeeded equally well without coming to them.
Agents, ROSS and SONS, 119 and 120, Abchurch-lane, London, the celebrated Perfumers, Parfumeurs, Hair-dressers, and Hair-dyers. N.B. Parties attended at their own residences, wherever the distance.

Sales by Auction.

GREAT SALE OF LANDS, IN BIRKENHEAD AND CLAUGHTON-CUM-GRANGE.

MESSRS. T. WINSTANLEY and SONS have received instructions from the Commissioners of Birkenhead, to offer for SALE, by PUBLIC AUCTION, on WEDNESDAY the 30th of SEPTEMBER, at the Town Hall, Birkenhead, at One o'clock, P.M. in Eligible Lots for BUILDING PURPOSES, their LAND in the following situations in the said Townships, viz.:—Within the New Park at Birkenhead; on the West or Upper Side of the Park (known as the Forest Land); at Playbrick Hill, near the Intended Cemetery; in Conway-street, near St. James's Church, now situate in Hamilton-street, adjoining the New Market; in Livingston-street, near Oakfield and the New Park.

Terms of Payment.—10 per cent. deposit, 10 per cent. at the expiration of twelve months; the remainder of the purchase-money to remain (if required) for ten years from the day of sale, at four per cent. interest.

Plans and particulars will be ready for delivery in a few days, and in the meantime information may be obtained at the Surveyor's Office, Commissioners' Rooms, Hamilton-square, Birkenhead, or at the office of Messrs. MALLABY, TOWNSEND, and NEWALL, Solicitors, Fenwick-street, Liverpool, and Cleveland-street, Birkenhead.

JOSH. MALLABY,

Commissioners' Rooms, July 3, 1846.

These Freehold Properties will be subjected to public competition by the Commissioners, under circumstances peculiarly favourable to purchasers; in lots, and under such terms and conditions as it is deemed will facilitate a realization to the Capitalist and Builder. The Land thus offered for public sale is wholly within the Township of Birkenhead, and under the protection of its local Acts, and has, by its favourable position, participated largely in the great works carried out and those now in progress, under the powers of the several Acts now in force for the Improvement of the Town.

The Land surrounding the Park, and permanently attached to it, is situated between the carriage drives and the several magnificent roads lately executed in continuous and uninterrupted boundary to that property, and within 2,000 yards average distance from the Ferries. The great extent and acknowledged beauty of the Park (in the formation and completion of which no expense has been spared) has secured a nucleus to the Building Land, forming a prospect commanded by the whole of that property, of very striking and judiciously-varied scenery. The Park is situated on a gentle slope, gradually rising to considerable elevation, and from which extensive marine views, on the Lancashire and Cheshire shores, are embraced. Adjoining the Park Land, with advantages little inferior, is situated the Land called "The Forest Land," now under timber, and very eligible for Villas and other classes of Property.

With a due regard to the principles and preliminary measures upon which Building Land is brought into a condition for immediate realization, the commissioners have (aided most materially by the central position of the Property) been enabled to effect a complete union with the leading and conspicuous thoroughfares in the Town.

The Cemetery and Conway-street Estates, within a short distance of the Large Dock Works, now assuming an aspect of rapid progressive importance, have, in the manner in which it has been finally decided on treating them, both as to their connection with the Agricultural districts, and the scene of business in the Great Floating Basin and auxiliary Docks, secured to that property a permanent character and value that cannot be prejudiced.

The Land contiguous to the New Market, forms the entire N.W. Boundary to that building, fronting Hamilton-street, and abutting Market-street, the latter of which it is decided to widen to a corresponding width of twenty yards with Hamilton-street, is divided into small desirable lots, interrupted only by side approaches, and other accesses to the New Building.

It is almost needless to draw public attention to the rapid growth of Birkenhead, or to the great works in progress and prospect, to which, in a degree, may be attributed as the active agent, in combination with the natural resources and commercial and rural position of the district, its rapid increase. The rural and commercial sections of the town have been distinctly and judiciously defined. The park is a gift to the inhabitants, dedicated in perpetuity to the town; and while this noble public work engaged the attention of the Commissioners, it was happily combined with the consideration of affording the superior and middle classes among the merchants of Liverpool and Birkenhead an opportunity, at a comparatively trifling cost, of establishing themselves in a rural district, at an easy stage from their scenes of business; combining the features of a country residence and park range, with the comfort and safety of efficient lighting and watching regulations. This wise provision for the public interest can but meet with the eminent success it deserves.

T. WINSTANLEY and SONS,

Church-street, Liverpool, 31st Aug. 1846.

SURREY, 24 miles from London.—Valuable Estate for Investment, including three Farm-houses, Cottages, and 475 acres of Land, with the Great Tithes or Commutation Rent Charge of the Parish, and Land-tax redeemed.

MESSRS. WINSTANLEY have received instructions to OFFER for SALE by AUCTION, at the Mart, on TUESDAY, OCTOBER 20, at Twelve, in one lot, a valuable ESTATE for investment, situate in the parishes of Crowthurst and Tandridge, in the county of Surrey, only about 24 miles from London, and two from the Godstone Station on the South Eastern Railway, and two from Lingfield; comprising the Mansion House, Church, and Pound Farms, with all suitable agricultural buildings, in excellent repair, together with about 475 acres of productive meadow, pasture, arable, and wood land, lying nearly within a ring fence, in the occupation of two most respectable tenants; also the rent charge in lieu of the great tithes on lands in the parish of Crowthurst: the whole rental amounting together to nearly 630*l.* per annum. To be viewed by permission of the tenants.—Printed particulars may be obtained of Messrs. SAWYER & BRETTELL, Solicitors, No. 2, Staple-inn, London; Messrs. WINSTANLEY, Paternoster-row; at the inns at Godstone, Westerham, Sevenoaks, East Grinstead, and Croydon; and at the place of sale.

TO be SOLD by AUCTION, early in the month of OCTOBER (unless previously disposed of by private contract, of which due notice will be given), in one or various lots, as may be determined at the time of sale, the valuable buildings and premises known by the name of the TANGIER IRON FOUNDRY, situate at Taunton, in the county of Somerset, where for many years past an extensive business has been conducted. The buildings are all extremely substantial, and so erected that they may, at slight cost, be converted into dwelling-houses. The whole adjoins the proposed site for the new church, and will afford admirable opportunity for any person desirous of continuing the business, or to make a street of excellent houses, in a favourite locality, which would yield a large revenue. Any person desirous of continuing the ironfoundry and smithy might have the buildings for a term, at a moderate revenue. For further particulars, apply to Mr. C. CORFIELD, Architect, Taunton; W. R. HARRIS, Esq. Solicitor, 32, Lincoln's-inn-Fields, London; and, for particulars and to view, at Tangier House, Taunton; or at the office of the Somerset County Gazette, Taunton.

N.B.—Should not the above be sold or let by private contract, further advertisements will announce the day and place of sale.

HEREFORDSHIRE.—A valuable Freehold Estate in a ring fence, consisting of Three Farms, called Wern Derris, the Quakers, and the School-house Farms, in the parish of Michaelchurch, Ekeley, in the county of Hereford, comprising altogether about 306*l.* 1*l.* 13*l.*—By Mr. THOMAS COOKE, at the Angel Inn, in the town of Abergavenny, in the county of Monmouth, on THURSDAY, OCTOBER 8, at Three in the Afternoon, by the directions of Devises in trust, and subject to such conditions as shall be then produced.

THE WERN DERRIS FARM contains about 72*l.* 1*l.* 21*l.* of arable, meadow, pasture, and wood land, with a farmhouse, barns, stables, cowhouse, calves' cot, washhouse, and shed; and is in the occupation of Mr. Thomas Jones, a yearly tenant, commencing at Candlemas. The Quakers Farm contains about 71*l.* 3*l.* 5*l.* of arable, meadow, pasture, and wood land, with farmhouse, barn, cowhouse for six cows and ten young cattle, calves' cot, stable, and washhouse; and is in the occupation of Mrs. Mary Meredith, a yearly tenant, commencing at Lady-day. The School-house Farm contains about 62*l.* 8*l.* 7*l.* of arable, meadow, pasture, and wood land, with the barn, cowhouse, and range of stable and shed, nearly new; and is in the occupation of Mr. Howard Howard, a yearly tenant, commencing at Lady-day. The buildings on all the farms are in an excellent state of repair, and a considerable sum has been recently expended on them. The tithes have been commuted to a rent-charge of only 8*l.* 4*l.* 10*l.* upon the three farms, in consequence of the existence of moduses. The estate is situate about 6 miles from Hay, 18 miles from Hereford, and about the same distance from Abergavenny. The tenants will show the farms. For further particulars apply to Mr. THOMAS COOKE, Auctioneer; or to Mr. Apperley, Land Agent, Hereford; or to Messrs. MEREDITH, REEVE, and CO. Lincoln's-inn, London.

BRECKNOCKSHIRE.—Freehold Estate, near the town of Crickhowell, in the parish of St. Michael Cwmdu, called Cwmge, within a short distance of the cuspidate road leading from Crickhowell to Brecon.—By Mr. THOMAS COOKE, at the Angel Inn in the town of Abergavenny, in the county of Monmouth, on THURSDAY, OCTOBER 8, at Three in the afternoon, by direction of Devises in Trust, and subject to such conditions as shall be then produced.

A Most compact and desirable FREEHOLD FARM, nearly in a ring fence, called Cwmge, situate in the parish of St. Michael Cwmdu, in the county of Brecon; consisting of 165*l.* 3*l.* 10*l.* more or less, of arable, meadow, pasture, and wood land, in a high state of cultivation, with a small farm-house, malt-house, double cowhouse, four-stall stable, washhouse, two foldyards and sheds, four good barns in convenient situations, and two workmen's cottages. The whole of the buildings are in a good state of repair. There is an excellent supply of water, and the whole of the meadow lands, about twenty-three acres, can be conveniently irrigated, and are of the most valuable quality. There is a quarry of excellent stone on the property, suitable for building and other purposes; lime-kilns may be also worked, and there is an extensive right of common on the Black Mountain appertaining to the property, and which the situation of the estate affords facilities for making available to its utmost extent. The lands have a southern aspect, lie sheltered, and the property is well and ornamentally timbered. The farm is in the occupation of Mr. William Christopher, at a low rent, as yearly tenant, commencing at Candlemas. This estate is distant from Crickhowell one mile and a half, from Abergavenny eight miles, and from Brecon ten miles, and affords a beautiful site for the erection of gentlemen's villas, which are so much sought after in this neighbourhood, and has advantages for building purposes, possessing both stone and timber. The views from the estate are extensive and diversified, overlooking the mansion and park of Glanusk, the seat of Joseph Bailey, esq. M.P. to which it is adjacent. The estate also commands views of the river Usk, and the rich vale through which that river flows, and with the surrounding country is proverbial for its beauty and picturesque scenery. The land tax is redeemed. The timber on the estate contains oak of a very fine quality.—For further particulars apply to Mr. THOMAS COOKE, auctioneer; or to Mr. APPERLEY, land agent, Hereford; or to Messrs. MEREDITH, REEVE and CO. Lincoln's-inn, London. Mr. Christopher, the tenant, will show the estate.

LAW FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY.
